TORONTO, Jan. 21 (CP) — Stock market prices turned downward today in early afternoon dealings.

Irregular opening support checked Saturday's upswing in golds and base metals and held prices for little change until noon.

Trading was active as a wide list of western oil, penny golds and selected base metals attracted speculative interest. Industrial dealings were mostly in leading issues as volume for the first three hours was 1,874,000 shares.

Foods formed industrials' strongest section with a scattered list of fractional advances. Agricultures and manufacturing companies drew firm support while steels, liquors and banks held gains and losses in balance.

Base metal leaders made little headway. Consolidated Smelters and Steep Rock edged upward but Falconbridge, International Nickel and Labrador weakened.

In western oils, Calgary and Edmonton, Leduc Consolidated and Mid-Continent strengthened. Calvan Consolidated, Home Oil and Scurry weakened.

Senior golds posted seven losses against two gains. Secondary issues showed little trend.

38 Regiments In Collection Of Winnipegger

WINNIPEG—(CP)—An international army stands in this prairie capital, ready to attack with artillery and fixed bayonets.

But there's no reason for Canadian defence officials to be alarmed. The army includes 38 regiments from eight countries but it takes up no more room than the tops of five card tables.

The "army" is nothing more than an extra large collection of metal soldiers. Commander-in-chief is 22-year-old Grant Hopkins with his father acting as second-in-command.

This collection was started by Grant's father while he served as an aeronautical engineer with the RCAF. He picked up many of the pieces travelling throughout Canada and the United States.

The complete collection comprises 1,590 foot soldiers plus equipment of the modern-day army. One scaled-down field piece shoots small projectiles and emits a belch of smoke.

Notable Army

The army has in its ranks such colorful figures as the Bengal Lancers, Togoland warriors, Welsh Guards, French Legionnaires, United States Marines and Scot regiments.

It probably is the only peacetime army which includes five Russian cavalrymen. The only country to have an army and not represented is Czechslovakia.

This can easily be changed by looking up the correct data on uniforms and doing a quick remodelling job with paint.

Grant says the collection requires a lot of leg work to libraries to find historical data. He has magazines listing 10,000 collectors with more than 1,000 pieces.

Ashton McDown of Pennsylvania is the largest collector in the United States with 10,000 pieces worth an estimated $20,000. Canada's largest collection is owned by Maj. W. J. MacDougald of Montreal and Winnipeg.

3 Commanders Back In Canada

The last to come is Lt.-Col. Robert A. Keane of Fort William who left the command of the 2nd Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, and will work in the joint staff planning section at army headquarters here.

The others are Lt.-Col. James R. Stone of Salmon Arm, BC, commanding the 2nd Battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry in Calgary, and Lt.-Col. J. A. Dextraze of Montreal who left the 2nd Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment to go to the Army Staff College in Kingston.

Lost Mounties Reach Outpost

WINNIPEG, Jan. 21. — Two RCMP constables, missing in the northern wilds of Manitoba for 10 days, walked into their sub-Arctic destination Sunday. A brief message from Baker Lake said Constable C. E. Boone, 27, of Newcastle, NB, and special Constable Norman Ford, 46, of Labrador, had arrived there safely.

The message set at rest the fears of RCMP officials and ended a search by RCAF planes and RCMP dogsled patrols for the two men. The message gave no other details.

The search was ordered when the two men, who left Chesterfield Inlet on the northwestern shores of Hudson Bay Jan. 4, failed to arrive at Baker Lake, 160 miles away. The trip by dog sled normally takes four or five days. The area is about 1,000 miles north of Winnipeg.

Smoke damage also was done to the Misses Kilbourn millinery store and two apartments.

The business blocks are only a few yards from the fire hall.

WOOROONDEN, Australia, Jan. 21. (Reuters)—The frogs of Wooroonden have suddenly stopped hopping and farmers in this tiny Queensland community are wondering why. They appear to be paralyzed in their hind legs and the farmers believe they may be suffering from poliomyelitis. Medical authorities will investigate.

pare with a $3,510,000,000 surplus last year.

The deficit for the current fiscal year was estimated at $8,201,000,000.

Four Billion Extra Revenue

The President asked for about $4,600,000,000 "at the very least" in additional revenue. He emphasized plugging loopholes in tax laws.

The President told reporters, however, he wants the same rates he asked for last year when Congress cut his new tax program from $10,000,000,000 to about $5,400,000,000. This would mean approximately a five-per-cent increase in personal income taxes, an increase in the normal corporation rate from 52 to 55 per cent, and more excise (sales) taxes.

He called for $600,000,000 for civilian defence, including construction of bomb shelters, and said continued refusal by Congress to provide it "could be a fatal gap in our security structure."

Other highlights were proposals to add 7,000 agents to the scandal-hit Bureau of Internal Revenue, extend benefits to Korean war veterans, increase funds for government-built defence housing more than 10 times and boost rates by $500,000,000.

New Taxes Vital

The President said without new taxes the national debt would increase to $274,922,000,000 by June, 1953—just under the present legal limit of $275,000,000,000.

Next fiscal year's spending estimate of $85,444,000,000 compared with a revised estimate of $70,981,000,000 for this year, ending June 30, and $44,633,000,000 actually spent last year. Spending in the new fiscal year would be the third biggest in history, topped only by the two peak years of the Second World War when it passed the $95,000,000,000 mark.

A reduction in new appropriations this year is a sign officials foresee a reduction in spending several years hence. Truman said he hoped spending could be cut in the last half of 1954, "if new international tensions do not develop," but outlays will remain at a peak until then.

Dollar Down

MONTREAL, Jan. 21—(CP)—The United States dollar today opened at 3-16 of one per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, down ¼ from Saturday's close. That is, it took $1.003-16 Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.78⅝, down 11-16 from Saturday.

British Clear

The dead nun lay in state in the convent of St. Vincent de Paul, located on a main Ismailia street near the centre of Saturday's fighting.

Begin Clean-Up

The death of the nun brought immediate orders from her close personal friend, Gen. Sir George Erskine, British commander in the Canal Zone, for a thorough clean-up of the Arab quarter of Ismailia.

Erskine said the Zone—three-quarters of a mile long and three blocks deep—has been the operating centre for Egyptians sniping at British troops.

As big Centurion tanks blocked the entrances to the quarter, British Tommies early Sunday began a fine-toothed-comb search of the area. Forty-five suspected guerrillas were arrested. Hundreds of Egyptian families were driven out of the area and into another part of the city. The section was two-thirds cleared Sunday and the job was to be completed today.

Firing broke out Sunday night between British and Egyptians on the edge of Ismailia, headquarters for British troops in Egypt and frequently the scene of bloodshed in clashes between Britain's military forces and Egyptians trying to drive them out of the Canal Zone.

Grave Concern

In Cairo the American embassy said US Ambassador Jefferson Caffery had expressed "grave concern" to Egypt over the slaying of Sister Anthony.

The embassy said Egypt's acting Foreign Minister, Farag Pasha, had assured Caffery an "immediate investigation" would be made.

Sister Anthony was killed during a four-hour battle between British troops and Egyptian snipers. Two Britons were killed and seven wounded, and about 20 Egyptians were reported wounded.

Nuns said Egyptian snipers threw a bomb into the yard of the French convent of St. Vincent de Paul and then, despite their pleas, invaded the garden.

Sister Anthony made a frantic telephone call to Lady Erskine, the wife of the British general, saying: "For the love of God send us help."

At the arrival of the tanks, the nun rushed to the convent porch. There was an exchange of fire as the tanks arrived. Shortly after another nun discovered Sister Anthony's body, shot through the heart, at the foot of the porch steps.

TTC Stalemate

It was reported that the wage issue was ready for arbitration on the condition that a floor of $1.45 an hour—the TTC's offer, which includes the five-cent-an-hour increase recommended by a conciliation board—is set before the arbitrator. The union walked out for a 15-cent-an-hour increase to boost the basic hourly pay to $1.55.

Mr. Daley said that if the union could have received a wage settlement it considered satisfactory, it could have conceded most of the fringe points for a "package deal." But as Sunday night's talks progressed, the fringe points remained to be cleared away before an agreement could be worked out.

County Raises Own Pay To $8 Per Day

County council have voted themselves a pay increase.

Members will now get $6.50 a day when doing committee work and $8 a day when attending sessions of council. The previous rates were $5 and $6.50.

They will also get 10 cents a mile travelling expenses for attending either sessions of council or committee meetings. The travel allowance is payable each day but allows for the mileage one way only. There is no remuneration for the return journey.

Reeve Norman Wilson, Burleigh-Anstruther, said the increase as "overdue." Councillors from the northern townships have found that they were out of pocket when they travelled down to Peterborough and had to find hotel accommodation and meals.

The Municipal Act allows both committee fees and session allowances to be $8 a day.

Amendment Fails

An amendment proposed by Reeve James Humphries, Asphodel township, and Deputy Reeve Dave McIntyre, Otonabee township, set the rates at $6.50 and $7.50, i.e. 50 cents less a day on the session allowance.

Mr. Humphries said he was in favor of an increase but he was also concerned about "the little fellow who pays the bill."

The amendment was lost and the motion carried.

Peterborough county now pays county council the same committee fees and session allowance as Victoria County. Hastings county pays $7 and $8. Northumberland and Durham $6.50 and $7, but there is talk of boosting the rate to $7 and $7.50.

Instead of paying the warden the daily fees, county council decided to give him an honorarium of $1,000 a year. He will also get mileage—one way.

The honorarium will be payable quarterly.

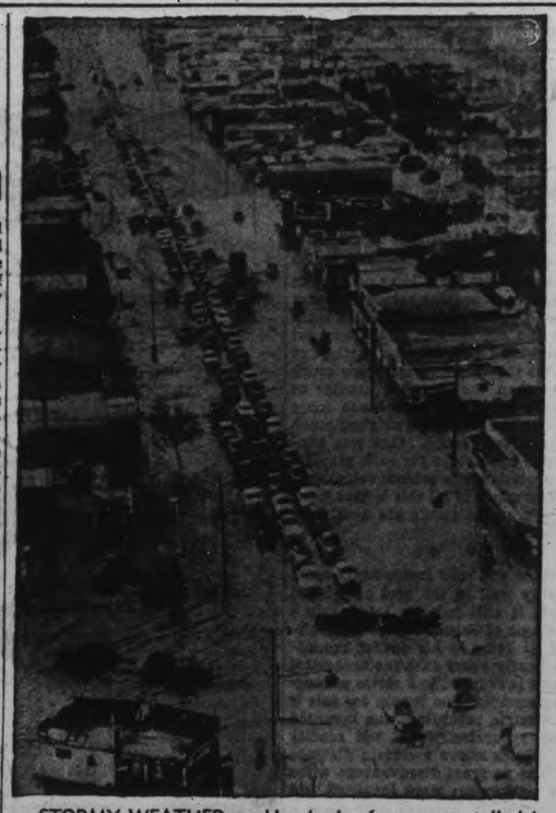
Old-Timer Says Wild West Never That Rough

HAMILTON (CP).—The wild and wooly west was never as wild and woolly as it is pictured in the movies, says Jim Firky, one of the last surviving Canadian pony express riders.

At 93, Uncle Jim, as he is affectionately known to his neighbors, likes to recall he many years he spent out west as a young man. He especially likes to riminisce about his pony express days.

Those were the days when he used to carry the mail from Fort Qu'Appelle to Prince Albert in Saskatchewan, a 600-mile round trip which took two weeks on horseback.

Most of the time the trip was uneventful, he says. There was a change of horses every 50 miles and no particular trouble with the Indians. However, things were different during the Riel uprising.



They Went Thataway

On one occasion he had reached Humboldt, his halfway mark, and was setting out for Batoche where Louis Riel and his followers were encamped, when he met up with an army scout. The scout warned him about the rebels and they both turned around and headed back for Humboldt.

They had gone only a little way when four rebels appeared from nowhere and started to chase them. "We whipped up our horses and fled, but I can still see those bullets kicking up the dust around us," says Firky.

During the Riel disturbances the army carried the mails from Humboldt west, after Firky took it that far.

Before riding for the pony express, Firky worked on the express run between Qu'Appelle and Fort Qu'Appelle, a distance of 21 miles. He was on that run two years before going to the pony express.

Ship Aground Rescue 64, Nine Still Missing

HONG KONG, Jan. 21 (Reuters)—The Royal tug Prince Salvor steamed towards Hong Kong today with 64 survivors of the British-registered freighter Taikinshaw, aground with her back broken in Paracels Island in the South China Sea.

The freighter was left to be battered to pieces on a jagged reef, radio messages said.

Nine crew members were still missing and believed drowned when their lifeboat capsized.

The survivors, reported to include the ship's master, Capt. R. Wherry — reported to be from Saint John, N.B, were picked up in lifeboats by the British frigate Alert and transferred to the Prince Salvor.

The 2,284-ton Taikinsham, on her first voyage after being detained nearly seven months by Chinese Nationalists in Formosa, ran aground Jan. 17. She was on the way from Hong Kong to Singapore.

Park St. Baptist Church Holds Annual Meeting

The annual business meeting of the Park Street Baptist Church was held on Friday evening, with the pastor, the Rev. E. J. Whan in the chair.

The meeting opened with the singing of the hymn, "Faith of Our Fathers," and was followed by the scripture reading: Ephesians 4: 1-16 by Mr. Dunkley and prayer by P. Wicks.

The pastor spoke briefly. He expressed his sincere appreciation of the splendid co-operation that is prevalent all through the church, the feeling of good fellowship, and gave a word of encouragement to everyone that had helped in any way to make this possible, giving special tribute to deacon's board for the way they had assisted him during the year.

Chairman of the deacon's board, P. Wicks, also spoke briefly, outlining some of the activities of the board during the year, and of their ambitions for the coming year.

Church clerk Gordon Herzog read the minutes.

Windows Renovated

Chairman of the trustee board, J. Pilling, reported on the various projects carried out by the board during the year, largest of which was the renovating of the church windows.

A motion of appreciation was passed to R. Graham for installing free of charge the guard rails on the steps at the front entrance to the church.

The financial report showed that approximately $10,500 had been raised from all sources during the year, with about $1,200 of this amount subscribed for missions.

C. Corbett, Sunday School superintendent, spoke of progress being made in this department and asked for the close co-operation of all parents, and from members of the church and school.

Officers Nominated

Roy Springham, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the following slate of officers for the year 1952:

Church Clerk, Gordon Herzog; treasurer Roy Rogers, financial secretary, Roy Lane; Deacon's board, G. Spicer, G. Herzog, E. Bills, N. Hamilton, M. Dunkley, F. Edwards, H. Wall, P. Corbett, H. Panter, Mr. Scharf, G. Graham, J. Barry, Mr. Graham; auditors: F. Barrie, B. H. Smith; flower committee, Mrs. Booth, Mrs. Dayman; decoration committee, Miss O. Tedford, Miss B. Rogers and E. Bills; Anson House representative, Mrs. Sisson.

B. H. Smith, chairman of the auditing committee, gave his report, which was passed.

A. Taylor, subbing for the chairman of the finance board, G. Batley, who was out of town, presented the budget for 1952 which was accepted as read.

A vote of thanks to Miss Nancy Lane was passed for her secretarial work in typing of letters and of the annual reports.

The pastor closed the meeting with prayer, and a social hour with refreshments served by the Young Women's Mission Circle, was enjoyed.

Imprisoned Hitler Officer Writing About New Reich

By DON DOANE

HANOVER, Germany, Jan. 21 (AP).—Like his former hero, Adolf Hitler, Otto Ernst Remer is doing "some writing" while in prison, but no one expects him to equal the evil masterpiece, "Mein Kampf," which Hitler composed behind bars.

Remer is a noisy leader of the Socialist Reich party, which has alarmed the Western Allies and the West German Government with its neo-Nazi doctrines and recent gains in voting strength.

Remer is not the philosopher of the party. He is its mouthpiece. His Hitlerian oratory has whipped campaign rallies into frenzies of hate—and put him in jail.

He is serving a four-month sentence here for slandering members of the federal cabinet by charging that they had prepared secret hideouts in Britain to which they would flee if Germany were invaded by Russia.

Remer's reaction to his sentence was typical — haughty, defiant, threatening.

"They can't scare me with a four-month sentence," he asserted. "I would gladly serve 10 years for my party."

Colorful Figure

Although he does not do his party's thinking, Remer is easily its most colorful figure. Germans still remember that it was Remer who rallied Nazi military forces in Berlin and quelled the anti-Hitler revolt of July 20, 1944.

Remer then was a major in command of a Guard regiment. A career soldier since the age of 20, his actions during the 1944 crisis show how firmly he believes the first duty of a soldier is to obey orders.

The plotters, who thought their bomb had killed Hitler, ordered Remer to arrest Hitler's propaganda chief, Dr. Joseph Goebbels. Thinking Hitler dead, Remer started to follow the orders of what he thought to be the new regime.

Goebbels proved to Remer that Hitler was still alive by letting him talk to Hitler in East Prussia by phone. Remer promptly switched back to the Fuehrer's side, and began rounding up the plotters. Hitler rewarded Remer by making him the youngest major-general in Germany at the age of 32.

Now Remer faces another slander trial on a charge of describing the 1944 plotters as "traitors" in a recent campaign speech.

Before he went to prison Nov. 27 on a different slander charge, Remer gave this correspondent an explanation for his role in suppressing the revolt:

"I was afraid the revolt would lead to civil war which would have resulted in our inability to supply our troops on the eastern front. This front would have collapsed and the Russians would have broken through, not only to Berlin but clear across Germany. That would have meant all Germany under Russian control."

Another Charge

There is still another slander charge pending against Remer: That he compared West German Chancellor Konrad Adenaeur with Hitler in a public speech. Under the German code which makes slander of public officials a penal offence, Remer may wind up serving far more than the four months he is serving now.

Before he entered prison, Remer gave this outline of his political philosophy:

"We don't want to restore nazism. There is never in history any real restoration. What we want to do is to build a new national union of the German people, preserving the good things—and there were good things—of national socialism."

Derelict Riel Veteran Had Bronx Lots and Farm

NEW YORK, Jan. 21. (CP)—Honore Joseph Jaxon, the 90-year-old Riel Rebellion veteran who died last week, appears to have been a man of considerable means despite the fact he lived in a paper-littered Bowery room.

Harry Baronian, Bowery News editor, who gave shelter to Jaxon after the eccentric greybeard was evicted from his apartment, said a search of Jaxon's papers indicated he may have owned considerable property. He had notified the public administrator, he said.

Baronian, going through the tons of old newspapers and magazines that Jaxon brought to the Bowery News office, said he found a deed indicating the veteran owned four lots in the Bronx and 288 acres in Saskatchewan. Other papers indicated ownership of buildings in New Jersey and Manhattan, as well as assets in safe-deposit boxes.

Jaxon had always been known around Lower Manhattan as a derelict. Although he once lived in a shack made of orange crates on the banks of the Bronx River, he claimed a gentle upbringing.

He studied at the University of Toronto and later became a major in Louis Riel's forces of Metis.

Sensible Restrictions On Cutting Trees In The County

The County Council is proposing to pass a law restricting tree cutting within county borders. The by-law will lay down minimum girths for cutting and secure that woodlots and forest areas are not cut through indiscriminately. Thus a farmer or cottager or hunter with stands of trees on his property will be allowed to cut them, or sell cutting rights, only under regulations and with the permission of a qualified forester. This seems to be a restriction on the use of one's own private property. It is—but a very desirable one, from the point of view of the public good. The unrestricted use of woodlots and forests as private property has laid waste tens of thousands of square miles of Ontario in the past hundred years. Forests were ravaged for immediate private gain—to sell the lumber. Woods were cut down to clear land for pasture and crops. The results of this century of uncontrolled axing have been deplorable. The Ganaraska watershed north and west of Port Hope is a grim example. The trees were cut. For a few years—even a generation or two—good crops were got off the land. But then erosion set in. Flooded streams in spring ran off not only the water which the tree cover had conserved for even spreading during the summer but they also ran off the very soil on which the crops grew. Thus crops had neither soil to root in nor water to nurture them. The area became barren. The story of erosion and wastage was repeated all other Southern Ontario—more recently in sections north of the Lake shore where settlement was later. Peterborough County has come into the sorry picture late, and we are glad to say, the public awareness of the need for conservation measures has come before too much of the country has been endangered.

Durham and Northumberland have taken strong, long-term remedial action: the Ganaraska Conservation Authority has been set up, with power not only to prevent tree cutting but also to reforest waste land. Peterborough County has not as great need of reforestation—although much has to be done, as the Ontario Select Committee on Conservation reported in 1950, and other studies of erosion and conservation have shown. But there is an immediate need to prevent indiscriminate cutting of trees. This the County Council recognizes. A law will be passed, because all members are in favour of the principle. What is delaying the bill's passage are certain details of the regulations to be incorporated.

* * *

Councillors from the northern parts of the county may not be as keenly aware of the need for such a conservation measure as southern councillors are. There is relatively little arable land in the northern half of the county. However, that section is valuable for hunting, fishing, and vacationing. If the trees go, all of these commercially profitable activities will be hampered. The soil and water must be preserved, and tree cover is the best natural way of doing it.

* * *

The law as drafted is not harsh against the use of woodlots for personal and private purposes. For instance: a man may freely cut his own trees if he is using the lumber himself, and not selling it. A farmer may clear scrub to bring a field under cultivation; he may cut Christmas trees, except where officers enforcing the bylaw feel that special circumstances exist making Christmas tree cutting inadvisable. And of course, dead wood, damaged or diseased trees may be cleared out. What the by-law seeks to ensure is that by group action against indiscriminate cutting of trees, wastage of land and tree-cover will be stopped and the county's soil, water and timber wealth conserved for the good of all—now and in the future.

* * *

The by-law is one of the most important acts the County Council can perform this year. It is a prerequisite to any sound conservation plan. Other counties have imposed similar restrictions on cutting. The regulations should be as uniform as possible throughout southern Ontario, so that everybody knows, whatever county he is in, how much cutting he can and cannot do and what the penalties are if he breaks the law. Very important to the effective application of the by-law is that sufficient technical service be provided so that the administration of the regulations will be consistent with good forestry practice.

Dairy Industry Sick

On the same news page in this paper last week were two separate accounts which should be related. One was a report of a speech delivered in Montreal by the deputy minister of agriculture for Nova Scotia. The other was a despatch from Ottawa. The Nova Scotian said that the dairy industry in Canada is "sick." The Ottawa despatch reported that Canada is importing seventeen million pounds of butter this winter from New Zealand, increasing the order by 2,500,000 pounds.

The remarkable fact is that despite the introduction of margarine into most provinces—which should have taken the pressure off butter producers—Canada must still import 17,000,000 pounds of butter during these winter months. The sale of margarine at cheaper prices than butter has left the dairy people free to sell butter, as much as people want, at higher prices. Contrary to angry statements from the dairy industry shouted at the time when the sale of margarine was made legal, margarine has not killed the butter market. The fact is, butter producers cannot meet the demand. Even when there is plenty of margarine about, Canada must still import millions of pounds of butter.

What would the situation have been if margarine were still an illegal commodity in Canada? The circumstances suggest that the governors of the provinces should try further to reduce the pressure on butter producers by encouraging the use of margarine. They should quash the laws they have made about colouring and wrapping, and let margarine's appearance become so much like that of butter that more people will buy margarine and thus help out the dairy industry which cannot now meet the demand for butter.

The dairy industry is "sick" because farmers are finding beef production less bothersome and more profitable. Dairy herds have been reduced, milk production has been declining since 1941. But there is money in butter if the dairy farmers go about it in the right way. Mr. Walsh, the Nova Scotian deputy minister, suggested some of these ways: dropping 'sacred cow' ideas of farm, crop and herd management handed down uncritically from father to son, and adopting more efficient methods—as efficient as New Zealand's methods.

Farmers in general may have little impetus to bother changing their ideas about dairy farming so long as high prices for beef continue. But the scarcity of butter and milk (with consequent high prices), and a trend towards lower meat prices (the gravy is going from that branch of cropping) may catch farmers flat-footed who have gone out of milk and into beef.

Books For Intelligent People

If you were asked to make a list of the books, written since A.D. 100, which in your opinion have the best claim to be read by intelligent people in all countries (either in the original or in translation) what would your list be? Such a question was asked the readers of an English magazine which we read regularly, and we have found the answers of keen interest.

The book which leads the list is Don Quixote. A great book, undoubtedly, and unlike many great books it is not a hard one to read—though it might well be said that it is a hard book to understand in all its richness. How many of our High School students have read it, we wonder, and how many have any intention of reading it? Next on the list is Tolstoy's War and Peace, followed by Swift's Gulliver's Travels. We have no intention of reproducing the list as a whole, but we may mention that it includes such standbys as Voltaire's Candide, St. Augustine's Confessions, Gibbon's Decline and Fall, and Thomas a Kempis' The Imitation of Christ; Dickens and Dostoievsky are the only two writers to have more than one book on the list. Of course Karl Marx' great work is there, but so is Rabelais, so that anybody who chose to work his way through the whole list would find one a corrective for the other.

What interested us most is that among these forty books, agreed upon by hundreds of cultivated people from all over the world, only one is the work of a North American author. It is Melville's Moby Dick. It seems odd that in a comparatively long history, and with so much importance in the world, we should have produced so little that is impressive in the way of literature.

NOTES AND COMMENT

When his son was born King Farouk created several scholarships, gave away a few thousands in cash, and created "Pashas" and "Beys" right and left. And all this in spite of the fact that the child is reported to be the image of its father.

Sandor Mikus, the sculptor whose new statue of Stalin has been unveiled in Budapest, has never seen Uncle Joe. He says he "has breathed the pure and magnificent air of the Stalin epoch, and felt the atmosphere of the Stalinist constructions," and that was enough. Working on those lines, we could set up in the sculpture business tomorrow.

Musical Notes

by PETER PIPER

DURING the last few days I have been listening to a number of old gramophone records. The recording technique of the early days was, of course, crude in comparison with present-day standards; yet I imagine that in fifty years' time our present recordings may very well sound pretty thin stuff. The main trouble with the old records is the amount of surface "scratch". This may be partly due to the fact that the needles used were much cruder affairs than the sapphire needles of today and wore out the records much more quickly. Besides, the tone-arm weighed much more heavily on the record. One was supposed to change the needle for each playing, though this provision was seldom religiously adhered to. The result of all this is that those old records in grandma's attic are nearly always badly worn.

* * *

THE solo voice and solo instruments came out tolerably well in the best of the old recordings. It is still possible to recapture some of the magic of Caruso's voice or Kreisler's fiddling (I refer to his earlier recordings), but in nearly every case the orchestral accompaniment is reduced to a series of muffled quacking sounds. The reason for this is that before electric recording was invented the recording apparatus would not readily pick up any sounds above a certain distance away. This was no great disadvantage when two or three performers were involved, but it would be obviously impossible to place a whole orchestra within a radius of six feet from the recording machine. Nevertheless I heard an old recording (obviously pre-electric) of the overture to Rienzi, played by the "Columbia Symphony Orchestra, 90 players" (conductor not named!), which reproduced the sound of a full orchestra uncannily well for those days. Incidentally the voices of many of those great names of the past, such as Caruso, Galli-Curci and others, are now available on modern discs. By some ingenious process the old orchestral background has been erased and a new one substituted.

* * *

PERHAPS the most interesting of all these old records was one that was made round about 1930 by Pachmann. The quality of the recording, though not up to present-day standards, was vastly better than the older records (electric recording came in round about 1927). For the benefit of my younger readers, to whom Pachmann is possibly not even a "name", Vladimir de Pachmann was born in Odessa, Rusia, in 1848. He gained a name for himself as an exponent of the works of Chopin, excelling in delicate fingerwork and nuance. Always something of an individualist, he became more and more eccentric in his manner (and his playing) as the years rolled by. Many are the stories told of his behaviour at recitals. I will content myself with retailing one or two. On one occasion he announced, "I vill not blay in front of so many noses", and the innocent victims of the maestro's tantrum had to leave the hall to allow the recital to proceed. The most celebrated story concerns a piano stool—one of those stools that can be adjusted to the desired height by turning two knobs on either side. It appears that Pachmann was having great difficulty in satisfying himself that he was sitting at the correct height. He turned the knobs in one direction; the seat was too high. He turned them back again; now it was too low. This pantomime went on for some time; he still could not get it quite right. Eventually he took a programme sheet that was lying on the piano, placed it on the seat, and sat down. Ah, at last, he had got the right height!

THE Pachmann record that I have was made when the old man had already become a legend. On one side he plays the celebrated Waltz in D flat major. I am glad that he does not attempt to play it within one minute, but he takes almost every other conceivable liberty with it. The left hand is quite different from what Chopin wrote, and the old man even inserted an extra bar in the middle section and added two chords and a "twiddle" to the end. Tempo rubato is used to excess, and there is some bad pedal blurring—yet there is character and colour to his playing, a thing that one often misses in these days of studied renditions. The "few remarks" that he makes in broken English at the beginning of this recording enhance the attraction of this record, though as a whole it is hard to understand how he managed to gain such a high reputation for himself as a Chopin player unless his powers had suffered a very marked declension in his latter years.

* * *

I RECENTLY attended a song recital. It started with two religious songs composed by a mysterious looking individual or team going by the name of J. W. Franck-Dorumgaard. On my return home I was prompted to look up the name in various books of reference. I realized already, from the initials and from the internal evidence of the music, that this "person or persons unknown" had no connection with Cesar Franck. I associated the name with the beautiful Lutheran communion hymn "Schmuecke dich", which Bach treated so expressively in one of his chorale preludes. But I was wrong. The words of that hymn were written by a certain J. Franck, but the melody was written by J. Crueger. No, the writer of the two songs that I heard in the recital was another Franck, who lived in the seventeenth century, a little before the author of "Schmucke dich". According to the somewhat quaint wording of my authority, he was born about 1641 and was court Kapellmeister of Anspach from 1673-78. "Having, in January, 1679, killed a musician of the chapel, and wounded his wife in a fit of jealousy", my informant continues, "he fled to Hamburg, where he produced 14 operas between 1679 and 1686." He later moved to London and took a pretty active part in the musical life of the metropolis. Nobody knows what happened to him eventually, and there appears to be no record of his death. They were more casual about those things in days of yore. Even the date of the birth of Chopin has had to be revised in recent years on the basis of documentary evidence.

AS for Dorumsgaard, he appears in no book of reference that I have consulted (and they are many). I suspected that he might be a living American composer, but his name does not feature in the latest list of members of ASCAP. The name has a Scandinavian ring to it. As the recitalist in question had recently toured in Norway I would hazard a guess that the worthy Dorumsgaard is a Norwegian who did a bit of tactful arranging for the shadowy J. W. Franck. It has become the fashion to hyhenate arrangers and transmogrifiers in programmes. Thus we get such doubles as Bach-Rummel. Bach-Wilhelmji, Debussy-Satie or Handel-Beecham. Personally I am rather allergic to arrangers, though I should be the last one to throw stones, having done one or two arrangements myself during the course of a mis-spent youth. Arrangers are apt to get above themselves, dotting the t's and crossing the i's of their illustrious colleagues. I could write a whole article about the sins of arrangers, and probably will, so you may expect some lurid revelations.

art of the composer and the singer gave way, and something that passed beyond art and had the tone of dedication.

RUSTICUS.

Letters To The Editor

NO COMPETITION OR IDEAS

Sir: Thank you for your fine editorial page and on Saturday night the Educational page. The press is being attacked for their abuse of "Freedom of the Press". The attackers seem to wish for freedom of speech and speeches but do not like to see them in print for the Public Eye. Most of us believe that never before in our history has there been such a need for accurate information and the Examiner may well be complimented on its truthful, comprehensive and intelligent account of to-days happenings.

Freedom of the Press is the last Freedom to fall and some philosophers regard freedom of the press as the central freedom without which, other freedoms are not likely to survive, certainly not to flourish.

In one of your articles on education Mr. Coldwell said that "group action and social integration would lead to our children believing that Canadian Democracy is the best form of government in the world." If group acceptance with no competition is achieved as a social aspect, then where would our leaders come from in times of stress and disaster? If there is no competition in education as in our old report system then there will be no competition of ideas.

Yours truly,
A HOUSEWIFE

ONE-ROOM SCHOOLS

Sir: How true "All For Education's" letter was. Being more interested in the children's education than the rise in my taxes I feel that a large school is very much needed in School Area No. 2 to give our children the proper education that is required to secure a good job today. The schools we have now (Auburn and Rifle Range) are inadequate. Having outside toilets, no proper provision for the children to wash their hands after using same except a small basin and then half of the winter the pump is frozen so they have no water during that time. These children have to eat their lunches at school and one can see why we parents are kicking.

Also our School Board feels that by paying the teachers an extra five dollars ($5.00) a month that it is all right for him or her to look after the dusting, sweeping and cleaning outside toilets. But! Who in turn does all this? None other than our children that attend these schools and I say no child of mine is going to clean the toilets etc. to save the School Board another five dollars ($5.00) a month.

I also feel that no teacher can teach 6 or 8 grades in one room and do a satisfactory job. The attitude of a lot of our ratepayers is: It was good enough for us 25 or 30 years ago so it should be good enough for our children today. Grant you, that some very famous men were taught in country schools, but the standard of education has risen and our children must compete with it.

With the present set-up I am sure we will not be able to keep good teachers.

A six room school with auditorium was suggested but has been turned down. The two men who stood for same in past election were defeated duly because some people spread false rumours that this proposed school was going to cost $150,000-$200,000. Our school Inspector presented a plan which called for an expenditure of approximately $108,000. This covered land, building and furnishings. Also some people said the Veterans on the Warsaw Road wanted the Auditorium for parties and dances. A very foolish lie. This Auditorium would be used to teach manual training and also a place for the children on rainy and cold days. At present they have no place but outside.

Our Board wants little one room schools put up a year or so after they are needed. The one at Rifle Range was put up in time because the Veterans on the Warsaw Road gave many hours to build it. I feel the school board didn't even appreciate this and are trying hard to pull the wool over our eyes.

"INTERESTED"

APPRECIATION OF COMMUNITY CONCERT ARTISTS

Sir: I venture to say that if those who have been members of the Community Concert Association for the past ten or twelve years were asked which vocal artists they remember with greatest pleasure, they would name Todd Duncan and Dorothy Maynor.

Miss Maynor might be named by some because her concert is the most recent. But I think that most people who heard these two great Negro singers will remember them because of a peculiar charm which cast its spell on their audiences. Todd Duncan's Steal Away was an unforgettable experience, a blending of thought, feeling and sound that might have satisfied even Tennyson's yearning:

What charm in words, a charm no words could give?
O dying words, can Music make you live....?

Todd Duncan gave words a sound that still tingles in the marrow of one's bones. The liquid sweetness of Miss Maynor's voice dowered everything she sang with beauty.

But one remembers most clearly the warmly human person for whose expression the art of the composer and the singer gave way, and something that passed beyond art and had the tone of dedication.

RUSTICUS.

VETERAN HAS COME TO STAY

Sir: In reply to letter in Examiner, Jan. 18, 1952, in which the School Board of Douro, Area No. 2, are defending themselves.

That is their privilege, but if conditions exist as they say they do, there would be no complaints, or need of self defence, on behalf of the Board.

As for the forced election by the V.L.A. folks, in a free country, it is in order for qualified men to offer themselves, in the community that they live in, to represent sound citizens of that community.

The schools that exist are not adequate and not even up to the standard of rural schools which has been amply verified by parents concerned.

The word patience might well be taken from Webster's dictionary, as after five years of waiting and no intentions shown, or proper action taken. Instead of brick buildings as the Board states they have supplied a wooden shack well insulated and heating plant (meaning of course a type of jacket or Quebec heaters), and still associated with the little outhouse and the frozen pump from which water is not always available.

Having personally lived in a country, even countries if you will in which education, common decency, Christianity and the law of God and man has fallen to a depth far beyond the reach of men to bring the people back to God and civilization. I say let us not disregard our children's education and squabble over nothing, but have them educated in the proper manner in such a way that they will be qualified to take up their places as men and women.

Now I know, and please don't try and tell me to go back to above places referred to, as I have in my possession a document from the Dominion of Canada entitling me to stay, also in Douro—for we have been as much as told, knowing that there was no school in the settlement of V.L.A. project, what did we move out here for? (To stay of course.)

Respectfully yours,
VETERAN FROM V.L.A. SETTLEMENT.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Moses spake in the ears of all the congregation of Israel the words of this song, until they were ended. (Deut. 31, 30.)

* * *

Give ear, O ye heavens, and I will speak; and hear, O earth, the words of my mouth. My doctrine shall drop as the rain, my speech shall distil as the dew, as the small rain upon the tender herb, and as the showers upon the grass: because I will publish the name of the Lord: ascribe ye greatness unto our God. He is the Rock, his work is perfect: for all his ways are judgement: a God of truth and without iniquity, just and right is he. (Deut. 32: 1-4.)

* * *

But take diligent heed to do the commandment and the law, which Moses the servant of the Lord charged you, to love the Lord your God, and to walk in all his ways, and to keep his commandments, and to cleave unto him, and to serve him with all your heart and with all your soul. (Josh. 22: 5.)

* * *

These are the things that ye shall do; Speak ye every man the truth to his neighbour; execute the judgement of truth and peace in your gates. (Zech. 8: 16.)

* * *

I exhort therefore, that, first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men.... for this is good and acceptable in the sight of God our Saviour; who will have all men to be saved, and to come unto the knowledge of the truth. (I Tim. 2: 1, 3, 4.)

Violent Deaths In Montreal Total 665 During 1951

MONTREAL — (CP)—Violent deaths in Montreal and district during 1951 reached a total of 665, an increase of 139 over 1950, despite the fact that there were 11 fewer traffic fatalities, coroner's court records reveal.

In every category but traffic the violent death lists were higher, but traffic accidents were still the biggest single cause of death, accounting for 185. February with eight and March with nine, were the only two months in the year with fewer than 10 fatalities. November claimed the most traffic victims, 28.

There were 66 drownings, four more than in 1950, with 22 in July. February and September were the only months free of drowning accidents.

Plane Crashes

Aviation fatalities increased sharply due mainly to the crash of an RCAF plane from St. Hubert on fog-shrouded Mount Bruno. The deaths of four airmen and two civilians in the crash brought the aviation death total to eight, compared with only one in 1950.

Fire showed the most marked increase in 1951 as a major cause of violent deaths, with a total of 66. The main reason for the increase was the Hospice Ste. Cunegonde disaster which took 35 lives.

Morgue records showed that during 1951 there were 40 deaths occurring at work—mostly industrial accidents. No month during the year was free of such accidents, but the greater number took place in the last half, August and November sharing the peak of six each.

Three Canadians Decorated In Korean Action

By BILL BOSS

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, Jan. 21 (CP)—Brig. John M. Rockingham Sunday announced decorations for three members of his 25th Brigade for fighting during December operations of the Korean war.

Maj. Jack George, of Edmonton, was awarded the DSC, and Lieut. Strathcona Macdonald, of Vanleek Hill, Ont., and Sgt. George Thwaites, of Charlton, were Mentioned in Dispatches.

Maj. George, leader of "D" Company of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, was the only one listed as being wounded in action. His name was carried in a Dec. 13 dispatch.

The other two are members of Lord Strathcona's Horse.

The decorations presumably were given on the strength of action early in December when Canadian forces carried out several midnight raids and captured Communist positions.

The major was wounded in the throat with a shrapnel fragment but didn't even report the fact, carrying on with the battle.

His injuries came during one of the midnight raids seeking enemy prisoners.

Final Capture

It was a sticky operation. The Patricias got to all their objectives but finally had to withdraw.

He asked tanks under Lieut. Macdonald to take it on. Sgt. Thwaites manned one of the tanks' 50-calibre machine-buns.

The bunker crumbled, paving the way for final capture.

In other operations, Lieut. Macdonald and Sgt. Thwaites, supporting the 1st Battalion Princess Patricias, shot up several Chinese Communist positions.

In one offensive, Thwaites' Sherman, named "Cognac," accomplished the best shoot in her Korean career — a share in a known 160 Chinese dead and a whole platoon of 36 Chinese attributed exclusively to her.

In civilian life a gold miner in Northern Ontario and Quebec, Thwaites was an officer during the Second World War when he served with the Armored Corps and the Provost Corps. He resigned his commission to join the Korean force.

Thirteen months to the day after he was denounced at an "accusation meeting" in Red China, Dr. Allen arrived here by plane from Hong Kong. He will remain here for 10 days before heading east.

In apparent good spirits despite imprisonment in the land to which he has devoted almost half his life, the 52-year-old United Church medical missionary was reticent about speaking of his ordeal. "There are others still over there," he said.

He will, however, make "a full report" to the Mission Board of the United Church at Toronto, and then visit government officials at Ottawa.

Can the Oddfellows continue their OHA junior "B" unbeaten streak? Can they halt the parade of Belleville Hawklets, now atop the heap? You can find out the answers tonight by dropping around to Civic Arena along about 8.30 of the clock. It's a league fixture and the third-place Triple Links will be out to improve their standing, whilst the Hawklets certainly will be striving to hang onto that top rung, just ahead of Lindsay. Kingston Vics are presently in the cellar. Johnny Godfrey's juniors are hot at the moment and might well upset the Doran huskies this p.m. It promises to be another speedy and exciting joust before a hefty gallery. Links tied 7-7 in overtime Saturday in Kingston.

Quinte columnist remarked last Friday: "They tell us that even the oysters in the Kawartha Lakes are clacking their uppers and lowers with glee over that triple-killing the Peterborough hockey squads pulled off the other night. There hasn't been so much joy in Perdueville since the wires flashed the word of the Timbermen's Mann Cup win. The triple win just goes to show that anything can happen in this unpredictable game of hockey, and the mighty are safe on their seats for the time being only." He goes on then to warn the Hawklets not to take the Oddfellows lightly. Yeah, both junior and senior "B" groups have seen a lot of upsets this semester.

Got Two In Six Seconds

Remember Bill Calladine, whose right name was Norm? We noted this AHL item last week: "Norman Corcoran of Hershey in the AHL set a new league record for fast scoring of two consecutive goals on Dec. 25 against Syracuse when he tallied a pair in five seconds. The former record of six seconds was held by Chuck Scherza of Providence and Norm Calladine, now retired, who formerly played for the Reds. Scherza set his mark in 1951 while Calladine scored his fast pair in 1942. " Yeah, the tricky Peterborough stickhandler set a lot of marks in hockey during his amateur days in these parts and later in pro ranks across the line. He was a dandy forward for many years.

Mick Magee is getting restless acting as bench coach for Norwood in the TVL and threatens to become a playing coach on defence. Said the other eve: "As soon as they bring back that rule (maybe next week) where forwards have to carry the puck in instead of flipping it ahead, I'll be out there trying to hit 'em again. I'll move Red Creighton up front then." A great pair of veterans, Mick and Red. The same Magee can really lay a guy coming in on the defence if he gets a piece of him at all. Especially in a narrow rink where a heads-up forward hasn't too much room to step around a defenceman. He used to murder them in that little Bobcaygeon rink when playing with the intermediate Legion squad some six years ago.

Dinner For Champions

"Sincerest congratulations to Peterborough Timbermen for their wonderful record in senior lacrosse which terminated in winning the famous Mann Cup." That's what sports editor Bobby Hewitson of the Tely wired Saturday before the club's annual "do" in the Empress. A large night for the players and their wives and the hard-working executive, with Mann Cup certificates, OLA medals and club pictures presented to the victors. Bob Peirson had the dinner and dance well organized with more than 100 folks enjoying the affair. Nice to see the players from Mimico and Hamilton—who helped the Petes out west—on deck, too. The 1952 slate of officers will be named this week and plans made for the coming lacrosse season.

Orillia teams swept three exhibition hoop tilts over PCVS senior "A", senior "B" and junior "B" squads here Saturday. Belleville beat Marines 45-41 to take a two-game lead in that loop, same clubs meeting Thursday in Bella Villa. Chum Gillespie went best defensively for Gord McIntyre's men, and Ted Payne shone up front despite being roughed a bit. OABA says winners of Toronto and the Eastern League will meet Mar. 1 and 8. Oshawa and local junior "A" cagers must have a winner Feb. 16 to meet the E. Ont. team Feb. 16 and 23. Central Ontario juveniles go against the Falls Feb. 23 and Mar. 1, while the intermediate "B" business commences Feb. 16. All bantam and midget finals will be in a tourney here, with no dates set yet.

Layton-Pitoscia Teamed Against Flanagan-Brazil

Tuesday night about 10:00 o'clock the question of just how good a wrestling duo Lord Athol Layton and his erstwhile trainer, Lou Pitoscia make, should be well on the way to being decided. They tangle head-on against the combined artistry of graceful and powerful Bobo Brazil and flashy Pat Flanagan.

Zorra

This is a tag-team match which has the mat followers in these parts chortling with glee. The statuesque Englishman who was ably seconded by Pitoscia in his recent bouts here, will thus have the benefit of all the stocky Lou's wiles inside the squared ring as they combine forces to repel the best efforts of Pat and Bobo, who have already been installed as favorites. Tag team bouts are always popular and this one should be no exception.

To complete the well-balanced card Warren Bockwinkle the smoothie from St. Louis, clashes with that grappler of many muscles, Zorra, the French Tarzan, in the semi-final. This event is strictly headline calibre.

To set the wheels in motion Bill Stack will show his wares against Stan Mayslack. This bout begins at 8:30 pm at which time the Brock should be bulging at the seams from the appearance of this appetizing galaxy of stars.

PCVS Cagers Defeated In Hoop Play

In one of the most disastrous nights in PCVS basketball since the war, Orillia's three basketball teams swept exhibition victories from the Garnet and Grey cagers Saturday in the Collegiate here.

Jack Cullis' junior "B" team was the most decisively defeated when in the first game a smooth-passing and sharp-shooting Orillia OABA midget team handed them a 36-22 setback.

The verdicts in the other two games could have gone either way but went to Orillia. Gord Johnston's Garnet and Grey senior "B" cagers bowed to the Orillia Collegiate seniors 45-40 in a thrilling finish while Bev Goulding's senior "A" lads were squeezed out in the final game by the Orillia OABA juniors 42-37.

Orillia's midgets, including come Orillia Collegiate juniors, were shorter than the Garnet and Grey boys but checked them with jabbing thrusts and broke quickly up the floor. On the whole they were better ball-handlers and better shots.

The Garnet and Grey were best in the first quarter when they took a 12-8 lead, only to give way to Orillia in the second. The Georgian Bay district cagers dropped through 12 points for the lead which gave them victory. They went on to outscore PCVS 16-10 in the second half.

Sparks Attack

An Orillia star last year in the COSSA finals, Saunders sparked the Orillia attack with an ever-driving performance. But scoring honors went to Thompkins and Switzer each with eight points and to PCVS' Keeting with nine, mostly collected from close in.

With never more than a few points separating the teams, the second game worked the large crowd into a frenzy in the last few minutes. With PCVS senior "B" team down only four points, fans believed they still had a chance to win and cheered them on until the last second.

Orillia's Collegiate seniors jumped to a four-point 16-12 lead in the first quarter and kept that lead throughout the game. They were ahead 26-23 at the half and 33-29.

Peacock, an outstanding Orillia track star, with bursts of speed and effective rebound work, led Orillia to their victory with 14 points. Teammate Cross scored 11 points.

Sandy Dewar, a late starter in PCVS cage, was the outstanding Garnet and Grey on the floor, playing well both ways. He and Norman Hayward each notched 11 points. Hayward's points came from the keyhole area.

A zone defence, thrown up by Orillia juniors, caught Bev Goulding's senior "A" and OABA juniors by surprise in the third game. So far acquainted only with the man-to-man style, PCVS took the first quarter to recover and that gave Orillia enough time to build up a lead.

The Georgian Bay juniors rolled to a 15-5 score at quarter time and then were edged 11-10 by PCVS in the second quarter for a halftime score of 25-16. Orillia untracked their scoring punch again in the third to assure a win, taking a 37-23 lead. A 14-point rally failed to give PCVS cagers the nod.

Orillia were tired at the finish, using only seven players, including Peacock who had played all the second game. If the rules had been followed PCVS would have likely won, but their good sportsmanship gave Orillia a chance.

Peacock crashed into a teammate late in the fourth and was knocked out, leaving only six players. Then Orillia lost two players, Ouilette, their top scorer, and Bob Wilde, both with five personal fouls. Ordinarily they would have finished the game with four players but PCVS allowed Wilde to return to the game.

A poor foul-shooting record, making only nine out of 26 attempts, helped sink PCVS' hopes for a win.

Before leaving the game Ouilette whipped in 13 points to lead the scoring. He was followed closely by PCVS' Murray Grafstein with 11.

The lineups:

First Game

Orillia Midgets 36— Fitzpatrick 7, Saunders 6, Switzer 8, Knight 4, Thompkins 8, Doolittle 1, Earle, Deverelle 2, R. Hill, J. Hill.

PCVS Junior B 22 — Heffernan 6, Allin, Ash 4, Boorman 2 Courneya 1, Stevens, McKinney, Parry, Davis, Smythe, Palmateer, Lang, Keeting 9.

Second Game

Orillia Collegiate Seniors 45 — Kehoe 7, Mercer 4, O'Connell 4, Cross 11, N. Peacock 14, Bell Ganton 5, McDonald.

PCVS Senior B 40 — Frise 8, Sanders 5, F. Ash 1, Pooley, Graham, Lipsett Bell, Adams, Facendi 4, Hayward 11, Dewar 11.

Third Game

Orillia OABA Juniors 42 — Scott 3, Ouilette 13, Peacock 7 McLaughlin 6, B. Wilde 2, J. Wilde 7, N. Peacock 4.

PCVS Senior A 37 — D. Ash 2, Young 4, Grafstein 12, Hempstead 1, Brown 4, Hendry 5, Langhorne 8, Cranfield 1.

Quinte Cagers Grab Win Against Marines 45 to 41

A 19-point third quarter barrage enabled Belleville Glen Roys to edge the Marines 45-41 Saturday night at the YMCA and allowed them to take a four-point lead over the Marines in the Eastern Ontario intermediate basketball league.

Up to half-time the Marines had held the Glen Roys in check with a stiff zone defence on the small YMCA gym floor. But the Roys took advantage of Marines' switch from zone to up-the-floor man-to-man checking in the third and went ahead in the game. Although their lead was threatened often until the final whistle, it was enough for the victory.

Ab Stewart and Hugh Dibben with keyhole shots sent the Marines ahead early in the first and it appeared that Marines were away for an early win. But "Kip" Summers looped in two long-field baskets and Batchelor two from in close and the Glens took the lead.

Marines Lead

But the first quarter one-point lead didn't last for Glens in the second as Neil Thompson put Marines ahead. Marines threw up the zone defence which stopped Belleville at the centre of the court. At the same time they whipped in nine points for a 19-15 lead at the half.

Batchelor, with an amazing assortment of one-hand and hook shots from the keyhole area and Muirhead with under-the-basket shots, led the Belleville attack throughout the game. These players were most effective in the third quarter, stopping any Marines' chance for a tie for first place.

Glen Roys were also excellent onl long field attempts from midcourt. Summers via this method helped Roys in the first quarter and later Ketcheson dropped several through the hoop as Marines pressed in the fourth quarter.

Below Form

For Marines it was an off-night. Their top scorers, Joe and Ab Stewart, Ted Payne and Harold Grafstein, were off their mark throughout the game, even on the foul shots.

Their best was veteran guard Chum Gillespie, who was most effective on the defence in the first half and took time out to score four badly needed points in the second quarter.

But offensively Ted Payne was Marines' top performer again. After a dismal first half Payne began to break in the second half, especially when the chips were down in the final quarter. Then he was given the "treatment" by the Glen Roys.

Injured when he crashed into the wall a week ago in Belleville, Payne seemed to be the "target" when the pressure was on Roys in the final minutes. Three times he was crashed to the floor as he tried to go up for baskets.

The tension broke out in the final three minutes after he hit the floor for the second time. Tempers rose, the Marines claiming that Summers threw a deliberate block into Payne. But chief referee Roy Pettick, of Toronto, quelled the disorder.

The teams will meet for the last time before the playoffs in Belleville on Thursday night.

Lineups:

Marines (41)—J. Stewart 3, A. Stewart 11, McPherson, Grafstein 1, Trimm 1, Gillespie 5, Thompson 2, Smith, Dibben 3, Payne 14.

Belleville (45)—Lockyer, Summers 7, Muirhead 9, Watson, Dudley, Hayman 4, Batchelor 16, Ketcheson 4, Garrow, Soules 5.

W. Firth Rolls 879

Madill and Post kept up their winning ways last week in the Men's City Bowling League as they smacked the pins for a team total of 3559 and their 1295 single game total was also high, for a good showing on the evening.

Walter Firth of Bassels' rolled a neat triple of 879 and Harold Mesley of De Laval squad came through with a 388 single to round out the individual winners.

Some good games were rolled including those by Frank O'Heron 845 (370), Jim Healey 844 (369) and good singles by Walter Firth 350, Ross Hopkins 309 and Tony White 302.

The games were well contested as no shut-outs were registered and all wins were by 2-1 margins. These were taken by Clapper's Sports, Bassels', Bond's, McGillis Hotel, Madill and Post over their opponents respectively, De Laval, Sunocos, Kawartha Garage, Moore's and Anthony's Fruit Market.

Standings going into the second half are as follows: Madill and Post 74, McGillis 68, Clapper's Sports 64, Bassels 62, Sunocos 50, Moore's 50, Anthony's 48, De Laval 44, Bonds 40, Kawartha Garage 10.

Mann Champs Honored At Annual "Do"

Framed Mann Cup championship certificates and OLA titular medals were presented to the Petes' Timbermen at the club's annual banquet Saturday night in the Empress Hotel. Team pictures by the sponsor also were given to players, executive and drivers at the enjoyable gathering with more than 100 lacrossers, officials, wives and guests in attendance. The dinner was followed by a dance.

Three stars from other clubs, who helped the Petes in the Mann Cup finnal, Merv McKenzie, Don McPhail and Denny Peterson, were present, and Jerry Fitzgerald came up from Western University. Pro hockey kept away Ike Hildebrand, Don Ashbeen and Nit O'Hearn while Don Crowe and Harry Wipper also were unable to attend. Gene Dopp, CLA secretary, was on hand, but OLA officials and Toronto press representatives could not make it.

Mayor Spoke

Club president Bob Peirson, as chairman, introduced Mayor Hugh Waddell, who extended civic congratulations to the champions and presented city rings to players who had not received them previously. Executive member Ernie Braund read correspondence relating to the banquet—including a wire of regret from R. W. Hewitson, sports editor of The Telegram, on being unable to attend—and expressed the club's thanks to the players and their wives during the successful 1951 season.

"Peterborough officials and players," Gene Dopp said in his speech, "co-operated with the OLA 100 per cent during the final playoff series on the West Coast. Any trouble we had out there was certainly not caused by this eastern bunch of sportsmen." He pointed out that the Canadian Association spent $5,200 to have the eastern club flown out and back, and to Victoria, and this saved the players losing at least another week's work and pay. Mr. Dopp said the CLA now was in good condition financially. The certificates were later presented by Mr. Dopp and by club manager Bob Curtin, who praised the work of Bob Peirson as president and sponsor of the Timbermen during 1951.

Ken Kingston spoke on behalf of the PLMA, giving Walt Murphy much credit in working for the minors, and Frank Patterson spoke for the junior OLA club in Peterborough. It was reported that the senior club would elect officers for 1952 this week and hold an early business meeting to make plans for next season.

Playing in Oshawa on Friday, G. Braund, Dr. H. Worton, A. Rutter, and A. Winslow came in for fourth prize in the major event. There were 64 rinks entered in this competition, so our boys did pretty well to land in the money.

The big open bonspiel for men's rinks on Wednesday is for the Ostrander Trophy. The committee would loke a few more entries, as 28 rinks would make an ideal bonspiel.

That was a nice local bonspiel on Saturday as 14 rinks commenced around 9 am and concluded before 6 o'clock. Archie Lister and K. Bissett were the committee in charge.

Our lady curlers arrived home from Chicago on Friday evening. To be brief we'll put it this way: They had one glorious time.

Tomorrow night we continue with the Neill Trophy games and also a couple of schedule group playoff games to determine winners.

Think this over: Where there is a will, there's a relative.

Oddfellows Tie the Vics In Overtime Contest To Stay In Third Position

Oddfellows and Vics battled to a tingling 7-7 overtime draw Saturday night in Kingston Memorial Arena, in one of the most exciting games of the junior hockey season. It was a pippin and both teams were deservedly cheered after a fine display. The tie extends Oddfellows' unbeaten string to four games and they hope to stretch it further tonight at Civic when the league leading Belleville Hawks furnish the opposition.

Play opened at a sizzling pace and Vics took a 2-1 edge after 20 minutes of clean, wide open hockey. Don Clapper tallied a neat one near the left crease on a Twist passout at the five-minute mark to open; then Vics flew back to equalize seconds later, with Ted Reynolds the marksman. Near the finish Guy Roy tallied on a clever passing play with Senior.

Bill Starred

Bill Stewart, who led his mates with three fine goals, put Links even as the hectic second opened with Bus Jensen setting him up; but the hungry homesters forged ahead once more on a fast drive by the first line, with Chevrefils the potter. Stubborn defensive work both ways held off further scoring till Stewart broke fast on one of his dazzling rushes to elude three checks and rifle the disc past Senior and tie it up. Vics stormed back to take an edge in the final half and a long screened blueline drive by Ed Birchall on a Senior passout found the mark.

Late in the frame, Stan Tozer smote Army Armstrong over the head with his stick near the penalty box and felled the sturdy rearguard with a gash over the eye. Referee Don Barrett handed Tozer a major for deliberate attempt to injure an opponent. With Links pressing hard then on their power play, to equalize, Wilson Reid broke in the clear as a forward pass nicked Army to put the Vic star onside near centre, and he closed in on Wasson to give Kingston a 5-3 edge.

Tied The Count

Oddfellows showed great reserve power and fight in the third to stage their finest comeback of the season as they skated like fury to take the play completely away from their rivals. Gord Coyle twice scored brilliant goals as the Twist line shone. Reid tallied once for Vics but Links never let up. With one minute left, Bill Stewart again proved the man of the hour as he uncorked a spectacular end-to-end rush, eluding all pursuers to cut in on Senior and pot the disc. The crowd gave the big fellow a rousing cheer for a great effort.

The overtime session found no letup in the speed or fervour of the duel and Links took the lead this time when Red Robinson found the mesh on a flaming right wing drive as he faked to Ferguson but fire instead on a pretty play. Vics were not to be denied either after a stirring battle and nca rthe finish Guy Roy shot near the left crease to the open side as Vics executed a lovely checkerboard play near the goalmouth to earn a split. Teamwork again proved a big factor in Oddfellows' showing and though a few stood out, every player dug in to give his best. The same can be said of Vics. Both goalies played well.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

No doubt thousands of good, decent United States citizens stood aghast as the sequence of shocking revelations concerning the "fixing" of college basketball games steadily developed. Previously, there had been similar revelations concerning boxing and football, and the regular routine of knavery in horse-racing circles.

But few good citizens thought the filthy hand of the fixer could ever invade collegiate circles. And even fewer good citizens stopped to think that in the final analysis, they themselves, the good citizens, were largely to blame.

You can hear the Good Citizens cry in horror: "Who, ME?" And the answer is: "Yes, YOU."

For the Good Citizen of the United States, Canada, and everywhere else, bets on games. He bets, of course, in a spirit of innocent fun. He wouldn't, for the world, try to "fix" a game, but he unwittingly contributes to a structure whereby games conceivably could be fixed.

Just why a substantial citizen cannot enjoy football, hockey or basketball games without betting on the outcome, is not quite clear. It demonstrates a degeneracy in the appreciation of sports, whether amateur or professional, a search for a thrill the contest itself does not provide.

But people bet, and the urge to bet is not necessarily evil. But we'd say that if you feel an irresistible stimulus to bet, make it a private deal with a friend for a hat, a round of drinks, a dinner, a hand-painted necktie, or $50 in coin of the realm.

But don't place it in a commercial booth. That's where the possibility of an "arrangement" creeps in. Keep it private and personal, among friends whose integrity you know, and make it modest.

It is all well and good to scorn the characters who did the fixing in the scandals uncovered in American sport. They are pretty loathsome creatures, and fortunately in Canada, we've had little or nothing of such things, certainly nothing that would even faintly cloud our collegiate sports picture, nor our football, or hockey, or basketball. But the same developments as came to light in the United States are possible in Canada too. And it is the amateur wagers, piling up in volume, your wager and your friend's wager, if diverted into commercial wagering channels, that develop into dangerous growths in our own midst.

This observer is by no means alarmed over the possibility of scandal creeping, or leaping, into Canadian sports. We don't have such a practical approach to our games as exists across the line. Our approach is more on the sentimental side. And we don't have the organized betting, apart from racing and this may be the most important factor of all in keeping our sports scandal-free and above reproach.

One of professional hockey's near approaches to scandal developed a few years ago, and ended in gales of laughter.

The player involved was tall "Babe" Pratt, a genial, though somewhat uninhibited and unpredictable young man, then playing on Toronto Leafs defence.

The word got around in some way that Pratt was betting on hockey games. Immediately, there was internal turmoil, pallid faces, and nervous concern in the higher ranges of the National League, together with a solemn clucking of tongues, and a variety of "tut, tuts".

....Investigation was, of course, set on foot. Yes, said Pratt when questioned, it was quite true. He was betting on hockey games. In fact, he was betting on his own team, the Maple Leafs, to win. And what of it, enquired Pratt brusquely.

"This betting is very naughty" said one of the investigators, with solemn mien. "You can't do that sort of thing. It's unethical, it endangers the very foundations of our structure."

"Besides that" agreed Pratt, with straight face, "it's just plain silly. I bin betting on Leafs for three weeks, and we ain't won a game in that time. If you gents will return me the money I have lost, I will quit betting right away."

Leafs Chalk Up Two Wins In Weekend Games, Montreal Habs Lose Two

By JACK SULLIVAN, Canadian Press Sports Writer

Chicago Black Hawks haven't found a formula for winning National Hockey League games but they've discovered something that might turn the ledger figures to black from rosy red this season: Sunday matinee games. They tried it out Sunday after an alarming attendance drop most of the season. It worked like a charm with a crowd of 13,614, including hundreds of 16-and-under kids who were admitted for half price. It didn't help matters in a hockey way as Toronto defeated them 3-1 to complete a weekend twin-bill killing for the second-place Leafs.

Leafs plastered Boston Bruins 6-2 at Toronto Saturday and the four points gained sent them into a seven-point lead over third-place Montreal who, with Maurice Richard on the sidelines with a groin injury, dropped a pair—4-0 at Montreal Saturday to Detroit Red Wings and 2-1 to the Bruins at Boston Sunday.

The Wings, now nine points up on Toronto, were clipped 3-2 at home Sunday night by New York Rangers. It was Rangers' first victory in 14 starts on Detroit ice. It also ended goalkeeper Terry Sawchuk's scoreless string of 194 minutes and 22 seconds when Hy Buller erased a first-period goal by Metro Prystai at 8:58 of the middle stanza.

Gaye Stewart and Paul Ronty found the range for the other New York markers. Vic Stasiuk scored Detroit's second in the final 10 minutes of the game.

All-time Low

The last-place Hawks, 10 points out of fourth position and the last play-off spot, hit an all-time low for the Stadium with a crowd of 4,102 against the Leafs earlier this season. They were so pleased with Sunday's turnout that boss Bill Tobin said he will ask for another five Sunday matinee games.

Tobin's argument for afternoon games is that the Hawks were losing a battle with television for the fans' support Sunday nights. The novelty drew the season's biggest crowd at the Stadium but the people who pay the freight want to see a winning team and Chicago will have to show more entries in the win column if they expext the matinee bonanza to continue.

The game was delayed 10 minutes to allow the big crowd to be seated and it was all over for the Hawks midway through the first period as Harry Watson and Howie Meeker sent Toronto into a 2-0 lead. Max Bentley added an insurance goal in the second period, matched by Pete Babando, also in the second.

Centre Milt Schmidt scored a spectacular goal to give Boston its 2-1 victory over Canadiens. Floyd Curry sent Montreal into a 1-0 first-period lead and Johnny Peirson tied it for the Bruins early in the third period.

Hornets Crush Indianapolis 7-3

By The Canadian Press.

Coach King Clancy's Pittsburgh Hornets have such a lead over the remainder of the American Hockey League opposition that chances of their relinquishing first place are slim.

The Hornets played only one game in the seven over the weekend but in this game, Saturday, they asserted their authority over Indianapolis Capitals 7-3. In the other Saturday games, Hershey toppled Buffalo 4-1, Syracuse dropped Cleveland 3-2, and Providence proved the better team over St. Louis 5-2.

In Sunday's tilts Cincinnati edged Providence 4-2, Cleveland topped the Buffalo Bisons 7-3 and Indianapolis Caps won over St. Louis Flyers 5-4.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings turned on the heat during the weekend and took over sole possession of top spot in the National Hockey League's individual scoring race.

His goal and one assist broke a two-way tie with scoreless Elmer Lach of Montreal Canadiens.

Howe now has 42 points — 24 goals, which equals Maurice Richard's pace-setting total and 18 assists—two ahead of Lach who leads the assist column with 30.

The Rocket, laid up for Montreal's weekend games, holds third place with 39 points. Hard on his heels and tied for next place with 37 points, are Sid Smith of Toronto Maple Leafs and New York Rangers' Don Raleigh.

Add Six Skaters To Canadian Olympic Group

By ROD CURRIE.

OSHAWA, Jan. 21 (CP).—Canadian representation at the winter Olympic games in Oslo Feb. 14-25 was raised to 39 with the weekend announcement that six figure skaters will join skiing, speed skating and hockey teams in search of world championships.

Five figure skaters were chosen following the three-day Canadian championships ended here Saturday night. They will join Suzanne Morrow of Toronto, 1951 champion and automatic choice, in their bid to bring Canada the honors in the ladies', men's and pairs events.

They are: Marlene Elizabeth Smith, 20, who won the ladies' senior championship; Peter Firstbrook, 18, successful defender of the men's senior title; Frances Dafoe, and Norris Bowden, winners of the senior pairs championships, and Vevi Smith, 19, second in the ladies' competition. All are from Toronto.

The Figure Skating Association executive said Vevi Smith was added because she had scored the biggest total in the compulsory schoolfigure s competition in the championships.

Marlene Smith wore a cerise costume as she flashed over the ice to victory after placing second behind Vevi in the school figures, which account for about two-thirds of the total score. Marlene's free-tsyle score more than made up for Vevi's early lead.

Had Little Trouble

Firstbrook had little difficulty defending the title he won last year at Vancouver. Bill Lewis, 23-year-old University of Washington student from Vancouver, placed second with Peter Dunfield, 19, of Toronto, third in the three-man field. Firstbrook went into the free-skating division with an overwhelming lead of 36.3 points from the compulsory figures.

Besides taking the senior pairs championship, the Dafoe-Bowden combination also won the Canadian silver dance, waltz and 10-step titles.

In the junior competition, Rosemary Henderson, 19, of Winnipeg, stole the show by outskating nine other contenders in the free style after placing second in the school figures behind Ann Johnstone, 15, of Toronto.

Miss Henderson, only girl to contest both junior and senior crowns, gave an even better free style performance in the latter competition. However, her skating was not on a par with the more experienced seniors.

Charles Snelling, 14, of Toronto won the junior men's crown by edging Allen Anderson, 18, of Oshawa.

Miss Morrow, 21, named by the CFSA last month, is three-time winner of the senior ladies' title and now is training in Germany for the games.

Savitt Takes Round

ADELAIDE, Australia, Jan. 21 (AP).—Dick Savitt of Orange, NJ, and Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., defeated Australians Clive Wilderspin and John Blacklock—6-4, 6-3, 3-0—today in a first-round match for the Australian tennis doubles title.

Louise Suggs Captures Tampa Open Tourney

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 21 (AP). — Steady Louise Suggs won her first Tampa women's open golf championship in six starts Sunday, with a closing round par-74 that put her five strokes ahead of second-place Babe Zaharias.

Miss Suggs was only over par for one round of the 72-hole tests. She turned in 72-72-75-74—293 over the trickly 6,093-yard Palma Ceia course.

Mrs. Zaharias posted a par 74 for a total of 298.

Betty Jameson of San Antonia, Tex., finished third with a 77 for 298.

The victory gave Miss Suggs $1,000 of the $3,500 prize money. Mrs. Zaharias took down $750 and Miss Jameson, the 1948 winner, $500.

The two Canadian amateurs in the tourney gave a good account of themselves and were among the first 20 finishers in a field of 183 golfers.

Marjorie Row of Riverside, Ont. former Michigan State amateur titlist, finished in a tie for the 19th place. Her total of 320 was 27 strokes behind Miss Suggs. Miss Row had rounds of 77, 82 and 81.

Marlene Stewart, [illegible]r-old Canadian women's champion from Fonthill, Ont., finished with a 72-hole total of 321, good for 20th place. She fired a neat 76—just two over par—during the final 18 holes but it wasn't enough to lift her final total up appreciably. Her previous rounds were 81, 80 and 84.

Predicts 1952 Record Year For Construction In Canada

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

TORONTO, Jan. 21 — (CP) — This year will be the biggest construction year Canada has ever had, Robert Drumond, president of the Canadian Construction Association, said today in his address to the association's annual dinner.

And, he added, even bigger things lie beyond 1952—beyond the $4,000,000,000-plus figures which are today's construction estimates.

To meet the challenge of the larger programs of the future, said Mr. Drummond, the construction industry must prepare for them now and, if it is to play its full part, it must have the full co-operation of banks and other lending institutions, and of labor. He added:

"Wide vision and bold action are required on all sides. Credit curbs may be necessary at this time, but on a long-term basis they certainly do not assist in increasing the provision of goods and services.

Look Forward

"Any lack of confidence in the future appears to result from a fear of a recurence of the '30s. Examples of this are the restrictive practices, feather-bedding, wild-cat strikes and security aims encountered in some trade-union activities.

"Let us look forward, not back. Surely we would shake off any lingering tendencies to 'think small'. And be inspired to 'think big'. People are too depression-conscious. I personally feel we need have no fear of a depression if our expansion program is carried out in forthright co-operative fashion.

"Canada is like an ambitious youth with unlimited horizons in front of him. Canada possesses sufficient natural wealth to support a far larger population and to provide employment to all who are able to work. Emphasis on the word 'work' however, is important."

Depends On Regulations

Mr. Drummond said the actual volume of construction this year will depend to a considerable extent upon the extent of government regulations—especially those having to do with the supply of steel.

"Exceptions to this general rule will be the defence construction program for the armed forces, which is expected to reach its full peak in the fall of this year, and priority projects in the 'defence-supporting' category.

"In the latter group, resources development and industrial projects will continue at a high level of activity, reflecting last year's substantial increase in contract awards in the heavy construction field. Hospitals, schools and other institutional buildings will also proceed in considerable volume, although the steel shortage will delay their completion in many cases. Commercial construction will likely decrease in volume in 1952 to below the 1951 level...

Quarrel Of Two Rich Men Changes Diamond Market

By MICHAEL NEWMARCH

LONDON, Jan. 21—(AP)—Millions of dollars worth of diamonds may be released in the United States—because two of the richest men in the world don't get along.

The diamonds are produced in the rich Mwadui diamond mine of Tanganyika, in the heart of Africa.

The mine's Canadian-born owner, Dr. John Thorburn Williamson, 44, is out to break what his spokesman calls a "world-wide sales monopoly" in diamonds. And, the spokesman added, by selling his output in the Americas, Williamson may become the Commonwealth's biggest dollar earner.

But that doesn't mean the market is going to be flooded, or that there is any likelihood of diamond tiaras going on sale in dime stores.

There now is a world scarcity of diamonds, and one of London's leading dealers said the world market could absorb for a considerable time any extra offerings without prices being hit.

First Notice

First formal notice the world got of a new policy in the sale of diamonds came at the turn of the year, when Williamson did not renew a marketing agreement with the Diamond Trading Corporation, the selling agency of the big South African De Beers mining organization.

Titular head of De Beers is ailing Sir Ernest Oppenheimer. Until Williamson broke away, his organization controlled all diamond sales in South Africa, Tanganyika, West Africa, the Belgian Congo and Portuguese Africa.

That is the great bulk of the entire world's current production of diamonds.

But Williamson and Oppenheimer quarrelled over the size of the payment the Diamond Trading Corporation paid for the output of the Mwadui mine, discovered a decade ago by the McGill University-educated Williamson, and now said to be the richest diamond mine in the world.

Because of the spat, Williamson, instead of offering his diamonds for sale, is said to have been storing them—and the backlog now may amount to some $8,500,000 worth.

Two Markets

Since Jan. 1, when the agreement with the corporation ran out, Williamson has been free to trade the output of his mines on his own terms. Indications are that most of the stones, gems and industrial diamonds, will go to Canada and Latin America.

Williamson visited the United States during 1950 to set up arrangements for selling his stones there, and his London spokesman, W. H. T. Taylor said the plans would make him the "Empire's biggest dollar earner."

At present most of the world diamond sales are handled in Amsterdam and London, where the rough stones are turned into polished gems and industrial diamonds by craftsmen.

Dentists Will Need Drill For Long Time

TORONTO, Jan. 21 — (CP) — The whirring drill will probably be around dentists' offices for a long time yet.

That's what Dr. Basil G. Bibby of Rochester, NY, told a Royal Canadian Institute lecture audience Saturday night. He said preventive medicine will greatly reduce the amount of tooth decay but the day of the drill is not yet over.

He said best results in preventing decay were obtained from adding fluorine to drinking water.

Transport Paralyzed

RANGOON, Burma, Jan. 19—(Reuters).—Transport services in Rangoon were partially paralyzed and gasoline sold at more than doubled the pegged price Saturday following a strike of 2,500 Burma Oil Company workers. Army drivers under escort drove company vehicles transporting gasoline from oil depots to filling stations.

Heads Architects

TORONTO, Jan.21 (CP)—Earle L. J. Sheppard, of Toronto was re-elected president of the Ontario Association of Architects at the association's annual convention which ended Saturday.

Blames Turkey

LONDON, Jan. 21 — (AP) — Bulgaria has accused Turkey of "criminal intervention" in Bulgarian internal affairs and warned that "serious consequences may follow" if the alleged acts are not stopped, the Moscow radio said today.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

RECORD

Saturday was another record day at the Public Library with a new high of 1,010 in the adult department's circulation.

REFERRED CLINICS

X-rays were taken of 62 people at the two referred clinics at St. Joseph's hospital this month. The referred clinics are sponsored by the Peterborough County TB Association.

LEG IMPROVING

Joseph Chase, 693 Hawley St., who broke his left leg when he slipped on ice Thursday is reported recovering in hospital. This is the second time he has broken the same leg in four years.

NAME WEED INSPECTOR

Melville H. Johnston of North Monaghan has been re-appointed county weed inspector. He was first appointed in 1951. While on the job he will get $6 a day plus seven cents a mile for a car allowance.

FAIR PUBLICITY

Newspapers of the district have been generous in their announcements about the Central Ontario Spring Fair that is to be held here in March. Oshawa Times-Gazette published Saturday a story about this new enterprise that ran about three-quarters of a column.

FACILITY FOR PUBLIC

Walter Mortlock has provided for the interest of people in the progress of the new Clapper building on George St. by leaving three or four peep holes, each about a foot wide in the protective boarding that has been raised on the sidewalk.

FAIR SKIING AT BETHANY

Although skiing conditions were generally poor throughout the district, skiing on the slalom hill at Bethany Sunday was fair. A carload of skiers from Peterborough and a number from Toronto spent the day there. The city skiers were practicing for competitions at Collingwood this weekend.

INVESTIGATE ALGAE

The Department of Lands and Forests and the Department of Health are starting an all-out investigation of the cause and source of plankton bloom in the Kawartha Lakes. Last year the water was so contaminated in certain lakes that cattle died from the effects. If this condition continues resort operators fear it will harm the tourist trade.

PRESIDENT BEREAVED

Leonard Trotter, who was re-elected president of the district association of Dual Purpose Shorthorn Breeders here Saturday, is a member of the prominent family near Madoc grievously stricken in a recent No. 7 Highway traffic accident. His father, John Trotter, was killed, and his mother and brother Carl both seriously injured, are still patients in Peterborough Civic Hospital, and are reported steadily improving.

TWO BROKEN LEGS

Two district men each suffered a broken leg Saturday when they were unloading logs from a truck to a railway car in the city. They are: Armand Webster of Cottesloe and Les Little of Warsaw. Little was allowed to leave Civic hospital after a cast was put on, but Webster will remain there for a week, it is expected.

Investigate Report

ST. THOMAS, Jan. 21 (CP)—Police are investigating a report that three, well-dressed youths attempted to peddle marijuana cigarettes here last night among young people in a local restaurant.

Local Dairies Await Results Of Experiment To Sell Milk With Less Butterfat At 19 Cents

Peterborough dairies are interested in an experiment in London, Ontario, to sell a two per cent butterfat milk at 19 cents a quart when the new price of standard milk at 21 cents comes into effect Thursday.

In Peterborough as in London, and elsewhere, fluid milk is required to have a content of 3.25 per cent butter fat. For the consumer's information that means 3¼ pounds of butterfat in every 100 pounds of milk.

Probably most of the milk is sold to the public at 3.5 per cent butterfat.

London distributors have been working on a product in which the butterfat content is dropped to 2 per cent, but which is bolstered by 2,000 international units of vitamin A and 400 of vitamin D, per quart.

Laymen have understood that the main advantage of butterfat was in supplying calories. The rest of the milk contains calcium and other minerals. Calories have a fattening effect; and in adult considerations skimming is an aid to slimming.

Dr. C. A. Harris, London's MOH, said: "Butterfat is actually not the most important part of milk. In vitaminzed milk, the protein, calcium and other constituents are still present in quantity as in standard milk. With added vitamins, it is possibly equal to standard milk in general nourishment."

Dr. E. E. Trout, child specialist, London, said there was nothing at all wrong with vitamized milk. It has less food value from the standpoint of calories, but its nutritional value is not lower, she said. Pediatricians right now used a lot of two-per-cent milk for children.

T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, said "the doctors apparently think low butterfat content is good for young children. Adults would probably want to stick to whole milk, but if we have children we'll likely buy this product and maybe a little cream as well".

Because the fat content is reduced, the Milk Control Board forbids use of the word milk for the new product. "Vitamilk" for instance was banned. The commercial name may be "vita drink".

Mayor Rush's comment was: "The distributors are doing all in their power to hold the line in price". City council would "definitely" consider amending its bylaw to provide for two-per-cent butterfat as long as it received a proper proposal that would have Board of Health approval.

IUE To Open Campaign In Electrical Industry

Ten delegates from three Peterborough locals attended the weekend conference of the Internatoinal Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (CIO-CCL). A campaign to organize Canadian electrical, radio and machine workers was announced by Al Hartnett, international secretary-treasurer of the IUE. Most important provision of an eight-point program is the establishment of a minimum wage of $1.25 an hour in the electrical and allied industries.

At the same time as they carry on their organizational campaign the IUE intend to wipe out the rival United Electrical Workers. The IUE say that the UEW are communist controlled and that the leadership consistently follows the communist-party line.

Formed In 1949

The IUE was formed in the fall of 1949 after the CIO expelled the United Electrical Workers on the grounds that the union was communist controlled.

Later the CCL also expelled the UEW—on the technical grounds that the union was behind in its dues. But alleged communist domination was recognized as the basic issues.

The clash between the rival electrical unions in Canada centred in Peterborough.

Twice the IUE have tried, without success, to organize the 3,500 production workers at the CGE plant. However they were successful in organizing the office workers at CGE; and last year they became the certified bargaining agent for the production workers at the Western Clock Co.

IUE spokesmen have not yet indicated whether they will make a third attempt to sign up the CGE production workers.

District Council

A provisional district council has been set up by the union.

Besides the minimum wage of $1.25, the council will try to include in its agreements both a wage increase and a cost-of-living escalator clause. They are also seeking to bring Canadian wages up to the United States level.

Other items in the program: restoration of the profit-sharing bonus in the General Electric chain; health and insurance programs; non-contributory pensions; union security; increase in productivity; a larger unemployment benefit with a larger contribution from the employer.

The ten delegates from Peterborough were: Local 524—Keith Chiles, J. A. Wilson and Mel Holden; Local 570—Marjorie Morrison, Beatrice McMahon and Kenneth Nisbett; Local 599—Len Slaughter, Gloria Lang, Eric May and Harry Burnley.

Brothers Jailed After Crash At Crossing

After a two-car accident on George Street, just after midnight, Sunday morning, one driver was charged with driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol, and his brother was arrested on a drunk charge.

As he was driving north on George Street, Ronald Smith, RR 8, Peterborough, said he crossed the railway tracks at Romaine Street, when he saw a southbound car pull to the east side of the road.

Smith said he pulled to the right to avoid a collision, but the two cars collided, spinning the Smith car around. It ended up against the gas pumps on a service station at the northeast corner of the intersection.

The driver of the other car, George Carew, 56 Hilliard Street, was charged with driving while impaired. His brother Alvin Carew of the same address, was charged with being drunk.

In police court today, Alvin Carew pleaded guilty to the drunk charges. He was fined $10 and $2.50 costs. His brother pleaded not guilty to driving while impaired and the charge was adjourned until Thursday.

Extensive damage resulted to the entire left side of the Smith car.

$215 Damage

Damage estimated at $215 resulted when two cars collided at Parkhill Road and Park Street Saturday night.

William Dannybuck, 390 Queen Street, was driving east on Parkhill Road, and said he did not notice the stop sign at Park Street, until he was quite close to the intersection.

He applied his brakes but slid into Park Street just as a car driven by Thomas McMaster of Norwood was coming south on Park Street. The two cars collided in the intersection.

Damage to the left side of the Dannybuck car was estimated at $275. The front end of the McMaster car received approximately $40 damage.

Veteran Retires

WINNIPEG — (CP) — Albert Witt, one of the oldest employees of the Winnipeg Tribune, has retired at the age of 75. He had worked on the newspaper's presses for 37 years.

CITY ENGINEERING DEPARTMENT records temperatures three times a day from the first fall frost until about the end of April. The data incorporated in reports to underwriters of the city's insurance, gives the lie to incorrect claims made against the city in case of accidents, chiefly falls on sidewalks. Engineering employee Murray Metcalfe (Above), found today's "low" three degrees above zero.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Jouncing Temperatures Give Everyone the Jitters

Jittery January weather has the mercury bouncing up and down like a self-propelled pogo stick. The weekend's program included: Medium-ish weather Saturday, with snow coming in great handfuls Saturday night. Rain early Sunday morning, a mild morning and cool afternoon, with below-zero temperatures during the night.

High on Sunday was 38 above, but the temperature dropped 40 degrees to 2 below early this morning. At 9 am it was one degree below. Apsley reported temperature of 8 below at 8 am, with a lower mark hit during the night.

Today is bright and sunny and cold. For tomorrow, the weather office says: snow.

Remanded Week On Charge Of Manslaughter

CHATHAM, Jan. 21 (CP)—Sol Harris today was remanded for one week on a charge of manslaughter arising from the death of Mrs. Jenny Miller, 46, of Chatham.

Mrs. Miller's body was found early Sunday at the foot of an outside stairway leading to her second-storey flat.

Bruise On Cheek

The woman's dress and underclothing were found wrapped tightly around her neck. A fur coat lay nearby.

Only visible mark of violence on the body was a bruise on the left cheek.

Mrs. Miller had recently sold lyrics for three songs to Hollywood interests.

Plan $250,000,000 To Aid Arab Refugees

PARIS, Jan. 21 (Reuters).—A three-year $250,000,000 program for relief and rehabilitation of Arab refugees from Palestine was moved in the United Nations special political committee today.

The resolution, moved by Ilhan Savut of Turkey—with United States, French and British backing—is a substitute for one introduced last week, to which several Arab states had objected.

The new draft, on the insistence of the Arab states, emphasizes that any assistance provided through the program will be for refugees alone, and deletes indirect references to help for Near East countries, where the refugees are located.

Ben Smith Is Named Employment Head

Ben Smith of 1292 Clonsilla Ave. has been named supervisor of employment services at the CGE by works manager J. E. Girven.

Mr. Smith recently completed 25 years of service in the Peterborough works, starting on October 8, 1926. At that time he was employed as a helper in the brass stores. In 1936 he moved to the wage rate department and was chosen to head the switchgear's wage rate section in 1950.

Mr. Smith's new job will be to act as a liaison representative, supervising a number of services provided by plant management for the benefit of the employees. As a representative of management he will visit the sick in hospitals or in their homes and extend on behalf of the company personal services to the sick or bereaved. He will also act as a special personal counsellor to employees.

Outside of the CGE Mr. Smith is best known for his directing the Salvation Songsters, Peterborough's finest choral group.

Former City Woman Dies In California

Daughter of the first commanding officer of the 57th Regiment, Miss Mary Harriet Adelaide Poole died Saturday at her home in San Diego, California.

Her father, Lt.-Col. Edwin Poole, commanded the 57th at the time of the Fenian raids. The family at one time lived in a house near the southwest corner of King and George Sts. Her mother was formerly Margaret McBurney. Her grandfather wrote Poole's History of Peterborough.

In-And-Outer

Usually when a partridge breaks a window in a house, it pays for the damage with its life. But Saturday Lady Luck flew with a lost partridge. Frightened out of a swamp, the hen bird flew through a double window at Quirt McKinney's home on Highway 28, just north of the drive-in theatre. It landed unhurt beneath a dresser. The Normal school music teacher went to grab it but it flew at another window, dodging just in time and landed a second time under a bed. This time the teacher got his hands on the bird, but it escaped his grasp. Suddenly it took to the air again; this time the partridge went through the hole it had broken when it made its first dramatic entrance. Robbed of a partridge supper, Mr. McKinney could do nothing but clean up the glass and repair the damage.

Some Oils Good Some Bad In Quebec Show

The new exhibit at the Public Library gallery is something to talk about. Some of the stuff in it is rather shocking, and some is in questionable taste. And some of it is just dull. It is an exhibition of the work of eight present-day Quebec painters, each one showing four canvases — 32 in all. The painters are Louis Muhlstock, Pierre Petel, Ghitta Caiserman, Marion Scott, Ernest Neumann, F. Brandtner, Goodridge Roberts, and F. B. Taylor.

The term revolting might be applied to Brandtner's abstractions; gaudy things in shiny oily paint—lots of it, in red and green. If you like to be revolted you will enjoy his pictures. The best abstractions in the show are by Marion Scott, whose palette is sensitive, pigments sensible, and patterns pleasant (eg, No. 11, the best).

There are several respectable nudes in the exhibition, including a characteristic sepia one by Muhlstock—a well-rounded figure. As if to compensate for this, one of the dullest pieces on view is the same artist's doorway. A hum-drum doorway painted hohum.

Red and Bits

Ghitta Caiserman has an entrance too: an iron outside stairway ascending. The painting is red and the stairs have inexplicable bits of something on treads here and there. A shocking piece. This artist also is showing a large painting called "Recorder Player." It falls between Matisse and Picasso; they have significance. This has none.

Ernst Neumann has a conventional nude which is decent, and a quiet grey painting of Montreal harbor.

Pierre Petel has stature: a vigorous head of a fisherman, and two large seascapes painted at Ile Mingan. These are interesting because of the shapes on the land and striking because they are so big. But how little he does with the sky in all that waste of canvas which Turner could use.

Goodridge Roberts

Goodridge Roberts emerges from these painters as a man whose senses are keen and honest and whose brush has artistry—in a broad, very broad way. His landscapes are emotional. "Trees in September" is very fresh and evocative. His two Laurentian blue scenes, both large, are striking, and near to the heart of the Laurentian atmosphere; so true, that his vivid blues may seem false to the person who does not know the moods of the Laurentians.

The most competent painter of the lot, as seen in this show, is F. B. Taylor, with his fishing and Montreal street scenes. He knows how to say what he wants to say. Perhaps his vision is limited; but he has the capacity to paint what he sees. It is conventional and therefore does not set tongues wagging.

This Quebec show at the Library makes one wonder if that province has lost its place as a focus of the best Canadian painters. And one also wonders if the ability of Canadian painters to propagandize themselves outdoes their artistic capacities....On the whole it is an interesting show and there are good and striking things in it. The paintings will hang until the end of the month. The exhibition is worth a visit. On the way up, look at the Camera Club's monthly selections. — T.J.A.

Drilling Machine To Sample Soil Structure Under Gannon's Narrows

First Step Toward Building Causeway To Join Ennismore and Harvey; Scrap Second Floating Bridge In County

A drilling machine from the Ontario government will soon be taking samples of the channel bed at Gannon's Narrows. This is the first step toward the building of a causeway across the channel. This information was given the county council by the Hon. Harold R. Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests, who dropped in for a visit while county council was in session. After soundings have been taken engineers will be able to estimate the cost of building a causeway. At present there is a wooden floating bridge across the narrows.

The Department of Transport have not yet committed themselves. They would be responsible for installing a swing span in the causeway.

No Facts Yet

As yet the department have no facts, figures and other details about the causeway; nor have they made any allowance for the swing span in its estimates (though this could be done in June when supplementary estimates are passed).

A committee was told that the department can't get steel for the project until fall, at the earliest.

The department seemed to favor the building of a high-level bridge rather than a causeway, said Reeve James Gifford, Ennismore township.

Car Clips Off 3 Guard Posts

Five youths escaped serious injury Sunday when their car went out of control near Lakefield, clipped off three guard rail posts, and turned over in the ditch.

All of them were bruised and received minor cuts caused by flying glass from the windshield.

Donald Delahaye, 21, 852 George St., a passenger, received a deep cut on the left side of the head that required several stitches to close; also a cut on the nose. He is being X-rayed today to determine if he has any broken ribs.

None of the five were hospitalized.

Other passengers in the car were Clarence O'Brien and his brother Richard of 302 Swanston St., and Ronald Wall, Park Hill Rd.

Hit Icy Patch

Carl Bertrand, 18, 178 Auburn St. was driving north along Highway 28 on his way to Lakefield. The car skidded on an icy patch and swung over and knocked down three guard rail posts on the west side of the highway. Then it rolled over in the ditch, coming to rest upside down.

The 1933-model car was badly damaged.

OPP Constable Tom Armitage investigated.

No Law On Books To Black Out All Hunting

An attempt to prohibit hunting with guns for any type of wildlife in North Monaghan township has struck a snag because there is no provision in law for regulating hunting to this extent.

Fish and Game authorities believe that if a municipality were to enact such a bylaw prohibiting all shooting, it would be up to the municipality to enforce it.

North Monaghan township clerk Bruce Johnston wrote to the department about it.

He was told in a letter back that there was no statutory provision whereby any township might regulate hunting in this manner.

Charge Fees

Provision is made in the Game and Fisheries Act for authority to be granted to townships to issue and charge fees for licences to hunt pheasants, rabbits and fox during the open seasons, and applies only to the species concerned. The authority is extended only in areas where heavy hunting pressure is caused by the presence of numbers of pheasants.

The council was further informed that, under the Municipal Act, municipalities may prohibit the discharge of firearms and fireworks. This authority is granted as a safety measure in built-up areas. It was not intended to be used to regulate hunting in rural municipalities. Since receiving the letter, the township has done nothing more.

Time To Think It Over

County Delays Restrictions On Cutting Of Trees

County council decided Saturday to wait till the March session before passing a bylaw restricting and regulating the cutting of trees.

Two drafts of the bylaws were studied at the inaugural session, which ended Saturday, but the councillors felt it was better to think it over some more before passing the bylaw.

Reeve James Humphries, chairman of reforestation, and Reeve James Gifford Ennismore both counselled against rushing the bylaw through.

Reeve Norman Wilson, Burleigh-Anstruther, urged his colleagues not to forget the special circumstances of many bush owners in the northern townships. They rely on the sale of timber for a little extra cash, in much the same way as a farmer in the southern townships sells a cow.

Two Provisions

Basic provision of the bylaw is that an owner can cut any tree at any time if the timber is going to be used on his own land. But the second draft of the bylaw stipulates that he must have owned the land for 10 years if he wants to sell the timber. And not more than two men are to be occupied at any time in cutting the wood.

"If a man owns the property for 10 years he can cut everything off," explained Walter Howell, county solicitor.

"We don't need to worry about the type of owner that has had the property for 10 years," said Mr. Wilson, "If he hasn't cleared the timber off the land in that time he's not likely to do so."

The purpose of the proposed bylaw is to prevent speculators from buying property with the sole intention of shearing off all the merchantable timber.

By conserving trees until they reach a specified size, county council hope to benefit the individual owner and the community in general.

Maintain Water Level

The Hon. Harold R. Scott, minister of lands and forests, said that two important features considered by the department are: the prevention of soil erosion; also the protection of wells by maintaining the level of the water table.

The bylaw does not apply where the woodlot is two acres or less. And it doesn't apply where the trees are dead or diseased.

Nor does the bylaw apply where the owner has planted Christmas trees with the intention of later harvesting them. Unrestricted cutting of Christmas trees would not be allowed if the trees, in the opinion of the law enforcement officer, were necessary in a watershed or were necessary to prevent erosion.

Trees of less than mininum size can be cut if the owner wants the land cleared for cultivation.

The bylaw does not interfere with the cutting of hawthorne, choke cherry, red or pin cherry, poplar, ironwood or manitoba maple.

Minimum Sizes

Here are the minimum sizes:

For balsam, white birch, black ash, black locust, white cedar, soft maple, tamarack, beech, black cherry and willow trees, the minimum diameter is five inches, measured 18 inches above the grounds.

For red pine, white spruce, basswood, yellow birch, hard maple, red oak, white oak, bur oak, white ash, hemlock, white elm, rock elm trees, the minimum diameter for cutting is 12 inches, measured 18 inches above the ground.

For white pine trees the minimum diameter is 15 inches, measured 18 inches above the ground.

Penalty for violation of the bylaw is a fine of at least $50 for the first offence and $200 for each succeeding offence.

A copy of this draft of the proposed bylaw is to be sent to each of the councillors and they will have till the March session to give it further sutdy.

TRAPPER IN TOWN—"Black Frank" Knezevic seldom leaves his trap lines in thet Brazeau river area on the eastern slopes of the Rockies but came to Edmonton to iron out a difference with the Alberta government over trapping rights. He is shown wearing a home-made buckskin jacket, moccasins and hat with a golden marten pelt he brought to the city.

Versatile Yugoslav Proves Colorful Alberta Trapper

EDMONTON (CP)—Probably most people would call "Black Frank" Knezevic a "character".

The 57-year-old native of Yugoslavia makes most of his own clothes, built his own house and wears long side-whiskers.

"Black Frank" is a trapper in a remote Rocky Mountain foothills area along the Brazeau river about 150 miles southwest of Edmonton. The name "Black Frank" appears on his trapline registration papers.

Clad in mocassins, buckskin trousers, fur-collared jacket and beaver hat, he came to Edmonton for a brief visit to straighten out ownership of his trapline.

He had made all those clothes himself. An Indian woman knit his socks. He apologized because his suspenders and khaki shirt were "store bought".

He came to North America 42 years ago and worked in the United States and Canada. He was a blacksmith by trade and always hunted and trapped as a sideline. Eight years ago he made trapping a full-time occupation. In addition, big-game hunters use his cabin and services.

Makes Good Living

And "Black Frank" likes the way he earns his living even though he doesn't see other humans for three months at a time. He claims he makes a good living, working three days a week for six or seven hours a day.

"I'm my own union," he chuckled.

Knezevic's constant companion is a dog, a cross between a St. Bernard and an Alsatian. The animal resembles somewhat a black bear. "Black Frank" says he has put as much as 65 pounds on the dog's back and the animal carries it easily.

"Black Frank" built his cabin of logs and insulated it with moss.

The RCMP keep him supplied with reading material. He has a radio. Hunters and Indians visit him at intervals.

"Black Frank" likes the life and plans to continue trapping regardless of whether the government allows him to stay on his present line.

New Stalin Seems Emerging In Person Of Malenkov

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

A new Stalin appears to be emerging today, in many respects an image of the old one.

When the scowling, bejowelled heir-apparent feels sure enough of himself—the time does not seem far off—things may pop in in the Kremlin.

The new Stalin, as matters stand today, is Georgi Maxmilianovitch Malenkov. He appears to be boss of the politburo, with the blessing of the fading dictator himself. While leadership in Moscow is often far from permanent and sometimes dangerous, the pugnacious, tough guy who clawed his way to the top gives evidence of being determined to stay there.

When Malenkov reached his 50th birthday Jan. 8, the Soviet press praised Malenkov in a manner reminiscent of the handsprings turned for Stalin's own decade birthdays. No other member of the politburo ever got such a birthday send-off, except Stalin himself.

Means One Thing

To the west, it could mean only one thing: the bright boy who grew up politically under Stalin's wing either had succeeded to the crown or was being prepared for succession.

Some must have read the outbursts with nervousness. Those Soviet leaders nursed along to power by the late Andrei Zhdanov, for instance, could not have been happy about the ascension of Zhdanov's bitterest rival. Nor could old Bolshevik V. M. Molotov have been very happy. He got no such birthday greeting when he turned 60.

It was a bad day for many high Communists when Andrei Alexandrovitch Zhdanov died in September, 1948, at the untimely age of 48. There was sharp rivalry between him and the rising Malenkov.

Not long after Zhdanov died, things went bad for a lot of his followers. They were thrown out of the party secretariat and weeded out of important offices.

Zhdanov and Malenkov did not see eye to eye on many things. At the height of the great purge in the late 30s, young Malenkov, already a power, was out for more purging. Zhdanov spoke out for an end to the excesses of the purge.

Died Shortly After

The rivalry went on through the meeting which founded the Cominform. Both Malenkov and Zhdanov were at that meeting, and they are reported to have clashed a number of times. Zhdanov died soon after.

Then Malenkov became the boss not only of the party machinery inside the Soviet Union, but of world Communism, as the head of the Cominform's Central Committee.

In many ways, he was a mystery to Russians and westerners alike. Not much had been published about him. He was rarely seen in public.

Malenkov was born at Orenburg in the Urals in 1902—possibly of a middle-class family, since he despises those who boast of proletarian backgrounds.

No Pre-Revolution Life

A mere schoolboy when the revolution broke out, he has no prerevolutionary background. He is a new-generation Communist. At 20, he was called to Moscow to study at the higher technical school set up for promising party men. There he headed the party unit. Finally, Stalin took note of his ability.

In 1939, when he was 37, he became a member of the Central committee and one of its secretaries, along with Stalin, Zhdanov and Andrei Andreyev.

Malenkov is a cautious man, though utterly ruthless. He moves slowly. He is responsible, largely, for the oft-repeated claim that Communism and Capitalism can co-exist in peace, and likely is just as responsible for making that virtually impossible.

PARIS, Jan. 21—(AP)—Premier Edgar Faure formed a new French cabinet Sunday made up of moderates and right wing ministers whole-heartedly pro-western in outlook.

Will Rogers Jr. Hollywood's Reluctant Actor

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 21—(AP) The season's most reluctant actor in a starring role is Will Rogers, Jr., portraying his father in a film biography.

Young Will, who looks more boyish than his 39 years, has plunged inot this work for "The Story of Will Rogers". But he would just as soon someone else play the role.

"The family has made several recommendations of actors we would be willing to play dad," he said. "But something always interfered . . . the studio had to get the picture started because of color camera commitments, so I was chosen."

Will toyed with the role since 1941 when he first made a screen test. Although other actors were considered, Will has always been the choice of studio boss Jack Warner and director Michael Curtiz.

"I never sought the role," Will said. "Acting doesn't come easy to me . . . I might have done some plays in high school, but that was all."

Script Trouble

Asked why his father's biography took so long in getting to the cameras, Will said.

"It was script trouble. We had some of the best writers in Hollywood working on it, but they all met the same problem. That is that the story had great first and second acts. They showed dad's early days in the west and his rise to fame, both of which had a great amount of action and excitement. But there was no third act.

"Dad was a tremendous success in his later years. That made it difficult to sustain dramatic interest in the latter third of the story. But I think that problem has been resolved in the final script. The earlier parts of his life have been expanded to encompass more of the movie. And there has been stress on dad's interest in aviation."

Union Authorizes Leaders Call Strike At Ford

WINDSOR, Jan. 21—(CP)—The union committee negotiating for Ford of Canada production workers now has power to call a strike at the plant if talks fail to achieve an acceptable contract with the company.

A mass meeting of members of Workers of America (CIO-CCL) turned down a Ford offer of a 15-cent-an-hour increase and authorized the committee to call a strike if necessary.

George Burt, UAW's Canadian director, said: "Despite the overwhelming strike vote, the union still hopes to reach a solution by negotiation and we will do everything possible to avoid a strike."

Company officials said they have no immediate comment and could not say whether further talks will be held.

The basic rate for Ford workers now is $1.35 an hour. The company offered a 15-cent increase, with part of it retroactive, and increases of 10 cents an hour to three classes of skilled workers.

Union officials said they were satisfied with the 15 cents but sought additional raises for 14 classes of skilled workers.

They also seek a stipulation that all new Ford employees be required to join the UAW.

The Rand formula now in operation at the plant requires all employees to pay union dues by checkoff but does not force them to join the union.

County Grant Of $800 Gives Juniors Boost

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 21—Hastings county council Friday set its stamp of approval on Junior Farmer club work, when they voted an increased grant of $800 to assist junior work in the county.

Opposition to the increase ($200 more than 1951's grant) was led by Reeve T. C. Graham of Tweed, chairman of the finance committee. He felt 1952 was not the year to increase grants, when there were other heavy expenditures.

Reeves William Davis and Verney Health spoke in favor of the grant, saying it was a step in the right direction. An amendment to give a $700 grant was defeated, and the original motion, for an $800 grant, carried.

Other grants totalling $1,790 were approved.

Ex-Priest, Wife Offered Work In London

MILAN, Jan. 21 (Reuters). — Unemployment worries are over for Luciano Negrini, unfrocked priest who married Claire Young last year. They have been offered a job as servants by a London woman.

Negrini, 43, told reporters Saturday the woman offered them two rooms and £5 a week (enough to live on in Britain) in return for help with the housework. He refused to give her name.

"This is what we've been waiting for," said Claire. "Life in Italy is too difficult—no one will give Luciano a job."

"I can cook. And I think the lady will like to hear my Italian songs as I prepare the dinner," added her beaming husband, who boasts a lusty baritone.

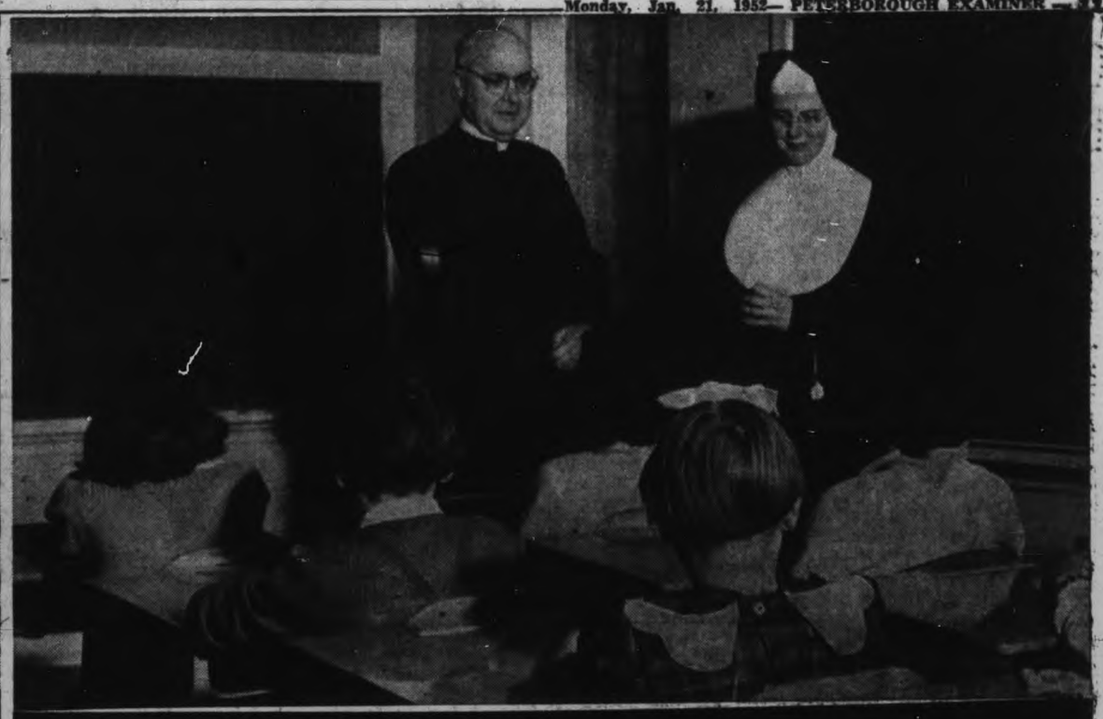
The couple, who met three years ago in Chicago, were married two days after Christmas after surmounting formidable obstacles.

Negrini returned to Italy to renounce the priesthood and Claire, 21 followed despite her parents' objections.

She lived in poverty for months, was arrested, declared insane, threatened with deportation before she won permission to stay in Italy. She had to renounce her US citizenship before Italy allowed her to marry.

Constable Builds Ship For Philip

QUEBEC, Jan. 21 (CP) — A 65-year-old police constable has been commissioned to build a model of a famous Quebec ship for the Duke of Edinburgh's study at Clarence House in London.



Edmond Lecouvie, a veteran of 39 years on the city police force, received his commission from the Duke Christmas Eve. Lecouvie was one of scores of police officers on duty when Princess Elizabeth and her husband started their Royal visit here last autumn.

Lecouvie had previously written the Duke on the suggestion of Maj. J. P. Martin, aide-de-camp to Lieutenant-Governor Gaspard Fauteux of Quebec, offering to make a model of any one of five Quebec-built ships used in the Canadian lumber trade in the 19th century.

Prince Philip chose the Cosmo, considered one of the finest ships ever built here.

The master model ship-builder said more than 1,000 hand-carved pieces will go into the four-month job.

MOST REV. GERALD BERRY, Bishop of Peterborough, officially opened the new separate school in Hastings, which consists of a two-room addition to the former hall on the parish grounds. The hall has been converted into an auditorium on the ground floor, and the second floor will be used as a manual training room. Sister Macrena, TOP LEFT, one of the teachers, instructs a class in mathematics, while at TOP RIGHT the Rev. J. J. Garvey, the parish priest, pays a visit to the school, and LOWER is an art class at work.

Hastings School Opened By Bishop Berry

HASTINGS, Jan. 21 (Staff)—A large crowd attended the opening ceremonies of St. Teresa's Separate School recently when Most Rev. Gerald Berry D. D., Bishop of Peterborough officially opened the newly completed $45,000 school.

A modern concrete block addition has been erected adjoining the former church hall on parish grounds. The new addition is divided into two rooms and will accommodate 65 pupils. The parish hall has been converted to an auditorium on the ground floor and the second floor will be used for a manual training room.

The number of pupils had outgrown the old Separate School at the other end of the village, and the new school provides adequate space and facilities for present day education programs.

Program In Auditorium

After Bishop Berry cut the ribbon and declared the new school officially open, the crowd of ratepayers and visitors gathered in the auditorium for the program of speeches and musical numbers under the direction of Sister Macrena.

In his remarks, Bishop Berry termed the "christianizing of the curricula of our schools" an essential part of the educational program in order to give "the rising generation a well balanced education." This is the kind of education "so sorely needed in these troubled times," His Excellency said and to emphasize his point he drew attention to the part religion has played throughout the ages in civilizing and developing backward peoples of the world.

Chairman Thomas L. Daly, welcomed the guests and introduced Bishop Berry, after the singing of the Vivat and a hymn of welcome to the Bishop by the school choir.

J. C. Doyle, Inspector of Separate School, Reeve C. S. Howse, Ted Collis of Hardy Construction Co., who built the new addition and carried out the remodelling operations; and the Rev. J. J. Garvey pastor of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church Hastings, also addressed the gathering briefly.

Out of town guests included the Rev. J. C. Carroll of Norwood, the Rev. C. J. Moloney of Campbellford, the Rev. L. Rishea of Wooler, the Rev. J. Coughlin of Peterborough and the Rev. P. J. Collins of Cobourg.

Mrs. T. L. Daly provided piano music and following the program, the school board held open house.

Women Over 40 Need Exercise

LONDON—(CP)—Women over 40, anxious to avoid that middle-age spread, should never surrender to the temptations of an afternoon's rest. Instead they should engage in greater activity and show a keener interest in life.

The advice was given by Dr. Ethel Dukes, vice-chairman of the marriage guidance council, at a conference here of the Women Public Health Officers' Association.

Many women, said Dr. Dukes, had found as they progressed in middle life that they gained more energy, greater independence of outlook and more assurance of their own powers.

"The difficulty is that when we get to middle age we so often become dissatisfied with what we have done and a sense of disappointment follows," she said.

Dr. Dukes declared that women's health had improved greatly compared with conditions 100 years ago. There was a great danger, however, that women who lived in cities did not get enough exercise and as a result many became anaemic.

To get the most out of middle age women should cultivate the habit of walking instead of riding in cars and buses. "Keep your minds alert and have a tremendous interest in your work," she advised.

Costly Dresses Locked In Closet

MONTREAL— (CP) — Mrs. Rosita Deno owns a $20,000 wardrobe of dance dresses that would stir envy in almost any woman, but she seldom wears her handmade creations.

When she retired from professional dancing three years ago, Mrs. Deno put most of her 50 dance dresses in moth balls. She is sorry she had to do it because she says she has a "weakness for clothes," but the two dance studios she and her husband operate keep her busy.

"I always loved pretty dance dresses," she explained. "Of course I didn't buy these all at once. Deno and I danced together for 20 years."

Mrs. Deno and her husband, who danced professionally under the name of Rosita and Deno, won fame in both Canada and the United States since they started in 1932. They retired three years ago and now operate two studios in Montreal. They plan to open two more here in the spring.

Now, with a staff of 50 dancing instructors, receptionists and stenographers, their two studios keep them too busy to do much dancing themselves.

All-Military Event Busying Officers Of 3 Services

OTTAWA.—Plans for the Ottawa garrison ball February 19, outstanding all - military social event of the season, are nearing completion. Applications for tickets are already pouring in and the committees of active, reserve and former officers of all three services are hard at work settling invitations, decorations, publicity and finances.

Their excellencies, Viscount Alexander of Tunis and Viscountess Alexander are patrons of the ball and have graciously consented to attend.

Preparations for this brilliant event have been under way for months. It will be a great occasion in the capital when serving and former officers of the Navy, Army and Air Force, the Defence Research Board and the RCMP assemble with their ladies for a happy evening of dining and dancing. The solemn statistics and problems of defence and security will be forgotten for this one evening of pleasure.

One of Ottawa's fineset orchestras will play at the ball and a famous military band will present a program of regimental music during dinner.

Adding to the myriad colors of the ladies' gowns will be ball dress of the Navy, number one dress of the Army, the mess dress of the Air Force and the brilliant scarlet dress uniforms of the RCMP officers.

Ticket applications are being accepted by the honorary secretary, garrison ball committee, PO box 83, Ottawa. All tables for the ball this year will be reserved on a "first-come, first-served" basis.

Bathing Suits Have Flared Skirt

LONDON— (CP)— Those who remember the flounced skirts of the early bathing belles will note just the faintest shadow of old glories in the latest British swim suits.

For the Bikini is out. In 1952, bathers here will wear flaring skirts in princess fullness. The new suits are all in one piece, with higher backs to support smooth, whittled waistlines and quarter-or-half-skirt flares.

Designed to support the bust and flatten the diaphragm, the 1952 models are extremely slimming. Made of elasticated materials to escape the ugly droop of the wool numbers of yesteryear, they are constructed so tha straps are merely an afterthought.

Latest color schemes include the shot taffeta effect of two blended colors and an emphasis on chestnut and black.

Writing Poetry Said Good Hobby

ROSEMAY, Sask. (CP). — Writing poetry is "strictly a hobby" with Mrs. Lila Carroll. But the prairie farm wife has found it profitable, too.

A mass circulation American magazine has bought several of her poems in the last year or so. Recently she won the lyric poetry contest of the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Authors Association.

She was born on a prairie farm and has lived all her life in rural Saskatchewan. It is of the life on the prairies and its seasonal changes that she often writes.

Though Mrs. Carroll had written poetry for her own pleasure for years, she never thought of her work having commercial value until her husband insisted she send a poem to the magazine. This was about her smallest son, at that time just learning to stand up in his crib. The magazine promptly accepted it and asked for more.

Mrs. Carroll, born Lila Van Dine, taught school before she married. She says she always preferred rural schools—and was always having to explain why she liked them better than town schools.

"I believe that farming people are the best to live among," she says. But they are not generally appreciated—or perhaps not understood.

Feature Glamorous Bolero In 1952 British Fashions

By MURIEL NARRAWAY.

LONDON (CP). — The fashions of 1951 and early previews of 1952 spring styles have put an end to an untidy dress habit that reached its peak in wartime—the wearing of cardigans over dresses.

Fashion now decrees that stylish boleros replace the cardigans. The boleros, in fact, now are as important as gloves, bag and shoes. Except for sports outfits, cardigans are worn only with jumpers and even then, smart women pick cleverly-styled twinsets. Unmatched two-pieces are a thing of the past.

When boleros made their first post-war appearances, they met much opposition from those who remembered the shapeless numbers that went with waistless dresses in the early 1920s. Now even the most sceptical have been won over by the stylish suitability of present designs.

Essentially a youthful garment, the bolero has been given a touch of glamor and sophistication. Take, for instance, a slim-skirted, high-necked black wool dress with long tight sleeves, add a cap-sleeve jade green bolero fitting tightly under the bust, fastened by double-buttoning finishing a deep-cut neckline, and the result is sophistication.

Casual Look

A baggy tweed bolero with round corners, the wide three-quarter sleeves cut in one with the bodice and finished with deep cuffs, gives a casual look to that black, brown or navy office dress that looks so drab in early spring days.

Velvet alone gives a wide choice of effect with varied sheens, such as dress velvet, heavy street velvet and cord velvet.

With a fashion emphasis also on the 'shaggy look," a bolero of white sheared lamb, or a smooth fur fabric is a popular choice. Boxy bolero jackets combined with straight tweedy skirts are one of this year's suit numbers.

Sprouts Provide Giant Amounts Of Vitamins

Tender, tasty Brussels sprouts are among the finest green vegetables available now. Dainty in size and in flavor too, they supply giant-sized amounts of vitamins and minerals. Buy them for looks, as you do other fresh vegetables. Fresh crisp appearance, bright color, and firm tight heads.

Trim off the stems and any wilted outer leaves, then cut a crosswise gash in the bottoms to hasten cooking. Drop in boiling salted water to cover, and cook quickly until just tender. You don't want them mushy, of course.

Sauces to glorify Brussels sprouts are many and varied. Melted butter is the quickest. But add lemon juice to the butter occasionally for a happy change. Or brown the butter until "scorched" and pour over. If you're feeling very creative, Hollandaise is the ultra touch for sprouts. Here's a quick version that's smooth, fluffy, and easy:

Easy Hollandaise

¼ lb. butter
3 egg yolks
3 tbsps. lemon juice.

Put ingredients in the top of a double boiler and let stand at room temperature for half an hour. Just before serving, place pan over boiling water for 1½ minutes, stirring briskly and constantly. Serve at once.

Cheese sauce is not only delicious, but adds those extra milk nutrients. Or if you're not familiar with buttered crumbs, find out how much they can do for a good many vegetables.

Buttered Crumbs With Bacon

Saute 1 cup fine bread crumbs in 1-3 cup butter. Crumble in 2 slices of bacon, cooked until crisp. Toss with sprouts.

Newspapers Change Tune Say No Royal Engagement

LONDON, Jan. 21—(AP)—The consensus of London newspapers Sunday was that Princess Margaret isn't going to marry the Earl of Dalkeith after all.

The newspapers, who had been boosting the freckle-faced six-footer as the Princess' probable choice, were generally agreed now that he was just a childhood friend.

Only one newspaper, the Empire News, stuck to its romantic guns. It said the earl even might accompany the King and Queen and Princess Margaret on their visit to South Africa in March.

But the rest of the papers swung far to the other side.

The Sunday Pictorial said it had it on good authority that the Princess will not become engaged to the earl—"they are just good friends and nothing more."

The Sunday Dispatch agreed: "The two people concerned are not in love, very definitely not in love, and only when the Princess does find herself really and truly in love will she start thinking of getting married."

Suggests Relaxing

Reynolds News thought everybody ought to relax and quit trying to marry off the young Princess. It published a front-page editorial entitled:

"Let Princess make her own choice."

The newspaper said the earl was just one more chapter in the "Royal Romance Serial" conjured up for the Princess, and suggested that "the British press should treat her marital future with more dignity and restraint."

On page five in the same edition the newspaper published a cartoon showing the backs of two hunters—the King had the earl as his shooting partner all this past week—and with this caption:

"You know, my dear earl, if you get married before April you get 80 pounds ($224) income tax rebate for this year."

Talking Too Much One Way How Not To Win Friends

Dorothy Dix

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 16 years old, a junior in high school, and though I try very hard to make friends I don't seem to get very far — especially with boys. How can I get boys interested in me? I realize that no one is perfect, and I am very much aware of my two major faults. They are (1) I am not tactful, and (2) I talk too much. I'm trying to overcome these faults but it is a difficult thing to do. One of my troubles is that I won't come in contact with boys in school this year as I'm taking a commercial course. JOYCE W.

ANSWER: Since you realize the importance of the faults you enumerate, and are trying to correct them, you've gone a long way on your road to popularity. The leaflets I have sent may give you some tips on acquiring more poise and grace.

You certainly are beset with the two qualities that rank tops in the list of undesirables, especially where impressing young men in concerned. Teen-age boys are apt to be more awkward than girls of the same age group. Consequently, one of the things they appreciate most in a girl is tact. Also they like to do the talking, and deeply resent a girl who insists on hogging the whole conversation.

Change Your Ways

Be tactful, and learn how to keep your talk centered around the boy. There you have the shortest — and surest — road to popularity I know. If you have a tendency to sarcasm, the transition to tact is very difficult indeed. To hold back the witty remark that is to you amusing, and to the other party cutting, takes will-power. But you will either be famous for your barbed wit, and carefully avoided or you'll be noted for tactfully putting people at ease and sought after.

Even though you are taking a commercial course, there must be clubs, activities or group work in school for both girls and boys. Get into every sport, every organization you can. Work for the school, not for your own glory, with a determination to put others first. By keeping yourself busy for the common good, you'll lose some of the egotism which is responsible for your tactlessness and garrulity. To be a charming woman, get rid of these two demons with all haste.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 25 years old, and in love with a naval officer who has asked me to marry him. I, however, owe a number of debts which will take me about a year and a half to repay. I feel I should not set a date for the wedding until such time as I have paid the debts, but the young man is insistent on having a wedding date set. What shall I do?

UNDECIDED

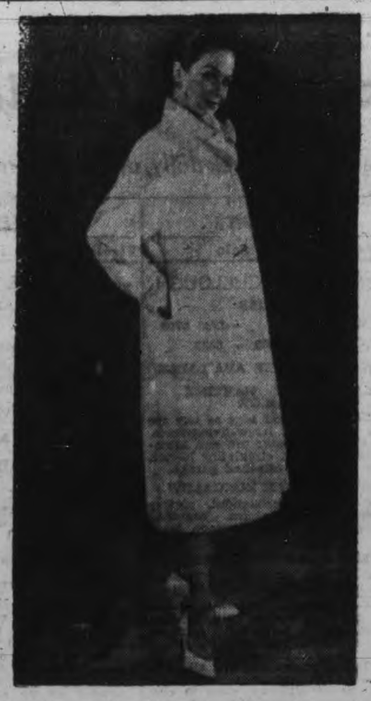
ANSWER: You are to be commended for your honorable desire to pay off your debts. Apparently your fiance doesn't know of them, and the first thing you should do is acquaint him with all the details of your financial situation. If he is either (1) willing to assume your debts after marriage or (2) willing to have you continue working to pay them off, go ahead with the wedding.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have an opportunity to marry a very fine young man. However, my first marriage was broken up due to a nervous breakdown. Should I tell him I was in a sanitarium for two years and am still taking psychiatric treatment? I told him I had been ill, but didn't describe the nature or extent of the illness.

X. X.

ANSWER: In your efforts to conceal this vital information from your fiance, you will involve yourself in an additional emotional disturbance that will probably send you back to the sanitarium. By all means tell him frankly, withholding no detail, the full nature of your illness. In addition, he should see the psychiatrist who is treating you. He will then have all the facts and information necessary to help you recover your health. If, in view of what he learns, he doesn't wish to continue the engagement, you have no alternative but to let him go gracefully.



What's Right?

You have promised to go to a movie with another girl and at the last minute a boy calls and asks you for a date.

WRONG: Accept the date and call the girl and tell her you had a chance for a date so won't be able to go to the movie with her.

RIGHT: Tell the boy you are busy—and go to the movies as you had planned.

Stew In Three Languages

Use Of Herbs Has Opened Up New Field Of Cooking

By MARY MOORE

When you are finished with this, if you do finish, you will know how to make not only Canadian, but Irish stew, and stew in French—that is lamb printaniere.

Would you go so far as to buy some herbs for this lesson? — marjoram for Irish stew and rosemary or basil for the little lamb number? The use of herbs opens up an entirely new field of cooking to you.

Canadian Stew

(With or Without Dumplings)

For this you may use either beef, veal or lamb, but most Canadians use beef. To serve six you need from 1½ to 2 lbs. stewing beef. Cut into 1-inch cubes. To ½ cup flour add 1½ teaspoons salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper and roll the meat in it to take up all of the flour. Brown the meat in 3 tablespoons hot drippings — a Dutch oven is ideal for this. Add boiling water to cover, put on lid and simmer for 2½ hours. At the end of this time add the vegetables which may be 1 cup each diced carrots, celery and turnip and onions or in spring use 1 cup tiny green onions, 4 cups diced potatoes, ½ bay leaf (which remove before stew is served), and when on hand 2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley. One-half teaspoon crumbled thyme is the ideal herb for this. Simmer until vegetables are tender. If dumplings are to be used add them 12 minutes before you think vegetables will be tender.

Dumplings For Canadian Stew

Sift together 1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder and ¾ teaspoon salt. Quickly stir in ¾ cup milk. Immediately drop by tablespoonfuls onto boiling stew, cover at once and cook 12 minutes, before lifting the lid to test them for doneness right through to centre.

Variations of dumplings: 1, Use tomato juice instead of milk, and 2, add up to 2 tablespoons chopped chives or parsley to the batter just before adding to stew to cook.

Irish Stew

This is the ideal method of cooking mutton, but of course, since our Canadian butchers never admit that mutton is mutton—it is all lamb—you will use mature lamb from the stewing cuts —but do trim off the excess fat—I don't care what you do with it. If you are very resourceful you can make wonderful soap from it. Use exactly same method as above for Canadian stew — but change your herb to marjoram. Turnips and parsnips are usually used in Irish stew, and the amount of onion may be increased. Serve it with

Potato Dumplings

One tablespoon shortening, 1 teaspoon salt, small grating of nutmeg, 2 eggs, 1¼ cup mashed potato, ½ cup fine cracker crumbs, ¼ cup flour. Cream the shortening with the salt and nutmeg, then beat in the egg yolks. Sift the crumbs and flour together, and add them alternately with the mashed potato. Beat the egg whites until stiff, then fold them in last. Drop by dessertspoonfuls on top of stew, cover and do not lift lid to test for at least 8 minutes. These are most unusually good and you will say: Where have they been all my life?

Lamb Printaniere

Use same method as described in Canadian Stew, but use all spring products: Lamb instead of beef, green onions instead of the cooking onions, new green peas, marble new potatoes, tiny whole carrots. For superlative stew, cook all vegetables until barely tender, in barely enough water to keep them from burning—separately. Combine all stew ingredients 5 minutes before serving time, and keep hot at simmering point.

More German Women Seek NZ Husbands

By J. C. GRAHAM

NELSON, NZ — (CP)—Frau Bauminghaus, the German woman who wrote a letter to New Zealand which brought an elderly gold miner racing round the world to marry her, has set a fashion.

The Nelson Mail, the newspaper in which her letter appeared, has received a flood of mail from Germans seeking to migrate to New Zealand. Many are from women who, like Frau Bauminghaus, hope to win husbands here.

Francis Hargreaves, the miner who went to Germany, married Frau Bauminghaus and plans to bring his bride to New Zealand, had a rival suitor in a gardener named Engelbracht. At one stage Engelbracht threatened to fly to Germany and propose to Frau Bauminghaus before Hargreaves, but he cancelled his passage at the last moment.

German women have not forgotten the unsuccessful suitor, who like Hargreaves, is over 60. Several have enclosed letters to him.

Others address a wider field. Frau Margaret Krause, of Upper Bavaria, whose husband died in Russia six years ago, writes: Perhaps there is in your country a man as lonely as I am here to whom I could bring a little home life and perhaps a late happiness."

Longs To Get Away

Frau Marianna Forster, a 40-year-old Rhinelander, writes: "I have nothing but my two trunks, a little daughter and the longing to get away from here where I have experienced such misery and where the prospects are so utterly hopeless."

Frau Annelore Nagel-Mainhart, of Munich, aged 31, divorced, has two sons for which she wants a good education and prospects. She says she does not seek anything romantic, but honest work with good people.

Fraulein Isabelle Faistenhamer, of Bavaria, aged 51, says she is of quiet character and good looking. She seeks a home through marriage.

Frau Charlotte Dill and her daughter, aged 12, seek a home in "The most peaceful country in the world." Their home was in the Russian zone of Germany.

Frau Stefan, aged 35, is blonde and good looking. "Please help a desperate mother and her son," she writes.

Three refugee children who are living with their mother in Bavaria, write without her knowledge seeking held for her. They say they fled from their home when the Russians came. Their mother, they say, is 40 years old and good looking. They add: "We send this letter into the world and hope not to be disappointed."

Claxton Says Outside Agencies Not Needed Now

OTTAWA, Jan. 21 (CP).—Defence Minister Claxton said Sunday he found general agreement in Korea that "it is neither practical nor useful" to have outside civilian welfare agencies in that theatre at this time.

He said in a radio broadcast that concern for the welfare of the troops was one of the main reasons for his recent visit to Korea.

"It had been suggested in Canada that we should have civilian auxiliary services to help look after the needs of the Brigade. Members of our party made it a point to discuss this suggestion with Commonwealth and United States as well as Canadian forces from generals to privates.

"There was general agreement that it is neither practical nor useful to have outside agencies in Korea at this time."

Mr. Claxton reported he thinks the causes of late delivery of mail have been found and corrected, that enough hockey equipment for 10 teams has been shipped to Korea, and urged Canadians to send hometown papers or clippings to their men.

FM Radio Net Aids Defence In Big Forests

FORT FRANCIS (CP)—A frequency modulation network operated in this northwestern Ontario district may also prove valuable in civil defence.

The network used by the Minnesota and Ontario Paper Company to direct logging operations already has been incorporated into the Minnesota State civil defence program. Stretching as it does from Fort Frances and International Falls, Minn. it has been offered to Canadian officials, and company workers have volunteered to serve on an international defence team.

Far out in the wilderness, loggers may scan the skies and quickly report the position of any aircraft. During an American training exercise a few weeks ago three paper company loggers spotted a flight of navy planes. The three reports, flashed by radio, enabled the "filtering centre" at Minneapolis to mark location of the flight with accuracy.

The spotter plan still is subject to Canadian acceptance, but is part of a state-wide ground observer network in Minnesota. The latter system includes a 250-watt station at International Falls and eight 60-watt units in two northern Minnesota counties.

Emergency Uses

Canadian installations include 13 transmitters extending 100 miles north of the border, with towers at Fort Francis and Kenora, where the company has paper mills.

Apart from its operations in forest work and civil defence, the system has rendered service in all kinds of emergencies, ranging from forest fires to medical operations. One fatality was averted when a young boy swallowed some pills and needed medical attention in a hurry. Emergency appendectomies have been arranged through the radio network.

One "emergency call" had a humorous twist. It was a plea from a sleepless logger for a camp cook who wouldn't snore so loudly.

Coast Radio Expands

Radio is expanding in another rugged Canadian area. The trans-Canada network of the CBC has doubled the strength of its outlet on the Pacific coast and changed its call letters from CBR to CBU. The transmitter building on Lulu Island in the Fraser Valley delta has been remodelled, and the new 10-kilowatt equipment carries its signal in to a large area.

Network service is carried into other parts of British Columbia by independent Canadian radio stations and by the CBC's 17 low-power repeaters, reaching areas previously cut off from radio programs by mountain geology.

They include: FO, M. M. Fora of South Porcupine, Ont.; FO. T. W. Shoniker, of Trenton, and PO. G. M. Woodman, Pembroke.

Ask Repeal Of Treaty Over Japanese Action

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP).—Six Labor members of Parliament called today for repeal of the Japanese peace treaty in protest against Tokyo's plan to establish relations with the Chinese Nationalist Government.

The six, all from the extreme left wing of the opposition party, said they will introduce a formal motion in the House of Commons to this effect.

Mrs. Walter Robinson

Requiem mass for Mrs. Walter Robinson, 16 Edgewater Blvd., who died Friday in hospital, was said today at Immaculate Conception church by the Rev. F. Greenan. The funeral was held from the Anglesey funeral home.

Pallbearers were: George Lang, Joseph Lynch, William Crilly, Andrew McCabe, Fred Lane and Dan Netzels.

Burial was in St. Peter's cemetery, where graveside prayers were said by the Rev. G. J. O'Sullivan.

To Build Ferry

CHATHAM, Jan. 21 — (CP).—Blake Huffman, Liberal MP for Kent, Sunday night announced a $276,000 laboratory for the Department of Agriculture will be built on the Park Avenue East site here to serve in conjunction with the header house and green house of the Department of Entomological Branch, completed in November 1949 at a cost of $53,000.

TOWN TARGET—After tramping out a target in the snow (right), a group of residents (left) of Portola, Calif., wait for a plane to drop supplies to the town. Portola, under nine feet of snow, was virtually paralyzed as storms struck once more at the weary west.

Police Have Difficult Time Keeping Soldier Locked Up

BARRIE, Jan. 21 (CP). — It was just a "routine arrest," police said.

They picked up Pte. Thomas Bright, 17, of Camp Borden, Saturday night on "suspicion of stealing a case of beer."

He was lodged in cell No. 1.

Fifteen minutes later, Bright was spotted outside a dance hall. Police whisked him back to cell No. 1.

Shortly afterward, police heard a noise in the cell block. Bright had flown the coop again.

This time, they said, he was found at the railway yards.

Officers "went over" Bright's cell. They found an eight-inch space near the ceiling connecting the cell and the old police guard room to a new storeroom.

Bright spent the rest of the night in cell No. 2.

Truman Appeals To Congress To Authorize Seaway Project

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 — (AP) President Truman again appealed to Congress today to authorize the St. Lawrence seaway and power project. He termed it a "strategic necessity."

"If there has ever been a water resource project with great strategic benefits. It is the St. Lawrence development," Truman said in his annual budget message.

He recommended, at the same time, that Congress appropriate $20,000,000— a sum sufficient, he said, to start construction. The money, if appropriated, would be available for use in the year starting July 1.

The president said the hydro-electric power of the development alone "offers ample justification for undertaking this . . . without further delay."

"But," he added, " the emergin giron ore problems makes it a strategic necessity.

"Beyond one end of the waterway are the large steel-producing centres and the declining high-grade iron ore deposits in the United States.

"Beyond the other end are the large new discoveries of high-grade one in Canada."

Would Like Partnership.

He noted that in view of the importance of the project that Canada, is prepared to build it alone rather than "wait indefinitely" for participation by the United States.

Concerning Canada's plan, Truman said:

"I have already indicated my intention to support such action by Canada, if that is the only way to obtain immediate construction of this project.

"However, if Canada built the waterway, she would, of course, control its operation.

"I feel strongly that our nation's interest in the development of this resource on the basis which I have recommended is so vital that we should join as a full partner in its construction and operation."

Canada, in completing all legislative action to proceed independently in the construction, left the way open for the US to participate.

Legislation to authorize the dual-purpose project is before Senate and House of Representative committees but there is no indication when it will be considered.

Court Dismisses Driving Charge

Magistrate W. R. Philp dismissed a charge against Gordon Newall, 490 Edison Ave., in police court today of driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol.

Newall was involved in an accident with a city bus the night of January 9, when his truck scraped the corner of a city bus at Monaghan Rd. and Romaine St.

The bus driver, Michael McAuliffe, Ennismore, said he noticed nothing unusual about Newall's condition and that the road was very icy.

A pasenger in Newall's truck said that he and Newall had had two draughts of beer in a hotel about three hours before the accident.

R. O. Standish defended Newall and argued that the crown had failed to make a case and that his client was entitled to a dismissal.

Crown attorney John A. Bradshaw said there was evidence that Newall had had two beers but it was a case of whether the evidence showed there was impairment "In regard to his driving, the bus driver says it could have been due to the ice," commented Mr. Bradshaw.

MELBOURNE, Jan. 21 (Reuters) — Australia, where the world's best cavalry horses were once bred, will have no horses left by 1968 if the present decline continues. Since 1939, Australia's equine population has been dropping at the rate of 50,000 to 60,000 a year—a decline attributed to greater farm mechanization.

No Evidence Offered Of Perverting Justice

Charges of perverting justice against two men were dismissed in police court today, when crown attorney John A. Bradshaw said he would offer no evidence.

William Sorg of Ottawa and Neil Paudash, R.R. 2, Keene, were charge with wilfully perverting justice by giving false information to police officers on December 2.

To a second charge of causing a public disturbance on Queen St., December 2, Sorg pleaded guilty. He was fined $10 and $2.50 costs.

Editor Optimistic On Canada's Future

LONDON — (CP). — Ian Leslie, editor of a British newspaper, The Builder, said he would like to see every British manufacturer of building materials investigate the possibility of entering the Canadian market.

Leslie, who recently returned from a tour of Canada, told a meeting that Canada has the greatest potential in the world.

"She stands," he said "where the United tSates stood 50 years ago, with her resources virtually untouched but with all the technical advances of a half-century ready to hand."

Canada offered the possibility of a long-term market, but the market was a tough one and the average Canadian a shrewd customer—"he may fling his hat in the air at a baseball or hockey game, but he usually remembers to catch it as it comes down."

House Blows Up

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 21. (AP)—Glenn Crossland drew water for a bath Saturday night and his house blew up. Neither Crossland nor his wife was hurt. Damage to the house was estimated at $5,000. There is no natural gas line within two miles of the home, but police say gas in the ground apparently seeped into Crossland's basement of the house and was ignited when Crossland started to draw water by his electric pump.

Answer Appeal

PANMUNJOM, Korea, Jan. 21 (AP)—The Communists today answered an appeal of International Red Cross officials for permission to visit prisoner-of-war camps in North Korea. North Korean Maj.-Gen. Lee Sang Cho handed the answer to two Red Cross officials Dr. Otto Lehner and Albert Decocatria. Lehner said the letter will be made public in Geneva.

Driver Fined, Ability Judged Impaired

Kenneth C. Ferguson, 16 Cricket Place, was convicted of driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol and fined $50 and $8 costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp in police court today.

Ferguson pleaded not guilty to a charge of drunk driving, and in finding him guilty of the lesser charge, Magistrate Philp said, "We have evidence of some degree of impairment but there is a question in my mind as to whether it was purely intoxication."

The magistrate said he would make no order in regard to impounding Ferguson's car. A second charge against Ferguson of careless driving was dismissed. After Ferguson was convicted of driving while impaired, crown attorney John A. Bradshaw said he would not offer evidence on the careless driving charge.

The charges were laid against Ferguson on the early morning of January 7, after he was involved in an accident at Armour Rd., and Langdowne St.

Driving South

Ferguson was driving south on Armour Rd., and was in collision with a westbound car driven by John Noyes, 465 Rogers St., at the Lansdowne St. intersection.

OPP Constable John Cawood and city constables William G. Scott and Sherman Keliele testified that Ferguson showed indications of intoxication. Constable Cawood was first on the scene and the two city police officers were called when it was found the accident was just inside the city.

Both OPP Constable Cawood and Constable Keliele said they had difficulty in lighting cigarettes for Ferguson because he was swaying on his feet.

Constable Scott said Ferguson was "in a drunken condition."

The driver of the other car, Noyes, said he wouldn't say Ferguson was drunk but he added he didn't feel he was a competent judge of intoxication.

Had Two Drinks

Ferguson said he had had two drinks from a 12 ounce bottle of liquor in the afternoon and another about 8.30 in the evening. The accident occurred just after midnight. He said he stopped at the intersection and did not see the oncoming car until it was too late to stop.

Ferguson was defended by W. J. Arthur Fair and in urging an acquittal Mr. Fair said "We would have to stretch our imagination to a considerable extent to find this man was intoxicated."

Commenting on Ferguson's testimony, Magistrate Philp said, "His evidence was given in the manner of a person telling the truth" and he was finding him guilty of driving while impaired rather than drunk driving.

Gold Inside Goose

MELBOURNE, Jan. 21 (Reuters)—John Smith of Melbourne recently bought a goose for Sunday dinner. When he cleaned it he found seven small bits of gold in the gizzard. Figuring the goose struck gold during its living days, Smith is trying to find out where the bird was fattened.

Smaller Firms Urged To Unite For Defence Bids

TORONTO, Jan. 21 (CP). — Smaller construction firms wishing to take part in defence building were advised today to join together in groups of two or three to bid on projects on a joint-venture basis.

The advice came from R. G. Johnson, president of the Government's Defence Construction (1951) Ltd., in an address to the Canadian Construction Association.

This combined effort, he said, need not be confined to big jobs; but could be extended to relatively smaller projects which do not come in the "million-dollar" class.

Mr. Johnson foresaw, in view of a continuing tight supply situation, particularly in steel, that there would be an increasing trend for companies normally engaged in residential and business construction to seek participation in the defence program.

Mr. Johnson gave the following defence construction data and estimates:

In the calendar year 1951 Defence Construction Ltd., awarded contracts approximating $183,000,000 and, including carryover from previous years, has under administration more than $235,000,000 in nearly 700 contracts.

Awards To Date

Awards to date are about 12 per cent of the total in the Maritimes; slightly more than 50 per cent in central Canada; nearly 25 per cent on the prairies; and about seven per cent in British Columbia; with some not localized statistically.

These figures do not include married quarters housing let through Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, nor airport development through the Department of Transport nor capital assistance through the production branches of the Department of Defence Production.

Cash expenditure in the 1952 calendar year is likely to be in the neighborhood of $180,000,000 to $200,000,000 roughly double the expenditure on direct defence construction in 1952.

Ex-German Pilots Seek To Join RCAF

NORTH BAY, Jan. 21 (CP). — A group of former German Air Force pilots and air crew members has applied for enlistment in the RCAF, it was reported here today.

Flt. Lt. W. Christmas, commanding officer of this Northern Ontario base, said it was possible for the Germans, who came to Canada as immigrants, to enlist but a "definite procedure" would be followed in investigating their applications.

One German, anxious to be accepted, said he was a transport pilot and had never shot down a Canadian aircraft. Another boasted that he had confined his air battles to the Russian front.

Mrs. I. Goodrich

MARMORA, Jan. 21 (ENS). — Mrs. Isabella Goodrich, wife of John Goodrich, died suddenly at her home here on Saturday morning. Shortly after rising, she was stricken with a fit of coughing. Her husband, after fetching her a drink of water, summoned Dr. H. G. Parkin, but she died shortly after his arrival.

She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Pack of Marmora Township and was in her 65th year. After farming for a number of years in the township, Mr. and Mrs. Goodrich came to reside in the village five years ago.

She was a member of Marmora Free Methodist Church, and when residing in the township attended the Beaver Creek church of the Marmora circuit.

She is survived by her husband and one sister, Mrs. Irwin McCoy, Marmora Township.

The funeral took place Monday afternoon in Beaver Creek Free Methodist Church at 2:30 pm, conducted by the Rev. C. W. Kay of Harrowsmith, assisted by the Rev. G. H. Bache, pastor of Marmora Free Methodist Church. Burial followed in the adjoining cemetery.

Hold Alleged Thief

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP) — Detectives Sunday nabbed a Bronx laborer accused of at least 25 robberies and two rapes—all in the rooms of two Brooklyn hotels. Police said Lonnie Ellison, 26, admitted 25 robberies and a loot of at least $5,000. They said he also admitted raping a woman in the St. George Hotel in 1950 and another in the Franklin Arms Hotel earlier this month.

Calgary Makes Threat Of Withdrawal

By LORNE BRUCE.

REGINA, Jan. 21 (CP).—The threat of a Calgary withdrawal today hung over the Western Football Conference because of a refusal to admit a Vancouver team.

A flurry of prepared statements showered down in the wake of a Vancouver bid for membership.

The Calgary delegation, after abruptly leaving the annual convention, issued a statement saying it will refer the question to its executive so that they might decide over future courses.

The Vancouver delegation's statement described the coast city's rejection as "the greatest breach of good faith in the history of Canadian sports."

Later the WIFU president, Ralph Misener of Winnipeg, issued a long statement giving a verbatim report of all league records in connection with the Vancouver question.

Delegates Confused

Even delegates admitted being confused by developments in duscussion of the Vancouver question which caused the deepest split in the WIFU in years.

The final resolution offered Vancouver a two-year probationary admission without voting power and gave the Vancouver club five days to decide.

But the motion was defeated with Regina and Calgary opposed and Edmonton and Winnipeg in favor. President Fred Wilson of Regina declared the motion defeated because it failed to obtain the required three-fourths of the vote.

Then the Calgary delegation, which had led the drive to admit Vancouver, walked out of the convention and did not return.

C. E. (Cec.) Chesher, Calgary president, had told the convention that his club was opposed to the compromise motion because it was attaching "conditions" to a Vancouver admission although the 1951 convention had voted unanimously to give Vancouver a 1952 berth. Winnipeg opposed the Vancouver entry throughout the involved Saturday proceedings but voted for the compromise motion. Edmonton always supported Vancouver although never so outspokenly as Calgary.

Post - convention speculation was that Regina and Winnipeg feared that admission of Vancouver would have given the Calgary-Edmonton-Vancouver group control of the WIFU. Each club has two votes at annual conventions with the president casting deciding ballots in event of ties.

Delegates also decided to ask the Canadian Rugby Union to allow eight imports each season from the United States instead of seven as at present and voted for a two-game, total-point WIFU semi-final instead of a sudden-death game as at present.

Bancroft Defeated

BANCROFT, Jan. 21—(ENS)—Flinton Northern Fliers defeated Bancroft Timbermen by a score of 6 to 3 in a West Hastings Lennox juvenile hockey game here Friday night.

A small crowd of local fans and a large number of Flinton rooters saw the game. Four of the regular Timbermen were not able to play and Manager McKelvey had to make a number of last-minute substitutions.

Referee Rothwell, of Madoc, ruled with an iron hand and was as sharp as a paper of pins. He handed out eight minor penalties and one match penalty. Wayne Coe, a Bancroft forward, received the match penalty for "a deliberate attempt to injure a player" when his stick struck Carl Lessard in the face. Besides this the Timbermen had to play a man short for 10 minutes. Bancroft players, officials and fans protested but Rothwell and his regulation book ruled.

F. Hassler and C. Lessard, who returned to the game in the second period, were the scoring aces for Fliers, with three and two respectively. Hawley got their other one. Ross Severia scored for the Timbermen in the first few minutes of the game and Jim Vance netted their other two in the dying moments of the final period. Lineups:

Flinton Northern Flyers—Goal, Baker; defence, York, Lessard; centre, F. Hassler; wings, B. Hassler, Black; alternates, Northey, Hawley, Kerr, Cox, Tomlinson; manager-coach, A. Zettler.

Bancroft Timbermen — Goal, Andrew; defence, Bruce, Parnell; centre, Severia; wings, Vance, Coe; alternates, Griggs, Wiggins, Martin, Whyte, Sprackett, Gaebel, Landon; manager-coach, G. McKelvey.

Referee, W. Rothwell, of Madoc; linesman, H. Neunan, Maynooth.

Timers, A. Patterson, of Flinton, and A. Siverin, of Bancroft.

Howard took the first and third games without too much difficulty, but the big American made a determined bid in the second and fourth games to tie the score.

At the beginning of the fifth and final game, Howard could not keep up with the tricky Foster and he fell behind, 7-1. However, using drop shots and corner shots with precision, he won 14 out of the following 17 points to win the match.

In the finals of the consolation tournament, Jim Biddell, Toronto, defeated Bill Noyes, Toronto, 3-0. Noyes is a former winner of this tournament.

Brantford Downs Dutchmen 6-4 For Fourth Straight Win

By The Canadian Press.

Two teams are starting to get hot in the Ontario Hockey Association—Brantford Redmen in the Senior A loop and St. Catharines Teepees in the Junior A League.

Brantford downed the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen 6-4 Saturday night for their fourth win in their last five starts. St. Catharines has an ever better record: Saturday the Teepees markd up their 13th win in 16 starts by defeating Barrie Flyers 3-2.

Playoff time isn't close enough for any predictions—the Senior A group plays its last scheduled games Feb. 23 and the Junior A March 5—but if Teepees and Redmen keep hot, anything can happen.

Both teams are fairly well down in the league standings. In the Senior A, Brantford stands fifth; 19 points or nine wins and a draw behind the first place Stratford Indians. In the Junior A, St. Catharines stands fifth; 20 points or 10 wins behind Toronto Marlboros.

Marlboros, however, aren't going to be easy game for anyone. Sunday they almost scored their third consecutive shutout when they beat Oshawa Generals 7-1.

Down Irish

In the second game of Sunday doubleheader, Galt Black Hawks stepped into a second-place tie with Guelph Biltmores by defeating Toronto St. Michael's 5-3.

Saturday night the Windsor Spitfires, second-to-last in the 10-team Junior A list, defeated the seventh-place Waterloo Hurricanes 6-4 at Waterloo. Galt Black Hawks took a tighter grip on third place in their Saturday night game when they defeated Kitchener Greenshirts 4-3.

In the Senior A loop, Sarnia Sailors showed signs of life and chances of moving out of the bottom spot in the standings. They defeated Owen Sound Mercurys two nights running, 7-3 Saturday at Sarnia and 3-2 Friday at Owen Sound.

First-place Stratford Indians pulled the same deal on Hamilton Tigers, beating them 7-3 at Stratford Saturday night and 7-2 at Hamilton Friday.

Score For Redmen

In the Brantford win at Kitchener in the Senior A loop, Bill Shill and Robin Hewson fired two goals each for the Redmen with Bill Simpell and Ferguson adding singles. Bobbie Bauer, Morris Levesque, Jim Pernfuss and Art Hurst were the Dutchmen scorers.

Don Emms scored three goals for Sarnia in their home game, Chuck Glaab (2), Don Gardiner and Harry O'Connor added the rest. Owen Sound marksmen were Al Forslund, Bill Allum and Tommy Burlington.

In the Hamilton-Stratford game at Stratford, the Indians' line of Jack White, Jack Thaler and George Aitken, but in a total of four goals. Billy Walsh, Mickey Roth and Dinny Flanagan counted the other Indian goals. Murray Comfort, Paul Miocinovich and Doug Maher accounted for the Tiger counters.

In the weekend Junior A games, the Galt line, consisting of Jim McBurney, Neil McDonald and Ed Switzer, also scored a total of four goals in their home game, Kitchener's Duke Edmundson put in two goals and Orval Tessier, one.

Every goal in the Waterloo game was a singleton. For Windsor, Bob Brown, Lorne Watters, John Lumley, Jim Robertson, Elmer Skov and Joe Zorica scored. Don Heibein, Lou Dietrich, Charlie Brooker and Ken McNeil placed them for Waterloo.

EXTRACTS FROM THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS:

"Giving due recognition to the need for revenue for defence purposes and for proper social needs, the present corporate taxation in Canada is at too high a level and it bears too heavily on the great mass of business. Too high corporate taxation if maintained tends to discourage capital expansion and to encourage inflationary spending."

• • •

"The year has been an eventful one in Canada's financial history. The removal of foreign exchange control was a desirable and courageous measure. It put Canada in the company of United States and Switzerland as the only three major countries whose currencies could be bought and sold freely without legislative restrictions."

• • •

"Capital from United States and Europe has been moving here to take advantage of the opportunities afforded by our economy. Our Company has been playing a part in this development, as we afford a safe trusteeship and an efficient service to investors abroad who desire to participate in Canada's future. It reinforces one's own faith in our country to realize how favorably we are regarded in the financial centers of the world. The Canada Permanent may reasonably expect further business in handling investments for United States and European investors."

• • •

"We who live and do business in this country may well feel that we are favored by fortune. Where can one find greater opportunities? No one willing and able to work need fear the future in Canada."

Tax Evasion Big Problem In Gt. Britain

LONDON—(CP)—Inland revenue authorities are scouring the country for foot-loose university graduates interested in becoming income-tax inspectors. The campaign marks the latest move to bolster staff in the battle to combat tax evasion.

The main drawback in attracting promising candidates at present is the low starting salary of £390 a year against the greater inducements being offered graduates by industry and commerce.

Revenue officials estimate that about 500 new inspectors will be needed to augment the present force of 1,600 if the tax evasion problem is to be tackled effectively. As training takes years, the authorities are after a staff large enough to allow experienced inspectors to devote their time to tracking down evaders, while the less experienced do the routine work.

While inland revenue officials will make no estimate of the extent of tax evasion, investigations completed during the last fiscal year resulted in settlements totalling more than $22,000,000. Of these settlements, 250, amounting to about $7,000,000, were dealt with by the special branch investigating cases involving fraud.

"No one knows better than ourselves where all the evasion is, but we simply haven't got the staff to deal with it," an official said. "If we had 200 more inspectors tomorrow we could give them sufficient work to keep them busy for many years."

Good Future Predicted For Kirkland

KIRKLAND LAKE — (CP)— What happens to old prospectors when the packsack becomes too heavy and the old legs won't perform

One of the oldest of them, Walter Loudon, at 82, is making a modest living in this northern Ontario city making maps of mining claims. It's a job he should know more than a little bit about.

A resident of this section for 58 years, Mr. Loudon has watched the country change from a great unknown wilderness to a lively mining and lumbering area. He helped survey the Canadian Pacific and the Algoma Central Railways. He surveyed it all, but never struck it rich.

Today, when a prospector needs a map to close a deal he comes to Walter. Large mining companies also number among his clients and tourists like to take home some as souvenirs of the section.

When asked whether or not Kirkland Lake may become a Ghost area, Walter replies the idea is "crazy". He says the "more they scratch here, the more they find. Some claims need only a few more feet dug and they'll be other lakeshores."

Grew Up In Toronto

Born in England, Mr. Loudon came to Canada with his parents when he was seven months old. He lived and grew up in east Toronto, going to school there. During his teens he prospected along Lake Superior and after the Algoma Steel Corporation was formed, went to work prospecting for them.

"I was the man who put the first survey figure on the rock of the Mississagi Canyon," he says.

For three and a half years, up to 1919, he worked for the Ontario Department of Mines as a surveyor. That's where he learned how to draw maps. He still has stocks of the original ones.

He settled in Kirkland Lake in 1920. He dubbed the place "the hub of the north". It is the supply centre for both the Ontario and Quebec mining districts.

Have Czech Election Evidence Of Fraud

TORONTO, Jan. 21 (CP)—Two young Czech refugees said Friday they are mailing to the United States department and the United Nations evidence of how the Communists rigged the last general Czech election in May, 1948, to show 100 per cent support of Communism.

The two, Joe Brousek and another man who remains anonymous because of possible reprisals against relatives, told an interviewer they were members of the underground in Czechoslovakia and escaped from that country in 1949.

They said the evidence comprises 18 Czech election sheets in which totals for candidates opposing Communism were scaled down. The sheets were smuggled out by the underground after being stolen by agents shortly after the election.

5 P. C. Of Canadians Soon Receiving Old Age Pensions

By The Canadian Press

Five per cent of Canada's population soon will be receiving old age pensions. More than 700,000 of the 14,000,000 Canadians will benefit under an expanded social security program. Nearly 350,000 persons over 70 who never before received old age benefits now are eligible. They will receive $40 a month whether rich or poor. They join some 310,000 needy men and women over 70 who received the $40 a month prior to Jan. 1, when the new Federal legislation became effective.

In addition, nearly 100,000 needy persons aged between 65 and 69 will receive $40 a month —their first old age pension.

Cost of the new program is expected to be $350,000,000 a year.

The federal government now will pay the whole cost of the pensions to those 70 or over and will share with the provinces on a 50-50 basis the cost of the allowances to those in the 65-69 age group.

Previously, when only those over 70 in need were receiving a pension, the federal treasury paid 75 per cent of the cost and the provinces the remainder.

Persons in both the over-70 and 65-69 age groups must have lived in Canada 20 years to be eligible.

Give Breakdown

The breakdown by provinces of those who will receive pensions:

Applicants from those 70 and over, regardless of means, for the universal federal pension: Newfoundland, 2,614; Prince Edward Island, 3,278; Nova Scotia, 14,341; New Brunswick, 8,530; Quebec, 70,255; Ontario, 146,798; Manitoba, 20,304; Saskatchewan, 20,918; Alberta, 18,763; British Columbia, 40,283; Yukon and Northwest Territories, 291—total 346,375.

Needy persons over 70, previously recipients of provincial-federal pensions and now automatically eligible for the universal federal pension: Newfoundland, 11,859; Prince Edward Island, 3,260; Nova Scotia, 21,062; New Brunswick, 16,913; Quebec, 75,626; Ontario, 93,229; Manitoba, 18,044; Saskatchewan, 17,928; Alberta, 18,419; British Columbia, 32,746; Yukon and Northwest Territories, 114—total 309,200.

Applications from those in need in the 65-69 age group (incomplete): Newfoundland, 6,500; Prince Edward Island, 650; Nova Scotia, 2,200; New Brunswick, 3,500; Quebec, 18,000; Ontario, 18,000; Manitoba, 3,093; Saskatchewan, 4,000; Alberta, 3,000; British Columbia, 5,488—total 64,391.

Pouring In

Provincial officials said applications from persons in need between 65 and 69 still are pouring in and the total will be nearly 100,000 by the time all have applied. All provinces reported that the number of applicants has been less than anticipated.

Saskatchewan ($2.50) and Alberta ($10) are the only provinces paying a supplementary pension in the over-70 group. In British Columbia, a cost-of-living bonus up to $10 is paid in some cases.

Pensioners in old-age homes in Quebec retain $7 from their $40 federal pensions. The remainder goes to the homes for their upkeep on the basis of $1.10 a day.

Only Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia have government-operated hospital and medical plans under which both pensioners and other citizens are covered. However, most other provinces provide hospital and medical care in one form or another for the aged or poor.

In Saskatchewan, pensioners have a $10-a-year hospital tax paid by the government. Pensioners in BC who qualify for any part of the government's $10 cost-of-living bonus automatically become eligible for free medical, hospital and dental services.

Says World Needs Food Bank

MONTREAL, Jan. 22. (CP)—H. H. Hannam, president of the 400,000-member Canadian Federation of Agriculture, warned today that famine-ridden countries will go hungry until a strong international machine is set up to rid exporting countries of the fear of mounting surpluses growing out of bountiful production. The stocky, 53-year-old Ottawa farmer, delivering his presidential address before the federation's annual convention, said he had tried to hammer home that argument before the recent meeting in Rome of the United Nations' food and agriculture organization, but to little avail.

FAO had pleaded for expanding food production by Canada and other advanced countries, but fine pleas and beautiful words "will not feed people or pay food producers their costs of operation in order that they can keep on producing."

Want Food Bank

For six long years, FAO has been toying with the suggestion that an international commodity clearing house—a food bank—be set up, with authority to deal with surpluses and reserve food stocks and to meet emergency shortages and famine.

This, said Mr. Hannan, would have provided the means of a stabilized, long-term marketing agency, but even after six years of consideration, FAO still was far from establishing that suggestion.

Until the program became a reality, Canadian farmers "can do little but ignore" the FAO plea. Farmers knew "too well that expanding production without any assurance of a market for the

Red Peace False Security Pearson Tells Canadians

NORTH BAY, Jan. 22. (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson Monday night called for a "positive and constructive" campaign of defence against Communist imperialism. He said that Russia may have replaced hopes for a European campaign with another campaign designed to sap the strength and undermine the unity of the West. "We must defend ourselves against these tactics and that is not going to be easy, because this is a campaign in the war of ideas," he told the North Bay Chamber of Commerce. It was his first major speech of 1952.

He listed three possible tactics in the Russian campaign: specious peace talk designed to lull the West into false security and make the burden of defence seem unnecessary; propaganda declaring that arms expenditures, forced by the United States, make an improved standard of living impossible; exploiting national prejudices to stir up strife.

Outside Exploitation

Middle Eastern countries have been difficult to deal with because they felt—with some justification—that they have long been the victims of outside exploitation.

The situation in Southeast Asia was "heavy with dangers." The danger might express itself in aid to those already fighting local governments rather than in open aggression as in Korea.

Western participation in Asia should not be "saddled with the dragging weights of social injustice, racial discriminations or political reaction."

"If Asia goes Communist. . . it will be for no love of Russia or of Marx, but because the agents of Russia and Marx were able to exploit and harness to revolution the longing for a piece of bread, a roof and the right to stand erect."

Toronto Gets Light Snowfall

TORONTO, Jan. 22 (CP)—Later than expected, and without the intensity, snow began falling in Toronto today. One to three inches were forecast.

Prospects were that Torontonians, who for 19 days have got about without street-cars and buses because of a strike, would foot it homeward tonight ankle deep in slush. They've had it comparatively easy so far in the strike. Only 7.6 inches of snow has fallen on the city since Jan. 4, when the wage dispute began, and that was little handicap to pedestrians or automobiles.

Heavy winds pounded cottages in suburban Long Branch on the shore of Lake Ontario Monday night but no damage was reported. Spray from the lake carried inland and in some spots froze on highways, creating a traffic hazard.

In Hamilton, banks of ice, formed off the shore at Van Wagner's Beach, broke the force of waves and gave protection to beach residents.

Robbed of $3,986

TORONTO, Jan. 22 — (CP).—An employee of an east-end supermarket bound for a bank with receipts was held up and robbed today of $3,986. Norman Fertile, 20, told police he left the store with the money in a brown paper bag and was forced into his own automobile, by the two men. They drove a few blocks, then escaped with the bag.

Caterpillars Worse In 1952

SAULT STE. MARIE, Jan. 22—(CP)—Experts at the Department of Agriculture's forest insect laboratory here said today that the tent caterpillar invasion of Ontario will be worse than ever in 1952.

Hardest hit will be the Port Arthur and North Bay areas.

In a report issued today, the department said that last year's outbreak was possibly the largest and most spectacular ever recorded.

Stands of aspen, hard maple, red oak and poplar covering several thousand square miles between Port Arthur and Kenora were stripped of their foliage.

The bugs then migrated to farm areas where fruit trees were stripped.

But, except in the Muskoka district where defoliation over a number of years killed some maple stands, little permanent damage was done.

The report said that a late spring frost could prevent this year's invasion by destroying the larvae, laid in bark of trees.

Push Defence Production During 1952 Howe Says

TORONTO, Jan. 22 — (CP).—A continued program of defence production with emphasis on overcoming supply shortages is Canada's main objective in 1952, Defence Production Minister C. D. Howe said here Monday night.

"Defence preparations are going to have an increasing impact on our economy," Mr. Howe told the annual dinner of the Toronto Board of Trade. . . . . "But by no means does it follow that these preparations will result in upward price pressure. I believe that we can make the necessary adjustments to meet our defence demands without upsetting the balance."

If Canada succeeds in its efforts to avert a war, the impact of the defence effort will eventually decline, he added.

"In the long run our ability to meet increased demands placed upon Canada and the free world will determine our success in holding down the level of prices. That is why I think we should do all we can to preserve a strong and resilient economy with a maximum freedom from controls."

He asked Canadians to "keep cool and avoid rocking the boat" in 1952.

"We know that it is part of the Communist strategy to attempt to disrupt the economies of the free nations. Nothing delights the Communists more than to discover irrational economic behavior based upon the fears inspired by them. Business men like yourselves can do much to keep the Canadian economy steady on a course that leads to security and a better life."

Reviewing the first nine months of Canada's three-year defence program which began last April 1, Mr. Howe said the defence production department has placed $1,400,000,000 worth of orders for defence goods and construction.

Deliveries of defence weapons and equipment are slow, he said but he expected the rate to be increased greatly this year, and saw the peak to come in 1953.

Two Points Separate TTC, Strikers

Optimism Grows Strike Near End, Talks Resumed

TORONTO, Jan. 22. (CP)—Disagreement on two points was reported today to be holding up settlement of Toronto's transit strike. Talks between representatives of the disputants in the wage dispute ended at 2:40 am today after more than 15 hours of discussion. The nature of the two points reported still at issue was not disclosed.

One participant said "a couple" of issues remained unsettled. He added:

"At one point everything looked hunky-dory. Then someone took a hunk out of the dory."

The talks resume today at 2 pm.

Call Adjournment

Labor Minister Charles Daley of Ontario adjourned them at 2.40 am, after a session that lasted more than 15 hours without producing agreement.

In a statement, Mr. Daley emphasized that the discussions between negotiators for Toronto Transportation Commission and the Street Railway Employees' Union (AFL-TLC) had not been broken off but simply adjourned.

"We've all got to get some sleep" he told reporters who had been waiting outside the Labor Department offices in the provincial parliament buildings for word of progress in settling the tieup that started Jan. 4.

There was general optimism that settlement was near, although no official word to justify it came from either side in the wage dispute.

A Toronto paper reported in a newspage story that a basis for agreement actually had been reached Monday night. It said that "Somewhere in the maze of contract terms" the tentative settlement later had apparently "fallen short of acceptance by the union executive."

Take Few Hours

TTC officials announced that, even if the strike is settled today, there will be no street car or bus service in Toronto until Wednesday at the earliest.

They said special street cars must cover the 234 miles of track throughout the city and suburbs before regular trams are permitted to check their runs. Approximately 100 men will check switches. Street cars, trolley coaches and ordinary buses must be inspected. Workmen will have to refuel the trolley coaches and buses and fill radiators.

The street cars and buses have been constantly maintained throughout the strike under an arrangement with the union.

Harry Pettett, TTC secretary, said that before steps to resume service are taken, the public will have to be informed in time to change emergency transportation arrangements. Parking on downtown streets in the manner permitted during the strike would prevent crews in special pilot street cars from checking the tracks, trolley wires and switches. In addition, street car track loops have been used for emergency parking.

Israeli Delegation Stages UN Walkout

PARIS, Jan. 22 (Reuters)—The Israeli delegation walked out of the United Nations special political committee today after the question of the hanging of two Iraq Jews in Iraq Monday was ruled out of order.

The protest walkout is for only one day. Israeli delegates also withdrew from other committees.

The two Jews, Dhalom Saleh Shabana and Youseff Ibrahim Basri, were executed on charges of throwing bombs at Baghdad buildings, including the United States information service, last year.

Abba Eban, the chief Israeli delegate, left his seat declaring that he was doing so on a matter of conscience and as a matter of grief and protest.

Nine Tunisians Die In Outbreak

TUNIS, Jan. 22—(CP)—Nine Tunisians were killed today and 20 injured in a new outbreak of violence between Nationalists and French police.

Three Tunisians and a French gendarme were slain Monday night at two points along the coast of this French North African protectorate.

Today's killings brought the toll from a week of rioting to at least 25 dead.

The rioting took place at Sousse, a city of 25,000 southeast of Tunis. It was still continuing at mid-afternoon.

The three Tunisians were killed and 20 more were wounded by grenades hurled during a demonstration at Nabeul, southeast of Tunis, a French gendarme died in a shooting near the port of Bizerte, major Second World War Allied base.

France meanwhile rushed mobile guard reinforcements from neighboring Algeria to try to end the bloody rioting.

Want Quick Delivery

BEIRUT, Lebanon, Jan. 22. (AP)—United States unwillingness to promise quick delivery of arms is the chief obstacle to the Syrian government's acceptance of a Western-sponsored Middle-East command, according to information from reliable Damascus sources. Syria's strong man, Col. Adbi Shishekly, is in such political difficulty that acceptance of the four-power proposals might be political suicide, unless the West delivered tanks, planes, or artillery immediately.

Find 20 Tons Of Ammunition In Cemeteries

ISMALIA, Suez Canal Zone, Jan. 22 (CP)—A two-way British search of Ismailia's Moslem and Roman Catholic cemeteries has yielded more than 20 tons of ammunition — stolen from British army dumps and hidden by Egyptian guerrillas, army authorities said today.

Exchanges of gunfire Monday night resulted in one Egyptian killed. Thirteen other suspects were arrested.

A Roman Catholic army chaplain and a British civil affairs officer accompanied troops to ensure they did not damage the graves.

British headquarters announced today that the Egyptian authorities in Ismalia, acting under government instructions, had refused an invitation for a Mullah (Moslem divine) to attend.

The hunt for buried weapons among the tombstones began Monday and was interrupted Monday night by a bitter clash between the searching troops and Egyptian guerrillas.

Dig Up Ammunition

British forces claimed Monday to have dug up almost 7,000 rounds of 40-millimetre ammunition and large quantities of rifle ammunition and firearms.

A last Egyptian guerrilla remaining in the cemetery after Monday night's clash was captured by British forces today. He surrendered without a fight.

Meanwhile British and American officials pressed separate investigations to find out whose bullets killed Sister Anthony, an American nun, during Saturday's convent school battle between British troops and Egyptian guerrillas.

Egyptian papers today renewed a campaign for a rupture of diplomatic relations with Britain. Egypt recalled its ambassador from London a month ago without breaking relations and the British envoy remained in Cairo.

Identical Twins Have SkinGraftingOperation

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 22—(AP)—Identical twins, Leo and Leonard Kijowski, underwent a skin grafting operation Monday which is expected to heal Leo's badly-burned body.

Both are 23-year-old privates and veterans of the Korean war. Leo was burned by an enemy phosphorus shell explosion last Oct. 18 near Chokki-Ri, in North Korea.

A team of burn specialists performed the 4½-hour operation during which they took 210 square inches from Leonard and grafted it onto Leo's body.

Skin grafts from one person to another are never permament and slough off except in the case of identical twins, doctors say.

Alexander Asks Press To Farewell Party

OTTAWA, Jan. 22 — (CP) — Viscount Alexander, expected shortly to give up his post as Canada's Governor-General, has invited members of the parliamentary press gallery in for a farewell party.

A Government House spokesman said the Governor-General wants to return the hospitality which the gallery members have extended each year in inviting him to their annual dinner.

Issuance of the invitation was taken here to indicate that any announcement of Viscount Alexander's successor, expected to be Canadian, will be made soon. The Viscount is expected to join the British cabinet as defence minister.

Loose Rock Catches Pair At Work

Mine Crew Reaches One Victim After Digging 10 Hrs.

TIMMINS, Jan. 22. (CP)—A 15-man rescue crew early today freed alive one of two men trapped more than 10 hours by a 30-ton fall of loose rock at the Delnite mine near here.

Efforts were being made to reach the other trapped man. The men were caught by the rock fall at 7:45 p.m. Monday.

Kosoc Iskrowicz, 24, was rescued at 8 a.m.

Rescuers held out little hope that the other miner, Ovila Groleau, 30, would be found alive.

However, the rescuers said it was possible that Groleau may be safe but unconscious, protected by timbers or awaiting help somewhere farther back in the stope.

Mine Manager Jack Beattie, directing digging operations, said sounds were heard from within the rockfall soon after rescuers reached the scene. But nothing had been heard from Groleau since that time.

The rescue crew reached Iskorwicz after 10 hours of frantic hand-shovelling. He was found suffering from shock but without any apparent injuries. A brother-in-law of former Timmins councillor Leo Del Villano, he was located near the leading edge of the rockfall.

Groleau, whose parents live on a farm in the Timmins area, is unmarried.

First word of the accident reached surface men about 8 pm. Rescuers were hastily assembled and began working in the stope within an hour.

Iskrowicz was buried from the waist down. After rescuers reached him and continued to remove the loose rock from around him, Dr. G. Lamontagne administered blood plasma because it was not known then exactly how badly he was injured. He was removed to hospital in Timmins for shock treatment.

Both Iskrowicz and Groleau worked as machine muckers. They were operating electrical equipment in the stope when a crack was noticed above the sill just below the ceiling. It was promptly timbered up to prevent a fall. Officials believed that vibration of the machines caused the rock above the sill to fall.

Iran Refuses Accept Envoy

TEHRAN, Jan. 22—(AP)—Iran slapped Britain again today by refusing to accept Robert Hankey as the new British ambassador to Tehran.

No reasons were given for the rejection of the career diplomat who served as first secretary of the British embassy in Iran during the Second World War. Reliable sources said, however, that the Iranian government is insisting on a new British ambassador with no previous ties with Iran.

"We want a real newcomer," one source said.

Hankey, 47, was named ambassador designate to succeed Sir Francis Shepherd, chief British representative in Iran during the bitter dispute over oil nationalization.

Canadian Dollar Reaches Parity, First Since 1939

TORONTO, Jan. 22. (CP)—The Canadian dollar achieved parity with the United States dollar today for the first time since 1939. Banking experts attribute its strength to a growing stream of US and other investment capital into this country. This is the first day, in Toronto at least, that the two currencies were on even terms in open money dealings since the Second World War began. A man who goes into the bank with $100 Canadian will get $99.75 American. And if he takes in $100 American he'll get $99.75 Canadian. The 25 cents represents the bank's handling charge of ¼ of one per cent on the transaction.

One banker said the Canadian dollar began to gain strength in terms of US funds about two months ago. Its rise continued, spurred by a "tremendous amount of new capital." Much came from the US and the banker said he understood a large amount was from Switzerland.

Paradoxically, the Canadian currency's strength in terms of USU funds comes at a time of an adverse trade balance with the US. A banker suggested there may be a tendency to defer meeting obligations in the US.

To Gain Strength

However, despite the trade situation he suggested that the Canadian dollar would continue to gain strength and "everything points to Canadian funds selling at a premium before long."

Asked whether dollar parity might tend to slow down the movement of capital into Canada, a banker said that investors were more likely to consider the risk and the possibility of profit. If those factors were favorable, they were not likely to be influenced by cost of Canadian funds.

The trend to parity became noticeable Monday. In Windsor a bank put a 3-16 of 1 per cent discount on the American dollar. In Vancouver it was discounted ¼ of 1 per cent. In Toronto, banks traded at part among themselves although not in public dealings.

Back in 1920, Canadian currency remained at par with American most of the time although there were some slight fluctuations. The depression of the 1930s sent the Canadian dollar into a decline and in late 1931 it was worth almost 25 cents less

Leaning Tower Of Pisa Will Topple In 2151

PISA, Italy, Jan. 22 (Reuters)—The Leaning Tower of Pisa will lose its balance and topple over in the year 2,151, according to an official calculation made public here Monday.

Every 12 months it leans one more millimetre (one-twenty-fifth of an inch) away from the vertical as its foundations sag into the shifting Tuscan soil. It is already about 14 feet off centre.

In two more centuries, if it continues to move at the same rate, the white marble tower will crash on to the greensward of the meadow of miracles in front of Pisa Cathedral.

STARTS CRUISE MARCH 10

LONDON, Jan. 22—(Reuters)—The King will leave Britain for his convalescence cruise Monday, March 10, it was announced tonight.

Rotation Plan Gets Troops Home By June

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, Jan. 22 (CP)—The Canadian army plans that every soldier in the Far East eligible for rotation will be home by late June, it was learned today.

Brig. John Rockingham, 25th Brigade commander, discussed the plan with his subordinate commanders and it was announced that "all are very happy with it."

The process will be gradual, involving reliefs on a unit or man-for-man basis. Unit shifts will apply to combat forces, man-for-man shifts to service units.

Eligibility for rotation is acquired after 12 months in the Far East, reckoned from the date of dispatch from North America.

Not At Full Strength

It was indicated that relieving units may not leave Canada at full strength. They may come only with the numbers required to replace men eligible for rotation in the respective units.

For instance, the Princess Patricias count at less than half their strength original troops from last November. The remainder joined since as replacements.

Ineligible troops will serve with relieving units until ready to return to Canada.

Members of the Royal 22nd Regiment eligible for rotation will fly to Canada in flights of 50 a week at the same time as the first relieving personnel leave Canada early in March.

Incidentally, the end of June will see all Canadian combat units in Korea sporting the Canadian airborne forces' red beret—introduced by the Patricias last November.

Bus Driver Loses Licence

LONDON, Jan. 22 (CP)—The driver of a bus which killed 24 marching boy cadets last Dec. 4 was convicted today of dangerous driving. He was fined £20 and his driving licence was suspended three years.

The accident occurred as the boys, members of the Royal Marine Cadet Corps, were marching at night to a boxing match at Chatham. The driver was John Samson, 57.

The jury of nine men and three women recommended leniency.

Sentence was pronounced by Justice Sir Gonne St. Clair Pilcher, who told Samson:

"Every one must feel the greatest sympathy not only with the parents of the unfortunate children but also for you."

The black-clad mother of one of the dead boys screamed "He took my boy's life" and collapsed in the court after hearing the sentence.

Lower Beef, Pork Prices In '53

Predict Sharp Jump In Meat Production

MONTREAL, Jan. 22 (CP). — A Canadian agricultural economist today forecast a sharp jump in meat production with resulting lower prices for pork and beef by 1953.

Prices for eggs are expected to ease this year, but prices for milk products may edge upward or remain unchanged.

Dr. O. C. Hope, Canadian Federation of Agriculture economist, made these forecasts in his report before the federation's annual meeting.

He told delegates that the beef-cattle industry, both in Canada and the United States, "is rapidly building up to the point where it is ready to start a substantial upswing in marketings."

"This increase may start in 1952 or it may be delayed for one more year. But once the marketings increase, they will rise for four to six years and prices for beef will fall sharply compared with the prices for other farm products.

Possible Drop

"Should industrial employment slacken in 1953 and 1954, we could expect a very sharp fall in beef prices. The squeezing out of marginal producers would result in very heavy marketings."

In the belief that the meat cycle is finally swinging to increased output, Dr. Hope cautioned farmers that it would be "a very risky time" to shift out of dairy cattle production into beef.

"Unless inflationary pressures are considerably greater than they now are, larger supplies of beef and pork will likely result in considerably lower pork and beef prices by 1953.

"Unless an export market opens up with Britain in 1953, the hog industry might well be in a difficult position that year."

Egg Prices Lower

He estimated that egg production by next fall will increase by about 15 per cent over the previous year and predicted that "this will result in somewhat lower egg prices this year."

Dr. Hope forecasts a gloomy outlook for milk production. Canada's dairy herds had been declining for the last five years, "and th eprospects are for a slightly smaller total production of milk in 1952."

"With a further increase in population, available milk per capita will fall to an all-time low in 1952 and we shall move still more to a net import position in dairy products."

Reds Refuse To Ban Airfield Building

MUNSAN, Korea, Jan. 22 — (AP) —In a curt, 14-minute truce session today the Communists refused to ban airfield reconstruction although the Allies offered to accept Red wording on other terms for supervising a Korean armistice.

Three hours and 10 minutes of wrangling in another sub-committee failed to change Communist opposition to letting prisoners of war decide for themselves whether they want to be repatriated.

Both committees meet again at 11 am Wednesday (9 pm Tuesday EST) for new tries at breaking the deadlock.

The 14-minute truce supervision session was the sub-committee's longest this week.

Make Concession

Maj.-Gen. Claude Ferenbaugh said the United Nations command would accept the wording of the Communist counter-proposal submitted January 9 if the Reds would write in a ban on reconstructing bombed-out airfields during a truce. This clause has been the only point of difference between the two sides since January 9.

Chinese Maj.-Gen. Hsieh Fang said no.

Hsieh accused the Allies of "four provocative actions" since January 13 and charged that Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy has bragged that the only way to break the truce deadlock might be by military pressure.

He was referring to a copyrighted interview in "US News and World Report" in which Joy said a stable armistice agreement could be reached either by a sudden change of heart by the Reds or "sufficient military power to induce such a change of heart."

additional product is too great a risk because it can clog markets, undermine prices and agricultural economies."

On the home front, said Mr. Hannam in his 5,000-word address there had been favorable and unfavorable developments. For one thing, charges had been levelled at top-level CFA officials that they were playing politics and that they did not speak for the rank and file of the 400,000-member organization.

Absurd Charge

The Federation, said Mr. Hannam, is a democratic body and charges that officials at the top speak only for themselves "are based on a lack of information or wrong information and are so far from the truth that it makes them absurd."

The CFA, said Mr. Hannam, has made progress only because its membership is united, but if clashes and divisions were permitted in one region, they could lead to a collapse of the whole national organization.

"EMPLOYEE SERVICES"

Appointment of Ben Smith at Canadian General Electric is to the position of supervisor of employee services and not "employment" as reported. Context of the story indicated the difference. Supervisor of employment, embracing personnel, is Robert M. Hardie. Mr. Smith's duties include visiting sick employees in hospital or in their homes, and extending to them on behalf of the company personal services to the sick or bereaved. He also acts as personal counsellor to employees.

Emperor Urges Plan For Peace

TOKYO, Jan. 22—(AP)—From the dais where he once announced Japan's war policy, Emperor Hirohito today urged the Japanese government to work for "eternal peace."

The lawmakers stood stiffly with their heads bowed low in ceremonial respect. The Emperor was welcoming Japan's 13th post-war diet, which is expected to be in power when a peace treaty is ratified and Japan again becomes a sovereign nation.

The Emperor said:

"I think the duty of our people is to work for development of international peace and harmony."

In reply, Josi Hayashi, Speaker of the House, said:

"It is earnestly hoped that the people will realize the grave responsibilities and duties they will have to shoulder once they become independent, and renew their determination to the expectations and trusts of the world's nations."

Irregular Support Eases Western Oils

TORONTO, Jan. 22 (CP).—Irregular mid-session stock market support today eased western oils from their record high and erased most industrial advances.

Western oil speculation again dominated trading but a scattered list of selected base metals and penny golds attracted interest. Leading industrials changed hands steadily.

Volume for the first three hours was 1,533,000 shares.

Constructions formed industrials' strongest section while utilities, agricultures, steels, liquors, banks and retail stores drew firm support. Refining ails, manufacturing companies and miscellaneous industrials weakened.

Western oil gains ranged from fractions to about $1. Anglo-Canadian, Calvan Consolidated, Central-Leduc, Calgary and Edmonton, Pacific Petroleum, Royalite and Scurry climbed strongly.

Base metals were mixed. East Sullivan, Fenimore Iron, Labrador, Normetal, Quemont and Waite Amulet strengthened while Mindamar, Quebec Copper and Yukeno weakened.

Senior golds showed little trend. Dome and McIntyre edged upward but Kerr Addison slipped. Secondary issues traded irregularly.

MALE COMPLAINT

Peterborough housewives aren't alone in their complaints about present milk prices. This morning a businessman (a regular customer in a George St. restaurant) had a great deal to say on the subject. He voiced his objections after pouring a bottle of milk into a glass. It filled only two-thirds of the glass. "And it costs 10 cents," he exclaimed.

Tenders Will Be Called On St. Lawrence Seaway

TORONTO, Jan. 22. (CP)—Tenders will be called for as much as possible of the work on the $250,000,000 St. Lawrence seaway. This was made known Monday night by Transport Minister Chevrier, who told the Canadian Construction Association at its convention:

"The Seaway authority cannot be sure yet that that will mean all its contruction work, but it should mean the greater part. Let me assure you there is no thought of undertaking anything that can be done as well or better by private firms in the construction industry."

The association also heard its president, Robert Drummond of Toronto, predict a record volume of building in 1952 and urge contractors, labor and manufacturers to plan now for the expanded program.

The construction executives were told by R. G. Johnson, president of Defence Construction Limited, that the Canadian government is conducting talks with the French government regarding construction requirements for Canadian forces in Europe. Mr. Johnson said it has not yet been determined whether Canadian firms will participate.

Too Partisan

A. C. Ross, for the last three years delegate from the association to the International Labor Organization Conference in Geneva, criticized the ILO in his report to the association on labor relations. He said the ILO has become "increasingly partisan" and its recommendations are often so "ultra-utopian" that they are hot carried out.

Mr. Chevrier said Canada would prefer to have United States participation in the St. Lawrence waterway, "but we can no longer rely on US participation as the only choice.

He listed amounts of material and numbers of workmen needed in the giant navigation and hydro project, provided it is carried out jointly with the US.

"Let it be observed that postponing the project would not relieve the pressure on men and materials," he said. "It might rather increase it, because both Canada and the US would then require alternate hydro or steam capacity, transportation facilities and other works.

"We in Canada are determined to have the seaway at the earliest possible date, determined to override the powerful minority interests that have denied it to us these 20 years and more."

Sterling Nations Pledge Austerity

LONDON, Jan. 22 (CP).—The countries of the British Commonwealth which deal in sterling pledged Monday night to cut their world trade losses by late this year in an all-out drive to save the pound sterling.

A statement issued after a week-long conference announced that the Commonwealth partners have agreed to spend less, earn more and work harder to give back to sterling the strength it needs to continue as a widely used currency.

Canada, as a dollar country, was the only member of the Commonwealth which didn't make the pledge. The Dominion was represented at the conference by Finance Minister Abbott.

Decisions reached by the Commonwealth finance ministers' conference was outlined in general terms because in most cases budgetary action by the countries of the sterling area will be needed to implement them.

Nevertheless, there were signs that the sterling area partners were ready to put their 500,000,000 citizens on austerity rations if necessary to get their money system back into the black once more.

Outlining long-term measures designed to prevent future crises the ministers promised to work progressively toward their definite objective to have sterling convertible.

Brother Finds DeadMan's Body

LINDSAY, Jan. 22 (ENS)—Believed by police to have been dead for two to three days, the body of 56-year-old John Alton, Garden township, was found late Sunday by his brother Arthur.

Alton lived alone through the week in his cottage and his wife, employed as a Dominion Textile inspector, came home on weekends. The house is located just north of the Kirkfield stone crusher on concession 9 of Carden.

Arthur Alton, brother of the dead man, who lives up the road became alarmed Sunday when he had seen no sign of life around the house. When he investigated, he discovered his brother's body lying on the floor. Dr. Anderson, Kirkfield coroner, was called and provincial police constable Fred Rawlings of Fenelon investigated. A post-mortem has been ordered.

Capt. Carlsen Appears Before Inquiry Board

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (AP) — Capt. Henrik Kurt Carlsen, hero of the freighter Flying Enterprise, appeared before a board of inquiry today to tell his story of sinking of his ship.

The master of the ill-fated vessel came from his Woodbridge, NJ, home for the coast guard hearing. He took two sheets of typewritten paper from his uniform coat pocket as Lt.-Cmdr. Clinton J. Maguire asked him to tell of events leading up to the loss of the ship. Carlsen said he had been a master since May, 1947.

Carlsen was preceded on the stand by Lieut. Robert Rono, a surgeon aboard the transport Gen. A. W. Greely, which rescued a number of passengers and crew of the Flying Enterprise.

Rono said that Nicholai Borpokohsky, only fatality from the Flying Enterprise, apparently was dead when taken aboard the transport. He gave drowning as the cause of death, and said his finding was confirmed by an autopsy performed in New York.

than the American. In late 1933, the American dollar was at a discount—worth about five cents less than Canadian. Then the two currencies evened out, staying fairly close together until the outbreak of war in 1939.

Fast Decline

The war sent the Canadian dollar into a fast decline. The government stepped in and fixed a controlled price of 90 cents US. In mid-1946 it was put back at a controlled par and then returned to a 10 per cent discount in September, 1949.

Control ended in October, 1950, and the Canadian dollar jumped from its fixed 90-cent price to around 95 cents US on the free market. It ranged around the 95-cent level—varying by a cent or two each way—until it started its move to parity last November.

Graham Towers, governor of the government-operated bank, declined to comment on the dollar's rise to parity today with United States funds, climaxing a steady improvement on the exchange marts in recent months.

"The market took it there, so that's that," he said without elaboration

Canadian, US Engineers Still Eager Beavers At 60 Below

EDMONTON, Jan. 22 (CP) — Exercise Eager Beaver, the joint Canadian-US Army engineering project in the Yukon, officially started today in 60-below-zero weather.

The 450 officers and men will be in the area for the next six months carrying out an airfield construction program, snow compaction tests, construction of field defences, demolition projects and other engineering ventures.

The exercise is based at Si ver Creek, 1,056 miles up the Alaska Highway from Dawson Creek, BC, and some 1,400 air miles northwest of Edmonton. It is the first time Canadian and US engineer units have worked on specific engineering problems.

Canadian troops have been at silver Creek since last October preparing the camp site.

The units involved are the 59th Independent Field Squadron, RCE, based at Chilliwack, BC, and the US 361st Engineer Construction Battalion from Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. They are under the command of Lt.-Col. H. B. Brown of the US Engineer Corps.

Young People Lay Plans For New Season

MARMORA, Jan. 22 (ENS) — Summer camps, tours, delegates to the national convention were the main topics for discussion Saturday when the Bay of Quinte conference Young People's Union executive met in St. Andrew's United Church.

More than 20 men and women representing the seven presbyteries in centres, Kingston, Belleville, Cobourg, Lindsay, Oshawa and Peterborough attended. From Peterborough were: William Piercey, conference chairman, Arthur Dickson, business manager of the conference paper, and Miss Mary Stewart, conference convener.

The first item on the agenda was allotments from the various presbyteries for the 1952 missionary objective. The target this year is $10,000 for the conference but the objectives for the presbyteries were not definitely set.

Leadership Camp

The Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt of Omemee was appointed dean of the leadership camp to be held this year at Moira lake near Madoc. Loretta McDougal, formerly of Peterborough, now of Belleville, will direct the staff of 15. Camp dates were set at August 2-10.

A week-long camp, summer school, will be held in conjunction with the leadership camp, also at Moira lake. More than 100 are expected to attend.

Arrangements were made for a tour throughout the conference by the Rev. Lloyd Shorten, the Rev. Robert Morris, Evelyn Lapp and Helen Clark, all of Toronto. These young people have just concluded a young people's tour to the Pacific coast.

The quartet will be speaking in George Street United church to a young people's rally on March 26.

Two delegates from each of the seven presbyteries in the Bay of Quinte conference will attend the national convention in Winnipeg in August. Delegates were not appointed.

Dope Peddler Caught Hiding Drugs

OTTAWA, Jan. 22 (CP).—The case of the dope in the light standards was reported today from the files of the RCMP.

The case, with Toronto as its locale, was cited in the RCMP annual report as another example of the varied cunning displayed by dope peddlers in their constant battle to elude law officers.

The "repeat offenders" in the dope racket—mainly concerned with heroin and working mostly in Canada's larger cities—"continue to present a grave enforcement problem of a frustrating nature," the report said.

"It would seem that any real, beneficial solution of their cases can only be brought about by a studied and sustained effort on the part of medical, social and police authorities."

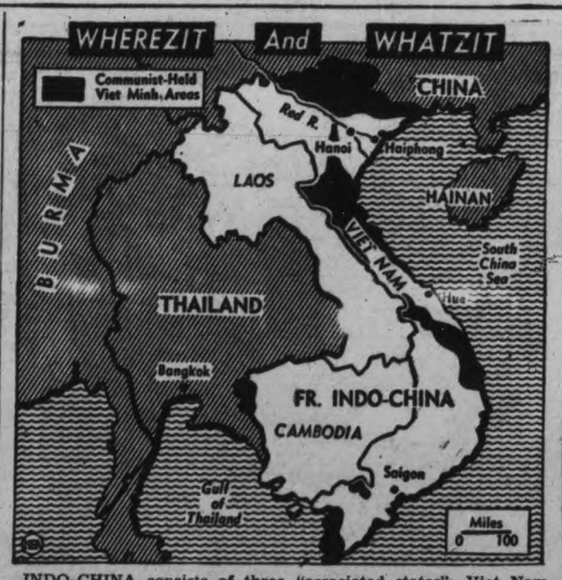
In this connection, the report expressed the appreciation of the force for the co-operation of the Departments of Trade, Health and Revenue. The Foreign Exchange Control Board, and United States enforcement agencies.

Cites Case

If cited the light standard case, known officially as "Rex vs. Doris Jamieso ."

Police in the Toronto area suspected Doris Jamieson of acting as distribution agent for her husband in the drug racket. Following her movements, they found her "very active indeed."

"On occasion, she would proceed by taxi to a congregation of addicts, collect their money, and advise each one where the narcotics were cached—invariably at the base of a numbered street light standard."



Police broke the case by listening outside a partially-opened window of the Jamieson apartment. They heard her mention an address and her her tick off something in a list, which she kept hidden under a linoleum mat.

Find Capsules

Going to the address she had mentioned, they found five capsules of powder in a rubber container wrapped in a newspaper at the base of the light standard.

After repeating the performance several times, police raided the apartment. They found no heroin, but the list under the mat yielded 10 addresses, each leading to further light-standard caches of the drug.

The handwriting on the list was enough to convict Doris Jamieson. She got three years and a $1,000 fine.

INDO-CHINA consists of three "associated states"—Viet Nam, Cambodia and Laos. Viet Nam is by far the largest and most important, with 25 million people, compared to five million in the other two kingdoms. Viet Nam is the most troubled, too. For over five years violent, hit-and-run warfare has raged between French and Indo-Chinese on one side and Communist-led Viet Minh forces on the other. Viet Nam was born a Japanese puppet state in World War II, but sought self-rule after VJ-day under the gaunt Ho Chi Minh. At first the French tried to go along with Ho's "nationalist" aims. But, finding Ho had hitched his wagon to the Kremlin star, France in 1948 switched its support to Bao Dai as Viet Nam's chief of state. War in Viet Nam has been a series of indecisive battles between 350,000 French and Indo-Chinese forces (who recently lost their brilliant leader, Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tessigny) and a like number of loosely-organized Reds under Ho. Viet Minh guerrillas, holed up in the mountains, have staged sporadic night raids on Viet Nam cities and villages. Result has been a crippling of Viet Nam's "rice bowl" economy and a severe drain on French military resources. Because loss of Indo-China might doom all of rich Southeast Asia, the U. S. has poured hundreds of millions of dollars worth of military aid into the anti-Communist battle. Most serious threat to Indo-China looms from the north, where Chinese Reds are feared planning to stage "another Korea." This threat may become reality if fighting ends in Korea.

Violates Bond Gets 3 Months

COBOURG, Jan. 22 —(ENS)—Brought back before the magistrate for violation of a suspended sentence bond, Fred Cavanaugh, Jr. of Cobourg was sentenced to nine months definite and three months indefinite in the reformatory when he appeared in police court yesterday. The sentence was on the original charge of contributing to the delinquency of a 15-year-old girl with whom he had been keeping company.

When he appeared on the charge last December, the magistrate allowed him on suspended sentence for one year and he was bonded to stay away from the girl for the period of the suspended sentence. At the time of his arraignment in December the girl had been placed under the care of the Children's Aid Society and Magistrate Baxter directed the accused that, while he would be permitted to write to the girl in care of the society, he must not see her.

"You have been found guilty of violation of the bond of December 7 and are therefore liable for sentence on the original charge of contributing to juvenile delinquency. The Crown has suggested a year in the reformatory. The court felt that it was a matter which could be met by suspended sentence when you appeared last December but the court must now take into consideration your conduct since the offence and the time you entered into the bond. The court would be acting foolishly to ignore your conduct. You have shown no inclination to accept the restrictions placed upon you. If you cannot or will not stay away from this girl then you must be placed some place where you will not be able to see her. I think it is more lack of will power than criminal intent and I am going to sentence you to nine months definite and if you behave yourself, the three months indefinite will be taken into consideration," said Magistrate Baxter.

Magistrate Threatens Liquor Act Sermon

LINDSAY, Jan. 22 — (ENS).—"I should preach a sermon to you and take my text from Section 9, verse 1 of the Liquor Control Act," said Magistrate Gee to Harry Larose, charged with consuming liquor while on the interdicted list.

"He's leaving town this week, Your Worship," said R. I. Moore, counsel for the accused. "He's sold his house and is moving away."

Chief Constable Arthur Webster said that the man has to be picked up because the department had received innumerable calls to go to the house.

"Maybe we should put him in jail until the truck leaves on Wednesday," said His Worship. Larose said that he had to be out to get the packing done and make arrangements to leave.

Magistrate Gee placed him on suspended sentence on payment of costs amounting to $1. Another charge of intoxication, a second offence, was dismissed.

New Portrait Causes Bustle

LONDON, Jan. 22 —(CP)—The Daily Express today reproduced a new portrait of its publisher, Canadian-born Lord Beaverbrook, and settled back to await comments.

The portrait was painted by Graham Sutherland to commemorate a birthday of the 72-year-old publisher, and now is on show at the Tate Gallery.

The Manchester Guardian predicted Sutherland's second essay at portrait painting will cause "just as much stir as his first," which was of novelist Somerset Maugham.

"No one is likely to call it a pleasant picture: Powerful is the word," said the Guardian.

The Evening Standard, like The Express a Beaverbrook Newspaper, also forecast a controversy would result from the portrait, which shows the publisher seated in a chair, papers on his lap, one purple-trousered leg crossed over the other.

Drunk Driving Charge Reduced

LINDSAY, Jan. 22 (ENS)—A charge of drunk driving against Ronald A. Graham, 30, Lindsay, formerly of Toronto, was reduced to driving while ability was impaired by Magistrate E. A. Gee in court here Monday.

Constable John Hunter testified that he had been driving the cruiser on Kent St. when he passed a car with its front wheels on the Main street coming off Albert St. He said he noticed the driver of the car appeared to be slumped over the wheel and no lights were on. He said he stopped the cruiser just down the block, heard a car engine roar, looked out the back window in time to see the car make a sliding U turn and go back south on Albert St.

"I lost sight of the vehicle but I saw tire marks veering from one side of the road to the other and followed these marks until I came upon a car one block south," said the constable. "It was across the road with the rear wheels in a snowbank. It surged ahead as I got there and got stuck in the bank across the road".

The accused had to be helped out of his car and was unsteady on his feet said the constable, and at the jail, he kept repeating that "Hunter is out to get me".

When Graham testified that he lived at 21 Albert St. and was only trying to get his car in the lane. Counsel for the accused, R. I. Moore, brought out that the car stopped on the corner was not proved to be the one driven by the accused.

Magistrate Gee reduced the charge to that of driving while ability was impaired by alcohol and the accused was given a week to pay a fine of $50 plus costs of $15.50 or 30 days.

Elmer Skuce who lived on a farm south of Reaboro said that a green canoe cedar-strip 14 feet long was stolen from his boathouse on Pigeon creek some time in June 1947. The canoe located in a garage in Lindsay was positively identified by Mr. Skuce. The canoe it was said was sold to a Mr. H. Turner by Daynes in April of 1948.

Daynes story was that he had been given the canoe in the fall of '47. He said his father gave him the canoe before he died. He admitted selling the canoe in question to Mr. Turner but said that he had no idea where the canoe came from when his father gave it to him. Magistrate Gee dismissed the case.

A Solomon Needed In Douro

Readers of our Letters To The Editor are by this time familiar with the dispute between the School Board and some ratepayers in School Area Number Two, Douro. The ratepayers in question say that the school accommodation for their children is inadequate; the Board retorts that it is all that can reasonably be provided. The ramifications of the discussion are many and do not surrender themselves readily to exploration. We feel also that matters of personality play an important part in the matter; under the Veterans' Land Act a number of men and women who are, in spirit and sympathies, townspeople, have settled in a rural community; there is bound to be a measure of resentment on both sides. However, such problems are certain to arise in a growing country and particularly in areas which are close to rapidly expanding cities. It appears to us that both sides have at least one very strong point on their side: the School Board wants to keep taxes down, which is in itself a worthy aim; the new dwellers in Douro want decent educational advantages for their children, and are commendably ready to fight for them.

* * *

Obviously what is wanted in Douro is a Solomon, and we suggest that the Provincial Department of Education be asked to send one of its ablest Solomons to Douro to make a thorough investigation of the matter. The dissatisfaction there appears to be greater than the School Board, or the school inspector, can allay; those who are too close to a problem, and who may have had a hand in the creation of the problem, are not the best people to solve it. We suggest that if it is possible to get them together, the School Board and the protesting ratepayers agree to apply to the Provincial Department for an arbitrator, who will come to School Area Number Two and look thoroughly into the matter.

* * *

Such action will be useless unless both sides are willing to heed what the arbitrator says. He will not be able to set right everything that is wrong by a stroke of magic; he will only be able to give advice, and it may be that both sides will find things in his advice which they do not like. But out of his advice a plan might come which, if it is sincerely followed, will give School Area Number Two the best arrangement of schools that it can afford.

To Investigate Algae

Peterborough and Kawartha people can take some comfort from the announcement that the Ontario Departments of Lands and Forests, and of Health, are to undertake a thorough investigation of algae in the Kawarthas. The presence in ever-increasing amounts and persistency of this noxious and unpleasant plankton in the Kawartha Lakes has alarmed the whole district. We hope that the Departments will not wait until algae again appear before they start to investigate the stuff and lay plans to control it. They know what it is and where it is. If they start work well before the summer season begins we may hope for some practical action against the blighting algae before it takes hold of the waters again.

Mr. Harold Scott, the Minister of Lands and Forests, is Peterborough's represenattive and will no doubt insist that the Kawartha algae be kept high on the Department's agenda and that all hands and brains get busy now. We cannot hope for miracles, for it is likely that the very dams which keep homes supplied with water and factories with water-power all summer are a prime reason for the growth of the plankton. But we can expect a plan to reduce, if not completely abolish, algae from these waters.

Uncle Sam Rules The Waves

Tonight Mr. Churchill sails for England after seventeen days on this continent. His mission has achieved its main end: to restore mutual understanding and cordiality between Britain and the United States. Specific matters were also worked out in Washington. The Americans have agreed not to launch atomic attacks from British bases without British approval. They have agreed to direct a million tons of United States steel to Britain. The President has agreed to close consultation with Britain on any developments which increase the danger of world power. And Mr. Churchill has accepted American command of the Atlantic.

This concession must have been difficult for him, a former First Lord of the Admiralty, a lover of British ships and exalter of British sea-power, and a student of history who knows the place the Royal Navy has played in world history. When he gets back to London he will face chagrined Britons red in the face from mortification and even anger. Perhaps only Churchill could have made the concession without losing face and his seat.

Mr. Churchill is a realist. He knows who has the men, the money and the goods. Britannia can no longer rule the waves. Uncle Sam is the captain of the western world. With the acceptance of American command over Atlantic Treaty ships in the Atlantic, four centuries of British supremacy on the seas are officially ended. The end has been in sight a long time, but to come to the admission of it officially is a blow to national pride, a pride rightfully held since Howard, Drake, Raleigh and other sea-dogs overthrew the Invincible Armada of Spain in 1558.

Britain has not abrogated her right and responsibility of guarding her own shores. In accepting an American as NATO commander in the Atlantic, Britain has secured an extension of the Home Command to the 100-fathom line, and thus the American commander will have no jurisdiction over waters varying from 30 miles to 200 miles off the British coast. At a naval limitations conference a generation ago, Ramsay MacDonald, then Prime Minister, described the Royal Navy thus: "It is us." It still is, although in a restricted sense—limitations imposed by the realities of economics and power.

Common Sense In Government Agency

It is always pleasing, and we think it should be a matter of record, when a government agency anywhere gives out a ruling that is completely intelligible to the man in the street and one which impresses him as being eminently sensible. This is perhaps not such a rare occurrence as it may seem, since rulings which appear unintelligible and slightly daft receive the most publicity, but we anticipate no shortage of space caused by a spate of the kind of rulings first described.

We therefore congratulate the Housing and Home Finance Agency of the Federal Government at Washington on its no-gift ruling. It is a ruling clearly drafted by thoughtful men for application to human beings. It provides that no employee shall accept directly or indirectly for himself or for any member of his family any favour, gift, unusual discount, gratuitous entertainment or other things of value from any person, firm or business which does business or is a claimant before the agency. But this rule does not prohibit usual social courtesies, the refusal of which would cause personal embarrassment.

This ruling, in our opinion, simply puts into words the practice followed by any self-respecting public employee. Such a person may accept a free lunch, a cigar, a drink, a box of chocolates or a package of fruit without incurring rebuke. It is when gifts slide up to the mink coat level or reach the proportion of automobiles, deep-freeze units, vacations in expensive hotels, free airplane rides and fishing trips that suspicion is aroused and rebuke deserved. It is at this stage that a gift becomes politely known as an inducement, and plainly known as a bribe.

So the H.H.F.A. joins that select group of government agencies which have ruled wisely and comprehensively. May their tribe increase.

NOTES AND COMMENT

A botanist believes that the apple Eve gave Adam was an apricot. The expression "Adam's apricot," however, does not seem to us very likely to catch on.

"How can I clean dirty diamonds?" asks a newspaper correspondent. Frankly madam it is a difficult job and you would do better to throw away those you have and buy a new set.

The Calgary Albertan questions that statement that "ignorance is bliss," and thereby runs the risk of making millions aware that they have been miserable for years without knowing it.

In the last year 3,900,000 babies were born in the U.S.A. That is a considerable acreage of baby to be kissed by this year's presidential candidates. Remember to take the cigar out of your mouth before you begin, gentlemen!

"Within certain rather wide limits a person has a legal right to make a fool of himself," says a judge. It is a popular form of free enterprise and creative expression.

Five per cent. of Canadians will soon receive Old Age Pensions. At this time of year we think it would be popular to distribute a general January Depression Pension.

We read recently that this was the time of year to hear cardinals singing, and since then we have roamed the city, our ears cocked for a red-robed prince of the Church, his voice raised, presumably, in a canticle of praise. Only today did we realize that what was probably meant was one of those dowdy little red birds.

Fiddle-Faddle And Waste Paper

By IVOR BROWN

(Ed. Note: Ivor Brown is a leading British Dramatic Critic, distinguished essayist, and author of the famous series of Word anthologies.)

ASKED what I would like to see in 1952, I answered immediately; less misuse of time, print and typescript. What everybody wishes for 1952 is so obvious—peace on earth and lower prices—that it is scarcely worth argument. A small article must deal with smaller matters. One thing that strikes me every day and very forcibly—and one that must surely strike many other people too—is that we suffer abominably from excess of conferences, reports and verbiage in general. In short, we are all in danger of being 'gassed' to death.

Day after day my desk is loaded with wasted paper. Printed or cyclostyled wads of reading matter, mostly unreadable, descend on me uninvited and, since paper is scarce and expensive, this only makes it scarcer and costlier. What does it all consist of? Propaganda, reports of conferences, and summaries of investigations that need never have been made. Myriads of hours have been spent preparing this stuff and myriads of hands have laboriously set it in print and typed it out. One glance and there it goes—into the waste paper basket.

THE Government is, of course, a chief offender. I recommend a visit to any depot of the Stationery Office (British governmental publishers of official documents) to see the mass of figures and graphs and verbosity that is printed at the public expense. Inquiry after inquiry, blue book after blue book—and how much action?

Not long ago I noticed in one of these museums of dissipated energy and concentrated gas a report on the problem of Rats in Cyprus. You would think that the Cypriots and their administration might be able to find their own Pied Piper in the form of commonsense or scientific destruction of a common pest. Is this really an occasion for the Colonial Office to inform the British public in documentary form, presumably at the public expense, what the Rodent Officers of Cyprus are, or are not, achieving?

THE Government expensively disseminates the results of multitudinous inquiries into the habits of the people. Must we really be thus instructed as to how many wear spectacles, together with the age and sex of those who do. The oculists have the knowledge and they can keep it. I should not be surprised to hear of an official inquiry into how many people take marmalade at breakfast. My wish for 1952 is that Mr. R. A. Butler (Chancellor of the Exchequer) should stop all this fiddle-faddle immediately and absolutely. If private people like to spend time and money on everlasting quizzing and reporting and piling up of useless statistics that, I suppose, is their affair. We can at least refuse to help them and tell them to find some more profitable labour.

DO I exaggerate? Well, here on my desk is a volume called "Ayrshire", being part of the Third Statistical Account of Scotland. It runs to nearly 900 pages, costs a guinea (quite cheap considering the bulk) and deals exhaustively with parish after parish. I quote a typical paragraph from a volume which has taken five years to compile "with the help of several hundred local folk".

"In Rankinston there is a school club for the 12 to 15 groups meeting twice a year in the winter, the funds for which are obtained by the sale of produce from the school garden and the gathering of rose hips, besides the Army Cadet Force and a not very successful Girls' Club. The local troop of Boy Scouts had to suspend operations for want of a Scoutmaster. Both schools have football clubs for the boys and netball clubs for the girls"

I hope the missing scoutmaster has now been found. But might not the affairs of netball in an Ayrshire parish have been condensed in a book of 200 pages—or none at all?

✧ ✧ ✧

OF course, when we came to the United Nations and UNESCO (United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization) there is the usual enormous flow of printing, at public cost, of specialized information and advice, which may or may not be valueless. Surveying the Stationery Office's wares I note as one of these offerings a Report of the Co-ordinating Committee on Abstracting and Indexing in the Medical and Biological Sciences. If some interested party wishes to publish and distribute this wisdom as his private concern or charity, let him do so. But why should you and I be first taxed to subsidize and disseminate such stuff and then find that, owing to the paper shortage, a writing-pad that used to cost a shilling now costs three shillings and is made of far worse paper?

THEN there is the Conference nuisance. Literary societies have annual or more frequent conventions to which the members travel long distances. They sit on hard seats to hear some wordy pundit move a resolution, which is passed unanimously, proclaiming that "Freedom of Speech and Writing is Essential to Modern Civilization". I am aware of that fact. So is every reasonable person. And I am not travelling miles and enduring boredom and discomfort in a stuffy hall to endorse the obvious.

Conferences of educationalists, psychologists, of all the social reformers, theorists and doctrinaires multiply continually. The university towns are often fuller in the summer vacation than they are in the summer term because there are so many Summer Schools in full blast. When I read of these gatherings I remember G. K. Chesterton's lines about the dreary seriousness of the modern pagan:

But Higgins is a heathen
Who to lecture rooms is forced,
Where his aunts, who are not married
Demand to be divorced.

IT can be argued in favour of Conferences that all the solemn lecturing is a small part of the value. It is the contacts made, the friendships, possibly even the courtships and marriages, that are so valuable. Far be it from me to interfere with intellectual hobnobbing and even the incursions of sex. But why not have the warmth without the gas, the fun without the fuss? My compassion goes out to the secretaries and reporters who have to transcribe, minute or summarize all this word-spinning.

I cannot help wondering whether all the Student Conferences where Youth (with a capital letter) pours out its loquacity do more than serve the vanity of the speakers. When I was young, I studied, played and followed my interests. I never went booming at a Youth Conference. Egyptian students appear to have ample time for riot; our own have an equal facility for rhetoric.

What 1952 needs is more action, not more oratory and paper-chasing and passing of empty resolutions. What I would like to see in 1952 is much less waste of paper; what I would like to hear in 1952 is far more silence.

Letters To The Editor

AN "AGITATOR" SPEAKS

Sir: Further to "Education in Douro", the School Board of School Area No. 2, Douro, "do not intend to carry on any long drawn out discussion" on the subject of "Education in Douro", yet this is just what they have been doing for almost two years now. As for the "true facts" of the case for education in our area, many of them have already been presented in an undistorted manner in previous letters which have appeared in your column. However, it has not been deemed wise by the writers of these letters to have them published under their own names, as they have children attending school who have already suffered reprisals due to the fact that their parents are known to support a progressive policy in education. As my child is not yet old enough to attend school, I would be pleased to have my name appear in your column with this letter.

As for our so-called "deliberate bid to overthrow the Douro Council", we, as a group, are comparatively inexperienced politically and running our men in an election of this sort is good experience for the future, whether they get elected or not. The fact that they ran at least shows that they will be willing to do their share of the work when the time comes, as it surely will, when a representative from this section of Douro Township is duly elected to sit on the Council.

Our quarrel is most certainly not with the Douro Council, but with our own School Board who have very successfully vetoed our every effort to have the matters in question brought to the attention of the Council.

I am very sorry to read that our own School Board thinks elections a "waste of time". If that is so then how are the members of the general public to get any political experience? Just because S.S. No. 2, Douro, has been run in their own way by a select few for some time is no reason at all why this condition should continue indefinitely.

Yes, we have drawn attention to the schools in use in this area at the present time, pointing out inadequacies that were acceptable ten or fifteen years ago, but why should they be acceptable to-day? Other conditions have improved with the times. Why should education be held back in our School Section by the dictates of a School Board which feels that what was good enough a decade ago is good enough to-day for a population that has far outstripped the capacity of the educational facilities available? We certainly want our children to be better equipped to earn their way in the future than most of the past generation or two have been. When times are hard it is the man with forward-looking education who holds a job while the man educated in the ill-equipped school finds himself falling behind and finally, out on the street, probably in a bread line. Which class will our children belong to?

I wonder why the School Board, in their letter, did not elaborate on the locations of their two "better schools"? One, the Auburn School, is, I grant you, on a well-travelled road, but a number of the smaller children must walk more than two miles, a good part of it on the river-bank, to get to it. The other, the Rifle Range School, is on a side road some distance from any highway, and children from the V.L.A. Settlements must travel unplowed back roads in winter to get to it and these same roads are at times impassable because of flooding. Of course, five and six-year-old children are quite capable of wading through anything up to a foot of water and arriving at school with dry feet, in the estimation of the School Board!

As for the temporary schoolroom erected adjacent to the Rifle Range School the Board conveniently omits to state that this same schoolroom would never have been ready to open in September if the veterans from the V.L.A. Settlements had not given generously their time and energies to help with the building of this temporary accommodation. Also, "our very capable Public School Inspector" only sanctioned the building of this room as a last resort when it became plain that the promises of the Board regarding inadequate accommodation were not to be kept.

The Board has certainly picked up misleading information somewhere with regard to plumbing in a school which should be planned to accommodate two hundred pupils. The quantity of water they claim to be necessary per day would provide each child with a shower every time it went to the toilet, whereas it is really only necessary to wash the hands. This, of course, cannot usually be done even once a day under the present setup.

Does the School Board of any other school area in this district try to limit a pupil's right to the privileges of education according to the assessed value of that pupil's parents' holdings in the section? That is what our Board would like to do! In their efforts to do this, they quote figures in the press which they have evidently only learned from hearsay. Why don't they check properly beforehand if they wish their figures to present true picture, or do they not wish the picture to be a true one?

The school tax picture in the city of Peterborough is certainly presented in an encouraging manner in our School Board's letter, following which, they inform us that in the past, homes in this area have had to be "sold for taxes" on account of the high cost of education. That is a pity. Why has this situation never been brought to light before? It is indeed a grim prospect to look forward to if the facts have not been distorted. Of course, our own taxes, which work out, in the long run, to about the same as those paid by city dwellers, help to pay education costs, but this fact is quite handily ignored at present by our experienced, careful, furiously campaigning trustees.

"Yes", to the School Board,—we do have three excellent Public School Teachers in our schools who were lured to their present situations with promises of a new school to be erected, in which they would hold responsible positions.

As for the two school trustees elected to our School Board on Jan. 7th this year, granted, they are also of the V.L.A. numbers, but they most certainly do not seem to be with us in any of our efforts to date. These two men were elected largely because of election promises which have not been kept. Many of their supporters are sadly disillusioned now.

We, "the agitators", have had patience for many months, through a maze of broken promises and confused and misleading statements from our four trustees and their worthy secretary. We have only a few shreds of patience left and these are fast being worn away. What we want is something which, up to the present has never been apparent in the workings of our Board,—an honest, sincere, effective effort to better education conditions in our area. It becomes more and more evident as time goes by that if such an effort is to be made, we must make it ourselves, for hereabouts, it is not a case of the School Board helping to better things; it is a pure and simple case of the Good Lord helping those who help themselves.

This letter I have written as part of my effort to insure the future of my own small son and others like him.

Respectfully yours,
ANOTHER AGITATOR,
R.R. 10. KATHLEEN LAVICTOIRE

VETERAN REPLIES TO TRUSTEES

Sir: Those of us who are vitally concerned with the out-moded education for our children in Douro, read with much interest the letter printed in your paper from the trustees of School Area No. 2. I feel that it did more than any letters we could write, to show the general public the 19th century thinking that permeates the minds of those who are responsible for supplying the facilities to educate our children in this Area.

Their thinking is most typically displayed when they criticize the "small group of Veterans" for exercising their democratic rights in nominating and supporting some of their numbers for municipal office. It appears that it is considered an injustice to have an election in Douro, where appointments by acclamation have been the general rule. Any thinking person will agree that continued election by acclamation creates an unhealthy situation.

It might be pointed out here that this "small group of Veterans" were successful in obtaining at least ⅓ of the votes, and their feeling is that this could have been increased if the voting hours had been other than 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The "small group of Veterans" are criticized by the trustees for not giving the full details. We feel that some of the points raised in their letter should be elaborated. For example they didn't mention that one of their "better schools in the township"—the one with the inside toilets—was insured for $2,500 until the last meeting of the trustees. It shows how valuable they considered this property until the recent issue came up. They also neglected to point out that the temporary classroom built last summer, was built at a cost of between $2,500 and $2,900. Anyone familiar with building costs during the last few years will have some idea what type of structure can be built at that price.

It is unfair for the Board to try to draw our Public School Inspector into this issue. We feel that the Inspector made the proposal for the temporary classroom as a last resort to supply accommodation by September 2nd, because the summer months were upon us and the Board had done nothing to provide accommodation for additional pupils. Without this help from the Inspector, what would have happened in September? We would point out to the trustees that it is the policy of the Ontario Department of Education to favour Area Schools with transportation, and pay grants toward the transportation cost.

In closing I would like to comment on the new school requiring 15,000 gallons of water per day. Although I will admit ignorance on this subject, it would appear that based on the assumption that a toilet tank will hold 4 gallons of water, it would be possible to flush the toilets 3,500 times in one day and still leave 1,000 gallons for washing and drinking. It would appear that the trustees feel new toilets would be very popular with the students.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And the children of Israel did evil in the sight of the Lord, and forgat the Lord their God, and served Baalim and the groves. (Judg. 3: 7.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And the Lord sold them into the hand of Jabin king of Canaan, that reigned in Hazor; the captain of whose host was Sisera, which dwelt in Harosheth of the Gentiles. And the children of Israel cried unto the Lord: for he had nine hundred chariots of iron; and twenty years he mightily oppressed the children of Israel. And Deborah, a prophetess, the wife of Lapidoth, she judged Israel at that time . . . And she sent and called Barak the son of Abinoam out of Kedesh-naphtali, and said unto him, Hath not the Lord God of Isreal commanded, saying, Go and draw toward mount Tabor, and take with thee ten thousand men of the children of Naphtali and of the children of Zebulun? And I will draw unto thee to the river Kishon Sisera, the captain of Jabin's army, with his chariots and his multitude; and I will deliver him into thine hand.

And Barak said unto her, If thou wilt go with me, then I will go: but if thou wilt not go with me, then I will not go. And she said, I will surely go with thee: notwithstanding the journey that thou takest shall not be for thine honour; for the Lord shall sell Sisera into the hand of a woman. And Deborah arose, and went with Barak of Kedesh. . . .

And Sisera gathered together all his chariots, even nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the people that were with him, from Harosheth of the Gentiles unto the river Kishon. And Deborah said unto Barak, Up; for this is the day in which the Lord hath delivered Sisera into thine hand: is not the Lord gone out before thee? So Barak went down from mount Tabor, and ten thousand men after him.

And the Lord discomfited Sisera, and all his chariots, and all his host, with the edge of the sword before Barak; so that Sisera lighted down off his chariot, and fled away on his feet .(Judg. 4: 2-4, 6-9, 13-15.)

'Bringing Royal Family Down'

(From the London Spectator)

Is there really no one in authority in the office of any popular paper who realizes the disservice that is being done to the Royal Family by the current mania for plastering the papers with pictures of the Queen and the Princess wherever they move and whatever they do? About the fact there is no question.

A selection from the remarks I myself happen to have heard in the last few days are: "Bringing them down to the level of film stars"; "I'm sick of the Royal Family"; "Do you suppose the press have been given the hint to 'puild up' royalty?" I don't suppose anything of the sort, but I am not surprised that the question should be asked.

There have been one or two charming photographs published lately, particularly of the King and Prince Charles and of the reunion on Euston platform when the Princess and the Duke got back from Canada. But an 8 x 5 picture of Princess Margaret in a car in Paris, looking precisely as she looks in a car in London, of Princess Margaret dancing with a Gallic gentleman, looking precisely as she looks when dancing with an English gentleman, of Princess Margaret shopping in Paris just as she sometimes shops in London—all that may be well enough for the papers themselves, and it is satisfactory that they have so far got over the shortage of newsprint as to have ample space to squander on this kind of thing—but it is not, as I have said, by any means well for the Royal Family themselves.

Have the press chiefs ever heard why Aristides was ostracized?

Irrigation Proves Big Boon To Alberta Town

TABER, Alta. — (CP).— Taber used to be a dot on the CPR line called "Watertank 17."

Today it's a booming little town of 3,000 population with big ideas about the future.

Irrigation has brought the change. Taber hopes to become one of Canada's leading food-processing centres.

A $5,500,000 sugar factory rises in greyish outline like a streamlined castle against the sky. One of the world's most modern, it turns out 150,000,000 pounds of beet sugar a year.

A canning concern packs 300 tons of sweet corn a day during the canning season. A pickle industry is growing.

Specialty Crops

Under the stimulus of irrigation, the district is going in for specialty crops—tomatoes, cantaloupes, sweet potatoes, bantam watermelons.

Taber, about 25 miles east of Lethbridge, is surrounded by more than 20,000 acres of irrigated land. As the St. Mary-Milk River project advances, this may be increased to as much as 60,000 acres.

"Instead of scanning the skies for water, Taber people look to irrigation—for this is the liquid manna that produces prosperity," says Ted Sundal, secretary-treasurer of the Taber irrigation district.

"'Why, as soon as our specialty crops are in full swing there will be a small city of 7,500 here."

Youth Unhurt As Truck Fails To Make Turn

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 22 (ENS). — Nineteen-year-old John Herd of Campbellford escaped uninjured Sunday afternoon when the pick-up truck he was driving failed to negotiate a turn near Brickley. The truck went over an embankment and rolled completely over, coming to rest on its wheels. A passenger with Herd also escaped without injury.

Police and workmen had a difficult time getting the truck up the steep hill on which it was resting, about 30 feet off the roadway. A team of horses was finally called in when a tow truck with a power winch couldn't handle the job. Provincial Constable George Rose of Campbellford investigated.

Housing Fraud

MONTREAL, Jan. 22—(CP)—Documents seized in the apartment of Jean Lacombe showed a list of 1,242 victims in a housing fraud scheme dating back to last August which, police said Monday night, netted Lacombe $3,700. Police said the racket operated this way: Lacombe placed daily ads in a French-language newspaper. "Customers" were given addresses of supposedly vacant homes and paid Lacombe $3. The homes were either occupied by long-lease tenants or turned out to be non-existent.

Union With Neighbor Iraq Urged To Help Stabilize Troubled Kingdom Of Jordan

By ZEIN NAGATI

CAIRO — (AP) — The tiny, troubled Arab kingdom of Jordan, which rules over tht Christian shrines of Jerusalem and Bethlehem, is facing increasing pressure for unity with neighboring Iraq.

The pressure is from within the country. It comes from a large number of businessmen and political leaders. The unity project has been urged openly in the Jordan parliament.

Those who back unity with Iraq argue it is the only solution for Jordan's shaky economy. More than half of Jordan's budget now is a subsidy from the British, who have trained and led Jordan's famous Arab Legion of desert fighters.

Jordan's cabinet and King Talal —who took over the crown only a few months ago after the assassination of his father, King Abdullah—are against the idea. The British are believed to be against it, too.

Can't Report Debates

The voice of those calling for unity became so loud that the government odred newspapers to stop talking about it . The press, which had been for union, is not permitted to report parliamentary debates on the plan.

Jordan is a small, barren land which never has been able to support itself. It has been important in recent Middle East history, because it has a long common border with Israel.

The country produces little except a few agricultural products but it must import food to feed its people. It has a budget of about $35,000,000, of which $20,000,000 comes from the British.

Jordan is a landlocked country, except for a poor port on the Gulf of Aqaba off the Red Sea. A second-rate motor road connects Aqaba with Amman, the capital.

Refugee Sanctuary

Amman was a boom town for a while, during and right after the Arab-Jew fighting in Palestine. Refugees who fled with their money have found their funds exhausted. Business is stagnant.

Iraq, the ancient land of Mesopotamia, has vast potential land resources in the basins of the Tigris and Euphrates rivers. It has great oil riches which have not been fully exploited yet because the oil must be piped some 600 miles to the sea.

New pipelines are being completed which will give Iraq great new revenues in oil royalties.

Iraq has a population of about 3,500,000. Jordan's population — which more than tripled when Jordan annexed Arab Palestine in 1950—is about 1,800,000.

Against Idea

The military dictatorship running Syria is against the idea. So is Lebanon—the only Arab country with a sizable Christian population.

When King Abdullah was slain in a Jerusalem mosque last June, Nuri said and Prince Regent Abdul Illah of Iraq came to Jordan to press unification. Iraq is ruled by the boy king, Feisal, a close blood relative of the late King Abdullah and the present King Talal.

Both Jordon, with its Arab Legion of 35,000, and Iraq, with an army of 70,000, would play an important role in any Middle East command which the western powers propose to set up.

Oddfellows Down Hawks In Junior "B" Fray To Continue Win Streak

Unleashing a terrific offensive from the outset, Johnny Godfrey's flying junior Oddfellows smote the league-leading Belleville hockey Hawks 9-4 Monday night at Civic Arena to extend their undefeated string to five games. Cold weather reduced the crowd but those present witnessed a smart duel all the way. Oddfellows held a 4-2 advantage after a fast first period with the margin fairly indicative of the play; but Belleville closed the valves fairly well in the mid-frame to hold the hustling Godfreyites even, with DeGray for Hawks and Ab Buckton for Links alone able to dent the mesh, in a fairly even, rough session. Oddfellows uncorked a withering final drive in the third, led by Kevin Heffernan, to outscore the Quinte lads 4-1 and wrap up a decisive verdict.

JUNIOR CHAMPION—Blonde Rosemary Henderson, 19, of Winnipeg, was crowned junior ladies' figure-skating champion of Canada at Canadian championships held at Oshawa. She outskated nine other contenders in the free-style event and placed second in school figures.

Started Them

Army Armstrong, who played his usual strong defensive game, started Links away early in the first on a clever play set up by Leo Sullivan in mid-season form. Red Robinson followed suit as he whaled the puck into the twine from 15 feet out from the sticks of his linemates Ferguson and Buckton on a screened drive. A minute later, Heffernan scored his first of four sparkling tallies when he fired a rebound from the left side close in as Links attacked the Hawk cage on a series of fast rushes. Army and Twist drew assists on the play. Robinson and Buckton next came through with a thrilling rush from the blue line that saw the latter slip a perfect pass inside the attacking zone and the red-head backhanded a pretty goal to the open side.

Hawks flew back on the attack, stunned by this early barrage of enemy rubber, and De Gray hit pay dirt on a long low drive from the right blueline. Ray Carey gave his mates another spark a minute later as he sank a putt from short left wing. Links were shorthanded on both goals.

Rougher Frame

The mid-session found the two keen rivals battling tooth and nail as play roughened up with Armstrong and Lalonde staging a special bumping attack costly to the latter, who served thrice in the sin bin along with four other offenders. Ted De Gray clicked on a solo effort at the five-minute mark on a nice rush and play continued fairly even thereafter until finally, near period's end, hard-working Ab Buckton scored a beauty with a backhand from the right side close in as Lalonde sat in the penalty pew.

The finale saw the tempo of play increase still further with Oddfellows flashing their all-out form throughout to the bewilderment of their hard-pressed rivals. Buckton started the parade as he deflected Darky Bigford's stinging drive high into the mesh in the early minutes; then Heffernan scored three in a row in a sensational series of drives with his linemates who all played well. Carey tallied the lone Hawk marker of the frame on a pass from De Gray at the three-quarter mark. Hawks were minus three players for this game, Strahan, Jacklin and Brown, out with illness and injury, which accounted in part for their defeat but Oddfellows were full value of their win on the play.

Barrie Beats Kin

LINDSAY, Jan. 22 — (ENS) — Exhibition hockey here last night saw Lindsay's junior "B" Kin put up a stubborn but losing fight against the junior "A" Barrie Flyers.

The locals battled hard throughout but faded in the final 10 minutes to allow three goals for a final score of 7-4. Barrie drew first blood when 15-year-old Blondie White scored on a scramble. The Flyers were never headed by the Kin but were tied going into the third canto 3-3. Barrie got their second tally midway in the first and scored another just before the buzzer to lead 3-0 in the second period. Lindsay scored three unanswered in the third, al by the line of Powell, Schenkel and Dysart. Schenkel got one and assisted on two. Powell assisted on two and scored one and Dysart got the other. The game roughed up in the third with Copeland getting a misconduct and Stewart of Barrie a match misconduct. Schenkel and Dysart scored another goal in the third, but Barrie sank four by Collins, Woods, Martin and McDonald.

Badminton Club Enters 51 Events In Big Tourney

A strong team will represent the Peterborough Badminton Club in Belleville this coming weekend when the annual Central Ontario Badminton Association tournament is in the Bay of Quinte City. Play will be on Friday and Saturday nights.

A year ago the Peterborough club had three teams taking part in the final events with M. Charlton reaching the ladies' singles finals, to lose out to Port Hope. Marg and Bob Baker in the mixed, losing to Bowmanville Bob Baker and Al Harvey in the men's doubles, losing again to Bowmanville.

All those players will again be entered in the event this year.

The Belleville club have reported that the courts are in top condition, recently repainting the lines and filling in the cracks on the floor and the lighting is improved.

Enter 51 Players

On Sunday the Peterborough district sent representatives to make the draw in Port Hope. There they entered Peterborough Club contestants in 51 events and altogether more than 150 players will be whacking the bird about on Friday and Saturday.

Gord Simpson, Don Smythe, Bill Purcell and Grant Henry will be featured Saturday night when they will play an exhibition match for the crowd attending the final events.

During the Port Hope meeting, a Central Ontario Badminton League was mentioned with the possibility of competition between clubs next winter. These will replace the social inter-club meets which have been held this season.

In recent matches the Peterborough club has defeated by Cobourg, and tied with the Belleville club in Belleville.

Curling News

The open mixed rink bonspiel sponsored by the Bobcaygeon Curling Club, and played on local ice yesterday was quite an affair. Rinks were entered from Lindsay, Dunsford, Peterborough, and Bobcaygeon.

The loaning of this rink to the Bobcaygeon boys and girls was a real fine gesture on the part of the management, and it was just another link in the strong chain of friendship that exists between these two clubs.

At the conclusion of play light refreshments were served by the Bobcaygeon lady curlers.

The committee would like a few more rinks for tomorrow's Ostrander Trophy bonspiel. Get up a rink and let us have your entry tonight.

Hastings Beaten

HASTINGS, Jan. 22—(ENS)—Hastings TVL entry looked like sure winners for two periods Saturday night against Lakefield as they held a 5-3 lead going into the third period. The third period was less than two minutes' old, when Lakefield had rapped in two quick goals, and then at the 10-minute mark, went on the rampage scoring another five without an answer from the locals to win 10-5.

It was fast clean hockey for two periods, but Lakefield, by far the heavier team, started throwing their weight around in the third, and finally the Wasson brothers hit Blake, sending him to the medico, where four stitches were required to close a gash above the eye. When the ice was finally clear, Blake was handed a major for his share in the fracas along with D. and C. Wasson and Hill. Lakefield returns here tonight.

Hastings—Goal, Hill; defence, Petticrew, Hurad; centre, Stevenson; wings, Oliver, Morrow; alternates, Herrington, Blake, White, Isaac, Jeffs, Colby, Taylor, Lockhart.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Petes and Eagles tangle tomorrow eve here and that means a packed house. Eagles beat their city rivals last start but 'twas closer thanthis ere the finish. Just the other night in bed we were thinking of the hot tilts these clubs stage when they meet and, as slumber drew closer, we thought idly of Red Wilson. He's now managing editor of the Sarnia Observer but used to be sports editor when Orfuns played football 'gainst the Sarnia Imps. Red once termed us "the rhyming writer from the Rice Lake area." Our jumbled thoughts eventually produced this rather weird and rhyming dream:

* * * * * *

The sons of the Eagles are brave men and bold
And quite unaccustomed to fear;
They bounce you 'tis said on the word of Coach Ned
Just like Abdullah Bulbul Amir.
There are heroes on skates the press oft relates
And these are Petes' players, by gar,
Who ruin other fellas on advice of Coach Ellis,
Like Ivan Skavinsky Skivar.

Quite A Series, Huh?

Now these enemies met in playoffs, you bet,
And word was sent out in press sheets;
Great multitudes came so great was the fame
Of those Eagles and of the Petes.
They fought seven nights 'neath Civic's pale lights,
And the like of it fans never saw;
Each won and lost three and the seventh, you see,
Wound up in an overtime draw

OHA then got sore and said: "There is no more;
You'll have to toss up for the win;"
But it was no use, not a coin they'd produce
With which to flip up for the spin.
The Examiner scribe his lone vigil keeps,
Hockey's o'er and his heart feels no joy stir;
But at least he can sigh as he wipes a red eye:
"Comes lacrosse in the Month of No Oyster."

B's And K's In It, Too

Probaly the Kingston and Belleville columnists will take a dim view of a dream which leaves their clubs out of the playoffs. But one can dream, can't one? It could be far-fetched at that since the schedule goes a bit more than a month yet, but 'tis possible the local ice enemies might meet in senior "B" group finals. Wouldn't that be a honey? Standing at present shows a slightly different picture with Hawks atop with 22 points, Petes with 20, Kingston 15 and Eagles 13. And no playoff arrangements announced yet. Every game from here in is highly important to the Eagles as they trail the field, and they could get hotter than a TTC-tramworkers' meeting the rest of the rocky hockey route. They'll have to get and stay hot—or else.

* * * * * *

Down at Civic Arena last gloaming, the local Oddfellows clipped Belleville Hawklets 9-4 to run their unbeaten string to five junior "B" contests. Johnny Godfrey's gang are showing no favorites in their current hot streak, trimming Lindsay lately and now the boys from Bella Villa—these two teams having been scrapping all season for the league leadership. Meantime, the hustling young IOOF-ers, in third place, are creeping right up the ladder as the schedule shows signs of petering out. It ends in three weeks. The Hawklets minus a few players but were well outplayed in a lively tilt, the middle heat being rather rough. Heffernan sparked the Links with a four-goal performance, pulling the hat trick in the third canto. Whole team looked good in this effort. They're back at Belleville on the morrow and in Lindsay on Friday for two tough tests.

Marlene Stewart Named Ontario's Top Athlete

TORONTO, Jan. 22 — (CP) — Marlene Stewart got a new feather for her plaid golfing cap Monday. Ontario sports writers and sportscasters rated her the province's outstanding athlete of 1951.

The 35 newspaper and radio men participating in a poll of members of the Ontario Sports Writers' and Sportscasters' Association were unanimous in their choice of the 17-year-old girl from Fonthill.

She got the nod for her golfing achievements—last year she won two Canadian titles and the Ontario Women's Open.

Actually, Marlene got the association's first annual award by acclamation. The association had called for the nominations from each of its active members and planned a vote later to choose among the three leading nominees. It dropped plans for the vote after it tabulated three nominations and found that Miss Stewart was first choice of 34 members and second of one.

Winnie Roach Leuzler, of Toronto, who swam the English Channel, and sculler Jack Guest, Jr., of Toronto, tied for second place in the nominations with four second-voice votes apiece.

Began Parade Of Honors

Marlene began her parade of golf honors in 1951 by winning the Ontario Ladies' Open June 22. She surprised the experts by bagging the Canadian Ladies' Close title Aug. 4 and then went through a week of tough match play to take the Canadian Ladies' Open crown Aug. 11. She topped all that by capturing the Ontario Junior Girls' title Sept. 7.

The five-foot girl with the ready grin was the first winner of both Canadian titles since Ada Mackenzie turned the trick in 1933. She was the first native winner of the Canadian Ladies' Open since the war.

Marlene's golf career started as a caddy at the Lookout Point club near her home. When she got interested in playing, pro Gordon McInnis gave her lessons. He gave her the plaid cap she wears in all important tournaments.

The Stewart family has lived at Fonthill for 10 years, coming from Cereal, Alta., near Calgary.

Beatch Of Flyers Lead Scoring Race

TRENTON, Jan. 22. — Len Beatch, veteran centre for RCAF Trenton Flyers, holds a three-point lead in the Trent Valley League's southern division individual scoring race. Beatch has collected three goals and seven assists for 10 points. Brian Mulvihill, speedy left winger for Belleville Glen Roy AC, is runner-up with seven points.

Hal Legrow of Lakefield, and Ralph Hamilton of Havelock, are deadlocked for top spot in the loop's northern division. Both have 14 points, with Legrow having five goals and nine assists, while Hamilton has 10 goals and four assists. Legrow is tops in the assists department while Hamilton and teammate Mac Reid share the goal-scoring lead with 10 each.

Two youthful Stirling performers, Ross Mason and Doug Wannamaker share the scoring lead in the central division with eight points each. Mason leads in goals with seven to his credit, while Wannamaker's six assists are high for the division.

CHOOSE OLYMPIC SKATERS—Five of six skaters who will represent Canada at winter Olympics to be held next month at Oslo, Norway, were chosen following the three-day Canadian championships at Oshawa. Shown being briefed on their trip by Donald Cruikshank, president of the Canadian Figure Skating Association, are left to right: Norris Bowden and Frances Dafoe, Toronto, senior pairs; Marlene Smith, Niagara Falls, senior women's; Peter Firstbrook, Toronto, senior men's; Vevi Smith, Toronto, runner-up to Miss Smith. They will join Suzanne Morrow, 1951 senior women's champion and automatic Olympic choice, already in Europe.

Miss Smith, shown in a graceful split jump—a feature of her free skating demonstration — is an all-round athlete. Although she turned her ankle in the first minute of the final competition she went on to gain the highest marks in the national event.

Detroit Big Team In NHL Leads In Games and Goals

MONTREAL, Jan. 22. (CP)—There may well be six teams in the National Hockey League but a glance at this year's edition, whether it be at team standings or individual performances, shows but one team—Detroit. The Red Wings are comfortably perched atop the league with 60 points, nine more than the second-place Toronto Maple Leafs. They have won more games than any other team, lost less, scored more goals, have less goals scored against, lead the league in the individual scoring department and have the most shutouts.

A good deal of the credit for this is due to fleet-footed Gordie Howe who now paces the league with 42 points, two more than the former leader, Elmer Lach of Montreal Canadiens.

Howe has scored 24 goals — a mark equalled only by Montreal's ailing Maurice Richard — and has 18 assists for his point-total. Lach's mark is 10 goals and a record 80 assists for 40 points while Richard has a 24-15 count

Tied For Fourth

Sid Smith of Toronto and Don Raleigh of New York Rangers are tied for fourth spot with 37 points and Ted Kennedy of Toronto comes next with 35.

Johnny Peirson of Boston has 33, Ted Lindsay of Detroit 32 and Sid Abel of the Wings 31.

No small measure of credit also is due the outstanding work of goalie Terry Sawchuk who has racked up nine shutouts, five more than second-place Al Rollins of Toronto.

His goals-against average is 1:79, compared with 2:00 for Rollins and 3:30 for Harry Lumley of the last-place Chicago Black Hawks.

Rangers are the "gentlemen team" of the league, having spent only 334 minutes in the penalty box, compared with 440 for the Leafs, most heavily penalized team.

Individual bad-man honors go to Gus Kyle of Boston who has spent more than a game and a half playing time—95 minutes — in the penalty box.

Say Philadelphia Will Run Ottawa Team

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (AP). — Ottawa, a "white elephant" in 1951,, appears headed today for another fling in the Triple A International Baseball League.

Frank Shaughnessy, circuit president, said Monday that "nothing definite will be announced until the league meets in New York next Wednesday."

An authoritative source said the Philadelphia Athletics will operate the team. Shaughnessy said that he and the league's owners favored keeping the franchise in the Canadian capital.

According to rumors, the Athletics have entered into an agreement with Tommy Gorman, Ottawa sports promoter to run the Ottawa team in 1952.

Gorman, who operated the team in the Class C Border League in 1950, turned over his territorial rights to the New York Giants last season when they elected to move their International League franchise out of Jersey City because of declining attendance.

Under the agreement, Gorman had first option to buy the franchise from the Giants if they decided to pull out.

Attendance Poor

Attendance was poor in Ottawa last year and the Giants transferred most of the Ottawa players to their Minneapolis farm in the American Association at the end of the season, announcing that they were giving up their International League franchise. Gorman did not exercise his option and the franchise reverted to the league.

In November, the league almost completed a deal with Louis Baselice, who wanted to take the franchise back to Jersey City. But a stock-car racing strip had been erected in the Jersey City Stadium, making it unsuitable for baseball and the deal fell through.

Last week the Philadelphia Athletics' board of directors announced that they would not purchase the Ottawa franchise. It appears, however, that they have changed their minds.

Athletic general manager Art Ehlers said he would be present at the International League's meeting Wednesday.

Lockman Signs Contract

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (AP). — Whitey Lockman, whose shift from the outfield to first base was one of the key factors in the Giants' surge to the pennant, has signed his 1952 contract calling for about $22,000.

RACE TRACK TRUE STORY

A racing fan cashed a parimutuel ticket in Miami, Fla., on Monday which he bought at Hialeah Park Feb. 22, 1941. Andrew H. Maag of Connersville, Ind., explained that he left the track before cashing the winning ticket —worth $4.20 and when he reached his hotel, received a telegram calling him home. He said he carried the ticket in his wallet ever since and this is his first trip back to Miami.

Brantford Bows To Mercurys In 8-3 Defeat

By The Canadian Press.

Brantford Redmen, who looked for a while as if they would be one of the hottest teams in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A loop, cooled down a bit Monday night.

They also slid down one place in the league standing when they were beaten 8-3 by the Owen Sound Mercurys at Owen Sound. Mercurys moved into the Redmen's fourth-place spot, one point behind Hamilton Tigers.

Brantford, which before the Mercs took over had rolled up eight wins in nine starts, will have a chance to make a comeback tonight when the two teams meet again on Brantford ice.

Tommy Burlington, centre for the Mercurys, drove home three goals and assisted on two more. Bill McComb and Art Hayward each put in two for the Mercs and Gino Antonianazzi notched one.

Score For Brantford

Lloyd Ferguson, Bud Kemp and Don Oberholtzer scored for Brantford.

In a Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior game at Sudbury Monday night, Sudbury Wolves and Soo Greyhounds battled to a 4-4 tie in an overtime game—the second time they have tied this season.

Walcott To Lose Crown In 15 Days In New York Unless Fight Planned

By ORLO ROBERTSON.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (AP). — Jersey Joe Walcott, who took 21 years to win the world heavyweight title, may lose it in 15 days —in New York State.

The crown, donned by the 38-year-old Camden, NJ, Negro when he knocked out Ezzard Charles in Pittsburgh last July 18, will be without a wearer in New York State unless Jersey Joe agrees within 15 days to meet a legitimate contender.

The edict was issued Monday by chairman Bob Christenberry of the New York State Athletic Commission after conferring with C. B. Powell, another member of the three-man commission.

Christenberry pointed out Walcott failed to defend his title within six months as required by commission rules. The six months period ended last Friday.

Shortly before the New York Commission announced it was sending a letter to Walcott notifying him of the body's action, the Louisiana Commission withdrew recognition from Walcott as champion.

Won't Go Along

But the National Boxing Association declined to go along with New York and Louisiana for the present, at least.

Commissioner Abe J. Greene pointed out Walcott's six-months period does not end in NBA territory until March 14 since the rule was only adopted last Sept. 12.

Greene said the executive committee might waive the six month rule in Walcott's case if it was presented with good enough reasons. In Philadelphia, commissioner John (Ox) Dagrosa of the Pennsylvania commission said he favored giving the aging fighter more time.

Felix Bocchicchio, manager of Jersey Joe, called Christenberry's statement "part of a squeeze play."

"I don't know why they're forcing Joe like this," Bocchicchio said. "We're going to defend the title when we get the right set-up and terms."

Christenberry said he considered Charles and undefeated Rocky Marciano of Brockton, Mass., as the "foremost contenders."

Only the Marciano angle apparently fits in with Walcott's immediate plans.

The champion's manager said: "It looks like we're going to close with Harry Hunt in Los Angeles for a fight with Harry Matthews. There's no date or details but the thing looks good right now."

Elect Rutherford To Head Arena Board

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 22 (ENS).—The community arena board held its regular meeting on Thursday of last week to elect officers for the 1952 season.

Wallace Rutherford was named chairman of the board, with F. S. Linton as secretary and Austin Putnam, treasurer.

David Ness gave a report on the building, saying that the appearance of the arena had been much improved. The rafters, some of which were believed to have shifted some time ago appeared to be in better shape than previously. Mr. Ness said he is at present arranging to secure the advice of an engineer as to the structural soundness of the building, and hopes to have this done soon.

A delegation from Campbellford council addressed the board. Councillor George Free acted as spokesman for the group and was accompanied by councillors A. F. Collette and P. H. Macmillan. Mr. Free told the board that their presence at the meeting was the result of a delegation that addressed the last council meeting, bringing pressure to bear on the council to do something about providing more free skating for school children at the arena.

After talking the matter over, the board, by shifting the hockey practice schedule around a little, found they could crowd in a maximum of an additional four and a half hours of free skating each week. The free skating times are now: Monday 4 to 6; Thursday, 4 to 6, and Saturday, 9.30 a.m. to noon. Previously there was only a short period on Saturday morning when free skating was allowed.

The board made it clear that although they are possibly cutting down on their meagre income by allowing additional free skating, they intend to make no claim for any grant from the council. They hope to be able to keep the arena self-supporting as it has been in the past, which is proving to be a tough job with no TVL hockey in town this year.

F. M. Rutherford appeared on behalf of the local Rotary Club, asking for the use of the arena for the club to hold an ice carnival on February 1. The board said the club could use the arena for this date and fixed a price of $35.

One of the problems that has plagued the board is securing individuals to act as ticket sellers and ticket takers on hockey nights. A schedule was drawn up appointing members of the board to this task. The schedule is as follows Monday, Douglas Maybee; Tuesday, Glen Taylor; Wednesday, W. Rutherford; Thursday, Vernon Lockwood; Friday, F. M. Rutherford, and Saturday, Mrs. W .C. Tatham. It will be the duty of these persons to be present, or to make sure someone takes their place.

The board decided to leave David Ness in charge of the maintenance and repair of the arena and also made the caretaker responsible to him. F. M. Rutherford was named as liaison officer between the hockey teams using the arena, and the board.

To further encourage interest in the youngsters' teams, V. Lockwood, the Rotary representative on the board, has offered a free bowling game to each of the three most valuable players in each scheduled midget hockey game for the balance of the season. A further $5 award was given by Glen Taylor. This award will go to the player making the highest score in these free bowling games.

It was decided to hold an advance sale of tickets to the junior games to try to stir up interest. This will be done by school students and two $5 prizes, one each to boys and girls, will be offered for the student selling the most tickets during the season. These prizes were donated by Douglas Maybee and David Ness.

Big Boom Grows In Tenth Province

Newfoundland's Economic Director Stirs Up Big Things

By JAMES MONTAGNES

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld.—(NEA)—Out of Russian and German prison camps has come a young man who promises to become an important figure in the North American economy. He is Dr. Alfred Arthur Valdmanis, a minister in the former Latvia Republic, who is now director-general of economic development in the Canadian province of Newfoundland.

With the backing of a progressive Newfoundland government, headed by Premier Joseph R. Smallwood, Valdmanis is beginning to develop the island's natural resources. He is attracting labor and capital to utilize the vast timber resources, fisheries, and untold mineral wealth of the island of Newfoundland and the mainland area of Labrador. The boom is underway.

Newfoundland covers about 42,000 square miles of area. It has thousands of miles of bleak coastline, and icebergs are in view much of the year. There are some 350,000 people on the island scattered in small fishing villages along the coast, with few roads connecting them, and only one railway line crossing the island.

On the Canadian mainland, Newfoundland has jurisdiction over Labrador, an area of 120,000 square miles. In Labrador there are only 5,000 people, most Indians and Eskimos. But there are vast mineral deposits, waterpower resources and virgin stands of timber.

Labrador Iron Ore

Since Newfoundland became a province of Canada in 1949, industrial development has boomed. The biggest single development, already planned before the 1949 union, is the $200,000,000 iron ore development in Labrador and adjoining Quebec province. This development is jointly financed by Canadian mining interests and US steel interests.

Valdmanis recommended more industries. He and the premier toured Europe and the US and sucessfully interested industrialists and financiers.

Since he joined the government there has been built a $3,500,000 cement plant and there is a $4,000,000 textile mill near St. John's, to be in operation next Spring. A Swiss company has decided to build at $5,000,000 heavy machinery plant and other plans call for a fur processing factory, a leather tannery and a leather goods factory.

A birch mill has been built by the government and will utilize the vast birch forests in Newfoundland and Labrador to make veneers, plywood, doors and flooring. Planned for an early start are a marine oil hardening plant for the fish industry, a shoe factory, two chemical plants using by-products of the fisheries to make fertilizers and other chemicals, and a factory to make hollow cement bricks.

Canadian mining companies have gone into the island and have located important finds of copper and copper-zinc deposits which lead to possible new mines on both the east and west coasts of the island. And prospectors are busy tracing possible oil, asbestos, vanadium and gold outcroppings. Discussions are underway with a German firm to develop coal fields.

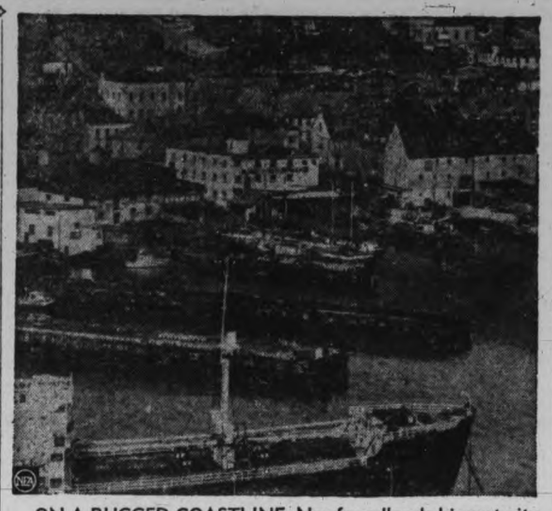
Probably the largest development, even topping the iron ore development already underway in Labrador, is the signing of exclusive rights in timber, mineral and hydro-electric power resources to a company financed by American and Canadina capitalists. This undertaking, involving 24,000 square miles, is just beginning to get into motion.

A Swiss company has been formed to cut 200,000 cords of wood annually in two Labrador timber concessions totalling 1,400 square miles. This will mean entire camps set up in uninhabited wilderness, thousands of men brought in and the Newfoundland government will receive $1,000,000 annualy in royalty on the cordwood.

Job To His Liking

Valdmanis is finding his job to his liking. Now 43, he was minister of economics of Latvia in 1938. After the Russians seized military bases in the country he resigned as a government minister, headed the electric trusts, banking and trade associations, import and export corporations. He was thrown into a prison camp in 1941 by the Russians as a political prisoner, and when the Germans drove the Russians out of Latvia they left Valdmanis in the prison camp.

He was released in 1945, joined the British and American military headquarters as a civil affairs adviser, for a time was with the International Refugee Organization in Switzerland, and then came to Canada on a scholarship. He taught political economy at Carleton College, Ottawa, was an adviser to the Canadian government's trade department, and from Ottawa moved to Newfoundland, as Premier Smallwood's right-hand man.



Since then Valdmanis has used his knowledge of economics and industrial development in northeastern Europe to diversify Newfoundland's economy, where he found similar natural resources, only more of them, than in his native land. He is also helping to bring in Europeans to swell Newfoundland's population and develop its natural resources for the benefit of the entire province.

ALFRED VALDMANIS. He found more than in Latvia.

CARVED OUT OF RUGGED WILDERNESS, new roads like this help develop vast resources in Labrador, half the size of Texas.

ON A RUGGED COASTLINE, Newfoundlands biggest city, St. John's, is focal point of many big new industries.

Bronx Derelict Secretary To Louis Riel

SASKATOON, Jan. 22 (CP)—Honore Joseph Jaxon, the 90-year-old Riel Rebellion veteran who died in New York early this month, was Louis Riel's English secretary, and in later years was connected with Saskatoon's first labor strike.

Jaxon was known around lower Manhattan as a derelict and once lived in a shack of orange crates on the banks of the Bronx River. But a search of his papers after his death indicated he may have owned considerable property.

Bruce Peel, chief cataloguer of the Rutherford Library at the University of Alberta, came upon much information on Jaxon while doing research on a book about Saskatoon which is being written by him and Eric Knowles, managing editor of the Saskatoon Star-Phoenix.

Mr. Peel said Jaxon was born William Henry Jackson in Ontario and that his story of having a Virginian father and a half-breed mother is fiction. Jaxon attended the University of Toronto and came west in 1882 or 1883, settling in the Prince Albert district.

Jaxon joined Louis Riel in February, 1885, and was made the French-speaking rebel leader's English secretary.

Became Insane

The excitement of armed insurrection proved too much for Jaxon and he became insane. Thus at Riel's trial Jaxon escaped the consequences of his association with the rebel leader.

He was sent to a mental institution in Southern Manitoba. One day a minister visited the institutional farm. Jaxon seized the minister's team and rig and did not stop until he had crossed the United States border.

Jaxon became associated with the Knights of Labor organization and reappeared in Canada in 1909 during a construction workers' strike in Saskatoon. During arbitration proceedings the mayor questioned the right of an American to participate in the strike.

Jaxon said he was not an American, but was silent on his former connection with the Saskatchewan valley.

AT STRIKE MEETING—Mayor Allan Lamport waited outside Massey Hall Sunday where striking employees at Toronto Transportation Commission held a meeting to decide future policy. The mayor conferred with union leaders following the meeting and was told the union, Division 113 of the Street Railway Employees' Union (AFL-TLC) has agreed to submit its wage demands to arbitration if settlement is reached on certain fringe benefits. The strike began Jan. 4.

Says Advertising Soothes Readers

CHICAGO, Jan. 22 — (AP). — Newspaper advertising has "far more force than the news and editorial columns," an advertising executive said Monday.

John P. Cunningham, executive vice-president of Cunningham & Walsh Inc., New York, told the Newspaper Advertising Executives Association convention that newspaper advertising's force is greater than that of other newspaper matter "even in the fields . . . of molding public opinion or inducing quick public action."

"It seems that from an editorial point of view, generally only bad news is reportable news," he said.

"The front pages of our newspapers are apparently edited by the Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse. Peace and contentment are not news."

However, Cunningham added, readers can find "peace and contentment in the advertising pages."

"Behind the thin fabric of fear and uncertainty that the editor weaves in the news columns is a fairly solid wall of reassurance in the advertising columns. Here there is evidence of peace and progress, of present contentment, and many a promise of happinss to come."

Expect Tax Rate Up Seven Mills

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 22 (ENS). — Campbellford citizens are going to have to pay more taxes this year. This was made known on Friday evening when council met to set the tentative rate, in order that the tax collector might have a figure to go on when collecting prepayments of taxes for 1952.

The rate is up about 7 mills from the 1951 figure. Increases in the county rate, school and hospital debentures and slightly over one mill on the town rate account for the higher taxes.

The increases that are known and must be counted in are as follows: County rate increase, .7 mills; public school trustee, .6 mills; high school area board, 2 mills; public school debentures, 1.5 mills; hospital debentures, 1 mill. The balance is 1.2 mills on the town rate. The separate school trustees' rate is up 2.1. This makes a total of 65 mills for public school supporters and 60 mills for separate school supporters. The rate last year was 58 mills.

The above rate is merely an estimate, and may fluctuate a mill either way when the budget is brought down and the exact estimates of the various departments are known. The rate is likely to be fairly close to the final figure however, and no matter what the final figure is, taxes here will be hgiher in 1952 than they were in 1951.

Parents Reject Division In Schools

TORONTO, Jan. 22 — (CP).—A group of parents whose children attend a North Toronto publict school Monday night voted against a proposal to establish junior and senior public schools in the city.

Junior schools would take pupils up to Grade 6 and the Senior schools would handle pupils in Grades 7 and 8. The theory behind the proposal is that students entering adolescence require a changed method of instruction.

The parents asked that things be kept in their present form with the addition of some senior school facilities to the present schools. There are eight public schools in the area.

Special Committee

TORONTO, Jan. 22—(CP)—The Canadian Construction Association Monday decided to set up a special committee to get action on a national apprenticeship plan. J. M. Piggott, of Hamilton, told the annual convention that delays in setting up a national apprenticeship plan have resulted in increased costs. Apprenticeship training had not kept pace with the demands of the construction industry.

Ask Canadian Pipeline

OTTAWA, Jan. 22—(CP)—An all-Canadian pipeline for natural gas should be built from Alberta to Eastern Canada even if it must be subsidized, Mines Minister Gemmell of Ontario said Monday. He added that, if necessary — pointing out he did not mean it would be—the Ontario government would favor it.

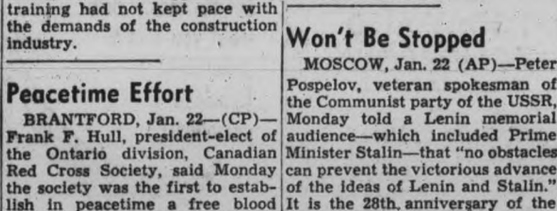
Teodoro Causin, 72, and his 72-year-old wife, Virginia, who bore him 21 children, were speechless. Causin won about 4,240,000 lire $(6,784) on an investment of 100 lire (16 cents).

Won't Be Stopped



MOSCOW, Jan. 22 (AP)—Peter Pospelov, veteran spokesman of the Communist party of the USSR, Monday told a Lenin memorial audience—which included Prime Minister Stalin—that "no obstacles can prevent the victorious advance of the ideas of Lenin and Stalin." It is the 28th anniversary of the death of V. I. Lenin, father of Bolshevism.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

ROAST OVERDONE

Firemen called to a Mark St. house before noon today found smoke was coming from a roast in the oven. Costly enough in these days.

UTILITIES BUILDING

Heat was turned on today in the Utilities Commission office building at Aylmer and Dalhousie Streets. The staff will probably vacate the old city hall premises about the middle of February.

PATIENT AT CIVIC

City council is sending flowers to James Hamilton, former mayor, who has been a patient at Civic Hospital since Friday night. Mayor Waddell informed the council last night of Mr. Hamilton's condition which today was not regarded as serious.

KIWANIS SPEAKER

W. M. Gemmell, chairman of the festival committee for the Kiwanis Club, will give an address on the 1952 Peterborough Music Competition Festival at the charter night anniversary of the Cobourg Kiwanis Club to take place tonight.

SLOW SALE

The Chamber of Commerce reports that the sale of licenses and permits is down from the total sold at this time last year. Jim Fraser, manager, said today that this means that unless they are picked up soon there will be long lineups when the deadline date arrives.

DOESN'T ADD UP

Mr. D. Manzer told the council Monday night that he had 34 names of residents on Ross and Rogers St. who were opposed to Canada Bread Co. locating in their midst. Impression that was left with town planning board last Thursday when it dealt with the question was that the two petitions showed a net result of 25 to 13 in favor of the factory.

ROTARY GUESTS

Frank Paterson introduced the following guests at the Rotary luncheon meeting Monday: Earle Scarrow and Ken McNichol, both of Brantford; Harry Barkley and William Lowery, both of Toronto; and Eric Westbye, Ross Bassett, Bert Sayers, Bob Aspinal, Russ Baer, J. E. Girven, T. B. Lillico, Norris Williamson, I. Yelland, William McDonald, all of Peterborough.

LISTENS IN ON SERVICE

Special arrangements were made for Mrs. John Charles Wood who, through illness, was unable attend the funeral of her late husband, Saturday. A microphone was set up for the minister and a telephone receiver placed beside the amplifier. As a result Mrs. Wood was able to listen to the funeral service on the telephone at her residence, 461 Braidwood Ave. The funeral was from the Kaye funeral home.

FIRST STEP IN AUDIO-VISUAL EDUCATION on a large scale was taken this term at PCVS. During the past several years students have been taught by audio-visual devices but one class, covering a variety of subjects, is held weekly for the 400 Grade IX students. Movies on art, geography, history and science hold the students' attention (left, top) just as much as a thrilling murder mystery at a downtown theatre. James McNabb, director of the audio-visual class, (left in right top) shows Principal C. S. Brown (at right) the film for this week. The class also helps to develop projectionists such as Bernard Hamilton (left, lower photo) who operates the machine with assistance from teacher, V. R. Henry (at right).—(Examiner Staff Photos)

See Movies, Hear Records Painless Way To Absorb Facts At PCVS

Students of PCVS are learning painlessly these days—at least for part of their time at school. Teachers using blackboards, chalk and pointers still carry the load of instructing, but audio-visual teaching, using films and records, is playing an increasingly important part in modern education.

Audio-visual education is the up-to-date version of the old lantern slides that were used occasionally in geography, history and science classes. They usually failed to capture the interest of the students. But the modern methods make students as interested as they are in downtown movie houses.

Teaching with audio-visual aids has been going on at PCVS for several years now but only for some groups in the science and geography classes. The camera was too large to move around easily and many of the rooms were not dark enough to show films.

But this year Principal C. S. Browne wanted to include one period a week in which grade 9 teachers could be taught the counselling and occupation course. What would be done with the 400 students. Audio-visual education period was the answer.

Took Over Education

J. D. McNabb, a science teacher, was appointed to take charge of the selection, preparation and introducion of audio visual education materials. Arrangements were made with the public library for films and with CHEX in transcribing important broadcasts for use at a suitable time.

At first the 400 students acted as though the class was a Saturday matinee. But after several movies and broadcasts they settled down to absorb facts in classrooms which they had found dull, now were fresh and interesting. So far the class has been a success.

This method of teaching has many advantages. The most obvious is that it provides release from the confinement in time and space imposed by the limits of a classroom.

Through the films a geography student may take a trip to distant localities such as Africa and Australia to see and hear what he has been studying about. Or he may see historical events portrayed in life-like action and color.

In music, the orchestra, performers and instruments are brought to the students as well as in art the great works, artists and techniques are presented before them.

One of the films most interesting to the students this year was on science. They saw he growth of a plant take place in a few minutes on the screen instead of waiting weeks for the same results in the classroom.

Radio Programs

Radio programs, brought to the students by tape recordings, offer a large variety of subjects which can be included in music, history, English, French and science classes.

So far this term several problems have popped up in audio-visual classes. The chief one is the scarcity of suitable films which will coincide with the course of study. This is gradually being remedied as new films are produced in Toronto and Ottawa.

Another problem is the overcrowding. The one class includes 400 students and for the best results from an audio-visual education class there should be not more than 65.

But the advantages are many. First the learning is speeded up by the various devices of audio-visual education chiefly because seeing and hearing both occur at the same time; secondly, the emphasis can be restricted to one particular item at a time without extraneous items intruding; thirdly, time and space are no longer limiting factors.

2 City Firemen Attend School Begun In Lindsay

Two members of the Peterborough fire department are attending the regional fire school in Lindsay.

The school, opened Monday by Premier Leslie M. Frost, is being conducted by the Ontario Fire Marshal's office.

Acting Captain Victor Barry and Fireman Ed Wigg are the two representatives from Peterborough.

Premier Frost said the Ontario government's interest in firefighting is twofold: (1) to improve the province's firefighting resources and so cut down on the annual fire loss and (2) coordinate municipal fire departments for civil defence.

Pay $5 Million

During the last three years the provincial government has paid out $5,000,000 to the municipalities to finance the cost of their fire departments.

Standardization of firefighting equipment was also mentioned by the premier.

"Within the past few days the government has signed a contract providing for the standardization of all municipal and industrial fire hose throughout the province at an estimated cost of about $900,000," said Premier Frost.

"The federal government is contributing a third of this, up to a maximum of $300,000, and the province is paying the balance. Field work towards this conversion has already been started, and within the next month the Fire Marshal's Office expects to have the first trained crew of machinists in the field starting the first actual conversion on fire fighting equipment."

No conversion will be necessary in Peterborough as the equipment is standard size.

City Retires Garnet Brown Captain In Fire Department

Captain Garnet Brown of the fire department is being retired by the city council on a pension of $704.94 a year. This recommendation by the pensions committee last night was accepted in a motion by Ald. A. B. Burrows, seconded by Ald. N. Graham. Ald. T. D. Miller said that this financial allowance from the city was to last a long time. A former chairman of the fire and light committee, he said that he had found Capt. Brown an exceptionally able and upright man with a fine sense of duty to the city.

In the present day values the sum of $704 was not more than $350. Ald Miller seconded a motion by Ald. J. E. Gillespie that action be deferred a week for further consideration of the amount. But after discussion it failed.

Pensions committee had been guided by a report from Dr. L. W. Thompson showing that Capt. Brown had an attack of acute coronary insufficiency on Aug. 23 last.

Doctor's Report

"He now has quite a good exercise tolerance without developing any significant symptoms, but if he hurries for much distance he does state that he develops a pain which is described as of the angina type. Examination of his heart by physical methods shows no abnormalities and the X-ray shows that his heart is normal in size.... One would expect his outlook to be excellent so far as longevity is concerned provided that he takes reasonable care of himself." That quotation is from Dr. Thompson's report.

The pensions committee recommended that Capt. Brown should be retired immediately on pension. Members of that committee were: City Clerk Outram, City Treasurer Couper, and Engineer Chalmers, and Chief George Smith of the fire department was called in.

Mr. Outram explained that the committee was bound by the policy established by the council. It was recognized that Garnet Brown had a fine record in the fire department, "but the committee felt that any matter of policy should be determined by council. So the committee is bound by present pension regulations. As a fact, we went somewhat outside the pensions bylaw."

Recalling certain other retiring allowances which had previously been made by the council, Ald. Miller said the amount was at the discretion of the council.

Could Work

Ald. Burrows, chairman of the fire and light committee, said that all recognized the merits of Capt. Brown, "but we would be remiss if we departed from the regulations. The report said that he would be able to take on outside employment to augment his income."

Ald. S. Black remarked that allowances were set according to the pensions plan which the council had put into effect. "I don't see how we can depart from its provisions. It would be a precedent, and others might be looking for the same thing."

The Gillespie-Miller amendment was supported only by Ald. P. J. Anglesey, and the motion carried.

The committee report computed that on the basis of average earnings for the last three years, Capt. Brown's pension would be $628.87. "However, if his pension were based on his earnings for the year 1951, his pension would be $704.94. In this case your committee would favor paying $704.94 as pension."

Province Asked Take Over Road

County Council are asking the Department of Highways to take over the five-mile stretch of road between Fowler's Corners and Scott's Corners as a development road.

The road forms the boundary between Peterbordugh county and the counties of Victoria and Northumberland-Durham. These other two counties are also being asked to co-operate in having the department take over the road.

Deputy Reeve Robert McAdam of Smith township said there is a lot of inter-city travel on the road because it is a link between Highways 7 and 28.

"The townships have been trying to keep it open," said Mr. McAdam "but it's almost impossible because of the amount of traffic".

Under the development road scheme, the department temporarily takes over the road, improves it, and then hands it back to the municipality to maintain it.

Originally it was a corduroy road and runs through about a mile and a half of the Cavan swamp.

At one time the department was asked to take it over as a highway but the department refused.

Deputation Of Citizens Protests Rezoning For Bread Plant Site

Council To Study Problem In Committee, Home Owners Complain Industry Will Lower Values of Property

Objections to the sale by the city of a property west of Rogers St. to Canada Bread Co. Ltd., for a modern food manufacturing plant were submitted to the council Monday night in a brief from some twenty residents of that section of Ashburnham. Rezoning of the proposed site from third residential to light industrial was approved by the City Planning Board last Thursday. Council Monday night referred the matter to the committee of the whole next Monday, in a motion by Aldermen Miller and Burrows.

The brief read by Mr. Doug Manzer was supported by the presence of between 20 and 25 men and women from the Ross, Rogers, Hazlitt Sts. area of Ashburnham.

Among them was Albert Tivey, son of the late Roland Tivey, a member of one of the old families of that neighbourhood. A map of the city indicates a street named after the family, Tivey St., stemming from Rogers St. but unopened.

"We are very much in favor of bringing desirable industries to Peterborough," Mr. Manzer said. "We appreciate the work to this end done by the council and the Junior Chamber of Commerce, but we wish to protest the rezoning of the area in question."

No Legal Standing.

"Myself and others have bought property on the understanding that the area was zoned for single residential units. May I personally recommend that the city personnel be advised to point out that the so-called zoning bylaw has no legal standing, whenever they give information concerning restrictions."

The proposed bread industry, Mr. Manzer said, would create considerable noise in the neighbourhood. "Heavy and light motor transport will undoubtedly be used both late at night and early in the morning. Most bakeries work on several shifts. Therefore we can expect employees' cars to be arriving and departing at various undesirable hours. We do not know that this concern will not use available railway facilites."

"We feel that there is certainly going to be a smell associated with this bakery. While we do not intend to imply that it will be an unsanitary filthy smell, we do anticipate with pleasure the prospect of having a fresh bread smell stuffed up our nostrils six or seven days a week."

Danger To Children.

Mr. Manzer said the rezoning would tend to deteriorate "the value of our property" by increased traffic and parking in the area "We do not expect that this concern will guarantee to provide employees parking space, and it obviously cannot do anything but increase traffic, which increases the danger to younger children and hence decreases the desirability of the property to family groups."

Streets would probably have to be improved for the factory traffic, with increased taxes falling on the property owners. "We do not want to see a disproportionately small group of property owners indirectly subsidizing an industrial concern."

Mr. Manzer said there appeared to be some discrepancies in the several petitions. He suggested that the first negative (objecting) petition carried some 80 signatures, but according to the Examiner report that number was reduced to 13. The final petition presented by the Junior Chamber of Commerce had 25 names, and the division of support by those figures was 25 to 13 in favor of rezoning.

Smith Requests Reduction In Water Charge

Reeve Gordon Fitzgerald and Councillor Sidney Brown, of Smith township, requested the Utilities Commission Monday for a reduction in the $200 a year charge for use of hydrants and water by the suburban fire brigade along the north side of the city.

Eleven hydrants are available in that area, although only two are in the township. The others are on boundary streets.

Ross L. Dobbin, manager for the Commission, said the charge to the city last year was at the rate of $66 a hydrant. He also reported that a Utilities inspector had frequently found frozen the hydrant from which water is drawn for the brigade's tanks. Apparently it was not being properly drained.

Reeve Fitzgerald said the suburban brigade was 'a little in the red," and they thought they should ask for some cost concession as there were only two or three fire calls during the year.

18 Helped At Zacks Fire

"Eighteen of their men helped at the Zacks fire," Mr. Fitzgerald said. "There was no reimbursement from the city, and that was one cause of the deficit."

Sentiment of the Commission was that the available use of 11 hydrants at $200 a year was a reasonable charge.

"It is a standby service," Gordon Langley said. "I think the suburban brigade is getting a concession even at $200."

Gordon Matthews, chairman, said the Commission had not set the city rate this year, and the Commission decided to deal with the Smith request at that time.

Councillor Brown said the brigade had not hooked onto a hydrant since last fall.

Japan Enchants Padre Former Peterborough Man

Capt. the Rev. Donald Howson, for many years a minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Fredericton, N.B., is a son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Howson, Aylmer St. Last summer he joined the Canadian Army, as a padre, spent a short time in Japan and then went on to Korea.

BY CAPT. DONALD HOWSON

KURE, Japan — From early childhood I have admired the elm tree. To me, she was indeed the queen of the hardwoods.

If the elm is the queen of the forest, the pine is the king; for this majestic conifer soars in majestic fashion far above the lesser trees. There is a solemn splendour to the pine that commands respect—perhaps even reverence. I have always loved the pine—the lofty ones that reach their slender peaks far into the sky, and the smaller ones that permit their soft, cooling branches to caress you in the summer's heat.

This is perhaps why I have come to love Japan, even in the short few days I have been in this far eastern land. For the hills and mountains of her countryside are dotted with pines—gnarled pines, bent with age, young sturdy pines that grow securely upward, as if in confidence of the future

Old And New

I wonder whether I am wrong in thinking that in the sacred pines of Japan, we can read her past and see beyond the present into the future. For Japan is a mixture of old and new—of the strange and familiar. This morning, I listened to a servant girl—a Christian—singing "Gloria in Excelsis Deo" and her sweet voice rose above the pleasing chant of her companions who sang a haunting Japanese melody.

Last night I talked with a 19-year-old shopkeeper, who eagerly tried to teach me some Japanese while I tried to teach him a bit of English. In the afternoon I visited Eta Jima, an island off the coast of Kure, which is the seat of the former Japanese Naval Academy, now run by the Americans. I found myself wondering how we would feel if the Germans had taken over our Royal Military College, or if the Russians were to operate Sandhurst.

Happy People

Perhaps this is why I have come to have respect, even a love, for the Japanese themselves, as well as their country. They are a happy people, an industrious people, a polite people, a clean people. During the overnight rail journey from Tokyo to Kure, our compartment was swept several times, scrubbed twice. The train, of course, was operated by the Americans, but the conductors, porters, etc., were Japanese. The Americans are everywhere, anytime. You feel their presence. At the DAI ICHI Building, General Ridgway's headquarters in downtown Tokyo, sentries stand guard, and as I entered I felt I might be in the presence of a Gestapo—the Canadian corporal beside me preferred to stay outside. Later we passed the Russian Embassy, surrounded by a stone wall, but there were no sentries, no sign of life at all—I was struck by the contrast, but thought that perhaps it was only because the Russians had temporarily retired into isolation.

The Americans, it should be said in fairness, undoubtedly have done a good job of occupation. And I feel sure the presence of American troops, as well as our own British Commonwealth forces will bring blessings in the future—if the western powers maintain friendly relationships with the Japanese people. And if, in turn, the Japanese people maintain an economic prosperity and a political stability.

All Working.

One realizes how necessary both these goals are when one sees men and women, old and young, as far as the eye can reach from the train window, working in the rice fields, not even taking time to look up and ploughing small tracts of land the Canadian farmer would spurn; or when one sees the shops and market places of the cities, with the streets full of jostling crowds; or finally, when one sees the hundreds and hundreds of children with their round healthy faces and their happy, searching eyes.

These people will know us — Canadians, Australians, American, British — they will know our weaknesses and, let us hope, our strength. And we shall know them.. We shall go back to our respective countries— as I hope I shall — with an understanding and a respect for a country and its people that I never expected to have.

Russian, Czech Arms Reach Vietminh Rebels

HANOI, Indo-China, Jan. 22 — (Reuters)—Russian, Czechoslovak and German arms were included in 4,000 tons of military supplies which reached Communist Vietminh rebels in Indo-China from China in the last four months, an official French spokesman said here today.

GORDIE HOWE (No. 9) has just scored Detroit's third goal aganist Canadiens on the Montreal Forum Freeze in their recent game which Red Wings won, 4-0. Goaler Gerry McNeil is shown prone on the ice looking into his net where the puck is lodged. Dickie Moore, Habs' rookie is in the foreground. It was Howe's 24th goal of the season and tied him in this department with "Rocket" Richard. The Detroiter got an assist Sunday in a home game against the New York Rangers to take over the N.H.L. scoring lead.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Wilmer (The Great) Fields, who hits as well as he pitches, and does both unusually well, will play baseball for Toronto Maple Leafs in the International League this summer.

Fields, a 28-year-old Negro, 225 pounds heavy and six feet five inches tall, was the leading pitcher in the Intercounty Baseball League last year. He's currently leading the Venezuelan Winter League in all slugging departments except home runs and he's second in that.

Jack Cooke, Leafs' owner, who announced the acquisition of Fields at a press conference on Monday in Toronto, added that Fields asked a "fabulous bonus" —more than $10,000—before he cabled his acceptance of Toronto terms.

Leafs first tried to sign Fields late last summer. He and the entire Brantford Red Sox team, for which he played, were guests of the management at Maple Leaf Stadium for a Sunday doubleheader. Said Fields after the games:

"If that's International League Baseball, I should be able to hit around .350 here."

William P. Kyne, promoter of the 15-round middleweight title fight in San Francisco Feb. 14 between champion Sugar Ray Robinson and Carl (Bobo) Olson of Honolulu, announced Monday he had received Robinson's signed contract along with a $2,500 cheque guaranteeing the latter's appearance.

Albert E. Houghton, president of the Canadian-American Baseball League said Monday in Schenectady, NY, he will recommend at the next club owners' meeting that the Class C loop suspend operations indefinitely on the ground it is "suicidal for a small minor league to buck" television.

Toronto Argonauts plan to ask the Big Four Football meeting in Hamilton Saturday for abolition of the league's waiver rule.

Designed as a mutual protection pact for member teams to ward off player raids, the Western Big Four has asked the Canadian Rugby Union to force the Eastern Big Four to wipe out its waiver rule.

A group of Three Rivers business men at a Quebec Senior Hockey League meeting in Montreal Monday night, made application for entry into the league for the 1952-53 season.

Early in the season, Bill Tobin, president of the National Hockey League Chicago Black Hawks sold forward Guyle Fielder to the New Westminster Royals of the Pacific Coast Hockey League for $2,500. Tobin now wants to buy him back. New Westminster owner Kenny MacKenzie said Monday in Vancouver.

Peewees At Keene

KEENE, Jan. 22 (ENS)—In peewee action at the Otonabee Rink here Saturday, Father McCarney brought his Assumption lads down and they staged a practice game against a Keene team and put up a surprisingly good showing against their more experienced opponents. While outscored 6-5 on Saturday, they will be heard from in the regular schedule which commences on Saturday next at 11 o'clock. The Manley brothers and P. Doherty each scored for Assumption while Lorrie Shearer with two, Grant Shearer, Paul Nelson, Godfrey and Stillman were the Keene marksmen.

The Keene Eagles and Flyers hooked up in the second game and the Eagles took this one 4-5, Paul Nelson, Pete Shearer and Godfrey with two scoring for the Eagles and Don McCarthy, Lorrie and Grant Shearer being the Flyer goal getters. These two hook up in the second game next Saturday.

Flyers—Cameron, McCarthy. L. Shearer, G. Shearer, Steele, Scriver, Hawkes, Dickson, B. Shearer.

Eagles—Pete Nelson, Godfrey, W. Nelson, G. Nelson, Paul Nelson, McIntyre, D. Nelson, Renwick, Stillman, Pete Shearer.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Tommy Gorman, then managing New York Americans of the National Hockey League, tickled the fancy of New York fans by beating the drums for his new recruit "Rainy Drinkwater," alleged hockey star from the Caughnawaga Reserve near Montreal. The player, Jean Boileau of Montreal, actually was signed 26 years ago today but didn't make the grade.

Reverse Approach

WINNIPEG — (CP) — Frank Orme has a back door complaint. He has waged a one-man battle for 10 years to get householders to put street numbers on their back doors, as well as on the front.

Powell Boosts Scoring Lead

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (AP). — Centre Ray Powell of Providence Reds increased his scoring leadership in the American Hockey League with a total of 20 goals and 38 assists for 58 points.

League statistics including games of Sunday showed that Powell held a five-point lead over George Armstrong of Pittsburgh who had 28 goals and 25 assists for 53 points.

Veteran Steve Wochy of Cleveland followed Armstrong with 51 points. A three-way tie for fourth place existed, with Kelvin Burnett of Syracuse the only player still in the league. The other two were Jack Stoddard, formerly of Providence and Real Chevrefils, who recently left Hershey. Stoddard now is with New York Rangers and Chevrefils with Boston Bruins. Each had 48 points.

Powell's 38 assists and Armstrong's 28 goals were tops in the respective departments.

Pete Durham of Indianapolis, was still the penalty leader with 123 minutes. However, his penalty time had decreased considerably since he was converted from a defenceman to a forward. Durham has been penalized only 20 minutes in the last five weeks.

Gil Mayer of Pittsburgh led the goaltenders with an average of 2.56, comprised of 115 goals allowed in 45 games. Mayer registered his third shutout last week to tie Emile Francis of Cincinnati in that department.

Bancroft Club Pays Rink Costs

BANCROFT, Jan. 22 (ENS).— For the seventh successive season Bancroft Lions Club is again helping to sponsor the skating and hockey etfforts of the local and district children of elementary and secondary school age. Since its formation in the latter part of 1945 the club has always earmarked a sum for this purpose, first to pay for time on the community outdoor rink that formerly occupied the site of the present Canadian Legion building, and later in North Hastings Community Centre.

This money helps to sponsor the peewee and general school leagues that are operated by Bancroft-Faraday public schools on Saturday mornings, free skating for elementary school children on Thursday afternoons, hockey practices and school games for North Hastings High School. Besides this sometimes the schools are able to work skating periods into their regular schedules or stage special ice events.

The two local school boards also share this expense as part of their regular budgets. Usually the gross annual cost is around $200, with $100 paid by the Lions and $50 by each board.

The boys' and girls' committee of the Lions Club is in charge of this yearly project. Its members are: Ellis Mather, chairman; Jim Schram, Frank Hibbard, George Whitfield, Henry Phillips, Bernard Shapiro and Albert Wright.

Official Delegation

AMMAN, Jordan, Jan. 22 (AP). —Jordan decided to send a delegation of cabinet ministers to Beirut Thursday to receive 9,650 tons of wheat sent under the United States economic aid program. Gerald Drew, US minister to Jordan, will formally consign the wheat to the delegation.

North Sea Exercise

LONDON, Jan. 22 (Reuters).— Twenty-five British, French and Dutch warships and planes of the RAF bomber command Monday night began "Bandeau," the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's air-ea exercise in the North Sea. Exercise Bandeau, basically a practice in minesweeping, is the first combined operation of the big NATO sea program planned for 1952.

Send 90 Technicians

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 (AP). —The State Department said today about 90 more American technicians and administrative experts will be sent to Iran during the next six months to put a new $23,450,000 American aid program into effect.

93rd Veterans Form New Club

The 93rd Battalion reunion committee met with 30 members in the men's personnel room of the Armouries Saturday with chairman Harold Freeman in the chair. It was unanimously decided that a veteran's club be formed. Officers for the current year were elected.

Walter Farr was acting chairman. H. O'Heron on behalf of the ex members of the 93rd extended to Harold Freeman and his committees their sincere thanks for the manner in which the reunion was carried out and suggested the same officers carry on for this year. A minute of silence was observed in honor of 93rd veterans who died. Acknowledgements from families of deaceased members were read by the secretary.

The following officers were re-elected for the year: President, Harold Freeman; vice president, H. O'Heron; treasurer, Fred Oxley; secretary, Howard Hall; chairman of committees, Frank Smith. The newly formed club is to be known as Peterborough 93rd Veteran's Association and will meet temporarily in the armouries. It is hoped all former 93rd members will contact chairman Harold Freeman and their former 93rd comrades in the club.

The officers said that this Veterans Club in no way would conflict with the Canadian Legion Branch 52 but would give them every assistance at all times.

The count's mother accompanied her son from Washington.

Ask Government Unify Policy On Delinquency

LONDON (CP)—Establishment by the government of a strong inter-departmental committee to tackle the problem of child delinquency in Britain, is recommended by a special board which has been studying the subject for three years.

The board, appointed in 1948 and headed by H. W. F. Franklin, headmaster of Epsom College, blames "the present chaotic situation of overlapping responsibilities" for confusing the proper handling of malajusted children both before they become delinquents and afterwards. It urges the ministry of education, health ministry and home office to formulate a common policy as the only means of securing better justice for the problem child.

The board finds a close association between dullness and delinquency and contends that many dull and upstable children have found their way into corrective institutions because their special educational and medical needs have been left unsolved in their earlier years.

"The provision both of schools and institutions for the mentally retarded and of child guidance clinics with adequate staffing is tragically inadequate throughout the country," says the board's report. To meet this situation the investigators recommend establishment of residential psychiatric centres on a regional basis. Detailed amendments of the code of discipline are also proposed.

Approve Punishment

The practice of giving extra food as a reward for good behavior is condemned but the board favors restoration of the power to remove jam, cake, pudding and other goodies for misconduct.

The report says that not a single witness appeared before the board to suggest that corporal punishment should be abolished. It found that the cane was being used judiciously in all approved schools and remand homes.

After examining the four types of cane in use, the report concludes that none could be considered a brutal weapon. It held, however, that the type used in senior boys' schools was too thick and rigid and more likely to cause bruises than pain. It recommended a longer thinner cane.

The proposal was branded as "shocking" by The London Star which suggested the recommendation be torn up and that parliament should insist on abolition of corporal punishment.

The Star added: "When the Home Secretary considers the report he might remember the Spaniard's retort to an English critic of Bull fighting: 'At least in our country we don't flog children.'"

Long Weekends Not Popular Just New Zealand Headache

By J. C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, — (CP)—Among all the complaints heard from immigrants to New Zealand finding conditions different than they expected, the most frequent and startling is their dislike of the long weekend.

When the 40-hour week became universal in New Zealand during 14 years of Labor rule it was introduced in almost all industries by means of a complete shutdown on Saturdays and Sundays. Even essential industries and services which tried systems of staggered hours have come more and more to adopt the method of closing on Fridays and reopenings on Mondays, because of pressure from employees who object to working while other people are on holiday.

The result is that today almost everything is at a standstill on Saturdays and Sundays, bring great inconveniences and limiting the means of enjoying leisure while it is available. But despite these drawbacks labor unions firmly oppose any suggestion of returning to a rotation system by which more facilities could be available at weekends without increasing weekly hours of work.

Regular Vacuum

Many complaints are made by New Zealanders themselves, but the system comes as an unexpected surprise to new settlers. The idea of a complete break every weekend, seems, in prospect, a major attraction. It is not until they find themselves alone in a strange town, homesick and with a lengthy vacuum stretching out before them, that they begin to wonder how to pass the time. There are far more serious problems like housing which face the new arrival, but the long empty weekends often prove the final straw which make them decide they cannot settle down.

Those who stick out this period of loneliness eventually may adopt the New Zealand custom of visiting beaches, lakes or country, along with sports or social engagements. But the weekend is a problem for the permanent residents as well as the newcomers.

Factories and offices close without exception on Friday afternoons. Shops stay open until 9 pm, but after that most of them remain closed until Monday. Only confectionery and similar shops, selling ice cream, milk shakes and soft drinks, are open all weekend. Some grocers open for a few hours on Saturday morning, but for the most part housewives have to buy their weekend needs on Fridays.

Restaurants Close Too

Dining at restaurants is no way out. Very few are open at all during the weekend. Failing an expensive meal at an hotel—during strictly limited hours—the best to be hoped for in most towns is a grill or snack bar.

Hotel bars close at 6 pm Saturdays and are not open at all on Sundays. Cinemas are closed on Sundays too. Even gasoline stations are mostly closed on Saturdays and Sundays, though "emergency" stations open for limited hours. Few doctors attend their offices at weekends and it is almost impossible to find a dentist.

Grim though the weekends are to many new arrivals, they find a still more formidable hiatus during the summer holiday season, which is the reverse of Canada. At Christmas everything closes down for four days, and the process is repeated a week later at New Year. Coming at the height of the summer when food does not keep, this imposes something like siege conditions on the harrassed housewife.

Many warehouses, factories and other industries close down for a still longer period—from Christmas eve until about Jan. 14. During this time only the minimum of essential industries is functioning.

The desire to be off work at the same time as other people has spread to annual holidays too. More and more employees are being compelled to abandon staggered holidays and make the annual break at the same time, as they say their employees do not turn up if they reopen their businesses earlier.

Estonian Teacher Tells Experiences

Speaker at the University Women's Club meeting Monday evening was Miss Sarik, formerly of Estonia, who was in Peterborough a short time and is now in Toronto. She talked about her experiences in Europe during and after the last war.

First she described living as a refugee from the Russian army during the Russian occupation of her country, then life in her home town under the German occupation which resulted in her being taken to a factory in Germany for forced labor. She explained that conditions in the first instance are incomprehensible to people of a democratic country in spite of description.

When finally the Allies occupied Estonia Miss Sarik helped them to organize the displaced persons and begin the education system for them. She is a graduate of Tartu University of Estonia and studied at Leeds and London Universities in England so was very helpful to UNRRA and later to the IRO. She speaks Russian, French, German, English and Italian fluently.

Introduction of the guest was made by Miss M. McCulloch and she was thanked by Mrs. R. H. McClellan. President Mrs. O. G. Boyd was in the chair.

Affairs Minister Bow Tie Devotee

NORTH BAY, Jan. 22—(CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson, a devotee of bow ties, wore three of them during his visit to North Bay yesterday.

When he stepped from his train in the morning, he sported one with narrow stripes. In the evening, he wore a polka dot.

But his best was worn in the afternoon during a chat to the Women's Canadian Club—a creation in heavy silver and black bars.

Said one woman: "It certainly is striking."

Miss Gladys Langton reported 10 active Auxiliary groups, an increase of five in the year and an increased membership of 116. These groups raised a total of $51.

Laying the foundation of missionary education in the church are the Baby Bands and the work was reported by secretary Mrs. W. R. Philp. Five Mother's groups completed 45 layettes last year which were sent to misison fields. overseas relief, Children's Aid and Red Cross, and 300 articles were gathered in a shower of used baby clothing and sent overseas. There were 123 Associate Helpers registered last year Mrs. H. Tremaine reported and they made 167 visits in all.

Jamieson; this field embracing the theory and practice of temperance; social welfare, racial brotherhood and world peace; Christian stewardship, Mrs. A. S. Williams, who called this department "the pulse beat of the whole organization." Success in meeting the allocation of $11,510 was reported and the 1952 allocation was announced as $11,700.

A report on the use of WMS publications was given by literature secretary Mrs. A. J. Noftall. Mrs. E. Parnell, secretary of Missionary Monthly and World Friends gave the number of reports sent in from the Presbyterial and total subscriptions which had decreased by 35. Librarian Mrs. W. H. Morton reported a decrease in books loaned during the year, 92 being given out and 72 returned. Nine new books were purchased. She said the book shelf contains a number of expensive books on the special study this year "Home Missions in Canada," which are available to the Auxiliaries. Press secretary Mrs. Harold Lewis said six different newspapers had printed reports of regular and special meetings and that three scrap books were compiled.

New Zealanders Discuss Vice-Regal Post

AUCKLAND, NZ—(CP)—Suggestions that Governors-General might be selected from outstanding personalities in other British Commonwealth countries are being discussed with interest in New Zealand.

Commenting on an editorial in the Vancouver Sun approving such a step, the Auckland Star commends the idea and says it is eminently worthy of careful consideration by the New Zealand government.

The Sun editorial said:

"The world would sit up and take notice if Canada decided to draw her Governors-General from any or every part of the British Commonwealth of Nations. That would rekindle the Commonwealth spirit. It would typify Commonwealth unity. It would be a sign and signal to mankind that ideals still transcend power blocs and political curtains."

A new Governor-General of New Zealand will be appointed in midsummer. In the past the appointment has always been filled by nominations from Britain. A change was made with the appointment of Lord Freyberg to the position immediately after the Second world War. Although he had not lived in New Zealand for many years he had grown up in New Zealand and as Lt.-Gen. Sir Bernard Freyberg, VC, led the Dominion's forces overseas throughout the war.

Follows Example

New Zealand thus followed the example of several other Dominions by appointing one of its own sons as Governor-General. Lord Freyberg's term has been extended until June, 1952, because of the Royal tour, and speculation is rising as to his successor. There is no New Zealander with anything like the prestige which Lord Freyberg won among his countrymen by his exploits as a leader in two world wars.

There was a suggestion that New Zealand might make a gesture to its Maori race by nominating Sir Peter Buck, world famous Maori scientist, to the post, but he died recently and there is no other Maori leader of sufficient stature to be acceptable to both Europeans and Maoris as Governor-General.

This leaves the field very open for such proposals as that of extending the Commonwealth concept a step further by nominating some distinguished citizen of another Dominion.

Britain Presses War Against Flu

LONDON—(CP)—Assistance of family physicians throughout the United Kingdom is being enlisted by the ministry of health in a concerted drive against the scourge of influenza.

In an effort to find out more about the disease which annually exacts a heavy toll of life, the ministry has asked doctors in general practice to act as "spotters" by promptly reporting any abnormal outbreak of influenza. The patients afflicated will then be examined by specialists in an attempt to identify the virus that is active.

Ministry spokesmen said the move was not being made because of any fears that an epidemic was imminent. It was merely part of a plan to build up and improve the information service.

"We are also profiting by the experience of last winter," he added. "Then two areas, Newcastle and Liverpool, were severely hit but through lack of an organized spotting system we were never able to confirm the actual strain of the virus or check how far it spread to other parts of the country."

In co-operation with the Medical Research Council, a new vaccine, grown in eggs, is to be tried out experimentally this winter. The object is to ascertain whether the injection of this vaccine causes any strengthening of the protective substance in the human blood stream.

DOROTHY DIX

Husband Fond Of Cards Wife Feels It Is Wrong

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I have had quite a bit of discussion on a matter which we view quite differently. He likes to play cards—not to gamble. but as a pastime when visiting friends. He believes that kind of card playing is all right and would like very much to have me learn some card games. I have the feeling that any card playing is wrong. I have tried to change my viewpoint but while I realize that a social game of cards is not as wrong as the gambling type, I still cannot quite accept it. What is your opinion in this matter? F. F.

ANSWER: Playing cards, like so many other things in this complicated world, can be good or evil, depending on the use to which they are put. As instruments of gambling they are as vicious as anything on earth; as a means of passing a pleasant social evening they are as harmless as checkers.

The theatre, books, movies, dancing—all have pernicious potentialities as well as possibilities for good. Fortunately, all of these everyday sources of recreation, including cards, are more often employed in their favorable, rather than unfavorable aspects.

Don't Compromise With Conscience

While pointing out how innocuous a game of Canasta, for instance, might be, I would not want to undertake the responsibility of advising you to compromise with your conscience. Any attempt on your part to force yourself into doing something contrary to established ideals and training can result in an emotional conflict that will counteract any social gain you might achieve. If you continue your contention that card playing is against your conscience, your husband should gracefully accept your judgment and be proud of your adherence to principle.

Most of the trouble in this world is caused, I believe, by people compromising with their own convictions. Too few people are steadfast enough to maintain a firm stand on principle in the face of criticism. You are to be commended on having sufficient character to do exactly that, so if you cannot reconcile a game of cards with your conscience, let the cards go.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have gone with a boy for two years. Not long ago one of his legs became paralysed. Now he says I don't love him and am continually arguing with him. How can I bring back his love? MARY L.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Before you worry too much about your friend's attitude, how about your own? Are you really still in love with him, and ready to face the future with a full realization of what his handicap will mean? If you have any doubts about your own feelings for the boy, it's better to break with him now. If, however, you are convinced that you really love him, patience alone will win him for you. He feels now that the only emotion people can feel for him is pity; you must convince him otherwise, with such methods as you alone, with a deep knowledge of his personality and character, can figure out.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband is 33 years old and I am 17. Is the difference in our ages the reason he acts so cold to me? He is always treating me like a child instead of a grownup. We live with his sister, and if anything comes up, he discusses it with her instead of me. We have been married two years. R. A. C.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: My dear, since you still are scarcely more than a child, it's reasonable to assume that a man twice your age finds it difficult to believe you're adult. Only you, by constantly striving to impress him with your maturity can convince him to treat you as an equal. Sixteen years is a long time to span at your age, but since you love your husband and are willing to make the effort, it will be accomplished.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Dead-of-Winter Months Call For Protective Food Diet

The Preventive Medicine Band Wagon is where I am tootling from today. Makes very pleasant music too, for it saves your money that everybody is trying to pry from you.

The doctors are so busy that they do not need your business so I'm harming no one by advocating preventive measures.

Boiled down, they are this: take your daily dose of fortified cod liver oil or its equivalent in capsules, and eat an orange and an apple with the skin on every day.

If you are determined to make cooked desserts, make the ones that contain lemons, oranges and grapefruits, and other fresh fruits.

These are protective foods that contain the valuable vitamins and minerals that we need to get us through these two dead-of-winter months without colds or 'flu. Remember that last week I told you of the virtues of fresh green and yellow vegetables.

Do not prepare fresh fruits and vegetables ahead of time—do all of these at the last minute to preserve their vitamin content.

Fresh Lemon Ice Box Dessert

One 6-oz. can evaporated milk, 2 eggs, ½ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind, 1-3 cup fresh lemon juice, spiced crumbs (see below). Pour the can of milk into ice tray and chill until crystals begin to form. Meanwhile separate yolks and whites of eggs, and add to the yolks the sugar, lemon juice, and grated rind. Beat the egg whites until stiff and lightly fold them into the yolk mixture. The evaporated milk will whip when ice cold, so beat it now with a rotary beater until fairly stiff, then fold it into the yolk and white mixture.

Line the ice tray with spiced crumbs, and pour the mixture into it, decorating top with quartered maraschino cherries and nuts, if desired. Freeze.

Spiced Crumbs: You need ¾ cup toast crumbs so toast 3 slices of bread in oven to make them hard so they will go through the food chopper OR brown dry crumbs that you have on hand, under the broiler. To these add ½ cup brown sugar, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, ⅛ teaspoon allspice, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon ginger. Mix well, then work into them 3 tablespoons melted butter. Butter the dry ice tray first, then line the bottom and sides of it with the crumbs by pressing them firmly in place.

Orange Meringue Pie (like lemon pie only better if that's possible).

One cup boiling water and freshly squeezed orange juice, 1 cup and 6 tablespoons sugar, 1-3 cup flour, 1 tablespoons cornstarch, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 eggs, yolks and whites separated, 1 to ¼ cup spoons grated orange rind, ¼ cup lemon juice. Mix together the water and orange juice in top of double boiler and heat over boiling water. Mix ¾ cup of the sugar with the flour, cornstarch, and salt, and when hot into this stir the liquids. Cook over boiling water, stirring, until thick, then for 20 minutes, stirring occasionally, but covered. Stir this into the beaten egg yolks mixed with remaining ¼ cup sugar, then add the orange rind, and return to double boiler and cook for another 3 or 4 minutes, stirring. Remove from heat, add lemon juice and cool. Pour into baked pie shell. Make a meringue by beating the 3 leftover egg whites until stiff, then beat in the remaining 6 tablespoons sugar until it will stand in peaks. Bake at 300 deg. Fahr. until meringue is golden—about 30 minutes.

What's Right?

You often lose your temper and berate your associates.

WRONG: Pride yourself on your quick temper and your ability to put the other person in his place.

RIGHT: Strive to control your temper, since a quick temper is a liability rather than an asset.

SEOUL, Korea, Jan. 22 (CP).—Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, chief of the Canadian General Staff reached Seoul today for a three-day visit of Canadian forces in Korea.

He and his party arrived from Tokyo in the private aircraft of Lt.-Gen. William Bridgeford, commander in chief of the Commonwealth forces.

Simonds was met by Brig. J. M. Rockingham, commander of the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade. Simonds and Rockingham then motored to US Eighth Army headquarters where they had lunch with Gen. James Van Fleet, US Eighth Army Commander.

Simonds later planned to meet Lt.-Gen. Mike O'Daniel, commander of the United States 1st Corps and Maj.-Gen. Jim Cassels, commander of the 1st Commonwealth Division with whom he is having dinner tonight.

Norwood YWA Discuss Work In S. America

NORWOOD, Jan. 22—(ENS)—Regular meeting of St. Andrew's YWA was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stan. McMillan. Mrs. McMillan had charge of the meeting. Scripture readings were given by Mrs. Clayton Buchanan and Mrs. Robert Gordon. Prayer was given by Miss Isobel McMillan. Mrs. Rod Webb read the 90th Psalm and Mrs. W. Small gave a reading on this particular Psalm. Mrs. Spencer gave a reading 'A New Year's Mesage". Mrs. Morgan gave the topic, taken from the study book, "Meet the South Americans" by Louis H. Ruth. In the absence of the preident, Mrs. Rogers took charge of the business. The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. Rogers.

Mrs. McMillan and her joint hostesses, Mrs. William Kavanagh and Mrs. C. Cuthbertson, served lunch. A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. McMillan for opening her home for this meeting.

Religious Differences Discussed In YPU Meet

SPRINGVILLE, Jan. 22 (ENS)—The Young People's Union met Sunday evening at the home of Myrna and Lila Seymour, with lizabeth McIndoo in charge of the program and Myrna Seymour at the piano for the service of song.

The theme of the service was "Brotherhood." After a period of prayer, several of the young people read stories of several incidents that took place in the lives of young people, showing that rifferences in religious beliefs, in national and racial background, in ethical convictions and political ideas can create difficult problems in organized communities.

The second part of the meeting and the discussion dealt with the question "What attitude shall we as Christians take toward these differences?" The three attitudes mentioned were (1) a hands-off policy; (2) a policy of tolerance and a guarantee of basic rights; (3) tolerance with limitations.

A lively discussion followed and at the close of the meeting Mrs. Carman Seymour and daughters served refreshments.

At the close of a skating party on the rink at Scott's Corners on Saturday evening, Jan. 19 Lois Paddock, assistaed by her mother and sister, Lorraine entertained the YPU group to refreshments andgame s at their home.

Editors Predict Science, Politics Likely To Headline Next 50 Years

By CHARLES BRUCE
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Forecast for the year 2000:

A world freed of its Iron Curtain, its industries powered by dividing atoms, its governments re-arranged or merged, its people more lightly shadowed by disease, its adventurers beginning to explore the reaches of the universe....

In brief, that is the picture of the future seen by news editors of Canadian daily newspapers. They were asked by The Canadian Press to forecast the five biggest news stories of the next half-century. Their guesses, based on trends already hinted at in science, politics, and human nature, differed widely in detail, but the general trend was this:

The Atom

Atomic energy will be put to peaceful commercial use and will become the chief motive power in travel and industry. More than half the 30 editors who reported see this developing before the century's close. Some mentioned it specifically as opening the Far North to bigger populations through wide use in generating heat. In general, they believe the world is ... for an Atomic Revolution in this century more spectacular than was the Industrial Revolution in the 18th and 19th.

Medical Science

Medical science will attain new goals in its research toward conquest of cancer, polio and other scourges of the human race. Most editors forecast discovery of a successful cancer treatment.

The half-century will see the end of the Iron Curtain.

Many of those who made this prediction believe it will be achieved by revolution or collapse from within—perhaps on Stalin's death—or a crusading inward from the edges through Titoist revolt in satellite countries. Some predict it will take a third world war to end Russian Communism.

Governments

A shift in the line-up of governments was in the thoughts of about half the forecasters. Several tied in Canada's expected growth as a world power with possible establishment of Commonwealth headquarters in this country. A couple predicted some sort of Canadian union with the United States. Several expect to see a world government, others a federation of Europe. Predictions of Canada's population at 2,000 AD ranged from 30,000,000 to 70,000,000.

Space Travel

More than one-third the forecasting editors believe there will be some sort of space travel — probably still in the dare-devil stage—by the century's end. The moon was mentioned most frequently as the first objective likely to be reached in this interplanetary journeying.

Various

Advances in social welfare, particularly in Asiatic countries, weather oddities due to climatic changes, actual climate control, and house-heating by solar rays were among other forecasts.

Election of a North American Pope was predicted by one editor, and establishment of the Vatican in Quebec or the United States by another.

Despite the old-fashioned axiom that there's little news in virtue, two editors thought it noteworthy that mankind at the end of the century will be better rather than worse.

One, in slightly puckish mood, wrote:

"The greatest trend in the next 50 years will be the narrowing margin between the age limit for baby bonus and old age pensions. It is our prophecy that they will overlap each other by five years before 2,000."

Two others marked "end of world" among their choices. They made no suggestion on how to report this event.

Questions To Council.

Mr. Manzer raised a series of questions on this point. "Was the planning board aware of the extent of this trimming? We understand the Junior Chamber of Commerce were given a list of eligible names for a petition. Who decided who was eligible and who was not? How is the dividing line set?" Those were two of them.

He recalled to the council that a pre-Christmas date was fixed for presenting petitions about rezoning, "but we have found out that the Jaycees collected and presented a petition after the deadline. To us it seems unjust that the Jaycees should have been given such an advantage in time without formally advising the other people obviously involved. (We have already asked who compiled and what authority was used in compiling this list.)

"We understand the Jaycees were also given information as to whose names appeared in the negative petition. We feel that this gift of information when considered in conjunction with the extra time the Jaycees were given to assemble and present a petition could easily have resulted in a distorted view of public opinion very favorable to the positive (favoring) petition."

Re-Open Question.

Mr. Manzer suggested that this was a reason for re-opening the whole question. He also mentioned the industrial property bought by the city southwest of the city, and asked why was there no alternative property suitable to Canada Bread.

The request of the attending residents, Mr. Manzer said, was that the offer of Canada Bread Co. should be turned down, or that the rezoning of the property should be thrown open for further consideration in the neighbourhood.

Ald. A. B. Burrows said: "I think we should have more information on the brief that has been presented this evening."

A member of the planning board, Ald. Norman Graham said it had taken the view that the proposed site was a filled in property, that if some time or other it was bought for a house it would cave in, but the bread company could go deep enough to reach solid foundation. As to noise, it was felt that Colonial bus barn was only a block away on Douro St. with their big transport buses coming and going at all hours.

Need Industries

"We felt that Peterborough needs industries, and this was the only site Canada Bread would take," Ald. Graham said.

Ald. Angiesey said he did not have time to think it over, and Ald. Miller remarked that he did not think the council was prepared to settle it last night. "I'd like to move that it be heard in committee of the whole next Monday night," said Ald Miller, and Ald. Burrows seconded that motion. It carried.

The property north of Tivey St. was valued at $1,325 by Assessment Commissioner Davis in November, and the property committee of the council offered the site to Canada Bread at that sum. On Nov. 26 last, the company forwarded their cheque for $1,325 to buy the property. City Council on Dec. 10 applied to the city planning board to rezone the lot. Information at that time intimated that Canada Bread proposed to build a modern food plant at an estimated cost of $500,000.

City Clerk Outram's report Monday night recalled that the planning board on Nov. 29 had authorized him as its secretary to advertised in the local paper, informing the public of the contemplated rezoning, and inviting any objections.

Considered Petitions

Certain petitions opposing the rezoning of the area were considered by the planning board on that the Canada Bread re survey Dec. 11, and the board suggested the city with a view to selecting another site for their plant. The company reported that they still preferred the Rogers St. property to several other sites that were suggested.

Fir ily last week, the Junior Chamber of Commerce submitted to the board a petition they had secured by canvass in the area.

"Examination of the petitions for and against rezoning indicated that in the area directly concerned in the matter, there were two signatures in favor for every one signature against the rezoning," Mr. Outram reported. "Therefore, by unanimous vote, the city planning board passed a resolution that this area be rezoned for light industrial use, as requested by the city council, so that it may serve as the site for the Canada Bread Company's plant."

'Canadians Civilized' In Superficial Way

KINGSTON, Jan. 22 (CP). — Canadians are civilized only "in a superficial way," Dr. A. R. M. Lower, Queen's University Professor of History, said Monday night.

Speaking on the topic "Are Canadians Civilized?" Dr. Lower urged Canada "to be yourself."

Canadians have over-respect for the past. They have failed to be themselves, and have referred to outside standards.

While Britain and the United States were conscientiously national, in Canada "this tide of communal feeling has never been strong enough."

Canada might have to go through the "agony of a great formative experience" before "we become much more than pale spectators of the world's life."

SACRED CITY

Benares, scene of Buddha's first preaching, is a sacred city to Hindus and the most ancient city in India.

ONLY THE TAIL SECTION of a B-25 light bomber remained intact after the aircraft "flopped down" on a prisoner barracks at Mather Air Force Base, Sacramento, Calif., Saturday, killing six persons and injuring 61 others. The crash occurred minutes after the prisoners had returned to the barracks after their noon meal. The impact smashed the barracks "like a matchbox" and the debris caught fire 10 minutes later when the plane's gas tanks exploded.

Court Criticizes Liquor Act Dismisses Case

Criticizing the Liquor Control Act for "lack of clarity," Magistrate W. R. Philp today dismissed a charge of soliciting orders for the purchase of liquor against Eric Anderson, Lakefield undertaker.

"There are few reported cases on this section," declared Magistrate Philp, "and the accused cannot be convicted until this section is clarified by a higher court.

Defence counsel W. C. Grant agreed to let the same evidence, which was heard January 8 apply to three other charges against Anderson. Magistrate Philp also dismissed the charges of: having possession of liquor not obtained on his own permit; keeping for sale and selling liquor and having liquor in a place other than his residence.

Urges Watch Kept

After dismissing the charges, Magistrate Philp said: "In case the public gets the wrong impression, based largely on the man's own admission, I would suggest the police officers watch him (Anderson) more closely in the future. If on any occasion he purchases liquor or beer without his own permit, he should be charged immediately.

Commenting on the evidence on the soliciting charge, the magistrate pointed out that Anderson had on his own admission obtained liquor for Lakefield residents in Peterborough and delivered it to them over a period of years.

On some occasions, Anderson had written orders, at other times, he took the orders over the telephone, purchased the liquor and delivered it.

"Evidence of the price charged is in dispute," the magistrate said. The officers, OPP Constable Aimey Gaudry and Sergeant Stanley Palmateer mentioned the price as a flat rate of $6 per case for beer in Lakefield which they said Anderson told them was the price of the beer plus taxi fare if he made a special trip to Peterborough, he said.

Anderson said the price was $4 plus $2.50 taxi fare to Lakefield. The officers testified that Anderson told them his prices for delivering beer outside the village was arrived at on a zone basis depending on where the delivery was made. Anderson said in court, that if he was coming in to the city anyway, he just charged the cost price.

Permits Carriers

The Liquor Control Act permits liquor to be transported by carriers or "other persons, provided it is purchased legally, and delivered in sealed containers, on written authorization. Anderson did not have a common carrier licence.

Again referring to the lack of reported judgments on the section dealing with taking orders for liquor, and the vagueness of the wording Magistrate Philp said "I believe the accused carried on this business as a subsidiary to his taxi business which makes the determination of the law difficult under this section."

The magistrate referred to a judgment under a similar section of the old Ontario Temperance Act, ruling that it was not an offence under the act if the business was not of a commercial nature and said he was accepting Anderson's evidence that the cost was the cost of purchasing the beer plus a charge for taxi service. "No doubt the accused could be tried and found guilty under other sections of the Act," he added.

"The accused was fortune in that the liquor found was covered by one of the permits he had and no beer was found."

Condemning Anderson for carrying on the practice, Magistrate Philp said, "Proof of agency must be in writing. The taking of telephone orders is definitely illegal. If he continues the same course in the future, he lays himself liable to charges."

Members Plan To Broaden French Alliance Activities

OTTAWA — (CP). — A federation of Canadian branches of L'Alliance Francaise was formed at a recent meeting here to provide for closer liaison and for an expansion of the society's activities.

The new organization, to be known as "L'Union des Alliances Francaises du Canada," will attempt to revive branches which have suspended their activities, and will try to establish branches in important centres.

L'Alliance Francaise was formed in Paris in 1883 to propagate the French language. Branches were established in Canada and the United States about the turn of the century. The Canadian branch limited its work to sponsoring speaking tours by well-known French-language speakers.

In 1946, the Canadian Society decided there should be a federation or union of its branches to provide for a closer liaison. At a recent meeting here, representatives of L'Alliance from many parts of Canada, completed plans for the federation. The constitution has been submitted to various branches for approval.

Chief Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret of the Supreme Court of Canada was elected president of the new L'Union des Alliances Franchaises du Canada. Gustave Lanctot, of Ottawa, was elected first vice-president; Ernest Tetraut, of Montreal, second vice-president; and J. G. Andison, head of the French department in the University of British Columbia, third vice-president.

Elected directors were C. D. Rouillard, of Toronto; Senator John C. Davis, of Winnipeg; Leonidas Bachand, of Sherbrooke; Jean Bruchesi, Quebec's Deputy Provincial Secretary; Burns Adams, of Halifax, and Laure Riese, of Toronto.

All were elected for two-year terms.

The new organization will reply to requests for information, will suggest speakers for various organizations and will draft the itineraries of those on speaking tours. In addition it will attempt to revive branches of the society in some points and create new branches in others.

Calgary Theatre Group Lacks Shaw Style

EDMONTON, Jan. 22 (CP). — Adjudicator Pierre Lefevre "enjoyed the evening very much" on Monday night, but said not enough attention was paid to the flavor of "style" of Shaw in the Calgary Workshop 14 presentation of "Pygmalion" that led off the three-day Alberta Regional Drama Festival.

In the individual performances andi n the direction, the flavor of Shaw only appeared at the last of the play and the last scene.

The company had a good sense of comedy, but was not "bold enough in letting laughter subside, then hitting lines."

The festival continues today with "Angel Street" by the Lethbridge Palygoers Club and concludes Wednesday.

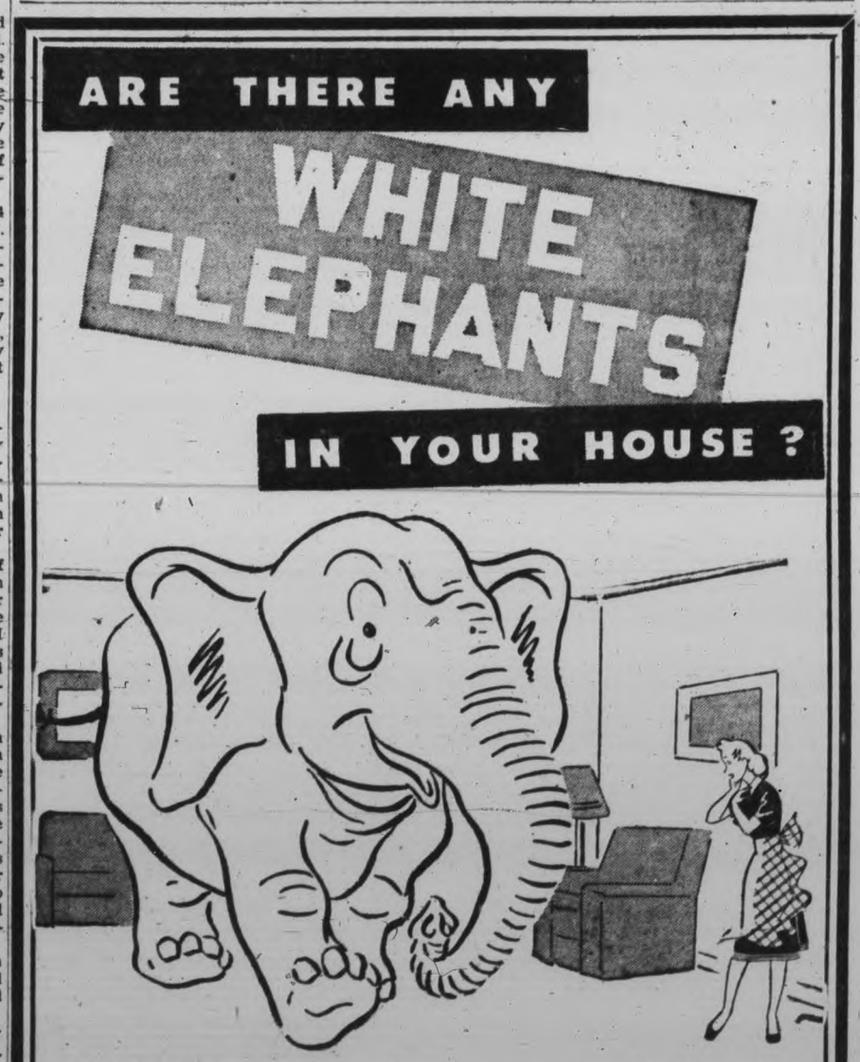
Court Correspondent Pens "Royal Story"



LONDON (CP)—Incidents in the daily lives of the royal family which do not reach the public ear are recorded in a book by L. A. Nicholls, accredited Buckingham Palace court correspondent.

Entitled "The Royal Story" the book recounts how Princess Elizabeth visited the "individual pie" department of a large firm and asked the question uppermost in everyone's mind: "Aren't you ever tempted to eat any of them?"

The frank reply of the worker: "Yes, I am occasionally," amused the Princess as much as anyone.

Another time the King and Queen, visiting the provinces, called at a farm. The head of the household ceremoniously introduced his relatives. "That's me sister and that's me brother. This is me. That's me wife and that's me son."

"Ah," said the King, smiling, "now we know."

Well, round them up and herd them all into the Examiner Classified Pages. Someone wants them. Just telephone the Ad Taker at 4641.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS —By Merrill Blosser

Good Television Reception Will Depend On Station Set Up in Peterborough

Peterborough will not have good television reception until a station is set up in the city. This statement was made Monday by H. G. Young, general manager, special project, Bell Telephone Company of Canada, at the Rotary luncheon meeting. The topic of Mr. Young's address was the Buffalo-Toronto-Montreal microwave radio system which is being constructed by the Bell Telephone Co.

The speaker explained that this new system, even though it is passing through the Peterborough area, will not bring better television reception in the city or district. Peterborough will have to wait until a TV station is built here, before the reception will improve.

"This may be much sooner than we think," Mr. Young said.

First On The Chain

He named Ottawa, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Windsor as the cities which will have stations next as TV progresses in this country, but could give no definite information when cities such as Peterborough would be included in the TV station network.

The present microwave radio system, which will be in operation by the time television is inaugurated in Toronto this year, will provide additional long distance telephone circuits between Ottawa and Toronto and also two channels for television transmission between Toronto and Montreal.

The Buffalo-Toronto link in this system will comprise a transmitting station at Buffalo, a relay station at Fonthill and a receiving station at Toronto. The Toronto-Montreal section, which will be completed in 1953, will have terminal stations at Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal and 11 relay points or towers.

Towers 27 Miles Apart

The towers in this system will range from 50 to 200 feet in height. Land has already been purchased for the erection of these towers and work on them will begin shortly. There will be approximately 27 miles between each tower.

The speaker showed charts and pictures, which explained more fully the problems, which had to be overcome to plan such a system. Lake Ontario provided a major problem in the Toronto-Buffalo link, with reflection from the water causing interference and as a result fading of the television image. This was overcome by the relay station at Fonthill and the establishing of two frequencies for carrying television signals. As reception changes special equipment in Toronto will automatically switch from one frequency to the other and consequently keep the signals at the highest quality possible.

The speaker was introduced by E. G. Baker and thanked by Graham Ferguson.

Civil Servants Training In Civil Defence

OTTAWA, Jan. 22 (CP). — Training courses began Monday for team leaders and their deputies in the developing program to prepare civil servants in Greater Ottawa to meet any emergency which war might bring.

Groups of 800 trainees will spend three hours a week in the 10-week courses. They in turn will train members of teams to perform rescue, police, fire warden, first aid and related civil defence duties.

It is expected that eventually more than 5,000 government employees in Ottawa will receive basic civil defence training.

Preliminary planning on the federal side has been completed, the Health Department said. A skeleton organization has been established in the Ottawa-Hull area with appointment of 70 building wardens and 150 deputies.

About 80 per cent of the required number of team leaders and deputies have been recruited.

At the same time a technical committee has been authorized to carry out a survey of government properties to determine their possibilities as shelters in case of emergency and to recommend measures to fit out buildings as civilian shelters.

Two Facing Charges Of Clothing Theft

COBOURG, Jan. 22 (ENS). — Harold Spafford of Hamilton and Bill Bright of Colborne were arrested by provincial and local police at Colborne over the week-end. They appeared before a justice of the peace and were remanded until Friday on a charge of breaking into the Salvation Army hall here, where they are alleged to have stolen a large quantity of used clothing which had been gathered by the Salvation Army for distribution to the needy.

Police said they would question them in regard to a garage robbery in Cobourg, and provincial police will question them in connection with a number of service station robberies in this district. The pair were arrested by Corporal K. Lyle, Brighton, Provincial Constable Lyle Erskine and Chief Constable H. Pearse of Cobourg.

Thing of The Past

OTTAWA, Jan. 22 — (CP). — Moonshining appars to be on the way out. The RCMP's annual report for the year ended March 31, 1951, says only 177 stills were seized during the year. This was a "low level" of seizures compared with before the war.

BREAK THE LAXATIVE HABIT THIS PROVEN WAY

If you take laxatives regularly, here is how you can stop! This proven plan helps you establish your natural powers of regularity, controlled tests prove.

Stop taking whatever you now take. Instead, every night for one week take two Carter's Little Liver Pills. Second week—one each night. Third week—one every other night. Then nothing! Every day drink eight glasses of water; set a definite time for regularity. This plan was proven in scientifically controlled tests.

How can a laxative break the laxative habit? Because Carter's unblock the lower digestive tract and from then on let it make use of its own natural powers. Further, Carter's contain no habit forming drugs. Break the laxative habit with Carter's . . . be regular naturally.

When worry, overwork, overeating make you irregular temporarily—take Carter's temporarily. Never get the laxative habit.

Get mild, gentle Carter's Little Liver Pills at any drug store. Only 35c. You'll be grateful the rest of your life.

Larke presided at the meeting and Harry Young, the church secretary, took the minutes of the meeting. Clifford Johnston, treasurer, gave the church report; and Cecil Neals the M and M statement. Delegates Ignore UN Smoking Ban

PARIS, Jan. 22 (AP).—An order banning smoking in the public galleries at UN committee sessions was put into force Monday. Two small fires have resulted recently from smouldering cigarettes. Delegates at committee tables, furnished with ash trays to stub out their smokes, however, continued to puff away.

PRIME MINISTER WINSTON CHURCHILL's last official act before leaving Washington for New York Saturday was to shake hands with 49 wounded Korean War veterans at Union Station. Here he grasps the hand of Pvt. Michael Heanue, of New York. In the foreground are other Army and Air Force men whose hand he shook. At left are Vice-President Alben W. Barkley and Mrs. Barkley. The British leader, who sails for home Wednesday, told the wounded men: "I have felt privileged to shake your hands."

Party Standings Stay Unchanged

WINNIPEG, Jan. 22 — (CP) — Party standings in the Manitoba legislature are unchanged following by-elections Monday in the constituencies of Brandon City and La Verendrye.

In Brandon City, the election was conceded to Reginald O. Lissaman, 43, Progressive Conservative, in a three-man contest. The complete first count under the province's preferential system gave Mr. Lissaman 2,967, Alex McPhail, Liberal Progressive, 2,233, and Harry Spafford, CCF, 1,303.

Mr. McPhail conceded before the transfer of Mr. Spafford's second-choice ballots. He said he did not expect to gain enough to win. The seat was formerly held by J. C. Donaldson, Progressive Conservative, who resigned.

Usually Liberal

In the traditionally-Liberal riding of La Verendrye, Edmond Brodeur, 53, Liberal Progressive, polled 2,320 votes compared with 1,357 for E. J. R. Arpin, Progressive Conservative.

The sat was formerly held by Municipal Commissioner Sauveur Marcoux, whose death caused the by-election.

The election left Premier Campbell's government with 39 supporters—33 Liberal Progressives, one Independent Liberal Progressive, and five Coalition. In the opposition are nine Progressive Conservatives, seven CCF, one Independent and one Labor Progressive.

Despite blizzard conditions, fair turnouts were reported in both ridings. In urban Brandon, 54.5 per cent of those eligible voted; in rural La Verendrye 62.5 per cent.

Business Signs Pointing To Slump, Aussies Fear

By LOUIS LECK.

SYDNEY, Australia — (CP) — The economic picture in Australia has changed with dramatic swiftness. A few months ago all the talk was of rapidly worsening inflation but business men now are talking uneasily of a recession.

So far their fears have not been expressed to any great extent in falling prices and it is generally expected that the increase in the basic wage due in February will be even bigger than the 14 shillings weekly rise in November. Basic wage movements directly reflect movements in the official index of cost-of-living, that is, of the prices of food, clothing, household goods and rent.

But these are the signs to which businessmen point in justification of their fears:

The Commonwealth Government, through the Central Bank, has clamped down on bank credit. Money is tighter. Hire purchase business-especially in the motor-car trade has shrunk by an estimated 33 to 50 per cent.

Trade Quietens.

Retail trade has quietened. Big stores are cutting prices. The rate of increase in business over 1950 has dropped from nearly 50 per cent in March to about 5 per cent in October.

The Stock Exchange is in a slump. The rate of Commonwealth bonds has gone from 3½ to 3¼ per cent. Prices of equities were marked down to bring yields into line but have continued to sag under the pressure of quietly remorseless selling and very moderate buying support.

Building Declines.

Despite the housing shortage home building has contracted. Prospective buyers can't find money so easily and many of them are concerned about the present level of costs.

Wool prices, though still well above 1949 levels, are down 50 per cent from the boom levels of early 1951. Monthly export income did not show the usual seasonal recovery toward the end of the year but imports continue to run at a high level. In 1950-51 Australia had a visible favorable balance of around £220,000,000. This year that may become an unfavorable balance of £250,000,000.

The number of vacant jobs at the end of November was 15,000 less than at the end of October. This was the first time for years that such a movement has been reported.

Bank clearings are declining. The October total was about 15 per cent below the September total.

And, unheard of for 10 years, one industry—textiles—is laying off employees.

The commonwealth government, on the other hand, is well content—officially at least. Its view is that the squeeze on non-essential industry is tightening. Dismissals from non-essential service trades will provide more labor for defence work and for the essential reconstruction jobs in the transport and power industries.

Diamond Dealer Said Smuggler

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (AP). — A self-described diamond dealer from Israel was held in $25,000 bail Monday on a charge of smuggling into the United States from Canada four gold bars valued at $20,000.

Assistant US Attorney Saul Kaplan said the man, Israel Sussman, is an Israeli subject and entered Canada in 1950 on a foreign visa.

Kaplan said Sussman had been watched for six weeks by customs officers. He was arrested on Saturday night in Grand Central terminal when a search of a suitcase he was carrying disclosed the gold bars, each weighing eight pounds.

Customs officials said the gold probably was stolen from mines in Ontario. US Commissioner McDonald set Feb. 4 for a hearing.

Get Same Treatment

PARIS, Jan. 22—(Reuters)—French monetary authorities Monday extended the same treatment to Canadian holders of French francs as American holders enjoy. Hitherto Canadian residents could convert their French francs into Canadian dollars only. Now they can buy American dollars too.

Stratford Hopes To Get Shakesperian School

STRATFORD, Jan. 22 (CP)—An ambitious plan to make Stratford a North American centre of Shakespearian drama was broached Monday night to city council by Thomas Patterson, of Toronto, former Stratford resident. Council decided to finance a trip to New York for Mr. Patterson to ask British actor Sir Laurence Olivier whether he would come here and discuss possible establishment of a Shakespearian drama school in Stratford.

Mounties Have Busy Time Curbing Crime

OTTAWA, Jan. 22—(CP)—An RCMP posing as a buyer of counterfeit money, helps crack an international bogus-currency syndicate.

An RCMP cutter plows through drift ice to rescue a distressed ship on the Atlantic.

Mountie dogs hunt down lawbreakers and locate missing youngsters.

These are a few of the many-faceted activities of the RCMP, Canada's national police force, as told in its report for the year ended March 31, 1951. The Mounties, operating from coast to coast and far up into the Arctic, again were the handymen of Canada's law-enforcement bodies.

The cold prose of the report tells of trailing killers, dope-peddlers, rustlers; patrolling the frozen north; matching wits with smugglers of goods and money; educating the public in good citizenship; helping out in disasters.

Hush-Hush Work

With even more than the customary terseness, the report gives no more than the merest peek into the hush-hush work of the RSMP's "special branch" in what it describes as "investigating subversive, and countering foreign intelligence, activities."

The branch, says the report, "continued its responsibilities."

But it goes into more detail in such cases as its foray into the underworld to trap a counterfeit ring operating in Toronto and Bufalo, NY. The forgers had run off $500,000 worth of Canadian $10 bills in addition to United States currency.

"A well organized criminal syndicate in Toronto cnotrolled the distribution of the Canadian counterfeits to all points in this country," the report says. "Prospective 'pushers' made contact with the Toronto underworld and secured whatever amount of counterfeit currency they were able to pay for."

Cracks Ring

Passing himself off as an out-of-town criminal, a mountie eventually managed to buy $25,000 worth of the bills from the Toronto group. Then the force closed in, arresting three men. Meanwhile, US authorities in co-operation with the RCMP had roped in members of the Buffalo organization.

At the time of writing, the report said, $325,000 of the bogus bills had been seized before they could be passed.

At the opposite end of the crime scale, in the snow-clad Arctic, the RCMP noted a slight decrease in lawbreaking through the vast area around the top of the hemisphere patrolled by 124 men.

They patrolled 501,417 miles in the north of which 48,475 was by dogsled and more than 10,000 on foot. The mounties had 243 dogs "on strength."

Dogs came into play in the relatively well-populated areas, too. The report tells of their locating lost children in Nova Scotia's Cumberland county and in the Peace River district of Alberta. And it was police service dog Pal from Regina that finally pounced on Archie Dlugopolsky to end a four-day hunt for a bank robber in the countryside near Wolseley, Sask.

Mercy Missions

At sea, RCMP ships carried out missions of mercy. The MacBrien sped out from Halifax to pick up the disabled freighter Federal Trader April 16, 1950. In another typical operation, the French carried a woman down the rugged Newfoundland coast to hospital at Burin for an emergency operation.

The report noted that the RCMP's "youth and the police" program—aimed at instilling respect for law and order into the growing generation—has been embodied in the everyday duties of the force since its start five years ago. Mounties have given 27,605 talks to more than 2,500,000 children in all parts of Canada.

Canada Likely To Become Major Iron Exporter In '54 Institute Told At Meet

OTTAWA, Jan. 22 — (CP) — Canada is likely to become a major exporter of iron ore by 1954, the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy was told today.

In a paper prepared for presentation to the Institute's 54th annual meeting, W. M. Goodwin, an engineer with Quebec Metallurgical Industries, Limited, reviewed the country's iron mining potential from coast to coast.

In general, he found that the annual tonnage from Canada's mines since 1939 has not been far short of the demand of the furnaces. The marked increase of furnace capacity now in progress and expected to continue until 1953 is expected to outstrip mine production for a time.

But by 1954, when the Hogarth mine at Steep Rock Lake in northwestern Ontario, and the new fields at Labrador begin shipping ore, there should be a period in which a "large surplus" will be available for Great Britain, Europe and the United States.

Adequate Supply

The survey showed that in the east, Canada has "an adequate supply for Canadian furnaces for an indefinite period."

In the Prairies and on the Pacific Coast, there is "a moderate supply of ore for local needs, sufficient for many years if conserved."

In the east, with the Wabano mine in Newfoundland and the New Labrador development, there is a large surplus of iron ore, beyond Canadian needs.

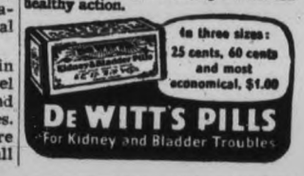
The report saw no change in the present interchange of raw materials across the Canada-United States border in central Canada.

"For many years," Mr. Goodwin said, "the Canadian iron and steel industry has subsisted on coal and iron ore from the United States. The balance of trade in iron ore will soon be reversed and we shall be in a position to repay gradually this debt to our friendly neighbor.

"The furnaces of Ontario will, however, always remain completely dependent upon American collieries.

Better Processes

Mr. Goodwin's report also foresaw "a greatly-augmented iron ore supply when economical processes become available for extraction of iron from sulphide ores."



It mentioned accumulating evidence in the Yukon of an iron range, or possibly a series of ranges, extending some 500 miles in a great arc from the MacKenzie mountains northwest to a point near the Alaskan border north of Dawson. While no ore-bodies had yet been found, there now was an incentive to search for them.

"It seems possible that this range might provide the first major reserve of iron ore on the Pacific side of the American continent," he added.

Discussing coal reserves, the report suggested that Manitoba might be served by a blast furnace drawing its coal from Alberta and its ore from Steep Rock.

Canton Officials Fear Navy Watching 7 Ming Sung Ships

(Editor's Note: Writer of the following story on the Ming Sung ships is a former editor of the Canton Daily Sun and one-time AP staff correspondent at Canton.)

Written For The Canadian Press

By F. K. WU

HONG KONG, Jan. 22—(CP)—Reports reaching here from the Southern China port of Canton say the Chinese navy may be eyeing seven Canadian registered ships—the celebrated Ming Sung ships—for possible use in aggressions against Indo-China, Formosa and targets in Asia.

With the Western world wondering whether Communist China will touch off new aggressions in Southeast Asia, the Ming Sung craft are attracting attention because they are simply rusting in the Pearl River.

They took refuge behind the Iron Curtain in October when the Ming Sung industrial firm defaulted on a payment due a Canadian bank. The owners, in Red China, apparently feared the ships might be seized.

Now it is reported by an officer of one of the ships that they fear to come out of hiding because their owners fear they might cross the paths of one or more of the three Canadian destroyers operating off Korea. Those destroyers do come south to Hong Kong from time to time, one by one, to undergo repairs or to give the sailors leave.

Fear Of Detection

The officer, who came here after leaving Ming Sung's employ, said it is fear of detection by one of those destroyers which is immobilizing the Ming Sung ships.

(In Ottawa, the Navy declined to say whether it has any orders what to do in case one of the destroyers sights one of the Ming Sung ships, which still apparently have the right to fly the Canadian flag since their Canadian registry has not been cancelled.)

The officer, who served aboard the Fu Men, said Canton officials came aboard all seven ships after they anchored in the Pearl River and were "delighted with their luxurious appointments."

"They were delighted, too, to sample the liquor in the heavily-carpeted grand saloon," he said. "These officials consider the ships their own now but they were dismayed to find that the seven vessels dared not put out to sea for fear of Canadian or even US warships."

He said their draft of 10 to 15 feet disqualified them for inland service in the Canton region.

Have Company

A former quartermaster of one of the Ming Sung fleet said the seven Canadian-built ships found themselves in company of some 10 coasting steamers of the Kuomintang-owned China Merchants' Steam Navigation Co., Ltd., which joined the Communist cause while anchoring in Hong Kong after the "liberation" of South China. They sailed from here to Canton under their own steam following British recognition of the Peiping regime.

The China merchant ships dare not sail down the Pearl River for fear of Kuomintang warships off Hong Kong waters and along the South China cost, the quartermaster said.

The staff of the Ming Sung Industrial Company here has been reduced to skeleton strength, as there is no prospect for the return of the ships to Hong Kong to resume service with the nearest Portuguese colony Macao and Canton.

Wonder About Business

In view of the desertion of the ships to Canton to place themselves beyond the reach of the Canadian government, commercial circles here are wondering whether it is worth while to do business with firms in Communist China which could shirk their legal obligations by withdrawing to the mainland.

The same circles see very slim prospects of resorting to diplomatic relief, since Canada, the United States and France have not recognized the Peiping Communist regime.

Name Campbell President Roseneath Fair

ROSENEATH, Jan. 22 (ENS).—Annual meeting of the Roseneath Agricultural Society was held in the town hall Saturday, with the president, F. J. Slade, in the chair.

The reports on the various competitions were given. A. J. Campbell reported for the field crop competition; Charlton Grigg, the calf club, and H. Doxtator for the swine club. After reviewing these reports it was decided to drop the swine club for this year and concentrate more effort on the calf club. Mr. Grigg was appointed chairman again and said he could see possibilities in the future through training and educating the boys and girls.

The choice from the members for the grain competition were Clinton oats, barley and fall wheat with a committee of C. Grigg, A. J. Campbell and B. Thackeray in charge.

On the acceptance of the report of the delegate committee the following were appointed to attend the Toronto convention in February: Class B fairs—F. J. Slade, C. W. Varcoe and James L. Timlin. Class C fairs—Ross McCracken, Wm. Robins, Bruce Timlin and Edgar Carew. Alternates to be Albert Braithwaite, Harold Davidson and E. Nooman. Those named to attend the Belleville District No. 3 convention on Jan. 24 were Clarke Sandercock, Harold Taylor, Charlton Grigg, John Beatty and Reg. Timlin, with alternates, D. Timlin, James Thompson and M. Smith.

C. W. Varcoe, Bart Thackeray and R. B. Nichol were appointed a committee to retire to revise the list of directors, and during this period A. J. Campbell gave a short talk on his visit to the annual meeting of the Peterborough Fair Board.

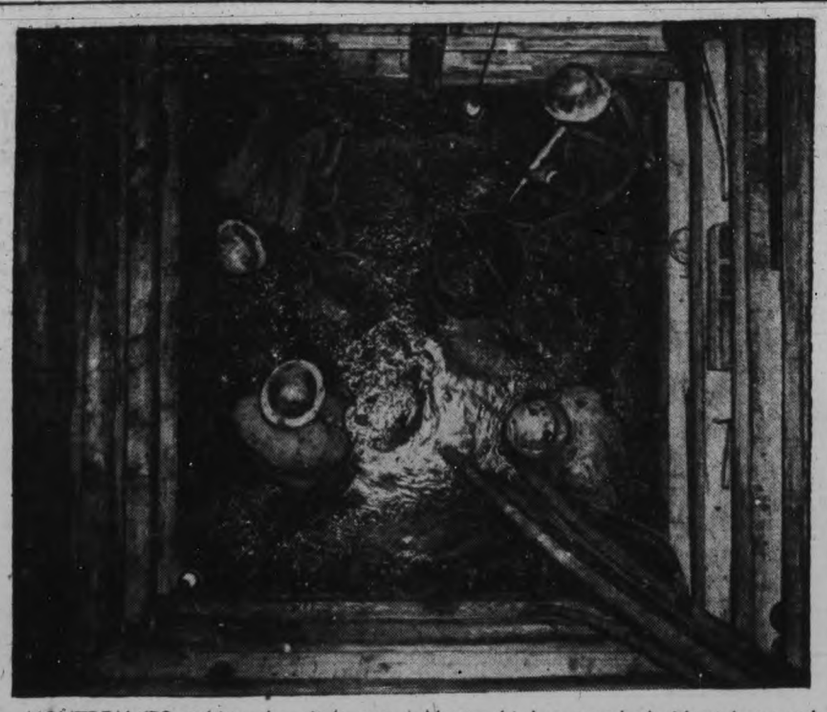
After the list of directors was approved, a directors' meeting was held to elect the officers for the year 1952.

F. J. Slade was nominated to the office of president again but regretfully declined, stating he had come to the place where he must resign although he had enjoyed the work over a period of years.

Secretary Varcoe expressed in a few words the feeling of those assembled, and the grand job that Mr. Slade had done. He told of the leadership through the years, of time and money spent which perhaps was not thought of or known except by himself and a few others closely connected with the fair.

Mr. Slade first became a director in January, 1920, and served in that capacity until 1927 when he became president, continuing in that office ever since. With Mr. Slade as president at that time were C. W. Varcoe as 1st vice-president; Harry Mouncey, now of Cobourg, 2nd vice-president; J. T. Drope, secretary; A. J. Campbell, treasurer, with M. Davey and Andrew Brown as auditors. With the exception of the late M. Davey all the others are still connected with the board but in different capacities.

Previous to his being a director, Mr. Slade was an exhibitor of race horses and being a great lover of horses has followed this work not only at his own fair but acting as a judge at other fairs. He He seemed to understand both sides and therefore was able to balance decisions.



A. J. Campbell, who has been 1st vice-president since 1929 received the unanimous choice for president. James L. Timlin, who has been 2nd vice-president, was stepped up to 1st vice-president, and Major R. E. Drope was elected 2nd vice-president. C. W. Varcoe was re-elected secretary with over 30 years' service, and Bart Thackeray treasurer, for the fourth term. Auditors R. B. Nichol and Don Sherwin were re-elected.

A committee composed by Silas Sherwin, Flex McMillan, Clarence Thackeray, Charlton Grigg and Clarke Sandercock was named to work with executive to prepare a slate of committees to be presented at the next meeting.

A representative of the Junior Farmers was present with a request to have the ball diamond on fair grounds moved with a view to installing floodlights A motion was made to leave same with the executive to decide.

Industrial Expansion Likely With Seaway

AVONMORE, Jan. 22 (CP).—A Transport Department economist predicted Monday night that the St. Lawrence seaway project will bring with it an industrial expansion for Eastern Ontario's St. Lawrence River area. G. Gordon McLeod, economist on the staff of Transport Minister Chevrier, told the Avonmore Chamber of Commerce that the seaway will make St. Lawrence sites "more attractive to industry."

MONTREALERS, taking the city's projected subway some years hence, may drive underground through a Venetian network of canals. Though most of them don't want to cross their bridges before they come to them—since the subway isn't built yet—they may have to be in the future, since Montreal is honeycombed with underground rivers . . . and engineers digging test pits for the subway have hit one of them. Drilling on Victoria Square, in downtown Montreal, they hit the subterranean St. Peter's River, which used to flow the length of the city more than a century ago.

Using Cyanide Guns In Coyote War

EDMONTON (CP)—Ridiculed as a coward and hunted as a pest, the wily coyote—or "little wolf," as the Indians called him—is perhaps the wisest, sauciest and most cunning of all Alberta wild animals.

For years the coyote has been hunted, poisoned and trapped Yet he continues to live and thrive near his worst enemy—man.

The animal has gained a reputation of being a killer of sheep, calves and poultry. Yet he is invaluable in keeping down the population of grain-devouring rabbits, mice and gophers, which form 51 per cent of his food supply.

As stock losses mount, farmers attempt control programs. But coyotes have shown an amazing ability to "catch on" to man's most ingenious efforts.

These have included organized ground hunts in which farmers circled a coyote area and closed in for the kill, low-flying airplane swoops by armed professional hunters and use of coyote hounds, which were turned loose after the coyotes had been chased into near-exhaustion by hunters in trucks.

Mothball Protection

One of the most unique methods is the use of mothballs, ringed around a herd of sheep. Whether the smell is distasteful to the coyote, or the wily animal fears the new smell as some kind of trap, cannot be fully ascertained but in many cases it has been highly successful in protecting sheep.

The Alberta government's latest control plan is the use of cyanide guns in areas requesting the materials, supplied free by the agriculture department. The $5 bounty for each coyote killed has been discontinued.

Cyanide guns — 3,300 of them have been distributed in 33 Alberta areas—appear to be successful but because they are not yet used on a province-wide basis the over-all results still are small.

The cyanide gun is placed in the ground. When the coyote pulls at a baited cap a trigger is released and poison is fired into the animals mouth. It dies within 100 yards of the gun.

No one knows exactly how many coyotes there are in Alberta. Estimates vary up to 200,000. But more coyotes have been reported this year than any other in the records of the provincial agriculture department.

Deadly Poison

Compound 1080, or sodium fluoroacetate, is under experiment. It was introduced into Saswatchewan last year when the coyote population was between 100,000 and 500,000. This year the count is estimated to be much lower.

This poison could kill all the coyotes in Alberta if it was used extensively and if the coyotes ate poisoned carcasses indiscriminately. But it likely would kill many birds and useful animals as well. Alberta plans to use it only to a limited extent and even then under strict precautions.

Besides controlling the population of rabbits, mice and gophers, the coyote also figures in the fur industry. A few years ago coyotes were in brisk demand so that the fur could be bleached and dyed for women's coats.

Demand Drops

But styles have changed and the demand has dropped off. Today coyotes are in fair demand for trimming and bring between $1 and $3 a pelt.

Best-known of the four species in Alberta are the prairie and parkland coyotes. About 80 per cent of them are happy to feed on rabbits, mice, gophers and berries. But the other 20 per cent turn outlaw for various reasons.

These renegades are the ones which make the daring night raids on poultry houses and cut down sheep in the fields. In many areas where mice and rabbits are scarce, the annual losses to farmers often mount into thousands of dollars.

If New Budget Adopted US Will Spend $10,000,000 An Hour Or $163,000 A Minute

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 (CP)—Larger than any budget with the exception of a couple of Second World War years, the $85,444,000,000 President Truman proposes to spend this year is difficult for the average wage-earner to encompanss.

If adopted, the new budegt would mean the US would spend $163,000 a minute during the year—about $10,000,000 an hour.

If you were to count a dollar every second for eight hours a day, 40 hours a week, it would take 11,416 years to do the job.

If each dollar bill were laid end to end, the total would stretch more than 8,000,000 miles — more than 240 times around the world at the equator.

The budget is four times larger than the $18,514,000,000 the US spent in the peak year of the First World War; as much as the country spent in the whole first 136 years of operations; and topped only by the budgets of two Second World War peak years when the government spent more than $95,000,000,000.

Eddie Albert Finds TV Job A Cinch

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 22 (AP).—The strangest casting of the new year makes Eddie Albert a daytime television performer for a 25-hour-a-week grind.

Albert for many years has been a popular performer on the stage and in many movies. That's why observers were surprised when he took over the five-hour-a-day spot on a local station.

"It may be off-beat casting," admitted Albert, "but it's the pleasantest casting I've ever had. The work is simple; it's just like entertaining at home."

It also provides the most money he has ever earned. Publicity releases quoted his salary at $3,000 a week, plus a percentage of certain profits.

"I've had offers to do daytime shows in the East," he remarked. "But . . . the big salaries I was offered meant nothing.

"The amount of salary a performer gets nowadays is not important. He can't keep much of it anyway. The important thing is to get participating interests in things that will bring money in over a period of years."

Part of Albert's deal includes interests in TV films he intends to develop with his own production company.

Try To Arrange Financing Of UK Orders In Canada

Find TTC Traffic Much Lighter As Strike Ended

TORONTO, Jan. 23. (CP)—The familiar red streetcars and buses rolled along Toronto streets again today. Nineteen days to the hour, after 4,786 operators struck in a demand for higher wages, public transportation in Canada's second largest city began to move. There was no ceremony and Torontonians, back again in the trolleys and buses, took the end of the strike in stride. Traffic moved freely throughout the day with few major tie-ups even though the big cars and buses competed for space on the streets with triple the pre-strike volume of automobiles.

Immediately apparent, however, was a drop in the number of passengers riding the trolleys. While it was too early to tell, it appeared that many persons who during the strike rode to work with friends who owned cars, were continuing the practice.

For the 1,300,000 residents of the Greater Toronto area the appearance of the first street-cars to leave the barns at 4:45 am meant the end of weary days of hitch-hiking or walking to and from work, of sharing automobiles in car pools, offering lifts to strangers, and of getting to downtown jobs by company buses or trucks instead of by the publicly-owned transit system.

For a number of other Ontario communities it meant resumption of service by the Gray Coach Lines bus system, a subsidiary of the Toronto Transportation Commission.

The agreement signed late Tuesday between the commission and the Street Railway Employees' Union (AFL-TLC) provides for arbitration of the wage issue, with the bottom figure fixed at the $1.45 an hour the company offered and the top at the $1.55 the union demanded.

Win Point

Thus the TTC won its point that the men should receive a five-cent increase in the basic hourly rate to $1.45 and that the amount (f any further raise should be left to arbitration, with the arbitrator's decision binding on both sides.

During the dispute, TTC officials said they could not raise wages beyond the $1.45 without increasing fares from the present three for 25 cents to a straight 10 cents.

There will be one arbitrator, as the union had asked, rather than a board of arbitration. The arbitrator, probably a judge, is to be appointed by Labor Minister Charles Daley of Ontario.

The five-cent increase dates from last Oct. 1. Each employee will receive approximately $35 in back pay.

The contract, when signed will run until Oct. 1, 1952.

Negotiations on the next year's contract can start Aug. 1.

To Decide Bonus

The arbitrator also will decide whether there is to be any change in the formula for a cost-of-living bonus. Under the old arrangement, the bonus went up one cent an hour for every 1.3-point increase in the cost-of-living index.

Four points won by the union were:

Pay for maintenance employees for six statutory holidays instead of four, with double time if worked.

A guarantee for the 600 extra men of 80 hours' pay for two weeks, instead of pay for 70 hours.

Quebec Extortion Racket Reaches $87,150

GRANBY, Que., Jan. 23 (CP)—Two men—both claiming to be penniless—will today tell a tale of extortion involving $87,150.

George Dubois, 26, nicknamed by his friends the "Millionaire of Granby," is charged with fleecing Adeodat Marquette, wealthy restaurant owner, of his life savings. He wi'l appear in court at Sweetsburg, Que., the county seat.

Dubois told police he is penniless. Marquette says he isn't only penniless, but he owes $26,000 he borrowed on his property and allegedly gave to Dubois.

Dubois was arrested Monday. Police said he fleeced Marquette of $87,150 on a car deal racket.

Police say they are inclined to believe that Dubois has none of the money left.

He allegedly held lavish parties in the mansion he built and furnished in Granby.

Hit Headlines

Provincial police said the accused entertained expensively—and expensively both in Quebec and abroad. Detectives said a party of his at a London club created such a stir that a British newspaper called him "the most generous man in the world."

Although admittedly still unclear on the whole story, police said Dubois first approached Marquette's son, Roger, and said he and his brother could obtain new American cars for $1,400. He told Roger, police say, that if the latter sold four of the cars he would get one free for himself.

Young Marquette said he gave Dubois $150 down-payment on a truck. Roger Marquette said the money belonged to his brother-in-law. He did not receive the money back or the truck, he told police.

The father approached Dubois about his son-in-law's money and was told there had been a double-cross by the "boys in the States."

According to police this was the opening wedge, and the elder Marquette put up money to finance Dubois's American car deal in the hopes of getting his son-in-law's money back.

The financing, police said, ran into the $87,150 figure set by Marquette.

Police Smash Postal Racket

TORONTO, Jan. 23 (CP)—Kenneth D. Law, 32, Toronto postal clerk, Tuesday was charged with obtaining and conspiring to obtain money from the post office by false pretences. Eight truck-drivers also were charged with the same offence.

Police said they believe they have cracked a "fool-proof scheme" which in a year defrauded the post-office of at least $2,500 and "possibly double that amount."

Police said the money was obtained by recording fictitious deliveries of non-existent parcels. The men, paid for each delivery, would get the additional amount in their pay cheques each month.

Law allegedly got a "kick-back" from the truckers.

Plane Hits Apt. Building Say 28 Dead

Five People Trapped In Homes, Canadian Writer Dies

ELIZABETH, NJ, Jan. 23.—(CP)—A fog-bound American Airlines passenger plane, groping its way into Newark airport on instruments, nose-dived into a residential area on Tuesday and brought flaming death to its 23 occupants and five other persons.

Robert P. Patterson, 60-year-old former Secretary of War under President Truman, was one of the plane's victims.

Another was a Canadian newspaperman, Kenneth R. Wilson, 48, Ottawa editor of The Financial Post.

The silver, twin-engined Convair, inbound from Buffalo, NY, hurtled into a three-storey frame apartment building and exploded in a mass of leaping, orange flame that enveloped two nearby dwellings.

A mother and her two children were killed as their home collapsed about them in a hurricane-like blast. A third child, trapped in another building and an unidentified person also died in the flames.

Run For Safety

Screaming residents ran for safety. Eleven persons were injured, including nine occupants of nearby homes. Also hurt were a fireman and a rescue worker, who joined disaster units at the scene, less than three miles from Newark Airport.

For 90 minutes, no one could get near the raging inferno, where the 18 passengers, three crew members and two company personnel aboard the plane were burned beyond recognition. For a time the roaring blaze threatened to engulf the entire block.

Clouds of steam and smoke blanketed the area, which is less than a mile from the spot where a non-scheduled plane crashed in the shallow Elizabeth River 38 days ago, killing 56 persons.

Demand Investigation

Tuesday's crash brought immediate demands from New Jersey's two United States Senators and a Congressman for a full investigation of the plane and Newark Airport facilities.

31 Casualties In Tunisian Riots

TUNIS, Tunisia, Jan. 23 (CP)—Three policemen were reported killed today in a clash at Moknin, about 16 miles south of Sousse, where 10 persons were killed Tuesday in rioting against French colonial rule.

The deaths brought to 31 the toll in a week of violence and unrest throughout Tunisia.

Tension throughout the country increased today and military authorities ordered troops to be on the alert in the seaport city of Sfax, where a general strike has been called.

Pulls 2 RCAF Fliers From Burning Plane Dutch Immigrant Honored By Netherlands

OTTAWA, Jan. 23 (CP) — A 25-year-old immigrant from Holland has been awarded the Netherlands Civil Award—comparable to the George Cross—for "conspicuous bravery" in rescuing two Canadian fliers from the burning wreck of an aircraft.

Wilhelm Koele of Exeter, Ont., came to Ottawa today to receive the award from A. H. J. Lovink, Netherlands ambassador to Canada, at a dinner tendered by Group Captain R. A. Cameron, commanding officer of the RCAF station at Rockcliffe.

The rescue occurred in May, 1951, when an RCAF training plane crashed on Koele's farm and burst into flames with three men inside. He burned his hands severely in twice entering the burning plane to save Flight Cadet H. E. Blair of Calgary and Flight Cadet L. M. Vaughan of Bangor, Sask.

He finally had to tear Vaughan bodily from the place where he was trapped and beat out the flames enveloping Vaughan with his bare hands once he had the flier free of the plane.

Ottawa Prepared To Check Any Speculators Trying Boost Butter Prices

MONTREAL, Jan. 23. (CP)—Agricultural Minister Gardiner said today the Government is planning action to checkmate speculators who may be trying to boost the price of butter this winter. Last winter, he told the annual convention of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, "We were checkmated for three weeks." That was when the price of butter jumped about 20 cents a pound in late February and March. Mr. Gardiner recalled that butter rose 12 cents a pound in 24 hours.

"We are making an effort to meet the devices of those who do not like to see high profits disappear and with the assistance of farmers' co-operatives we hope we can succeed this year," he said.

Mr. Gardiner did not disclose what action is being planned, but the government already has announced that it is accumulating a 12,500,000-pound stockpile of butter, and is not likely to distribute this butter as long as commercial stocks are available.

If any commercial dealer attempts to boost the price to a high level, the government could move in with its stocks and "dump" the butter to bring a general price reduction in butter.

Exports Not Low

Mr. Gardiner reviewed the expansion in agriculture in Canada since pre-war days and said he disagreed that exports are low. During the period 1945-50, food exports averaged $937,000,000 a year compared with $763,000,000 in wartime 1941-45 and $353,000,000 during 1936-40.

The federation, continuing its discussion of proposed resolutions, endorsed the principle of federal aid for education.

Farm delegates complained that sometimes they wanted a tiny part that cost only 25 cents, but they could not get it unless they bought the complete unit at between $4 and $10.

Previously, the conference indicated it wants the federal government to boost tariffs and apply rigid import controls on cheddar cheese and other dairy products.

Philadelphia Buys Ottawa Franchise

NEW YORK, Jan. 25. (AP) — The Philadelphia Athletics today bought the New York Giants' Ottawa franchise in the International League and announced it would be operated again next year in the Canadian city. No financial terms were announced.

International League directors approved the transfer at a meeting at which all eight clubs of the AAA circuit were represented.

Art Ehlers, general manager of the Athletics, said no provisions had been made for player transfers.

"We will have to work these details out with the Giants later," he said. "We are going into this from scratch. We have no idea of who will play for us or who will manage the club."

Tehran Tense As Iran Votes

TEHRAN, Iran, Jan. 23 (AP)—Iranians voted again today in the nation's capital with the polling accompanied by vociferous propaganda for Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's Nationalists and the outlawed but active Communists.

Voting for Tehran's 12 deputies in the Lower House of Parliament (Majlis) started Tuesday and will continue through Thursday. Counting, due to begin Saturday, may last 10 days.

As voting started, the Communists organized big turnouts near at least four polling places in the poorer quarters where they are concentrating their main efforts. False party fronts for the outlawed Communist Tudeh candidates are making a determined bid to elect two or three of their eight Tehran nominees.

The Communists published in their newspaper an open letter to Mossadegh offering him support if American military advisers are kicked out of Iran along with "all Anglo-American economic and espionage organizations." The Communists also asked that Mossadegh stop dealing with the world bank on the oil issue and seek oil customers from the Soviet bloc.

An estimated 100,000 voters turned out Tuesday, forming long lines before polling places shortly after sunrise. The balloting went off generally without violence.

Some 10,000 troops and police guarded the tense city.

Give Decision Friday On Freight Rates

OTTAWA, Jan. 23—(CP)—The Board of Transport Commissioners announced today it will hand down a decision Friday at 10 am EST on the railways' latest application for a freight rate increase.

The railways sought a general increase of 10 per cent, which would add about $45,000,000 to the national freight bill.

Hearings on the application were completed late in 1951.

Canada's Deficit

OTTAWA, Jan. 23 — (CP) — Canada ran up a deficit of $233,500,000 in her world trade in the first 11 months of 1951, the Bureau of Statistics reported Tuesday. The deficit compares with one of $44,400,000 in the corresponding period of 1950.

Think Some Success In Efforts

Gardiner Says Abbott Made Special Trip To Discuss Plans

MONTREAL, Jan. 23. (CP)—Canada has attempted to arrange new financing of United Kingdom purchases in this country, Agriculture Minister Gardiner said today.

Mr. Gardiner, speaking before the annual convention of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, said that was one of the reasons why Finance Minister Abbott went overseas.

He believed Mr. Abbott may have succeeded to some degree.

Replying to questions from delegates, he said the government wants to boost production in Canada and particularly food production.

"Now, I always agree when other members of the government tell me that production ought to be up. But as Minister of Agriculture, I'm not going to tell farmers to up production unless there are markets for their produce.

Did His Best

"When Finance Minister Abbott said production ought to be up, I told him:

"'It might be a good thing if you were to go over to Britain and see if financing can be arranged so that production can be up.'"

Mr. Abbott attended the Commonwealth Finance Ministers' Conference in London called by Britain to find ways of avoiding bankruptcy.

Meanwhile in Ottawa, Trade Minister Howe announced today that sales from Canada to Britain this year under the United Kingdom token import scheme will be cut 25 per cent from last year.

Reduced To 30 Per Cent

The annual quota will be reduced to 30 per cent of each exporter's shipments in the basic period 1936-38. In 1951, the quotas were 40 per cent with the trade valued at 27,500,000.

The decision to reduce the scale of token imports was announced by the UK government following the recent meeting of commonwealth finance ministers in London, at which the sterling group decided to embark on a belt-tightening import policy. The British government already has announced the scheme will be discontinued for other countries which participated in it.

Under the plan in effect for the last few years, Canada has been allowed to retain a part of her trade with Britain in manufactured goods, keeping the business alive on a token basis until UK's financial position improves.

About 70 commodities now are covered in the scheme. About 266 Canadian firms participate.

Fire Destroys Army Drill Hall

BARRIEFIELD, Jan. 23 (CP)—A fire and explosion today destroyed No. 2 drill hall, storing a large supply of radar equipment, at Barriefield military camp. No estimate of damage was available immediately.

The Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers school and a signals school is stationed at the camp, a mile east of Kingston.

The fire started at 10 am and spread to three other buildings, 200 feet away. A brisk wind fanned the flames.

Churchill Leaves New York On Liner

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP). — Prime Minister Winston Churchill left for home aboard the liner Queen Mary early this morning after 18 days in the United States and Canada.

The 77-year-old British statesman puffed a cigar and waved breezily to several hundred persons who came to see him off. Among those bidding him farewell were financier Bernard Baruch; Churchill's actress-daughter, Sarah, and city representatives.

Churchill spent his last day in the US nursing a cold.

The Prime Minister was on his third official visit to the United States and Canada.

Icy Roads, Snow Tie Up Traffic, Toronto Hit Hard

TORONTO, Jan. 23. (CP)—Rain, sleet and soggy snow, blown through Ontario Tuesday night by a 30-mile-an-hour wind, stalled traffic, disrupted hydro and telephone service and grounded airline flights. At least one person died as a result of the storm. Sylvester B. Gingrich, 52, of Elmira, was killed when struck by a school bus while standing alongside his own stalled bus in a snowstorm north of Kitchener. The storm moved in off Lake Ontario, cutting across the Oshawa area and laying a treacherous white coat over Toronto at the height of the street-carless city's evening rush hour. A second storm swept into the western half of the province from Michigan.

The Georgian Bay and Ottawa Valley areas bore the brunt of the foul weather, In the Shelburne-Owen Sound district, all highway traffic was halted when falling snow cut visibility to zero. At Ottawa, all airline flights in and out of the capital were cancelled.

Power Cut Off

Electric power was off in the Ajax-Whitby area for an hour. Numerous interruptions occurred at Oshawa.

Flights in and out of Toronto's Malton airport, cancelled at 2 pm, were resumed at 10 pm when heavy snow and sleet turned to a light rain.

Toronto's evening rush hour traffic jam, which began minutes after the 19-day tram strike was settled, was the worst in years. Hilly streets were impassable, intersections were patches of glare ice.

Thousands of cars, heading homeward with their loads of extra passengers, skidded and crawled along the jammed streets. Main thoroughfares were so slippery that autos stopped on the level were unable to get under way again without a push or ashes.

Many highways were so slippery that provincial police blocked off sections to allow sanding in many cases, swiftly falling sleet and snow covered the sand with an icy coating before it had time to do any good.

Northern Ontario was spared the rain which was general in most southern parts of the province.

Board Allows Carlsen To Return To Sea

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 — (AP). —Capt. Kurt Carlsen may return to the sea with the best wishes of the head of a board of inquiry which investigated the sinking of the freighter Flying Enterprise.

Capt. Lewis Shackleford, presiding officer at the inquiry, told Carlsen Tuesday he realized what he had been through and hoped his ordeal will not be repeated. Shackleford added:

"Go back to the sea with my best wishes."

Shackleford closed the hearing after Carlsen, of Woodbridge, NJ, had testified about the Flying Enterprise saga.

The skipper said a wild storm, not improper cargo loading, sent the freighter to the bottom.

The findings of the inquiry board will be sent to coastguard headquarters for final consideration and determination whether there was any negligence among the Enterprise crew.

Trapped Miner Died Instantly Rescuers Believe

TIMMINS, Jan. 2 (CP)—A miner trapped in the depths of the Delnite gold mine was found dead early today.

Rescue workers, digging with handshovels, found the body of 30-year-old Oliva Groleau in the muck at the mine's 2,375-foot level.

Kasimir Iskrowicz, 24, trapped with Groleau under a 30-ton fall of loose rock Monday night, was found alive early Tuesday after rescuers had worked for more than 10 hours to reach him.

Mine manager Jack Beattie said that from the appearance of Groleau's body it was likely he was killed instantly.

He said he doubted that the faint cry heard shortly after tons of rock crashed into the subterranean passageway came from Groleau as first believed.

Held Faint Hope

Experienced mining men in this Northern Ontario town had held out hope that he might be found alive. They thought perhaps he was cut off in some cranny.

Iskrowicz was buried up to his waist in muck when rescuers reached him. Hospital authorities said today a detailed examination showed he suffered damage to one kidney and a slight paralysis of one leg.

As rescuers worked at top speed Tuesday night to reach Groleau, normal operations continued on the other levels of the mine, five miles from Timmins.

Fall 60 Feet Workmen Live

HAMILTON, Jan. 23—(CP)—Two underground workmen dropped 60 feet in a rocky sewer shaft on the mountain early today and lived.

Most seriously injured was John Posmituk, 42, who is in fair condition at General Hospital with a fractured skull.

Hendrik Simmelink, 30, escaped with only scalp cuts and an injured arm and hip. His condition is described as fairly good.

The accident took place near the mountain brow.

Standing on a platform suspended near the top of the vertical sewer shaft, the two workers were removing cribbing from around the shaft when they plummeted to the bottom of the deep hole.

The platform and cribbing fell with and on top of them. Tuesday night's heavy rain probably helped cause the accident by weakening the sides of the shaft.

Canada Lucky—Alexander

Says Couldn't Happen To Nicer People

OTTAWA, Jan. 23 — (CP). — Canada, said His Excellency, is lucky.

And, the Governor-General added in a burst of warmth for the country which has been his "second home" for six years, it couldn't happen to nicer people.

In what may prove to be one of his last speeches as the King's representative in Canada, Viscount Alexander addressed the annual dinner of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy on the institute's favorite subject—the development of mining.

But the Viscount—reported to be leaving Canada shortly to become Defence Minister in the British Cabinet—tinged and flavored his address with a sentiment born of a wide knowledge of Canada.

No official confirmation of his new job has been forthcoming, but at the outset of his address, Viscount Alexander recalled he had addresesd the same institute five years before, almost to the day, and said he was addressing it now, "just before I leave Canada."

He drew warm applause from the 800-odd delegates at the dinner when he added:

"I must admit that the occasion holds a note of sadness for me. My wife and I have been very happy here in this country amongst you.

Hate To Leave

"My children have grown up as young Canadians and are frankly very unhappy at the thought of leaving Canada, which has become our second home. . ."

He discussed the developments in mining which had impressed him in the six years he has been here: The oil discoveries in Alberta and the iron discoveries in Ungava. The value of Canada's mineral production had almost trebled. Canada was lucky:

"If fate has been kind to some people," he said, "we must surely recognize that she has been favorably disposed to the Canadian people."

But he warned that new wealth brought responsibilities and troubles—"It won't be all money for jam"—and that Canada, growing in richness, "will be drawn more and more into the world's problems and have to shoulder greater responsibilities than are yet realized."

Knowing Canadians as he did, he was sure they would shoulder their responsibilities, Canada had shown her readiness and willingness to play a leading part in world affairs.

So it couldn't happen to nicer people:

"If fate has been kind to Canada in nature's gifts, fate could not have chosen a finer people upon whom to shower her favors. . ."

Moonlight Cruises To Niagara Just Memory Selling Cayuga After 73-Year Service

TORONTO, Jan. 23 (CP). — Canada Steamship Lines today announced suspension of the 73-year-old steamship service between Toronto and Queenston and Niagara-on-the-Lake. The 1,850-passenger Cayuga, in recent years the only vessel on the 32-mile run, has been offered for sale.

A company official described the move as "The passing of an era." In recent years passengers have deserted the leisurely 2½-hour voyage aboard the Cayuga for the faster trip via automobile or bus.

Even the summer moonlight cruises suffered. The official said these cruises which young couples once looked forward to each Wednesday evening didn't draw enough crowds last year. Besides, it rained nearly every Wednesday.

Montreal In Muddle

Blizzard Paralyzes City Takes 5 Hours To Get Home

MONTREAL, Jan. 23 (CP) — Many Montrealers began trudging to work today with traffic still slowed to a crawl and memories of Tuesday night's home-bound trip still vivid.

An east-bound blizzard hit the Montreal area late in the afternoon, and the 5 pm rush crowd was still rushing home as late as 10 pm. Six inches of snow fell.

Early today was only slightly better. Despite all night crews and equipment, only the main streets were open. The city said it was a tough enough job handling this after stalled street cars, buses and private cars created havoc with the flow of traffic Tuesday night.

The office crowd from downtown Montreal got along well Tuesday while they travelled on the main thoroughfares. As soon as the street cars moved off these streets along their usual routes, the trouble began.

On the Frontenac run in the city's east end, one tram was stalled for three hours. All the passengers except two elderly ladies, a gentleman and the tram crew, got out and began to walk. After an hour's wait, the conductor left the car and was able to find a taxi to take the trio home. He paid the fare from his own pocket.

Flights in and out of the city continued until the full force of the storm hit the city at 6 pm. Poor visibility caused cancellation of all air flights until close to midnight.

Trains were running on time except for a few long trips.

Heading eastward, the storm, propelled by 40-mile-an-hour winds struck Quebec City and region. Traffic was reported almost at a standstill.

Starving People Block To Peace

MONTREAL, Jan. 23 (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent said Tuesday night he doubts that the world can hope to secure peace as long as numbers of its population border on starvation.

Stressing the need for increased productivity on Canadian farms, he told the Canadian Federation of Agriculture in an address to its annual meeting:

"The population of the whole world is growing very fast, and, apart altogether from political rivalries, I doubt if we can ever hope for the secure peace in the world which we all want so much as long as great numbers of people are barely able to eke out an existence bordering on, or in many cases below, the subsistence level."

Happily, Canada was able to look after her own needs and provide a great deal of food for export.

"But those in the world who are not so fortunate as we in this North American Continent are becoming more and more aware of their poverty in relation to our plenty. . ."

Furthermore, they want the floor price on cheese raised to 30 cents a pound wholesale from 28, and the floor on butter maintained at 63 cents a pound, which would bring the price to the consumer to about 70 cents—approximately the price currently prevailing.

Resolutions covering these and other requests of the government were adopted by the 400,000-member Canadian Federation of Agriculture as it completed the first of its two-day annual convention Tuesday.

The action proposed on imports of dairy products appeared to be a direct retaliation to the United States move last year, freezing cheese imports to a fixed quota, but no mention was made of this in the resolution.

Need Regulating

Instead, the Dairy Farmers of Canada, the Federation's affiliate body which drafted the proposals, spoke of the need to regulate uncontrolled cheddar cheese imports which had a "tendency to impair the effective operation of orderly marketing."

Prime Minister St. Laurent, addressing the 200-odd delegates at a banquet provided by the Quebec Provincial Government Tuesday night, suggested that increased production and not price should be the farmer's prime consideration in maintaining income.

". . . I am sure you all feel," he said, "that the best and surest way of keeping up the real income of farmers is through constant improvements in efficiency and increased production, rather than through high prices which simply reflect themselves again in higher costs."

Other Resolutions

Other resolutions adopted by the Federation requested the Federal government:

1. To continue price supports on farm products.
2. Boost immigration to provide more farm workers.
3. Investigate the fertilizer industry to find out why prices have climbed.
4. Provide stricter supervision over margarine production.
5. Make costs of breaking and clearing new land an expense deductible from taxable income.
6. Expand the government's Farm Loan Board to provide easier long-term loans at low rates to young farmers.
7. Declare agriculture an essential industry and give it a priority on distribution of scarce materials.
8. Make price controls—if they ever become necessary—effective not only on prices, but on wages and profits as well.

The stubborn steer was one of seven that escaped. Six were caught easily, but this one led motorists a merry chase through 20 blocks of heavy Los Angeles traffic before policemen from five cruisers lassoed and grounded him.

UN Admits Truce Violations

MUNSAN, Korea, Jan. 23. (AP)—Staff officers arranged today to protect Allied troops in prisoner-of-war camps from air attack. Agreement was reached as the United Nations command acknowledged Allied planes last week inadvertently dropped a bomb near Kaesong, Red truce headquarters, and may have strafed a Communist armistice convoy. Armistice negotiators failed again to make any progress. The UN's Rear-Admiral R. E. Libby commented "It looks like a complete stalemate" ahead. The new prisoner safeguards resulted from a Red report that a prisoner-of-war camp was bombed Jan. 13. The Reds said 20 prisoners were killed and scores injured. The UN command said it was possible an Allied plane bombed the camp but they couldn't tell for sure because it didn't know the exact location of the camps in North Korea.

Today Communist staff officers agreed to supply a map marked with the exact location of the 11 camps in North Korea. It also will show a camp where non-Korean civilians are interned.

Won't Put On Lights

Communists also agreed to mark these camps so they may be identified from the air by daylight. They refused to light the camps at night, as the UN asked.

Both sides also agreed to reveal the location of processing camps where prisoners first are questioned after capture before they are sent to the rear.

The UN command delivered a map Wednesday showing location of UN prisoner-of-war camps in South Korea. The Reds said they would deliver theirs Thursday.

The Reds say their camps hold approximately 11,500 Allied soldiers including about 3,200 Americans. They are believed to hold less than 100 non-Korean civilian internees, mostly missionaries and diplomats.

The UN report on the Kaesong bombing and strafing was delivered by a liaison officer at Panmunjom.

The UN command said a jet pilot intending to drop a wing-tip gasoline tank threw the wrong switch and dropped a 1,000 pound bomb near Kaesong last Thursday.

No one was hurt and no damage was done.

Taking Advantage

Col. James C. Murray said a flight of jets, in bad weather, didn't know their exact position and began to lighten their loads.

He said it was comparatively easy to get the wrong switch.

Murray said "evidence indicates" UN planes strafed a Red truce supply convoy the next day about 20 miles north of Kaesong.

The Colonel said the Communists appeared to be taking advantage of special truce convoy markings to protect other convoys from attack.

Exposure Cause Of Man's Death

LINDSAY, Jan. 23 (ENS)—A report from the crown attorney's office this morning stated that the death of John Alton, Carden township man found in his home on Sunday, was from exposure due to alcoholism.

Alton was found dead in his cabin by his brother Arthur. John Alton lived alone during the week in a house near the Kirkfield stone crusher on concession 9 of Carden.

The post mortem performed by Dr. T. W. L. Broadfoot revealed the cause of death. Police believe Alton had been drinking and fell asleep on the floor and then froze to death. No inquest will be held.

Industrials Climbing On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Jan. 23 — (CP):— Industrials climbed steadily today in early afternoon stock market dealings, but mid-session profit-taking erased most western oil gains.

Trading maintained the active pace of recent sessions as Western oil speculation continued to dominate. A few selected base metals and golds also attracted interest, while the slow industrial advance was accompanied by a steady spread of trading from leading issues. Volume for the first three hours was 1,607,000 shares.

Papers, utilities and manufacturing companies were mixed, but retail stores dipped sharply.

Western oil changes were moderate. Anglo-Canadian, Calmont, Canadian Collieries, Home Oil, and Royalite strengthened while Gridoil, Kroy, Okalta, and Central-Leduc weakenen.

Base Metals showed little trend. East Sullivan, Hudson Bay, Quemont, Sherritt-Gordon, United Asbestos, and Waite Amulet pushed higher, but Labrador, Noranda and United Keno Hill dipped.

Senior golds were mixed. Kerr Addison, McIntyre and Teck Hughes edged upward while Hollinger and Lake Shore slipped. Secondary issues traded irregularly.

One Loss

But the union lost out on its demand for an eight-hour daily guarantee for extra men and for double time, instead of time-and-a-half, for work by operators and conductors on statutory holidays.

Less than an hour after signing of the settlement documents arrangements were started to restore Toronto's transportation service and that of the Gray Coach Lines.

Eighty members of the track gang worked throughout the night on tracks and switches. At midnight, 20 special pilot cars with sweepers and snowplows started clearing the 24 miles of tracks in Toronto and its suburbs for the 1,035 street cars.

Each operator, as he took out his street car checked its controls, doors, brakes, lighting and heating.

The 85 trolley coaches and the 620 buses and motor coaches also required a checkover.

Signs bearing emergency parking rules came down overnight throughout the downtown area.

The TTC reported a net financial loss of $760,000. Suspension of strikers' wages represented $1,102,000. Downtown merchants estimated loss of business in the millions of dollars.

Howe Describes Atomic Picture

TORONTO, Jan. 23 — (CP) — Defence Production Minister Howe Tuesday night painted a verbal picture of atomic power being used in Canada to roll back the frontiers by supplying electricity to industry in areas beyond the reach of power lines.

He told an audience at University of Toronto:

"I believe that the majority of those in this audience will live to see large atomic power plants deliver primary power to the major power grids of this country, and to see the development of types of atomic power plants that will bring the life blood of industry to areas that cannot be supplied with hydro power.

"Thus, atomic power is destined to offer a new tool for engineers with which to roll back the frontiers of Canada."

To apply new developments to industry, Canada needed more engineers than now were being trained. "I can see no possibility of the supply of engineering graduates ever exceeding the demand in this expanding country of ours."

Priest Forced Sweep Streets

HONG KONG, Jan. 23. (AP)—A 63-year-old Italian Roman Catholic priest, expelled from Communist China, said today the Reds made him sweep the streets of Tungchow in Shensi province last month while he awaited trial for "killing people."

Msgr. Peter Moretti, Franciscan prefect apostolic of Tunchow, said the Reds refused to let him or his vicar delegate, the Rev. Augusto Taddei, talk to anyone while they swept the streets as a "public humiliation."

The Communists tried him and Taddei last month on charges of "imperialism" and having "killed people" in Tungchow Catholic hospital.

Moretti said the only proof the Reds offered for their murder charge was that "people were operated on in the hospital and died."

A Roman Catholic spokesman here said two nuns, Sister Superior Mercedes Isai, 55, and Sister Teresa Elourduy, 41, were sentenced by the Reds in Wuhu, 100 miles southwest of Shanghai, on charges of "killing" children in the Roman Catholic orphanage there. Sister Mercedes was sentenced to four years and the other nun to three years.

The spokesman said both women were chained hand and foot when Red soldiers prodded them from jail to public trial Dec. 24.

Mayor James T. Kirk said this city of 112,000, about 12 miles southwest of New York City, has been living under an "umbrella of danger" and that Newark Airport should be relocated "regardless of cost."

Positive identification of Patterson—the first of the dead named here—was made through dental charts.

President Truman in a statement from Washington described him as "a great American and a great public servant."

Patterson, under-secretary of war throughout the Second World War and secretary from September, 1945, until July, 1947, had been in Buffalo for a federal court case.

Wilson, a staff member of The Financial Post for the last 25 years, is believed to have boarded the plane at Syracuse NY, on a flight from Ottawa to Washington. He was a resident of Brantford, before joining the weekly financial publication in Toronto.

He became its Ottawa editor in 1941 and covered the Canadian and British war efforts, the post-war Bretton Woods and Geneva trade conferences and the international air organization.

Another of the 18 passenger victims was John F. Chester, 45, public relations director of the Carrier Air Conditioning Company of Syracuse, NY. He was a former general business editor of The Associated Press and a Second World War correspondent.

The pilot, 33-year-old Capt. Thomas J. Reid, lived only three blocks from the spot where the plane crashed. His wife, Henrietta, said Reid had "just completed an airlift to Japan."

Belsen Germans Attack Two Canadian Soldiers

By ALAN RICHARDSON.

BELSEN, Germany, Jan. 23. — In keeping, perhaps, with the unsavory name of this small village, former site of the infamous concentration camp, has come the first indication of open hostility to Canadians of the 27th Brigade.

A few days ago, L.Cpl. N. A. Dixon of Saint John, NB, and Cpl. K. W. Parsons of Petawawa, decided to have a couple of quiet drinks in the pub just across from the Hohn (new name for Belsen) barracks where the Royal Canadian Dragoons are stationed. They sat and chatted quietly, neither of them saying anything to any other person than the waiter, and in due course left for their return to camp.

They had gone some 20 yards from the pub when they were attacked by a gang of young hooligans armed with fence staves, sticks and bicycle chains. The attack was so sudden and unexpected that the two were caught completely unawares, but managed to unfasten their web belts and with these and their fists routed their attackers.

Parsons suffered injuries to his head and ear, while Dixon came off more fortunately, but the disturbing point is that while this is the first time it has happened to Canadians, it has happened several times to isolated pairs and small groups of British personnel.

The Bicycle Gang, as they have become known to the local military authorities, may not seem much of a real threat, but it practices open and vicious conduct which, and it is impossible to ignore this, simply reflects the general feeling of the population of Belsen and Bergen, five miles away.

Military and civilian police are attempting to clear up the situation, but the citizens are so close-mouthed about everything that their job is not an easy one.

Queries Hanging As Means Of Execution

LONDON. — (CP) — Doubts about the effectiveness of hanging as a form of execution have been expressed by Miss Jessie Dobson, Recorder of the Royal College of Surgeons.

Writing in The Lancet, a medical journal, Miss Dobson says: "The procedure employed in judicial hanging has been and maybe still is, an uncertain means of causing instantaneous death."

At the recent inquest on Herbert Mills, 19, executed at Lincoln Prison Dec. 11, Dr. R. R. Prewer, prison medical officer, was asked if death was instantaneous. He replied that after hanging a man's heart could continue to beat for anything up to 20 minutes but it did not mean that he was alive.

Reviews 36 Cases

Reviewing 36 cases where the bodies of criminals were dissected after hanging, Miss Dobson states that in 10 the heart was still beating when the body was cut down. In one, the beats continued for more than seven hours and in two others for five hours. She quoted a 19th century authority who said that if the heart is still beating death has not occurred.

The article cites examples of recovery after hanging. Among them is that of a woman hanged for half an hour at Oxford jail in 1650.

Sir William Petty, professor of anatomy at the university, and other doctors arranged to make a dissection. Perceiving signs of life, they administered cordials and brought her back to consciousness. The woman lived for a further nine years during which time she married and had three children.

Allied Jets Down 2 Communist Planes

SEOUL, Korea, Jan. 23 (AP).— Allied jets shot down two Communist MIG-15s over Northwest Korea today, probably destroyed another and damaged a fourth.

The United States Fifth Air Force said gun films showed that one Red plane listed earlier as a probable definitely was destroyed.

The Russian-type MIGs were out in force all day, but there was only one aerial battle. Allied pilots said the MIGs fled across the Yalu when the US F-6 Sabre jets headed toward them.

Scattered fighting broke out all along the frozen 145-mile ground front. The heaviest engagement was on the central front where an ambushed Allied patrol fought a brief engagement with an unknown number of Reds in the early morning darkness.

Despite the lull in ground fighting the US Eighth Army said the Allies killed, wounded or captured 3,483 Reds in the last week. Total Communist casualties since the first of the year were put at 13,292.

Lindsay Police Ask Board In Pay Dispute

LINDSAY, Jan. 23 (ENS) — Lindsay Police Association announced late Tuesday afternoon they would request an arbitration board to discuss their recent raise in salary given by the town council.

The constables originally asked for starting pay of $2,400 with a top rate of $3,000 after five years service. A committe of four councilmen met last week to discuss the request and suggested a starting pay of $2,400 with a high of $2,800. At Friday night's special meeting of council a motion was passed to give the firemen and the policemen an across-the-board raise of $200 and to hire any new men at $2,200.

Highest salary paid on the force to a constable now is $2,659 a year. The constables hinted last week they would take it to an arbitration board made up of three members—one appointed by the police department, one by the council, and an independent member to act as chairman, appointed by the Attorney-General's department. His decision would be binding on both parties.

Can't Strike

By the Police Act, constables are not allowed to go on strike but are allowed the arbitration board. In a press conference this morning here the men issued a statement explaining that they were asking for arbitration in order to put their wage scale on a par with neighboring cities and towns of comparable size.

Quoting salaries paid to the Ontario Provincial Police, and the Peterborough police department, it said in part: "We feel that it is in the interests of town and the citizens of the town to provide good policemen for the protection of the citizens.

"Our stand is that good, capable, educated men will not work for the present salary of $2,200 per annum. We do not think the right calibre of men will be attracted to the position if they only get wages in that category.

"We feel we are doing the same work as the provincial police, living in the same town, paying the same rent, the same hydro bill and taking the same risks in the same line of work. That is why we are taking our case to arbitration.

Will Keep Trying For Armistice

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Officials said today that the United States and its allies are determined to exhaust every reasonable means of obtaining an agreement on an armistice in the Korean truce negotiations.

They expressed hope that the present prolonged deadlocks over the air field and prisoner-of-war issues eventually would be resolved. They said they definitely would be if the Reds sincerely wanted to end the Korean fighting.

These authorities conceded that the negotiations which began more than six months ago may drag on for many more weeks.

State Secretary Dean Acheson is understood to have told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee recently that the number of concessions made by the Communists to date gives some basis for hope they will be reasonable on pending issues.

As it now stands the situation points to a new Korean crisis in the spring if no truce has been achieved by then. It may then be necessary, some authorities privately concede, to determine whether there remains any real basis for hope that an agreement can be achieved. If the answer is negative it may be necessary to re-define the overall objectives in Korea or to determine whether there is any means of putting additional military pressure on the Reds to compel them to come to terms.

Canada Unlikely To Produce All Oil Needed

OTTAWA, Jan. 23 (CP).—Canada may never produce all the oil she uses, despite the new western oil fields, Dr. Oliver B. Hopkins, vice-president of Imperial Oil Limited, said today.

In an address prepared for delivery to the closing meetings of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, Dr. Hopkins, president of the institute and director of the petroleum division of the defence production department, explained that Canada will become self-sufficient in oil, but self-sufficient only "on balance."

"By that I mean that it would be uneconomic to ship western oil to the Maritimes, for example, if we could balance imports there by exports elsewhere. Normally crude oil is worth more in Vancouver than it is worth in Halifax so it would be advantageous to make this exchange."

Not Enough

For this "on balance" self-sufficiency, Canada needed to produce more than 400,000 barrels a day. By the end of 1953, he foresaw a production of 300,000 barrels a day.

Already Alberta oil, by replacing imports, had enabled Canada to make important savings in United States funds.

"In 1948 the saving was $9,000,000 and in 1950 this figure rose to $100,000,000," he told the convention. "In 1951, with western oil moving to eastern refineries, it is estimated that the saving increased to $150,000,000."

It had cost $1,000,000,000 to bring the Canadian oil and gas industry to its present state since 1947.

"It will require another $1,000,000,000 to complete the expansion program planned for between now and 1955."

Centreville Church Reappoints Officers

CENTREVILLE, Jan. 23 — Members of Centreville Presbyterian Church held their annual meeting Friday in the church, with the Rev. W. H. Heustin as chairman, and Dick Hutchison, secretary.

Sunday school secretary-treasurer, Alan Eagleson, reported an increased attendance, and a credit balance of $169. Miss A. Berry reported for the WMS, saying the allocation had been exceeded by $35.

Ladies' Aid treasurer, Mrs. Harry Campbell, reported receipts of $500 for the year. Church treasurer Harold Tate noted that the board of management's allocation of $424.69 was exceeded.

Centreville congregation is the first in the Peterborough presbytery to raise its allocation for the Christian Outreach fund for building new churches and Sunday schools.

Elected to the board of management for three years were Gerald Anderson, Norman Bowles, William Morrison, Dawson Rutherford, James Whittington and Fred Wood. Reappointed were Russell Bonner, chairman, Dick Hutchison, secretary, and Harold Tate, treasurer.

Mrs. Michael Murphy

Requiem mass for Mrs. Mary Murphy, 84, widow of Michael Murphy, who died Sunday at her home, 268 Aberdeen Ave., was said today by the Rev. Alphonse McNicholl of Chippewa at St. Peter's Cathedral.

Graveside prayers at St. Peter's cemetery were said by the Rev. G. J. Weis. Pallbearers were Thomas Lansfield, Thomas Hickey, Herbert O'Hearn, Bernard Barrett, Dr. William Hayes and Jack Loucks.

Skyscraper Sale

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP). — A court sale of skyscraper office building today brought $5,000,000 —what court attaches called the largest price in their memory for a court sale of a single piece of property. The building, 37 stories and a penthouse at 39 Broadway, was sold for cash.

Says Soviet Ready To Help Middle East

CAIRO, Jan. 23 (AP). — UN Egyptian newspaper correspondent reported today that Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky told him Russia will assist all middle eastern peoples "to free themselves of western economic domination."

The statement was published by Al Misri, a pro-Government paper believed to have the largest circulation in the Arab world. It said Vishinsky gave his views to its correspondent in a Paris interview.

Marmora News

Owing to the snowstorm Tuesday evening, insufficient members turned out for the holding of the annual meeting of Marmora Agricultural Society. After consultation with those present, president John McAvoy decided the best date to hold the postponed meeting would be Tuesday evening, January 29.

Baltimore Says Toronto Lucky

BALTIMORE, Jan. 23. (CP)—Settlement of Toronto's transportation strike was front-page news in Baltimore today.

Footsore readers of The Baltimore Sun read a 400-word account of Toronto's good fortune, tucked under a banner-line in which Governor Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland denounced the Baltimore Transit Company for refusing a settlement offer from the Transit Workers' Union (AFL) which has been on strike for 13 days.

The Sun made no editorial comment on the Toronto settlement.

McKeldin charged the company's position in rejecting the union's offer Tuesday night was "utterly indefensible."

After a three-hour meeting with local president Clayton G. Perry of the Transit Workers, the governor bitterly denounced the Baltimore Transit Company for "disregarding the public interest."

Perry agreed to accept a company package offer of $755,000 on a one-year basis providing the company agreed that the offer not be tied to its request for higher fare from the Maryland Public Service Commission.

McKeldin said the company's insistence on a three-year contract was "the only bar to accord."

AUTOMOBILE OWNERS

Peterborough Territorial Change

Most automobile policy owners know automobile insurance premiums are determined according to the district or territory in which the vehicle is operated.

Our population growth, as well as our accident experience, necessitates Peterborough being placed in Territory "B" along with cities comparable in size, i.e.: Oshawa, Kingston, Guelph, Ottawa, etc. Therefore our rates must be increased to conform with those above mentioned.

A new Policy Form has been issued with important changes beneficial to the Assured; some of the features are as follows:

If you car is used only for pleasure or business calls your Automobile Public Liability and Property Damage Insurance will now automatically include:

(1) Protection in respect of cars used as replacement while your vehicle is under repair.

(2) Protection for you and your spouse while driving passenger type cars borrowed occasionally.

(3) Extension of your present coverage to the new car, in case of trade-ins, or if you buy a second car, for 14 days pending notification of your insurer.

When you purchase insurance protection against Collision or Fire and Theft, no specific request is required to cover car radios, other than two-way radios. Each coverage is automatically extended to the radio.

Until your present policy expires these extensions, if appropriate to your present insurance, will automatically go into effect.

Two new additional coverages may be purchased in the new policy as follows:

(1) Medical expense incurred by passengers who sustain bodily injuries caused by accident while in your car or an occasionally borrowed automobile driven by you or your spouse.

(2) Comprehensive coverage, which includes, in addition to Fire and Theft, protection against breakage of glass, loss caused by missiles, flood, vandalism (malicious mischief), and other perils (but not Collision).

For Further Particulars, CALL YOUR OWN AGENT.

Cars And Very Young Drivers

Last October there was a motor accident in the Brockville district in which three boys of High School age were killed, and a fourth seriously injured; the driver of the car was a boy of fifteen. In pronouncing sentence upon the young driver recently, Magistrate Gordon H. Jermyn made it plain that he thought that the parents of the boy bore a heavy share of responsibility for what had happened. His words were: "It is clear that a boy of fifteen cannot be expected to exercise proper judgement in the control of a motor vehicle, and I think the responsibility for this tragedy rests very severely with his parents, who would allow him to apply for a driver's license and supply him with a vehicle to drive. The responsibility also rests upon society in general which, through its officials, will issue driving permits to children of fifteen; restrictive permits, but restrictive only to the vehicle which they may drive, allowing them to drive freely on roads unaccompanied by some adult or more discreet person."

* * *

We think that the magistrate is entirely right in insisting that parents must bear the heavier share of the blame for anything which happens when a very young person is allowed to drive the family car. A great many parents are fully aware of this, and impress the need for caution upon their children. But it must also be said that the caution and mechanical sense of boys and girls in their teens varies enormously; some are excellent and careful drivers at a very early age, and their families have complete trust in them; understandably this excites the envy of their friends, who may not be comparable as drivers, for if Tom is allowed to have the family car, Dick will think that he should have the same privilege; but Tom may be a boy of great good sense and mechanical ability, whereas Dick is irresponsible and becomes drunk with power as soon as he sits behind the wheel of a car. There is no even-handed justice in the world, and the use of the car is a great source of discontent and sulking in many homes; we must not be surprised, then, when unwise decisions are made and accidents happen.

* * *

When every allowance has been made, it seems to be a fact that young drivers are more prone to accident than older drivers. We base this assertion upon the new and increased insurance rates which have recently been announced for Ontario; the highest accident rate is charged on drivers under twenty-five, for drivers in that group are responsible more than any other category for the high accident rate in this Province. Why should this be? Young people are more excitable and emotionally variable than their elders and we think that this more than mechanical ineptitude, is at the root of their high accident rate. Their sense of responsibility is not fully developed, and their sense of daring is at its peak. They have a belief—charming in youth—that nothing very dreadful can happen to them. It seems a shame to daunt them, and try to make them old before their time, but what is to be done?

* * *

For one thing, we think that the regulations about licensing them to drive might well be more severe. A youngster trying a driving test is on his mettle, and at that age he responds well to challenges; he probably drives his very best. Is it not fair therefore, to test him more searchingly than an older applicant? The older applicant will be more steady; as he drives on his test, so will he drive most of the time after it. The young applicant is far more variable; he drives carefully on his test, but how will he drive when he has a car filled with friends, and a moonlit highway in front of him?

* * *

There is no way of ruling out accidents completely. But greater strictness in testing applicants under twenty-one, and a stronger realization on the part of parents that they are to a high degree responsible for what their children do, might reduce the number of cases in which legal authorities feel impelled to speak as sternly as Magistrate Jermyn of Brockville.

The Windsor Star says that women are tougher than they were, because they do not faint as readily as they did. Change of diet has done that for them. When Grandma lived all winter on salt pork and doughnuts it was no wonder she felt wobbly on her pins.

The Feeding World

The major problem confronting the world, if its people are not blown off the face of it, is how to feed its inhabitants, increasing every year by many millions, and living longer into the bargain. There is not enough food now to nurture them all, even if methods of distributing the available supplies were good and equalized. The problem is being tackled in many ways, and sometimes chance helps feed hungry mouths.

People's eating habits are being changed, and thus they are eating foods new to them. This helps the situation. For instance, North Americans are drinking tomato juice, a practice which would have horrified their grandmothers. Indians are being taught to eat wheat flour, instead of depending almost solely on rice. The feeding habits of gourmets are filtering down to common people, so that now snails, frogs legs and pigs' feet are being consumed heartily. Other people are enjoying whale and horse steaks, whereas formerly whale and horse flesh were wasted as food. But these are only minor attacks at the major problem. Far more revolutionary devices must be discovered and used. We note two recent ones.

The Department of External Affairs of Eire informs us that twenty tons of aureomycin drug compound are arriving in Ireland this month, to be used to speed animal and poultry breeding. A sample ton has already been distributed to Irish chicken breeders. By using the new drug, chicken exporters hope to cut seven to ten days off the rearing time for all birds. The advantages of using the drug are that chickens grow bigger quicker—and eat less. Ireland, quick to adopt anything which grows quick and big—witness their adoption of the potato—has now become the largest importer of aureomycin in Europe.

Another tid-bit of news comes from South Africa. The Transvaal veld is frequently stricken with drought, and thousands of animals go into decline every year from "winter starvation." A Natal inventor, using a fermentation process in some paper-making experiments with bagasse, the waste fibre of sugar cane, noticed that nearby cattle were happily eating a heap of the substance. Ordinarily cattle do not touch the stuff. So the inventor began applying his process to dead wire-grass, which cattle would not have eaten even when it was green. He steeped the grass in a solution of molasses inoculated with a yeast culture for fifteen minutes. Then he built the mixture into a tightly-packed stack.

In about three weeks, so we read, the stack was giving off a scent like that of honey, and the tough grass had become soft and succulent. Cattle ate it greedily. The South African Farmers Weekly says this discovery "may well revolutionize animal feeding over a vast portion of the country."

Experiments with Mr. Ernest Ritter's process carried out by the Onderstepoort Veterinary Institute, prove that it can also be used to convert dry veld hay into nutritious food. Formerly sheep or cattle which fed on dry veld hay alone lost their condition and died because they were unable to digest the fibre. The Ritter product puts the necessary bacteria into the hay (and into the animal's stomachs) and tests have shown that oxen do not lose weight on the reconditioned hay, but have gained as much as 42 pounds in six weeks.

Thus science is coming to the aid of the food-needy world in more ways than one. But the basic scientific advance has yet to be made: artificial photosynthesis. Photosynthesis is the process by which green plants take carbon dioxide from the air and water from the soil and build them up into carbohydrates (starch and sugar) with the aid of energy derived from sunlight. If human ingenuity can find how to do this artificially, using air, water and some suitable source of energy, mankind will be able to feed itself without depending on plants and animals. At present only green plants can accomplish photosynthesis, and thus humans ultimately derive all their food supplies (including chickens, eggs and beef) from vegetation and soil.

When laboratories are able to manufacture food out of thin air, then the cost of living will go down and no Indians need starve. Artificial photosynthesis may revolutionize the world, and bring mankind back to the garden of Eden. No one would need to work for his daily bread; nations would not fight over plots of ground (since land would not be necessary to produce food), and all the world would be Communistic, or none of it would be, since food would have lost its economic power to move millions to hold what they have (as in the well-fed West), or to try to get it from others, (as in the Communist East). O happy day!

Britain Building 'Killer' Fleet

By

A NAVAL CORRESPONDENT

ALTHOUGH there is still political disagreement about the final structure of the North Atlantic Command, British and American naval experts are reaching common ground in planning to meet a war-time threat by submarines.

But an interesting discussion on anti-submarine tactics has been touched off by Mr. Churchill's speech in last month's Defence Debate. He then said that he was doubtful about the need for a North Atlantic Commander to combat the submarine menace, because he thought "that the method that was successful in the last war, with any improvements which experience may suggest" should suffice next time.

THERE is considerable doubt in British and United States naval circles whether the Churchillian view takes enough account of the recent development of under-water weapons and of the new weapons for combatting them. When Mr. Churchill became First Lord in 1939 we were using the purely defensive tactics of giving convoys of merchant ships a screen of escorting warships. As the number of frigates increased this system was reinforced by the formation of "hunter-killer" groups, operating on their own and seeking out submarines before they could close on the convoys.

This change to an offensive role was much to the taste of the British Navy, which instinctively disliked lying back waiting to be attacked. The "hunter-killers" were reinforced by Coastal Command, which also successfully sought out submarines before they could get near the convoys.

THERE is now a suggestion that the American Navy is avid to go out and attack the submarine, whilst Mr. Churchill is stressing convoy escorts as the answer to the submarine. Whether that is true or not, there is no difference in this matter between the Royal Navy and the American Navy. If the Americans believe that "hunter-killer" groups are important, so do the British. The Admiralty plans to convert 45 existing Fleet destroyers to the role of anti-submarine frigates during the next three years at a cost of £25,000,000. They have a speed of 34 knots, and the first two, the Rocket and Relentless, were completed last autumn. They are now wholly engaged in intensive anti-submarine exercises giving ships' companies a foretaste of what to expect as more converted vessels join up.

The specific role of these very fast ships is to hunt out the submarine and destroy it; not to wait for it to come nosing at a convoy. These new frigates are to be equipped with the latest anti-submarine weapon which, in one comprehensive mechanism, is able to detect a submarine, fix its under-water position, aim at it, and fire an explosive charge. In developing this weapon our naval scientists have given the British Navy the lead over all other Powers.

THE helicopter, which has proved its usefulness in Korean waters, also seems likely to be used against the submarine. It can take off from, and land on, a tiny platform mounted aft in a Fleet auxiliary vessel. A comparatively small modification would allow many merchant ships now afloat to "mother" a helicopter. The current thought is that they should fly off and fan out some miles ahead of a convoy, dropping a pattern of sono-buoys as they go. These floating listening posts would relay back to the helicopters the noises they hear, and enable them to call up the escorting frigates or divert the convoy before it came up to a submarine lying in wait. The Navy has bid for a number of helicopters for this purpose.

The Navy is aiming to fight the submarine battle as far away from the merchant ships as possible. But they still believe strongly in the convoy system. A convoy is a tiny target in a large ocean and is hard to find. Moreover, it gives the best chance of getting through the narrow approaches to the British Isles. And so, in addition to refitting the last-war frigates there is a three-year programme to build 24 new frigates with different specialized roles, and all comparatively fast.

THE simplest type will almost be capable of mass production in the event of war. These ships will not only form part of the "hunter-killer" groups but will be able to reinforce older and slower last-war frigates in providing escorts for convoys. They will form the screen, and their defensive role will be vital, for there can be little doubt that the Russians, like the British and the Americans, have been engaged in developing a long-running, homing torpedo. This weapon is capable of running for some miles and contains a mechanism that steers it in the direction of any sound waves it may pick up—perhaps from a ship's engines or propeller.

As far as is known, the weapon is still in an embryo stage, but the Navy takes the weapon very seriously. Perhaps even more dangerous is the increased under-water speed of the modern submarine. In the last war, with slow under-water speeds of four knots, once it was known that a submarine was approaching the rear ship of even the slowest convoy, there was no chance that it could catch the convoy up, provided it was made to keep its head down.

SEARCH could be concentrated ahead of the convoy so as to intercept submarines lying in wait. But if submarines with under-water speeds of 16 knots or faster are being built, no convoy will be safe from the threat of being overtaken. There is every reason to believe that the Russians are building such submarines, and that will mean a much larger number of escort vessels will be needed so that all-round protection can be given to convoys.

Another major difference between the last war and any future war will be the much larger role to be given to air "hunter-killer" groups. The Americans plan to cover the North Atlantic with enough aircraft to compel submarines to "keep their heads down" the whole time they are out. If this can be done, it will decrease the effective search range of a submarine by as much as 75 per cent.

Perhaps the major difference between British and American naval policy in the anti-submarine field is the importance that the Americans attach to aerial attack on submarines in their bases. The United States Navy is concentrating heavily on this role, and believes that it is developing tactics for attacking the bases that will be successful.

But the arguments for or against a Supreme Commander do not rest on any serious difference in naval circles about the best way to defend our merchant ships. The tactic can be expressed very simply. It is to kill the submarine as far away from the merchant ship as possible.

Letters To The Editor

SAYS BOARD'S MIND CLOSED

Sir: I have no doubt the learned Board of School Area No. 2 would be very happy to terminate this discussion immediately. It has been evident by their actions and replies at the last three Board meetings that any opinion contrary to their own is most unwelcome. However, we believe that in the interests of justice and fair play, you will see your way clear to include this reply in your most popular column.

The Board's letter is answered paragraph by paragraph so that those—(and there are so many)—following this campaign may do so with a minimum of effort.

True, our numbers are few, but should we not have some small voice in the running of civic affairs? Taken acre for acre, it seems to me that the taxes levied on home-owners in the V.L.A. projects are considerably higher than those imposed on farm acreage. And in spite of the fact that the Board states that we are assessed about $1,000 per home, I maintain that here, as in so many other points, they err.

To say that our group made a deliberate bid to overthrow the Council is completely false. We have no quarrel with the council at present. The fact that there was no representative from this district in Douro prompted some of our men to run, and if one had been elected to office, we would have been pleased in the knowledge that through him we would have had some small share in the handling of township matters. While these men may be inexperienced in political fields, surely some of them had training which would have been invaluable in Council and Board work. Our representatives were as follows: an accountant, a manager, a high school teacher, a civil servant, a clerk.

In answer to the next paragraph in which our men are described as extra extravagant. Can you imagine veterans who have just built their homes being extravagant? Most of us have been living on a "shoe-string" for so long that we have learned to make every nickel do the work of two.

I would not say that the election was a waste of time. On the contrary, we learned some mighty interesting facts about our School Board and its secretary. They may have pulled the wool over our eyes in 1951, but it goes without saying that from now on we will take every word they say with a liberal sprinkling of salt.

So they have decided that we have a leader, and it isn't hard to figure out who they had in mind. A scholar and a gentleman, who I am sure had no idea he had been nominated as leader of anything.

The statement that the home-owners built in Douro township because of lower taxes is untrue and quite unfair. We built here because, at the time, it was the only V.L.A. project on which there were available lots. —And let me add, some of the same veterans are already paying taxes considerably higher than many city home-owners. If we came out here to live cheaply, surely many of us have had our eyes opened. By the time we pay our travelling expenses, higher hydro rates, higher telephone rates, garbage collection, etc., our cost of living is higher than that of many Peterborough residents. And don't forget, we have no paved streets, or sidewalks, and we had to provide our own water supply and sewage disposal.

We can't help but wonder where those "two better schools" are located. Surely our Board cannot be referring to Rifle Range and Auburn! I visited the latter school last week, and a more depressing class-room I have yet to see. Does our enlightened board not know that children require bright, cheerful surroundings in order to do their best? In their estimation four walls and a roof should be sufficient.

And now we come to the "temporary" classroom, which was built at the last moment and as a last resort when the board discovered that it had to find accommodation for some 70 pupils in Rifle Range school last September. It was not built by the Board as is implied in their letter, but by two paid workmen and numerous veterans who donated their time and services in order to keep the cost of the class-room down to a minimum.

$10,000.00 per year for transportation costs? It's amazing how figures can increase once they get into the hands of our Board. At a special December meeting, the cost given by the chairman was $5,000.00, and he based his rates on 50c per day per pupil, while in reality the charge is 25c per day per pupil. And the letter forgot to mention that there is a government grant on this item, just as there would be a government grant on a new school.

In the next paragraph, also, the figures are exaggerated. Gentlemen! We are not asking for private toilets for each child. Two hundred pupils could each use and flush a toilet four times a day on less than 4,000 gallons of water.

If these above exaggerations are a sample of the mathematical prowess acquired in one-roomed rural schools, then may a kindly providence preserve my children from it. I'd be afraid to trust them with the counting of the coppers in their piggy-banks.

Never once have we hinted that we have anything but the best for teachers at the present time. What we deplore is the fact that these teachers—(with the exception of the teacher in the temporary classroom)—cannot do themselves or their pupils justice under the existing circumstances. The progress that the two junior grades in the temporary room have made since September should be proof enough that it pays to have no more than two grades to one teacher. These children are bright, keen and interested now. What will happen when they move into the senior school with five other grades, I shudder to contemplate.

It is true that the two newly elected members have small children. Only one of these children attends school. The Otonabee representative has no child of school age, so he has no first-hand knowledge of what goes on in Rifle Range school. All his information must needs be second hand at least.

In reply to the last paragraph in which the so-called agitators are told—(not asked) —to have patience, it is my humble and sincere opinion that if we have the patience of Job, the best we can ever hope for under the present administration, is another one-roomed school or a temporary class-room. Appeals are wasted on such men. Their minds are already closed to anything progressive in the way of education. To my knowledge not one of them has yet visited a modern, central school, or has made any inquiries into the advantages derived from such accommodation. There are many such schools in Ontario, and I have yet to hear of a community that has not benefitted from the change. When one considers the fact that in the two V.L.A. projects and their immediate vicinity, there will be at least one hundred pupils of school age within the next five years, I think it is high time that some definite step was taken. Our children cannot be educated on promises, many of which have been made and broken during the past year or so. Again I repeat, I think it is time that a thorough investigation be carried out to determine once and for all whether our need is real or imaginary.

Thanking you,

Respectfully yours,
"HERE I AM AGAIN"

SUGGESTS BOARD'S ARITHMETIC FAULTY

Sir: I would like very much to answer the letter the School Board of School Area No. 2, Douro, had published in your columns on Friday, January 18.

I was pleased to read where the "board" was going to present the true facts, but of course as I read farther on I discover this is not so.

First of all this discussion over our proposed school is and has been long and drawn out and has been going on for nearly two years and so it will continue until something definite and constructive is done.

Since when has it been a waste of time and money to run men in an election? This is still a free country, and a right by which we stand. Our candidates who made their bid for councilmen and trustees were just as competent as any man who makes his first attempt in an election. And as they were as follows—an accountant, a clerk and a civil servant—are probably dealing with figures much more than the men elected.

Actually our big beef isn't with the Council, but the School Board. The Council haven't had a chance to voice their opinion on our issue, due to the fact the School Board, which passed a motion and was carried, late decided not to take our problem to the Council.

As for our learned leader, I didn't know anyone had been assigned this honour. But I have a very good idea who you mean, and believe me he is in a far better position to present some of the facts than anyone on the present board of trustees, as he deals with children from both rural and urban schools every day. He is definitely not lacking in common sense, he has presented true facts, can't the Board stand this type of action?

We who have built our homes in Douro, under the V.L.A. project, did not do so for the sake of low taxes. We didn't have a choice of building in the city as the V.L.A. does not permit it.

What is more our taxes equal very well with those in the city, if you consider we had to provide and pay for our own water system and sewage disposal, our higher rates in hydro, and telephone, our transportation to work in the city six days a week, plus the many more items we have to pay for if we wish to have them. On top of this we have to pay for all our milk, butter, eggs, and meat at the store prices; we can't produce our own, (as the farmer does), on one-half acre of land.

The "better schools" we have in our area have already been brought into the open, by previous letters, and I don't mean the one the Board submitted. And the facts presented were true. We know of the temporary school which was erected last fall, as the majority of our men in the V.L.A., along with two paid carpenters, contributed their time free, to put this school up, so that there would be some place for the overflow of children. And we won't forget it is just temporary either.

As for the ten thousand dollars for transportation, this figure is absolutely untrue, and the Board knows it. Transportation for one hundred pupils per day, nine months of the year, at twenty-five cents per pupil, the total is four thousand, five hundred dollars, minus a government grant the Board didn't mention.

Also the figures concerning the water necessary to operate flush toilets and wash basins, is so far wrong, I can't help thinking if our school Board received their education in a one-room school with eight grades, the teachers must have omitted teaching arithmetic altogether. Thirty-two hundred gals of water would allow two hundred children to use the toilets four times daily. Surely four thousand gallons would provide for both toilets and basins. We didn't ask for a community bath house where both children and parents could have the Saturday night splash.

Our assessment is well over the one thousand dollars and our house isn't nearly completed yet. It would be pleasing to know just how many farms are assessed for over three thousand. As for eight thousand nine hundred, I think there is one, and where do these people send their children to school? Certainly not to to Rifle Range, and if I could afford it our child wouldn't be going there either.

Yes, we know we have three of the very best teachers this year, but where will they be next year?

They were hired this year when they were told we would be having a big new school going up, and there would be better conditions, than these existing now.

Granted, our two trustees who were elected this year are veterans, but they made one election promise which carried a lot of weight in getting votes. They promised to provide immediate transportation for some of the pupils who have a long walk, along the river bank.

But this was squashed at the first Board meeting. Did these trustees not know the majority rules? The one should have as he was on the Board last year. He also knew the stand the Board took on transportation, before he made this promise. They just will not have it.

If I thought for one minute that these men on our school Board were sincere, and had the children at heart, instead of their own taxes, I would gladly have patience and give them a fair amount of time to do something about the situation. But three of these men were on the Board last year and didn't accomplish one thing outside of the temporary school, and making all the people from this part of the section darned good and mad so that they started attending the Board meetings, and found just what was and is going on.

I remain,

SUGGESTS SEVERE PENALTY

Sir: In our vicinity (but not yours) are two young men who have got their two girl friends in trouble; now they refuse marriage or responsibility; they apparently have no thought for the unborn—nor it seems does our country or anybody.

Surely this calls for action of some sort—for this situation seems country wide or better city-wide. Now why not in this (as in other things) make the punishment fit the crime? If these men (or any man) wish to sow wild oats, make the oat infertile—in plain words make the man infertile—but by modern operation.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Howbeit Sisera fled away on his feet to the tent of Jael the wife of Heber the Kenite: for there was peace between Jabin the king of Hazor and the house of Heber the Kenite. And Jael went out to meet Sisera, and said unto him, Turn in, my lord, turn in to me; fear not. And when he had turned in unto her into the tent, she covered him with a mantle. And he said unto her, Give me, I pray thee, a little water to drink; for I am thirsty. And she opened a bottle of milk, and gave him drink, and covered him. Again he said unto her, Stand in the door of the tent, and it shall be, when any man doth come and enquire of thee, and say, Is there any man here? that thou shalt say, No....

And, behold, as Barak pursued Sisera, Jael came out to meet him, and said unto him, Come, and I will shew thee the man whom thou seekest....

So God subdued on that day Jabin the king of Canaan before the children of Israel. (Judg. 4: 17-20, 22, 23.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Then sang Deborah and Barak the son of Abinoam on that day, saying... Hear, O ye kings; give ear, O ye princes; I, even I, will sing unto the Lord; I will sing praise to the Lord God of Israel. (Judg. 5: 1, 3.)

✧ ✧ ✧

For the Lord loveth judgement, and forsaketh not his saints; they are preserved for ever: but the seed of the wicked shall be cut off. The righteous shall inherit the land, and dwell therein for ever. (Ps. 37: 28, 29.)

Plan To Halt Goods Dumping

OTTAWA, Jan. 23—(CP)—A plan for halting the "dumping" of United States-made women's wear on the Canadian market has been worked out in the Revenue Department, a delegation from the Needle Trades was told Tuesday.

A labor-management official said after the meeting that G. B. Urquhart, assistant deputy minister of customs, told the delegation departmental experts had worked out a course that he thought might remedy the situation. The plan had been submitted to Revenu Minister McCann, but no indication was given as to whether the government would adopt it.

After the meeting, a union spokesman in an interview announced plans for calling on labor generally to boycott some big departmental stores unless they ceased buying dumped ladies' wear—articles sold to Canadian importers at less than the regular US price.

BREAK THE LAXATIVE HABIT THIS PROVEN WAY

If you take laxatives regularly, here is how you can stop! This proven plan helps you establish your natural powers of regularity, controlled tests prove.

Stop taking whatever you now take. Instead, every night for one week take two Carter's Little Liver Pills. Second week—one each night. Third week—one every other night. Then nothing! Every day drink eight glasses of water; set a definite time for regularity. This plan was proven in scientifically controlled tests.

How can a laxative break the laxative habit? Because Carter's unblock the lower digestive tract and from then on let it make use of its own natural powers. Further, Carter's contain no habit forming drugs. Break the laxative habit with Carter's . . . be regular naturally.

When worry, overwork, overeating make you irregular temporarily—take Carter's temporarily. Never get the laxative habit.

Get mild, gentle Carter's Little Liver Pills at any drug store. Only 35c. You'll be grateful the rest of your life.

Gives Up Career To Teach Politicians TV

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 23 (AP)—Have you had your television screen test yet, senator? What is your best makeup? Can your wife and children handle themselves in front of a TV camera?

These and other matters can be solved for politicos by a statuesque beauty named Judy Lawton. A veteran of radio and television, she has given up her TV career to teach politicians how to conduct themselves in front of the TV camera.

"All the magazines and commentators have indicated that TV will perhaps be the deciding factor in the 1952 elections," she explained. "The rise of Senator Kefauver has been a good indication of that." (He starred in senate crime hearings on TV.)

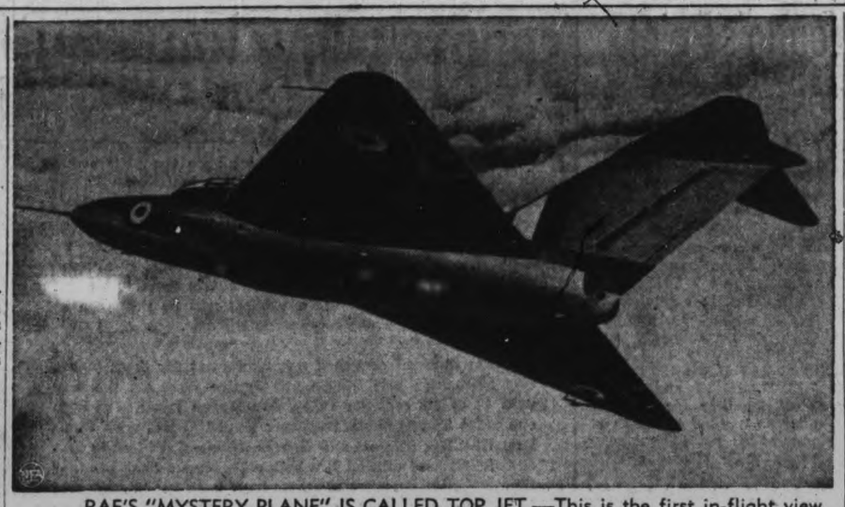
"I have interviewed a great number of politicians on TV," she said, "From Governor Warren and Mayor Bowron (of Los Angeles) on down. I have found that none of them knows TV technique. That's why I decided to go into the business of teaching them."

Gives Criticisms

I asked Miss Lawton how she evaluated TV personalities of the leading presidential possibilities. Her criticisms:

President Truman—"How long can he keep making the same gesture? (Hands outstretched as though measuring) his delivery hasn't improved with years."

General Eisenhower—"He has a great amount of glamor, but he can be too military. Too often he sounds as if he's giving orders."



Senator Taft—"He is the only candidate I could do nothing with. He would have to change a great deal, but he would have to do it gradually."

Harold Stassen—"He has much to learn. He acts too much like a speech maker, instead of conversing with his audience."

Best TV performer in public life is Secretary of State Dean Acheson, she added. "His performance at the Japanese peace conference was brilliant," she said. "What an ab libber!"

European-American Popularity At Very Low Ebb In Singapore

SINGAPORE, Jan. 23 (AP)—European-American popularity in this predominantly Chinese city could be lower—but not much.

Old-timers in the colony, with one eye on the Communist campaign next door on the Malay Peninsula, fear the jungle war may be the forerunner of a possible invasion of Southeast Asia by the massive armies of red China.

They see in the ill-feeling borne them by the Chinese here a potentially powerful enemy weapon.

Of Singapore's 1,100,000 population, some 800,000 are Chinese. A tiny fraction of these, including former officials of the defunct Kuomintang organization here are well off and contented. The vast majority of the colony's Chinese still have to struggle long hours for little pay to clothe and feed themselves.

In addition to the hostile Chinese, there are about 125,000 Malayas and 75,000 Indians who in the past have shown little love for the European. Their resentment, based on racial distrust, carries the added impetus of religious hatred.

Shown In Riots

This was shown clearly in the December riots of 1950 when 18 persons were killed and 200 injured.

Due to the war against the terrorists on the mainland, few British troops can be spared for duty in Singapore itself.

British government officials have announced their determination to elevate the Chinese both in Singapore and the Federation to something better than the "second-lass citizens" which they now regard themselves.

Several measures already have been taken. During his recent visit here Colonial Secretary Oliver Lyttelton announced that Chinese can now become British citizens without the previous requirement that they be able to speak the English language.

Other measures are planned to win over the confidence and respect of the Chinese. But, as one educated Chinese asked recently "will these steps eliminate the jealousy that lies at the root of all the trouble?"

He then drove a comparison between the Asian white-collar worker who makes 200 Straits dollars ($70) a month and the non-Asian who gets 600 Straits dollars for doing the virtually the same work.

The Asian knows his chances of reaching executive levels in European firms are negligible, and he listens to Communist propaganda which makes the most of these sore points.

Canada Takes Leading Role In Korean Reconstruction

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER

PARIS, Jan. 23—(CP)—Canada is taking a leading role in drawin up United Nations' plans for full-scale reconstruction work in Korea when the war there ends.

David Johnson, newly-appointed head of Canada's permanent delegation to the UN, has been appointed chairman of the five-country advisory committee on the UN Korean Reconstruction Agency which is working out plans for a one-year $250,000,000 reconstruction program.

More than $200,000,000 already has been pledged to the fund by UN members. Canada is the first country to make a substantial cash contribution—more than $7,000,000.

A report from J. Donald Kingsley, agent-general of the UNKRA, said that the agency already has 45 men in Korea working with the UN civil assistance command, under Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's UN military command in Korea.

Plans now are for UNKRA to take over the job from the army six months after the end hostilities, unless the military situation prohibits such a move.

Distributes Supplies

The civilian assistance command now is distributing relief supplies, helping to stop epidemics and providing short-term economic rehabilitation projects.

Even before the fighting stops, it is hoped to effect some large-scale economic rehabiliation programs and UNKRA has authorized spending of $8,000,000 for joint work with the army on projects such as providing fishing nets, re-establishing a marine school, importing poultry and farm animals and making engineering surveys for mining and other industrial installations.

The main one-year post-hostilities program is designed to meet the basic needs of the Korean people in the way of food, clothing, medical care and shelter as well as a start in rehabilitating such fields as housing, public welfare, agriculture, mining and shipping.

Marines Edge the Flyers In 41-40 Cage Fray On Ab Stewart's Foul Try

Coach Gord McIntyre's Marines are assured of at least a second place position and a possible first place tie with Belleville Glen Roys by virtue of a slim 41-40 victory over the Trenton RCAF Flyers Tuesday night. If the Marines upset the Glen Roys, who have a four-point lead and two games yet, on Thursday night in Belleville, there will likely be a tie for first. The Marines have an easy four-point game Saturday with Picton which would make the total points even.

Tuesday night saw the Flyers floor their strongest team this year and it was on a par with the league leaders, the Roys and the Marines. The Peterborough cagers had to fight back twice to take the lead and didn't get the win until the last second when Ab Stewart dropped through a foul shot for the winning point.

New Players

The Flyers introduced a number of new faces to Marines, including a six-foot-four-inch player, Junkin, from the Toronto senior Central "Y" team.

"The Flyers are as strong as any team in the league," said Coach McIntyre after the game.

In fact Marines in the first seven minutes were slightly crestfallen, for the Flyers were enjoying a 10-2 lead provided by Watson, Leckley and Junkin. But Flyers were soon grounded by a Marine air barrage, led by Joe Stewart with nine points and Gord Burns with eight, for a 21-17 score in favor of the Marines.

Flyers rallied again in the second half and the lead jockeyed back and forth as Junkin, Watson, Leckley and O"Hara paced the Trenton cagers, Junkin and O'Hara using full advantage of their height.

Ab Came Through

Led by Bill Trimm, Ab Stewart, Hugh Dibben and Warren Smith, the Marines stayed close to the Flyers until in the final minute the score became tied 40-all. Then Ab Stewart who was having a poor night in the scoring department dropped in the victory tally.

Gord Burns, a veteran Peterborough cager, played his best game this year, both offensively and defensively. The tall guard rolled up 10 scoring points and received more than his share of rebounds from Flyers' field attempts.

But Joe Stewart led Marines' scoring with an 11-point total, mostly earned in the first half attack.

For Trenton Junkin, Watson and Leckley were easily their top performers, carrying the weight throughout the game. Leckley, O'Hara and Junkin, all taller than the Marines, used their height to advantage.

Lineups:

Marines (41)—A. Stewart 4, J. Stewart 11, Thompson 2, Trimm 4, Dibben 4, Smith 3, Burns 10, Gillespie 2, Thorburn Northcott, Payne 1.

Trenton (40)—Watson 11, Dube 9, O'Hara 5, Blythe, Leckley 7, Barritt, Junkin 8, Campbell, Hudson, O'Dell, Thevreux.

Ski Committee Drafts Apology

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP). — The United States Olympic Ski Committee is drafting a letter of apology to Mrs. Suzy Harris Rytting who was sent home from Grindewald Switzerland, last week because she is pregnant. Mrs. Rytting was regarded as the beauty queen of the US women's Olympic ski team.

Courtney T. Hill, chairman of the committee, termed the incident "regrettable" in announcing that the letter of apology will be sent to Mrs. Rytting at her home in Salt Lake City.

Hill, in New York en route to Europe, said he would look into the matter further when he arrives overseas.

In Salt Lake City Mrs. Rytting said she came home "almost in disgrace because the committee was afraid someone would learn of my condition and raise a fuss."

"I don't mind missing the Olympics too much," she told John Mooney, sports editor of the Salt Lake Tribune, "but I certainly think I was treated rather shabbily."

Providence Reds Trim Buffalo 4-1

BUFFALO, NY, Jan. 23 (CP).—Providence Reds entrenched themselves in second place in the eastern division of the American Hockey League Tuesday night by trimming Buffalo Bisons 4-1.

Ray Powell, the league's leading scorer, picked up a goal and an assist. Other Red goals were made by Zellio Toppazzini, Ken Smith and Ray Lapante. Two came with the Bisons shorthanded. Gordie Pennell scored for the Bisons.

Young's Point Ties With Apsley 2-2

YOUNG'S POINT, Jan. 23—(ENS)—Although a fine snowstorm made ice conditions unfavorable, Apsley and Young's Point battled to a 2-2 tie here on Saturday night, in a lively foray which saw a number of fights.

Apsley broke into the scoring column with a goal by L. Smith at 3.49 of the first period. At 7.10 D. Heard and D. Jeff went off together for roughing. Both teams worked hard the remainder of the period, but heavy ice made their efforts uneffective.

At 6.50 of the second S. McNaughton was given a penalty for tripping. A few minutes later the Point boys started to roll with two quick goals, J. Church netting the first at 9.25, and D. McIssac batting in J. Darling's rebound at 11.10 minutes. Feelings ran high for the remainder of the period and at 18.10 referee Cam. Wasson quelled a fight which had broken out, by giving major penalties to B. Delahaye, S. McNaughton, L. Smith and E. Tedford.

The feud reached its climax at 6.45 of the final frame when J. Darling and T. Wilson were each given 5 minutes for fighting, and K. Delahaye of Apsley was given a match misconduct. At 13.10 D. Heard and D. Tucker got the gate for slashing and at 14.05 Wilson followed for tripping. L. Smith got his second goal of the night at 17.55, to complete the scoring, and B. Delahaye got the final penalty in the closing seconds for slashing. There was some discussion at to whether a ten-minute overtime period should be played but Apsley refused on account of weather so the game was called at a 2-2 draw. Next game between these two teams is scheduled for Next Saturday night at Apsley.

Apsley: Goal: G. Spencley; J. Tucker, K. Delahaye; forwards: L. Smith, B. Delahaye, K. Brown; alternates: D. Jeff, S. Jeff, D. Martin, T. Wilson, A. Wagner, D. Tucker.

Savitt Hits Tough Opposition

ADELAIDE, Australia, Jan. 23 (CP).—The favorites advanced to the semi-finals in the men's singles of the Australian tennis championships, but defending champion Dick Savitt ran into unexpectedly tough opposition.

The American star was held to five sets by young Ian Ayre before he won out, 6-1, 6-4, 5-7, 4-6, 6-4.

Top-seeded Frank Sedgman turned back fellow-Australian Don Candy, 7-5, 6-1, 6-4.

In other all-Australian quarter-final matches, two of Sedgman's teammates on the Aussie Davis Cup squad, Ken McGregor and Marvyn Rose, completed the round of four. McGregor defeated Geoff Brown, 6-4, 6-2, 12-10, while Rose shaded Ken Rosewall, 6-4, 6-4, 5-7, 2-6, 6-2.

Bancroft Winners

BANCROFT, Jan. 23—(ENS)—Bill Delyea's goal broke up the see-saw hockey game between Bancroft Pontiacs and Tamworth in the local arena Monday and was responsible for the Pontiacs 10 to 8 victory.

More than 500 saw the affair, a high-speed game with never a dull moment. It looked like an overtime contest until Bill scored at 18:20 in the third period. Then Norman Brough, the high man for the evening, cinched it when he netted his fifth goal of the game, a few seconds later.

Referee Fitzpatrick earned his fee for the game as he handed out 17 penalties, a record since away back when. Bancroft was awarded nine and Tamworth eight The majority of these were for slashing as sticks were often swung around like Paul Bunyan's axe slashing through a timber limit.

Tamworth played without the aid of Jack Markle, a starry left-winger from the Owen Sound Mercurys, OHA champions and Allen Cup winners of 1950-51, who moved to Tamworth area just before the hockey season started. Jack, who is an employee of a building supply outfit, rates his job above hockey and spent the evening working for his firm.

The Pontiac's scorers were N. Brough 5, Delyea 2, D. Maxwell, Stuckey and Bruce while Tamworth's marksmen were Fisher 3, Marshall 2, Jones, Weese and Hinch.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

No keener competition in any sport here the year around is served up than when Petes and Eagles clash in senior "B" hockey. These bitter ice enemies from the same stamping grounds are at it tonight at 8.30 in Civic Arena, which should mean a sellout or nigh onto it. Petes have had an edge to date in fixtures between these clubs, but Eagles won the last game o'er their local rivals, so anything can happen tonight. Fans will be out in force to cheer their respective favorites on and the customers will be sure of a redhot hockey match. Than which there is no whicher.

Last time we compiled scoring figures for these teams, Gus Leonard, Curly Mason and Junior West led the way with 17 points each for Petes, Arn Dugan being next with one point less. Freddy Mortimer topped Eagles with 19, as Bert Hill, Reg Stewart and George Brabin were tied in second slot with 16 apiece. But both clubs have a flock of other fine pucksters, to, some of whom have been hot around goal in recent games. And Eagles have a good trio of juniors up from Oshawa, including Bill Berwick who went from here there in the first place. Nifty netminding is the rule in Eagles-Petes' jousts, also, as well as stiff bumping at the blue line. Yeah, two good clubs in sizzling puck action here tonight.

Concerning Those Gates

Commenting on our remarks re hockey gates declining, Mike Rodden of Kingston puts most of the blame on "non-enforcement of playing rules and altering of same". He adds: "As an instance of this uncertainty it may be said that the icing-the-puck rule is going to be changed again in the near future." Scribe Carver of Belleville feels that money is tightening up somewhat, but he claims Belleville is drawing better than Kingston or Peterborough at home. He says a lot depends on the opposition and that Peterborough teams mean good gates in Belleville, drawing crowds up to around 1,600. Lindsay in the junior series has attracted 1,100 fans in the Quinte arena. The average crowd in Bella Villa would seem to be about 1,050 to date.

At an ORFU intermediate grid meeting in Kitchener, a proposal was made by Cobourg that the 12 teams be split into "A" and "B" divisions, with Cobourg, Oshawa, Hamilton, London and Kitchener "A". It was defeated with the suggestion that the strongest "B" squad each year step up to an "A" ranking next season. This and other matters will come up at the annual meeting in June. Meantime, there's no limit on imports within the province for intermediate football. Fines will be levied on teams arriving late or failing to finish the schedule, each club posting a bond of $200 to ensure this by June 1. A club losing an intermediate gridder to a senior club is entitled to payment of $350. Residence rule has been abolished. Yeah, it looks like some wide-open rugby around Central Ontario next autumn.

'52 Lacrosse Executive

The destiny of the senior lacrosse club here will be in the executive hands of the following in '52: Bob Peirson, Paul Irwin, Mick Magee, Jack Gainey, Dr. Herb Young, Ken Kingston, Red Creighton, Bob Curtin, Bev Goulding, Ernie Braund, Gordon Dobbin and Barney Dundas. Last two are new members. Bob Peirson is again president, Paul Irwin vice-prexy, Mick Magee secretary, and Howard McLean was re-appointed treasurer. A meeting next week to start on plans for the coming season, and it's expected another strong OLA squad will represent Peterborough. Doug Miller, long a valued local lacrosse official, sent in his resignation owing to his council duties and his own work, but he will help the club as much as possible.

When the rules committee of the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union meets in Montreal next Saturday it will have two proposals from coach Vick Obeck of McGill University.

Obeck wants the number of men who can be dressed for league play raised from 24 to 30. He also wants the Union to allow more blocking.

Obeck said Tuesday in Montreal he wants these changes "because I think they are logical moves and would be a help to the game."

John Jackson, once described as "Britain's best soccer goalkeeper," will defend the Toronto Scottish nets during the approaching National Soccer League season. The 41-year-old British player is a holder of 14 international caps, from schoolboy to the top international match awards.

Solly Cantor, popular Toronto lightweight boxer, has decided to make his home in Edmonton. Said Solly, after announcing his decision in Edmonton Tuesday: "It's so free and easy out here. You feel like you belong. Down east it's dog-eat-dog and the devil take the hindmost."

The Senate Finance Committee Tuesday in Albany, NY, approved a bill that would bar from horse racing in New York any owner, jockey or trainer who "has been" associated with a convicted criminal. The measure also would bar an owner, jockey or trainer if his "partner, agent, employee or associate," has had past associations with criminals.

If South Koreans can raise $78,000 without government help they will send 35 athletes to the Olympic games at Helsinki this summer. The Olympic games committee announced Tuesday in Pusan, Korea, that "despite the handicaps caused by war" the Republic would be represented in at least three events—the marathon, weight lifting and boxing.

Suspended fight manager Tommy Ryan and his brother were arrested Tuesday in New York on an assault charge for punching a referee and a matchmaker at Madison Square Garden Jan. 11.

Germany is making a strong comeback in her first post-war Olympics as the only nation of 31 entered that is going to start in all 22 events of the sixth winter games opening in Oslo Feb. 14.

Peter Shaughnessy, 30, son of Frank (Shag) Shaughnessy, president of the International Baseball League, died Tuesday in an automobile accident near Lachute, 45 miles north of Montreal.

Johnny Yuha, Pennsylvania schoolboy football star, seriously injured in a football game Nov. 3, advanced another step in his treatment in New York. His neck was taken out of a traction device similar to that used for broken legs and in its place he now wears a leather collar that gives support and is more comfortable. Paralyzed, he still has movement only in his right shoulder.

L'il Arthur Gets Decision Over Pruden

TORONTO, Jan. 23 (CP).—Two Ontario fighters, who sought greener pastures in the United States, returned to Canada Tuesday night and gave fans one of the best bouts seen in these parts in years.

After 10 bruising rounds, Toronto's L'Il Arthur King, former Canadian lightweight champion, gained the unanimous verdict over Fitzie Pruden of St. Catharines. A crowd of 7,093 paid $15,614 to see the battle.

Pruden, fighting out of Paterson, NJ, kept the action at top speed with his forcing tactics but the Toronto Negro, managed by Philadelphia's Blinky Palermo, kept him off balance with an educated left. The Canadian Press score card gave King six rounds, Pruden two with two even.

Eight-pound Edge

King weighed 137½, giving Pruden an edge of nearly eight pounds. He set the pace in the first two rounds with a series of left hooks and jabs to the face but Pruden picked up steam in the third and shot into the lead in the fourth and fifth stanzas with a tough body barrage that had King in trouble.

King took over in the sixth and won every round from there in. Pruden, who was aiming at a bout with Montreal's Johnny Greco Canadian welter king, absorbed the punishment but did not take a backward step.

Pruden concentrated mainly on the body and rocked King with hard smashes but the Toronto Negro counter-punched his way out of trouble. There were no knockdowns.

King came out of it with a big lump over his right eye and Pruden had two small cuts around his right eye.

Young's Point Lasses Lose To Warsaw Girls

YOUNG'S POINT, Jan. 23—(ENS)—A lively and rather unusual display of hockey took place at Warsaw arena when the local lasses played Young's Point girls on Monday night.

First period saw Warsaw take the lead, while the visitors were getting used to the surroundings and were unable to score. The first goal came at 9.20 from the stick of B. Carlow and W. Freeburn made it 2-0 at 12.35. Only penalty went to E. McMillan for tripping.

In the second, play warmed up but the only scoring action was a goal by H. Carlow at 14.50. One penalty went to E. Davis. Midway through the third period M. Darling and A. Wilson went off together for roughing. Shortly after, at the 12 minute mark, R. Wilson netted one for Young's Point. The final scoring play came of 18.13 when B. Carlow got her second goal of the night.

It will be T. McArthur vs. Dr. R. Clark in the final game of the Neill Trophy. These two rinks have come a long way to reach the finals. There were 76 rinks entered. Most likely the committee will call the game for next Wednesday evening.

The draw for the rice skips' competition has been made, and is posted on the notice board. These games will get under way also next Wednesday evening.

We understand that the new schedule books will be distributed in a day or two.

And speaking about the next schedule, it begins this Thursday evening at 7 and 9 o'clock.

F. Stenson, Dr. R. Knott, C. M. Lawrence, and A. Yelland leave Thursday to play in the international bonspiel at Utica, NY.

It seems that there is quite a strong movement in Lakefield for the erection of a curling rink. Already a nice sum of money has been collected, and we understand there will be an open meeting in the Town Hall on February 4 at 8 pm. Everybody is asked to attend, whether a curler or not. In the olden days Lakefield Curling Club was recognized as one of the strongest clubs in the country. We hope the boys behind this movement make a success of it and we know all members of our curling club wish them good luck.

Dr. R. Clark won from O. Price.

Robt. Peirson President Lacrosse Club

R. M. Peirson was returned as president of the Peterborough Senior Lacrosse Club at the annual meeting here last night. Paul Irwin will be vice-president, Mick Magee, secretary, and Howard McLean was appointed treasurer. Doug Miller's resignation was received with regret—pressure of business forcing him to make the step—but he promised to aid the club as much as possible.

Elected for three-year executive terms were: Bob Peirson, Jack Gainey, Dr. Herb Young and Ken Kingston; for two years: Robert (Red) Creighton, Bob Curtin, Mick Magee and Bev Goulding; one year: Paul Irwin, Ernie Braund, Gordon Dobbin and Barney Dundas, the last two being new members.

A working committee to Bob Peirson, Paul Irwin, Bob Curtin, Ernie Braund and Ken Kingston, was set up to start things going, and a meeting will be held next week to outline plans for the coming season. It was reported that most of last year's players wanted to perform again for the 1951 Mann Cup champions in 1952, and several new players may line up with the team in the spring.

Rangers Tie Boston 3-3 With 2 Last-Period Goals

By The Canadian Press

Those New York Rangers never say die. With them, a hockey game is never over until the final whistle. The blueshirts tenacious attitude paid off once again Tuesday night as they came through with two last-period goals right in Boston to salvage a 3-3 deadlock with the Bruins. Tied 1-1 at the end of the first period and down 3-1 going into the final session, the Rangers staged a sustained drive which was climaxed when rookies Herb Dickenson and Wally Hergesheimer scored. Both goals came off assists by former Bruin Paul Ronty.

The deadlock enabled the New Yorkers to retain fourth place in the National Hockey League. They are a scant point up on the Boston club.

Gaye Stewart opened the scoring for the Rangers at 13:18 of the first period, only to have rookie Leo Labine even it up with 17 seconds left to play.

Get Lead

Dave Creighton and Johnny Peirson gave the Bruins their 3-1 second period lead with goals at 12:35 and 17:21.

Dickenson's goal came at 5:39 of the final stanza while Hergesheimer's was at 12:14. Ronty set up the second one after stealing the puck from Flem Mackell behind the Boston net.

Tonight's only NHL game is in Toronto. Third-place Montreal Canadiens move into Maple Leaf Gardens for a bout with the second place Leafs.

Expect Walcott To Accept With Charles

By ED CORRIGAN.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP). — The pincers that have been tightening on heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott for the last 24 hours today had the ancient New Jersey battler ready to give up his lucrative exhibition tour and sign for a defence of his title.

But Jersey Joe, who probably will climb in the ring against Ezzard Charles whose crown he lifted last July 18, had one ally—Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, which has a contract with the champion.

When Norris heard that Bob Christenberry, the new chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, had ordered Walcott to defend his title within 15 days or have it vacated in New York, the IBC president said:

"I had thought it was understood that Walcott was to be given the chance to make the most of the financial opportunities he has as champion before being required to defend."

But Christenberry obviously didn't see it that way. Originally, Walcott signed to defend his championship 90 days from July 18 and against Charles. That went by the boards though when Walcott began cashing in on the crown. Now Christenberry apparently has decided the time has come to act. He also bypassed Rocky Marciano (winner over Joe Louis) and Harry Matthews of Seattle.

No. 1 Challenger

"As far as the New York State Athletic Commission is concerned," said Christenberry, "Ezzard Charles is the No. 1 challenger. We have nothing before us from Marciano, and I refuse to consider Matthews a contender for the heavyweight title."

Rumors have been making the rounds that Felix Bocchicchio, Walcott's manager, would prefer Marciano to Charles. However, Marciano said he doesn't want to fight for the title unless Charles waives his right.

"As far as I know," said Norris, "Bocchicchio is agreeable to going through with his contract obligations. The Walcott-Charles match seemed assured until Marciano stepped into the spotlight with his knockout of Louis. We are hopeful of arranging the Walcott-Charles match for late March or early April, which will leave time enough to prepare for a June bout between Marciano and the winner."

Roth Continues Best OHA Scorer

TORONTO, Jan. 23 (CP). — Mickey Roth, the league-leading Stratford Indians' play-making centreman, continued this week to lead the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A point parade.

The 24-year-old from New Hamburg, Ont., has scored 39 goals and assisted on 52 others in 39 league games this season. He holds a 22-point advantage over Dinny Flanagan, his left winger who has banged in 22 goals and 47 assists in 39 appearances.

Holding down third place in the scoring statistics is Kitchener's Ed Stankiewicz with 67 points. The third member of Stratford's big line, Billy Flick, is in fourth position with 64 points.

Stratford can also claim top place in the goaltending department. Bruce Dale is leading the league with a goals-against average of 3.28 in 32 games this season. He has allowed only 105 of them.

Boat Hurley of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen holds down second place with a 3.47 average. Hamilton's Art Child is third with 4.15.

Trenton Flyers Trip Gould Jewellers 8-2

BRIGHTON, Jan. 23.—A five-goal scoring display in the final 20 minutes enabled RCAF Trenton Flyers to whip Trenton Gould Jewellers 8-2, in a Trent Valley League Southern Division game here. The win was the fourth in a row for the Airmen, who hold a solid grip on first place in their division.

The Jewellers took a 2-1 lead in the opening period with the Flyers tallying twice in the middle session to enjoy a 3-2 lead.

Wels McLean and Roy Faulkner paced the winners with two goals apiece, while Charlie MacDonald assisted on four goals. Bob Campney and Lou Schmidt accounted for Trenton's goals.

League leader still is Gordie Howe of Detroit with 42 points. Howe has a pace-setting 24 goals—tied in this department with Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal—and 18 assists.

Dutchmen Whitewash Tigers 6-0 As Redmen Trip Mercurys 11-6

By The Canadian Press.

It wasn't so very long ago that the Hamilton Tigers were more than holding their own in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A race. There were even times when the second-place Bengals were breathing down the necks of the league-leading Stratford Indians.

But things are different now, and it's mostly due to the high-flying Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

The Dutchmen scored twice on Tuesday night in each period to drub the hapless Hamilton squad 6-0 in Hamilton. The victory pushed the Kitchener-Waterloo club to within 11 points of the league-leading Stratford club.

The win also moved them three full games out in front of the third place Tigers who are now tied for third spot with Brantford Redmen on the strength of the Brantford's 11-6 win Tuesday night over Owen Sound Mercurys.

First Shutout

In the Junior A loop, Marv Brewer pulled off his first shutout of the season when his second-place Guelph Biltmores blanked Kitchener Greenshirts 3-0. Galt Black Hawks blasted Oshawa Generals 11-5 in the only other junior clash. The win was Galt's eighth straight and the loss Oshawa's 17th straight.

At Hamilton the Dutchmen divided their scoring across the board as Dan Bauer and Art Hurst gave them their first period lead while Maurice Levesque and Jim Pernfuss scored in the middle session. Ed Stankiewicz and Don Bauer came through in the final stanza.

Bill Shill paced Brantford with five goals and three assists. Lloyd Ferguson added three while Don Oberholtzer Joey Holota and Bill Simpel garnered the others. Tom Burlington, Andy Grant and Bill McComb each scored twice for the losing Owen Sound crew.

Chick Chambers, Ken Laufman and Dean Prentice scored for Guelph as the Biltmores blanked Kitchener 3-0.

Bill McIntosh pushed in five tallies in Galt's win. Pete Conacher added two more and Buddy Horne, Jack Hill, Tom Fyles and Jack Sleaver came through with the others. Pete Hudson got a pair for Oshawa while Harry Sindon, Bob Attersley and Bob Holden tallied the remaining markers.

Urge Farmers To Improve Quality Of Potato Crops

TORONTO, Jan. 23. (CP)—Farmers were urged Tuesday to improve the quality of their potatoes and plan their production to meet the needs of Ontario markets. Potato growers themselves at the Ontario Crop Improvement Association convention urged stronger enforcement of the farm products grades and sales regulations in relation to potatoes. Marian Wright, home economist of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, told the growers that women wanted potatoes that were firm and clean, well shaped and of a uniform size. She said they were not concerned with small differences in price.

Edgar Hewitt, who said farmers should keep their poor potatoes at home and send the good ones to market, said that although potato prices now were the highest in years, they were not excessive.

Just Meet Needs

He recalled the days when growers could not get rid of their product even at 25 cents a bag. If the average prices received by growers during the last three years were taken, it would be seen that the average price did little more than meet the needs of the growers.

"Through the way potatoes have been produced and marketed in past years, even as little as five per cent overproduction will deprive us of any chance of getting what our product is worth," he said.

The answer was to plan productioin wisely to meet known markets, arrange orderly marketing and improve storage facilities.

Howard Harper, of Goodwood, called for a thorough overhaul of the whole system of grades and inspection which, he said, was long overdue.

Must Improve Quality

J. B. Graham, of Copetown, president of the potato section, urged the growers to concentrate on the quality of their crops.

The meeting endorsed a resolution that establishment of a fund for a world's championship in potatoes at the Royal Winter Fair be discussed with representatives from other provinces.

Dr. T. M. Stevenson, Dominion agronomist at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, told a meeting of seed growers that farmers who used imported varieties of forage crop seeds often got poor crops because the seeds were not adapted to Canadian conditions.

Several million pounds of unadapted strains of red clover and alfalfa were imported and sown in Canada during the last few years despite progress made in developing improved varieties, he said.

Cost Of Keeping People At Home Rises On Average

The cost of keeping a person at the Old People's Home, Lakefield, has risen .06 per cent during the last year.

In 1950 the cost per day of keeping a person at the county home was $8.98, but during 1951 the figure rose 54 cents for an average of $9.52.

An overexpenditure at the Old People's Home was responsible for $2,786 of the county's $19,016 deficit, Mrs. J. A. Spurway told county council.

Strangely enough, the committee reports shows that there are five fewer people accommodated at the home in 1951 than in 1950; yet the number of "inmate days" rose from 5,592 to 6,936.

Greater Turnover

This was caused by a greater turnover of inmates in the previous year. In 1950 there were 18 living at the home when the year began; nine others were admitted; four were discharged or left; one died—leaving 18 residents in all when 1951 began.

During 1951 four more people were admitted; two were discharged or left; one died—leaving 19 residents when 1952 began.

Total payments made by the county during the year were $14,935.09 and receipts were $5,499.04, leaving an overexpenditure of $9,436.05.

Estimates for the Old People's Home were $5,000 receipts and $11,650 expenditure, leaving an overexpenditure of $6,650. Actually the county spent $2,786 more than was estimated early in 1951.

Receipts included: sale of produce $1,045.18, old age pensions and war veterans' allowances $3,516.51, private boarding inmates $855, miscellaneous $82.35 for a grand total of $5,499.04.

Costs Of Home

Disbursements were meat $676.76, drugs (including medical expenses) $133.36, bread and flour $472.12, clothing $139.66, tobacco $123, shoes and repairs $19.08, insurance $816.77, groceries and provisions $2,227.19, light and power $384.47, fuel $1,036.49, farm and stock $1,904.35, house furnishing $261.60, ordinary repairs $1,679.84, superintendent and matron $1,745.09, physician $250, staff wages $1,569.20, inmates pensions returned $530.92, miscellaneous $961.19 for a grand total of $14,935.09.

Items grouped under "miscellaneous" include bills for operating two telephones, ambulance and taxi service, repairs to windows and roofing, payment to Lakefield cemetery board for looking after graves, dental work, ladder, fire extinguisher, and the $50 retainer fee to the Lakefield fire department.

Unexpected expenditures caused the original estimates to be thrown out of line.

Some of these items are eavestroughing $511, lights at fire escape $117.93, barn floor $110.73, water pump $186.64, electric floor polisher $51, two small radios $76.

Gordon Fitzgerald, chairman of the committee in charge of the Old People's Home, said a new seeder was bought for the farm and 200 chickens.

HOCKEY, A MAN'S GAME? "No sir!" is the reply from the girls of Young's Point, Warsaw, Apsley and Lakehurst. These lasses are playing exhibition games twice a week and hope to form a district league next winter. Using the public school as their dressing-room, the Young's Point team play games outdoors and practice in all sorts of weather. At the height of Tuesday's snow storm the girls took to the ice for a half hour and tested their goalie, Eveline Garrett (top left), seen repelling Joan Townsend. Putting the pads on (top right) is a chore and Miss Garrett needed help from Coach Pete Godfrey. Sweaters were handed out on Tuesday and Joan Townsend (lower left) and Shirley Abbott try several for size. Margaret Dunford (lower right) checks the grind on the blade to make sure they're ready for action.—(Examiner Staff Photos)

Girls At Young's Point Don Pads, Take To Ice

Hockey is no longer a sport for men only. Yes, fellows, the girls are beginning to edge slowly into Canada's favorite winter game. For several years now throughout the Peterborough district girls' teams have played usually for a one night performance; just to try the game out. But a movement in the small towns and villages in parts of the county has been started which will likely mean a girls' hockey league next winter.

Strongly behind the girls' league is the village of Young's Point and its recreation centre backers.

Played Game

A year ago the village of slightly more than 100 in the winter held an ice carnival on the open-air rink near the public school. After watching the boys play hockey all year, the girls wanted a chance to play. This resulted in an exhibition game with the Buckhorn girls at the carnival.

Since then the girls have been planning a team for this winter. When the first snow fell in the fall, the girls started to talk hockey but no action was taken until Christmas.

Then Pete Godfrey, a construction foreman whose time is free during the freeze-up, was asked to organize, manage and coach the girls in hockey. His first was to make a solid ice surface near the school and his second, to try to form a league. Both steps were difficult.

Just when the ice surface was ready, the January thaws began, melting the ice and softening enthusiasm in the other small towns.

Preliminary arrangements were made this month for a league with girls' teams from Apsley, Young's Point, Lakehurst and Warsaw. But the schedule wasn't drawn up and it appears that the league will have to wait now until next winter.

Will Play Exhibition

The work will not be in vain. The 15 public and high school girls have been turning out once a week for practice and will now start to play exhibition games.

In fact they started down that trail this week when they invaded Warsaw but were repelled 3-1 after a scrappy duel. The girls' aggressiveness also included hockey's usual (perhaps a little more than usual) amount of high-sticking and slashing. But the girls had the right ideas.

This hockey is only a part of the program planned by recreation centre which is community-sponsored. It has boys' teams, some with high calibre players, and is planning another large ice carnival which is expected to attract more than 400 people.

The summer program last season included both girls' and boys' softball teams and this year may include other sports and competitions.

But while there's ice, hockey will be the main sports topic, with sights aimed at a district girls league for next year.

Woman On Crutches Falls Down Stairs

Overbalancing on a crutch, Mrs. Stanislaw Mirski, 25, fell down a flight of stairs at her home 199 Reid St., Tuesday evening. She was taken to hospital where she was treated for a dislocated right shoulder.

In a car accident September 30, Mrs. Mirski received a broken right leg and arm. She returned to work only recently and was still using a crutch to protect the injured leg, when she slipped and injured the shoulder of the same arm that was broken in the car accident.

Vocational Equipment, Night Salaries At PCVS To Cost Estimated $26,030

Vocational school estimates at PCVS are $26,030 for 1952—a figure $60 less than the estimates for 1951 but $1,321 more than the actual expenditure. The board of education must first approve these estimates before they are incorporated into the board's budget for the year. They do not include day-time staff salaries which last year amounted to $112,000. Wesley Switzer, shop director, said that the expected enrolment in the industrial department this September will be 337 students at least and probably 350. He said the increase was sufficient to warrant an additional shop, and he warned that if the board finds this too expensive the industrial department will have to start shift work to make up the extra periods.

Two years ago the department had to operate on shifts but this condition was relieved when the sheet metal shop was transferred to South Central School.

Mr. Switzer recommended a junior machine shop as the best choice.

He pointed out in his brief that the demand for machine shop graduates is more than the school can supply and there are more openings in the machine trades than in any other trade.

Saved 50 Per Cent

The present shop is designed to accommodate 30 students with two teachers. It is now overloaded 10 periods a week.

Mr. Switzer suggested that if this shop were re-designed to accommodate 20 students, and the proposed second shop also designed to accommodate 20 students, there could be a 50 per cent saving in setting up the junior shop because of the amount of equipment already available.

He classed this 50 per cent figure on saving as a "guestimate."

K. S. Wightman, superintendent of schools, said there will be a shop at Kenner Collegiate but it will be used as an option in the academic course.

"I can appreciate the need for space and staff," said W. B. Gordon, "but I'd like to see the matter held in abeyance until we know the layout at Kenner Collegiate."

May Stay In School

Principal C. S. Browne said that even though a new shop is laid out some prospective vocational students may have to be refused. He added that if the trend of unemployment continues there will be more students remaining at school and that will aggravate the problem of accommodation.

A motion was passed that the board be informed of Mr. Switzer's brief for more shop space and a report from the board be brought back to the advisory-vocational committee. In the meantime Mr. Switzer can go ahead and prepare a more detailed plan on equipment, space and financing of the project.

Accounting Course

A good accounting course may be available soon in the commercial department.

H. A. Toole, superintendent of the commercial department, has been concerned for some time with the small number of boys

Campbellford, Lakefield Milk Prices Up

Lakefield will have to pay 19 cents a quart for its milk, an increase of two cents, as a result of an announcement of the Ontario Milk Board today.

Campbellford will be paying 21 instead of the former 18 cents.

The two municipalities were among 30 centres listed granted increases of two or three cents following applications by distributors.

At 19 cents, Lakefield will be paying the lowest price for milk among those centres listed. Most of the towns will be paying 20 or 21 cents for their milk. In Blind River in northern Ontario, milk will cost 23 cents.

Recently Peterborough distributors were allowed to charge 21 cents, although at least one dairy is still charging the old price of 19 cents.

In Lakefield producers can sell their milk to the distributors at $4.12 a hundredweight in comparison with the old price of $3.77½. In Campbellford the increase is from $3.95 to $4.60.

Record Snowfall Slows Traffic

The weather on Tuesday evening between 6:30 and 8 o'clock produced the heaviest snowfall of the season, according to official observers and car drivers.

Three and one-half inches blew in on a strong east wind in an hour and a half and slowed car traffic to a crawl. But neither taxies nor buses in city or country were forced to shut down; they continued on schedule. Both CNR and CPR report all trains, in and out of the city, on time.

Transport companies reported a different story. Most lines contacted today report their trips to Toronto, Hamilton and Montreal running from three to four hours late. Bad drifting occurred at Dale and Welcome and between Kingston and Montreal. Highways on Tuesday night were heavy and slippery.

County Engineer Joseph Keen expects some of his machinery will have plenty of work to do today. All equipment was out early this morning.

Low temperature through the night stood at 19 degrees above and at 9 am today has risen three degrees. The barometer read 28.85 and is still falling. The probabilities are more snow through the day and colder weather towards evening. Last night's storm centred in Haliburton and has moved east with it is hoped, an improvement in the weather for the district.

Charles Boyd, president of the Ministerial Association.

Honest Parker

An honest motorist informed on a King St. parking meter for short changing the city Tuesday. "I dropped in a copper and the meter showed an hour's parking time," the anonymous motorist told Constable Andre Dalton. The explanation: apparently, a 12-sided nickel was to blame. Sometimes the coin sticks in the mechanism. When this happens, and a copper is dropped in, the copper dislodges the nickel and Presto!—a whole hour of parking for one cent.

Car Insurance Premiums Raised In City

Premiums for motor vehicle insurance against public liability and property damage have been increased for this city.

Reason for the increase is the growth of the city in recent years. Premiums will now be on roughly the same level as those of Oshawa, Kingston, Kitchener, Guelph and other cities of comparable size.

For private cars the change will mean a difference of about $5, if the car is used for private and pleasure purposes and no drivers younger than 25 use it. If the car is to be driven by someone under 25, the insurance premium will be increased $15.

Roughly speaking, that would bring the premium for a car to $26 and $41 for $10,000 public liability and $5,000 property damage.

If a car is used for business purposes, the rate will be about $48.

Commercial Vehicles

Premiums for commercial vehicles are also up. As examples: truck owners who paid a $26 premium in 1951 will pay a $48 premium this year; a $42 premium in 1951 becomes $67.

Insurance rates on buses have also changed. Farmers living more than two miles outside the city will find their premiums changed only slightly, if at all.

Cars Crash, Driver Charged Responsible

One driver involved in a two car accident at Hunter and Water Sts. Tuesday evening is being charged with failing to signal for a left hand turn.

Mrs. Muriel McQuade, 209 London St., was driving north on Water St., through the Hunter St., intersection, on a green light, when a southbound car driven by Alan Humphrey, 48 Landsdowne St., made a left hand turn.

The two cars collided near the centre of the intersection. The front end of the car driven by Mrs. McQuade was damaged considerably.

Humphrey will be charged with failing to signal his intention of making a left turn, Police Chief John Thompson said today.

Constable Dennis Traynor investigated.

Oshawa Starts Plan To Help Unemployed

OSHAWA, Jan. 23.—A plan to create work during the winter for 2,900 unemployed men and women in the Oshawa district has been set up in the motor city.

While employment officers described the situation as "not acute," it was explained that at present a labor force is available to do paint and clean-up jobs. This force will not be available in the spring when seasonal unemployment ceases.

The plan was explained by G. E. Charron, National Employment Service manager, at a meeting of an employment advisory board Monday.

Moscow Paper Misquotes Churchill Talk

MOSCOW, Jan. 23 (Reuters)—The Moscow newspaper Trud Tuesday published a Tass message from Ottawa, quoting The Toronto Daily Star as saying that Prime Minister Winston Churchill had embarrassed his Canadian hosts at a state banquet in Ottawa last week. (The Star made no such statement.)

The Tass dispatch said the Star had reported Churchill as saying: "We have made NATO (the North Atlantic Organization) much more than an instrument for war." The Star further was quoted as saying that Prime Minister St. Laurent was obliged to correct Churchill.

The Tass dispatch added: "Whereas other officials of the Anglo-American bloc in every way endeavour to camouflage their aggressive policy by peaceful declarations, Churchill frankly admitted the war character of the Atlantic alliance. Characteristically, other Canadian papers sought to hush up this statement by W. Churchill."

(At one point in the banquet a private conversation between Mr. Churchill and Mr. St. Laurent was carried over the public-address system, turned on in error. The Toronto Star quoted Churchill with the "instrument-of-war" remark and with adding that NATO was "one of the greatest things in history, not meant for war, but one of the greatest things for peace." He made the latter remark, the Star said, after St. Laurent said NATO was "never created as an instrument of war." Other Canadian newspapers and The Canadian Press reported the accidental "cut-in" on the public address system.)

Canada Very Conscientious About Obligations In UN

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER

PARIS, Jan. 23 (CP)—Canada's delegation leaned over backwards Tuesday in its determination to carry out the moral obligation it has confracted in the United Nations.

The Canadian delegation abstained in a special political committee vote on the proposal for a new $250,000,000 fund for relief of Arab refugees from Palestine.

R. M. Macdonnell, minister at the Canadian Embassy in Paris, told the committee that Canada abstained because the delegation had not received instructions from its government but that Canada probably will vote for the resolution when it comes before the full meeting of the assembly.

The Canadian delegation is understood to have felt that while it supports the idea of a new refugee fund it cannot vote for the resolution without definite instructions because such a vote would morally obligate Canada to make a contribution to the fund—something the government has not yet decided on.

Big Contributor

Canada has, however, been one of the biggest contributors to refugee funds in the past and is expected to make a further contribution.

Other factors which observers saw in influencing Canada to abstain were:

1—Desire to show those countries who are not contributing at all, or not contributing what is believed to be enough, that Canada would like to see all countries make adequate gifts.

2—Canada wants to show that she treats every resolution before the UN in a serious fashion, fully realizing the practical application of each resolution.

Throughout the current session Canada has stressed that she is concerned about some resolutions passed by a majority made up largely of the Soviet bloc and under-developed countries, calling for economic development plans to which such countries as the United States and Canada would be expected to be the major contributors.

The Canadian delegation has appeared worried lest the UN become known as an organization which is working in a vacuum and losing touch with reality.

Study Increased Indemnities To Members Of Parliament

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA,—(CP)—Some members of the commons are discussing the possibility of government action at the forthcoming session to increase the indemnities of members of parliament.

Although they have received no indication from the government that an increase will be proposed, they have worked out on paper what members would receive, after taxation, from indemnities at various levels up to $10,000.

A source close to the government said the question is strictly a matter of "corridor gossip". There has been no indication, he said, that the question has received or will receive serious consideration by the government this year.

The session is expected to open in late February or early March.

Any increase must be sponsored by the government and approved by a majority in both the Senate and Commons before it could become effective.

Also Pension Plan

Some members believe the government may move to increase the indemnities and at the same time introduce a pension plan for members of the Commons.

Such a plan has been worked out by officials of the finance department, but details have not been made public. It is understood it would provide pensions for members who have served in parliament for at least eight years.

The plan would not apply to the Senate where appointments are made for life. Members of the Commons must seek re-election at least once every five years. Some of them, after devoting their life to politics, are defeated and left in necessitous circumstances without means of support.

Annual Basis?

The members believe the indemnities might be increased to $8,000 or $10,000 and be paid on an annual rather than a sessional basis. Under such a system they would receive the same amount annually no matter how many sessions were held.

Under the existing system, where indemnities are paid on a sessional basis, members have received as much as $10,000 a year when two sessions were held. That was the case in 1951.

At present, members of the 262-seat Commons receive $4,000 for each session of more than 65 days duration. In addition they receive an annual $2,000 tax-free living allowance. Members of the 102-seat Senate receive $4,000 for each session and a $2,000 taxable living allowance.

The prime minister receives a salary of $15,000, a sessional indemnity of $4,000, a living allowance of $2,000 a year and an annual motor-car allowance of $2,000.

Cabinet ministers and the leaders of the opposition receive salaries of $10,000, sessional indemnities of $4,000, living allowances of $2,000 and motor-car allowances of $2,000. Parliamentary assistants receive $4,000 a year in addition to the regular sessional indemnities and living allowances.

The government leader in the Senate received $7,000 a year in addition to the sessional indemnity of $4,000 and the living allowance of $2,000, or a total of $13,000. The opposition leader in the Senate received $10,000.

Canadian indemnities are much higher than those paid to members of the Commons in the United Kingdom, but they are lower than the salaries paid to members of the United States Congress.

UK Indemnity

In the United Kingdom, an ordinary member of Commons receives £1,000 a year. He can claim an income-tax deduction for out-of-pocket expenses.

The British prime minister receives £4,000 tax-free expense allowance and a salary of £4,000. The leader of the opposition receives a salary of £2,000 and £1,000 as a member of commons. Cabinet ministers receive £4,000 in addition to their indemnities as members.

Members of the House of Lords receive no indemnities.

Members of the United States Congress receive $12,500 a year in addition to a tax-free living allowance of $2,500. The allowances for secretarial and other help are more generous than either in Canada or Britain.

Many Canadians feel the point has been reached where parliament must meet almost continuously. In almost every year since the end of the last war, parliament has had to hold sessions in the spring and in the fall. In pre-war days, sessions lasted three or four months a year.

Some of the members suggest that the government could save the taxpayers money by paying an annual rather than a sessional indemnity.

They point to last year when members received $10,000, indemnities of $4,000 for each session and $2,000 as a tax-free allowance.

It was estimated that a married taxpayer without dependents—the category into which most members fall—received a total of $8,860. If the same member had been paid $10,000 with no tax-free allowance he would have received $8,174.

But the annual payment would assure members of a fixed income even if parliament sat only a few months. It would eliminate attempts to prolong a session the necessary 65 days in order to qualify for a full indemnity.

Says It Doesn't Pay

LONDON, Jan. 23 (Reuters) — An eminent London accountant complained Tuesday that British taxation makes it cheaper for a couple to live together out of wedlock. Ernest Evan Spicer, in a newly-published collection of essays calculated that if a £6,000-a-year man marries a £4,000-a-year woman their joint income will be charged to surtax at a rate which will put an annual penalty of £1,198 on their nuptials.

Baby Boy Born On Speeding Bus

DENCROSS, Man., Jan. 23—(CP)—A baby boy was born Tuesday in a bus as it sped along a blizzard-raked highway near here, bound for the hospital at Beausejour, 38 miles northeast of Winnipeg.

When the mother, Mrs. E. Stubel, 42, boarded the bus at Gull Lake, her husband told driver Alex Hunnie: "Quick, get my wife to the nearest hospital."

Hunnie realized he would not make it in time and picked up a Mrs. Otto at Talbot, Man., to help. He called an ambulance to meet the bus and again headed out into the storm. The temperature was 24 below.

The eight-pound boy arrived before the ambulance, and Hunnie took mother and child the rest of the way to hospital.

Sees Close Relationship With Employees—Carswell

TORONTO, Jan. 23—(CP)—J. B. Carswell, of Vancouver, said that some really radical steps must be taken to eliminate the "imaginary and wholly unnecessary wall which exists between employer and employee."

Addressing the Canadian Construction Association, he said that "we have to look much longer and much more closely at the other fellow's point of view than we have been doing in the past . . . if our type of democracy and our capitalistic system is to prevail."

Mr. Carswell, chairman of Kitimat Constructors, the joint group of contractors now building the aluminum works and new city of Kitimat in British Columbia for the Aluminum Company of Canada, also forecast the end of many building materials now used in certain building trades.

He said:

'Thirty years ago the architects, engineers and manufacturers of this continent woke up to the fact, which we as contractors have known right along, that is it utterly stupid, at least from an economic point of view, to go digging into the bowels of the earth for all the heaviest-known materials, for granite and marble and limestone, for clay for bricks and clay for cement, and then proceed to pile these materials hundreds of feet into the air, hanging precariously onto a steel frame twice as heavy as it need be, sitting on foundations twice too deep.

Something Different

"Thirty years hence brick and stone will have disappeared almost entirely; the stone-mason will also have disappeared and the so-called bricklayer will be busy handling and setting a host of substitute materials. The plasterer will also have faded away.

"Why should we spend time and money drying out a new building to the point where it is safe to start slopping tons of water onto the walls?"

He pictured, 30 years from now, a business operating along the following lines:

"All the capital employed is risk capital, holding the same kind of shares as the executives and the workers hold.

"By agreement of all manpower in the plant, from the president to the man who sweeps the floor, represented by a soundly-organized shop committee, the president is allotted, let's say, 100 shares, the vice-president 75 shares, and so one down the line."

Mr. Carswell said he didn't know the answers to many of the problems which would arise in working out any such scheme. "But while the problem may appear to be almost insuperable, I don't think it's impossible."

Signs Of Austerity Continue Under Tories

By ALAN HARVEY.

LONDON, Jan. 23 — (CP). — British politics enter a new phase next week with the reassembly of Parliament, and the signs are things will be as grim as they ever were under a Labor government.

During six years of Socialism, austerity became Britain's symbol of an economy lurching from one emergency to another. The people became accustomed to periodic warnings of tough times ahead. Now the Conservatives are in power, and they sound just like Socialists, only more so.

One Tory member of Parliament warns of "horrifying" things to come. Peter Thorneycroft, President of the Board of Trade, says that in the new crisis even bare subsistence is threatened. Leonard Gammans, another Conservative MP, says that unless the country quickly restores faith in the pound, a loaf of bread may cost 10 shillings by August. That's about 20 times the present price.

The Conservative case is simply that all this trouble is the result of spendthrift Socialist policies, and that it will take the new government at least three years to clear up the mess.

Big Things Expected.

Thus big things are expected at the reopening of Parliament next Tuesday. Four major statements will herald the new session, and of these the most important may be the financial proposals outlined by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, R. A. Butler.

The word is out that this time the government is really intent on stern measures. Conservatives claim the Socialists tended to be half-hearted about retrenchment. The present government is said to be determined not to make the same mistake.

Other statements the House of Commons is likely to hear next week include an account by Prime Minister Churchill of his visit to Canada and the United States, a warning on control of manpower by Sir Walter Monckton, Minister of Labor, and further information on housing from Harold Macmillan, Minister of Housing and Local Government.

The session which opens Tuesday marks a definite period of transition in the country's political life. The short series of sittings which followed last October's general election were too short to permit any clear-cut alignment of parties.

Now the Conservatives will be expected to disclose their policies in detail, and the Socialists to display a clearer pattern of opposition than they have shown so far. Already there are signs that Labor is finding its voice.

Suggestions To Improve As Christians Given WMS

"Time is a one-way street" quoted Mrs. J. R. Seaman of Toronto Tuesday afternoon, addressing delegates to the Women's Missionary Society Presbyterial meeting in St. Andrew's United Church. "We can't go back over last year's work and do better, but knowing the mistakes we can improve", she said.

"Be more enthusiastic" was her first suggestion. She pointed out that the communists have picked up what was the WMS policy "each one win one" and told of one Chinese girl who converted 250 fellow college students to communism in one year. "Communists work 24 hours a day for it. If Christians worked 24 hours a day for Christianity there would be nothing to fear", she remarked.

"We have failed God who wants to perform wonders through us", declared Mrs. Seaman. "What shall we do?"

Her second suggestion was Obedience—"Not my will but Thine be done." Thirdly a rallying of forces which would require the WMS members to read and learn about the missions so that they would be able to talk on them and interest others.

"Make your meetings more interesting and informative" urged Mrs. Seaman, "so that they will be well attended and to make sure they are well attended each member take a guest to each meeting."

Lastly the speaker admonished for lack of interest in the suffering people of the world. "Be aroused to the poverty, suffering, ignorance and disorder that exists now."

Being treasurer of the Dominion Board Mrs. Seaman was able to tell the ladies exactly how the WMS money is being spent. She said an appeal came last week from Hong Kong for $2,500 to train Chinese Nationals there and the money was authorized to go. Nine thousand dollars has been sent to Korea and there is a very great need of warm clothing there, especially for children and particularly for little boys. She asked for an effort to provide some clothing right away.

WMS funds help to support the Sunday schools by air and mail which reach areas not served by a church, the caravans and the vacation schools. Large sums are needed for the four redemptive homes for girls in Canada. Half of all the overseas medical work is paid for by the WMS she advised.

In addition the treasury must subsidize the Missionary Monthly and World Friends. Scholarships last year took $18,543, giving the privilege for extra study to suitable people in overseas fields. "Some of these people may return with the message of the Gospel to the American people who have not heard it," she added. A newly purchased home at Toronto for retired missionaries is now claiming a subsidy.

Concluding Mrs. Seaman urged WMS members "Sit down and sort out the things you are doing. See that you are doing what is essential. Can you give more service to the church? Could you show more interest in junior groups?"

"Answer these questions with action. It is expected of us as stewards." Mrs. Seamon remarked: "The world is looking for Christians to be Christians."

Christian Stewardship Theme Of WMS Meeting

Twenty-seventh annual meeting of the Peterborough Presbyterial of the Women's Missionary Society, United Church of Canada, convened in St. Andrew's Church, Peterborough, on Tuesday with Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe of Hastings presiding at all sessions. The theme was "Christian Stewardship."

Opening worship service was led by Mrs. H. Clegg and Mrs. E. Mesley of Knox Afternoon Auxiliary. Mrs. A. A. Munro of St. Andrew's extended welcome. Minutes were read by Recording Secretary Mrs. Bruce Gordon.

The following committees were appointed:

Courtesy—Miss Helen Tedford, Mrs. H. T. Rehill and Mrs. G. H. Hewitt.

Resolutions—Mrs. W. T. Fanjoy and Mrs. E. H. Brown.

Nominations — Mrs. A. E. De Nure and Mrs. R. Parnell.

Report of the nominating committee was presented by Mrs. H. Tremain as follows:

President, Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe; first vice-president, Mrs. R. M. Hanscom; sectional vice-presidents, Mrs. W. R. Young, Mrs. Owen Murray of RR 3, Peterborough, Mrs. E. Milburn of Lakefield, Miss H. Tedford of Cottesloe; recording secretary, Mrs. E. Lillico; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. H. Lewis; treasurer, Mrs. A. Scriver; librarian, Mrs. W. H. Morton.

Secretaries—Christian stewardship, Mrs. A. S. Williams; Mission Circles, Mrs. G. Hill; CGIT, Miss Gladys Langton; Associate Helpers, Mrs. H. Tremain; Mission Bands, Mrs. W. P. Donaldson; Baby Bands, Mrs. W. R. Philp; community friendship, Mrs. H. K. Wright of Norwood; Missionary Monthly and World Friends, Mrs. R. Parnell; Christian citizenship, Miss A. Jamieson; press, Mrs. J. M. Beatty; literature, Mrs. A. Olmstead; candidate advisor, Miss Jean Hammond; advisory committee, Mrs. C. M. Scott, Mrs. W. H. Morton, Mrs. F. W. K. Harris.

These officers were installed by Mrs. H. T. Rehill, past president.

Corresponding Secretary Mrs. W. A. Atchison presented her report on the year's work of the various auxiliaries. Stewardship of possessions in 1951 was presented by Treasurer Mrs. A. Scriver. A total of $11,979.82 was raised. Presbyterial went over the allocation this year, and it was voted to send the extra money to help in the training of more Christian leaders.

Mrs. J. R. Seaman of Toronto, treasurer of the Dominion board, in her address on stewardship stated that stewardship is the practise of systematic and proportional giving, and these are a trust in service for the benefit of mankind. "Everything we own belongs to God, but the church has not fully accepted God's ownership," she said. "In Canada last year $642 million were spent on liquor—nearly two million a day, not mentioning the sales of tobacco to blow up in smoke. All the provinces of Canada spent for missions only one million dollars. There is lots of money to give to movies, dinner dances, horse races, etc., but nothing to spend to save souls."

Mrs. Seaman stated the allocation to each organization represents the share of the cost of maintaining the work already begun. The motto is, "Money in hand before we spend," she said. Money sent in this year is what estimates are set on for next year. Increased interests in missionary work are badly needed. There is not room for a complacent christian today.

"The WMS is the greatest women's organization in Canada with 217,995 members," Mrs. Seaman stated.

New literature was on display and the new secretary, Mrs. Arnold Olmstead, reviewed the books and pamphlets.

Mark St. afternoon auxiliary presented a very lovely memorial service for 16 members who have died during the past year. Those taking part were Mrs. A. E. DeNure, Mrs. A. Scriver and Mrs. A. J. Stephenson. Mrs. H. Hepburn sang "There's A Beautiful Land on High".

Afternoon session opened with George St. Afternoon Auxiliary taking the worship service. Mrs. A. A. Matthews, Mrs. F. Horton and Miss J. Schaefer officiating.

Twenty charges answered roll call and there was a larger attendance this year. A pleasing interlude was when a choral group under the leadership of Mrs. Adam Sands Jr. rendered two numbers. Mrs. W. W. Yule of Lakefield auxiliary offered the dedication prayer after the offering.

Delegates went into departmental conferences and then brought in brief reports of the findings.

It was decided to carry on the fall rallies earlier, the first week of October. Appointment of delegates to the School for Leaders was left in the hands of the sectional vice presidents.

The evening session was opened with worship service led by the Jean Wagar Evening Auxiliary of St. James Church. Miss Jean Hammond, candidate advisor, who has filled the office left vacant by Miss Constance Wagar when she left for missionary work in Trinidad, made the challenge that the United Church has a definite need for young men and women to offer themselves as workers in the home and foreign mission fields and spoke of the great need for christian workers in all departments of the christian church.

She stated: "On those who are older lies the responsibility to teach young children their responsibilities in the future. It is not "what shall I get", but "what can I give".

A prayer of dedication was offered by Mrs. W. T. Fanjoy. The Rev. Henry Cotton closed the day and evening-long meeting with prayer.

St. James Church extended an invitation for the 1953 meeting.

Prepare "South American Meal

Girls of the GA of St. Luke's Anglican Church had an interesting variation to their weekly meeting Monday. As their mission study this year is on South America they secured recipes for several South American food dishes and brought the ingredients to the church kitchen to prepare for supper. Leader Miss Anita Mason was in charge of the preparations and the Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Gilling were dinner guests. Afterward the girls began learning South American dances. This meeting and those forthcoming are in preparation for a "South American Night" which the GA will hold on February 25th. The audience will be entertained with movies, dancing, etc., all portraying traits of that country. Fourteen took part in the meeting.

Study convener for this year, Miss Mary Greer, introduced the study book "South America," and gave a complete and vivid picture of the geographical and historical facts of these mixed peoples. She stressed the great need for more missionary work in that country, and pointed out the opportunities for the church. A lengthy business period followed during which the tentative program of the year's work was outlined by Miss Johnston, with discussion relative to same. Annual reports were read by the secretary and treasurer.

Mrs. Lee's name was added to the nominating committee for next year's slate of officers. Study book and worship service was taken by Miss Seens and her group. THE SIGNIFICANCE OF SILK for spring should be a point for women to remember when they begin the hunt for a spring wardrobe. The shapes that it takes are many. It's shown in jacket dresses, in slim suits and in suits with wide skirts. Often, this wide skirt is pleated. It appears for late-day in company with crinolines and for evening in drifting or crispy bouffant gowns, both long and short lengths.

Town suit is in pure silk grey herringbone surrah. With slim lines and straight skirt, it has stand-up wing collar, bib oval yoke from shoulders to waistline, and jet-buttoned tabs and closing. Dress - and - jacket ensemble (right) in grey medallion pure silk print has wide stitched-and-pleated skirt over a changeable taffeta-and-horsé-hair petticoat. The dress, with short sleeves and V neckline, has fitted bodice. It's topped by a short, fitted jacket with long sleeves and notched collar.

Naval Ball Guest Has Achieved Impressive Record

Peterborough Naval Association which is holding the fifth annual Naval Ball this Friday evening, will have as special guest in attendance Captain E. J. MacGillivray, representing the Chief of Naval Staff at Ottawa. Association members feel very honored that such a distinguished naval officer will come to them.

Captain MacGillivray has piled up rather an impressive record since joining the RCNVR in 1936 as a lieutenant, then transferring to the RCN permanent force in 1939 at which time he was assistant to the engineer officer HMCS Naden, Esquimalt, BC. Later that year he was appointed to HMCS Restigouche and then to HMCS Ottawa (destroyers) both operating out of Halifax, and then to the Skeena operating overseas. He was engineer officer on the first RCN Tribal class destroyer HMCS Iroquois on Russian convoys to Murmansk and operation from the United Kingdom including offensive sweeps in the English Channel from November 1942 until he was loaned to the Royal Navy in 1944 as assistant aboard HMS Black Prince (cruiser) operating in the Channel.

Back with the RCN in July he became senior engineer of HMCS Ontario and later of the Uganda (recently commissioned HMCS Quebec.) It was during his service on the Uganda that he was promoted to Commander (E). Last year he was given the rank of Captain while serving as deputy engineer-in-chief of the Naval Service Headquarters, Ottawa.

Mrs. MacGillivray will accompany her husband to the Ball which is being held at the Club Aragon. A splendid opportunity to meet the distinguished guests is provided during the cocktail hours, seven-thirty to nine o'clock before dancing begins.

Theatre Shortage Found Handicap

TORONTO, Jan. 23 — (CP).—Mrs. Dorothy Goulding, director of the Toronto Children's Players, said Tuesday that shortage of commercial theatres in Canada has meant that Canadian young people have not had the opportunity and training in theatre available to the youth of many other countries.

She told the Toronto Nursery Education Association: "We do not have nearly as many theatres as we used to have, prices are high, and no one dares venture anything original for fear of losing money."

Success of play production depended upon good group work. Because of the difficulties and discipline of formal acting, children should not act before an audience before the age of 10.

DOROTHY DIX

Spoiled Girl's Tantrum Needs Action

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 25 years old, and for the first time in my life I have been spanked! I am engaged to a terrific, big handsome man of 30, and I adore him.

Dorothy Dix

Yesterday I had him over for dinner — mother and I live alone —and a terrible scene took place. I know I've been spoiled and have a violent temper that is as flaming as my red hair.

Mother asked me to help with dinner and I wouldn't. We started to argue and before I knew it I had taken a pile of plates and smashed them on the floor. Mark was simply furious, as he thinks the world of my Mom, and demanded that I apologize. When I refused, he literally carried me across the room, turned me over his knee and applied a hairbrush in my first spanking. As a result, I apologized to my mother and cleaned up the mess I had made.

Now my problem. Do you think I should marry a man who will treat me like that?

LOUISE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your fiance is apparently well acquainted with Mr. Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew," and gauges his wooing accordingly.

Mother Should Have Done It

His somewhat unconventional chastisement should, of course, have been insituted by your mother some 20 years ago. By resorting to it at this late date, your Mark is only trying to insure some sort of a reasonably happy future for himself.

Your ill-concealed pride in a turbulent temper and wilful disposition might have led me to regard your epistle as a joke, were it not for the fact that I have known many young women of like attributes who would profit mightily by the sort of discipline Mark meted out. This type of woman, usually, by some strange quirk of fate, attracts the Casper Milquetoasts who then become miserable examples of henpecked husbands. Bravo to the Marks of this world who refuse to be conquered by the wiles of a headstrong sweetheart.

Your chances of a happy marriage should be quite good, provided Mark is as assertive a husband as he is a fiance. Certainly it will not be a dull or boring life.

Surely you are adult enough to accept responsibility, without being forced into it, and to realize your duty as a daughter as well as a wife? Your admissions are rather disgraceful; the defects in your character should be remedied by you, not corrected forcibly. Your letter indicates a strong personality and a measure of intelligence; don't insult either by exhibitions of childishness. You can make of yourself a fine, disciplined, poised woman, or a nasty, petty hag. Consider both pictures and take your choice.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am 18 years old and graduate from high school this May. We recently moved to a small town from a larger one where I had a job and earned my own money. I don't have a job here—or a chance to get one. Should I quit school and go back to the larger town to work, so I can have the things I want, or finish school here?

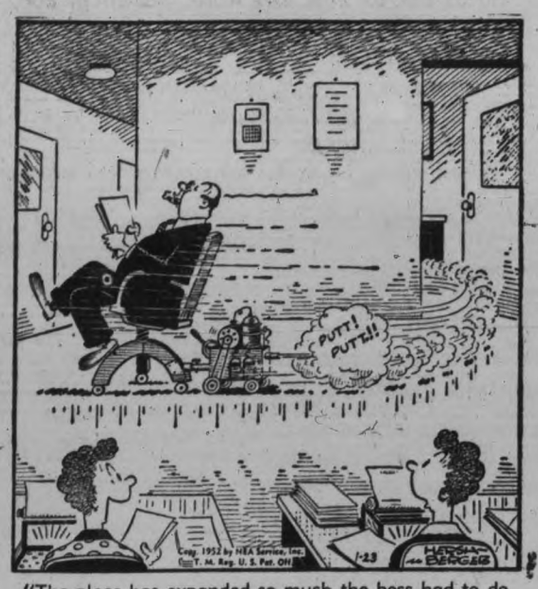
H. D.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: No matter what sacrifices you must make, finish high school. It would be a shame to give up when you're so near getting a diploma, and that scroll will be a very valuable document in the years to come.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: For the past three years I have known a sailor and recently I received a letter from him asking if we could be engaged. I answered yes. Now he writes and asks me not to tell his folks because they might think he's too young to be engaged. He's 18. Is he being fair to me by asking this?



J. M. C.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your fiance certainly owes something to his family, and at his age at least, they should have been consulted before he became engaged. The best procedure from this point of view is to write and tell him you think it best to withhold the engagement altogether until he comes home. Then go about the betrothal in a more conventional fashion. There is also a possibility that the letter of proposal was written in a particularly homesick, or romantic, mood and might now be regretted. Don't hold the boy to it if you think such is the case. After all, 18 is rather young for a young man to commit himself.

What's Right?

You spend several days visiting a friend's home.

WRONG: Follow her from room to room as she works, keeping up a flow of conversation.

RIGHT: Give her a chance to get her work done quickly, either offering to do a job yourself when she is busy or getting out from under foot by writing letters, readings, entertaining the children, or whatever.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Popular Liver Offered As Special Menu

Tomato Juice with Fresh Lemon Juice
Popular Savoury Liver with Noodles or Spaghetti
Waldorf Salad
Fresh Fruit Cup Hot Gingerbread Coffee

DIRECTIONS: A large meat packing concern has spent important money on research work to discover methods of cooking liver to make it popular with everybody.

This is hard to do, for some folks are prejudiced against eating any internal organs, and no matter what outsiders do, this prejudice can only be overcome by the prejudice.

This recipe for Popular Savoury Liver was voted the best liver dish yet by a group of tasters who admit to a prejudice against any internal meat products.

Popular Savoury Liver

One lb. beef or pork liver, ½ cup chopped onion, and if in season one-half of a green pepper, ½ cup mushrooms (if desired or if available), 3 tablespoons margarine or cooking oil, 3 cups fresh or canned tomatoes, ½ tiny clove of garlic minced, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 3 or 4 cups cooked spaghetti.

Simmer the sliced liver in boiling water 2 minutes, then cut in fine cubes and dredge with flour. (The little bit of liver water left over should go in your soup pitcher.) Fry together in the margarine or oil the floured liver, onions, pepper if used and mushrooms, and cook gently about 10 minutes, until golden, stirring most of the time.

Add the tomatoes and seasonings and cover and simmer for 25 minutes. Serve over bed of spaghetti which has been boiled until tender in salted water. Sprinkle grated cheese over top.

Celery may be added to the vegetables or may replace the mushrooms when the sauce is being started. Some of you will analyze this recipe and see that it is similar to the sauce that goes with meat balls and spaghetti and spaghetti Neapolitans. This will make your family liver-lovers.

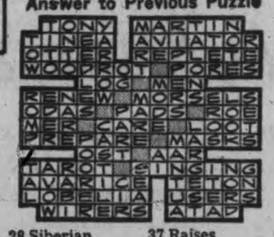
The head dietician of one of our very large department stores told me she served a Waldorf Salad at the staff Christmas party, and she was surprised to find that most of them had never tasted it before.

It is a standby as a winter salad for you, and certainly a favorite.

Waldorf Salad

Mix together equal quantities of finely chopped innner stalks of celery and unpared red apple dice. To this add about half the quantity of nuts as you have of apples. For a most-special occasion use whole pecans or freshly shelled walnuts . Moisten with either mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing and serve in lettuce cups. If you want it to look like a fruit salad, top with a cherry; if you would prefer it to be called a vegetable salad top with a stuffed olive.

New Orleans Gingerbread



One-half cup shortening at room temperature, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup black or light molasses, 1 cup boiling water, 2¼ cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon each soda, ginger, cinnamon, ½ teaspoon salt. Cream the shortening and sugar, then beat in egg, then molasses and water. Sift together remaining ingredients and sift over first mixture, then beat until batter is smooth. Bake in greased and floured cake pan 9" x 9" at 325 deg. Fahr. for about 45 minutes. Serve hot cut in squares; delicious with any fruits. Remember to serve it with hot applesauce some time, or under a soft custard sauce.

William P. Eastwood was elected president of Little Lake Cemetery Company at its annual meeting Monday. He succeeds Herbert I. Bradburn.

Vice-president for 1952 is T. J. Carley, KC, secretary-treasurer is Miss E. J. Saunders.

The following directors were elected: R. J. Kidd, James Hamilton, E. H. Howson, H. I. Bradburn, W. Ross Thompson, E. M. Turner, Hugh F. Waddell.

In his review of 1951, Mr. Bradburn mentioned an interesting item of history of the cemetery.

"In view of the fact that the cemetery has now been in existence for more than 100 years, it might be of interest to recall that the first burial took place on May 1, 1851, and that during that year there were five burials; whereas in 1951 there were 296 burials.

18,141 Burials

"Between those two dates there have been 18,141 burials, with the result that the old cemetery will soon be filled.

"Having this in mind, your board some years ago acquired the site lying immediately across the Otonabee River from the present cemetery. A program of gradual development of this property has been going on for the last few years until it has reached the point where it was deemed advisable to have Mr. Wyrick, a cemetery architect, come to Peterborough to lay out a plan of part of this new site, and at the same time recommend a general plan of development and lay out for the whole area. It should be received from him in the near future. Some work of general nature, such as grading, filling and seeding has already been commenced in the new cemetery grounds."

Mr. Bradburn reported that with the transfer to the revenue account of 25 per cent. of the receipts from lots sold, there was a surplus for the year of $2,400.39, as compared with the 1950 deficit of $4.08.

Superintendent C. F. Kitney reported 296 interments, 63 lots sold, 76 single graves sold, 59 foundations for monuments and 33 lots put under perpetual care.

Appreciation of the work of the staff and the earnest co-operation of the directors was expressed by the retiring president, Mr. Bradburn.

AAGE THAARUP (left), Danish milliner, is busy completing hats for Princess Elizabeth's Australian tour. His creations for the Princess are expected to be ready for their final fitting this weeek. They've been tailored to fit snugly to the royal head, to stay put at all times and in all weather. Above, a client of Thaarup tries on two of the milliner's creations in his London salon. The color of the hat (right), is Kookaburra pink; at left, Thaarup suggests ivy embellishment.

Britain's Best Millinery Sent To Women Down Under

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 23—(CP)—From last-minute fittings and final touches to the hats Princess Elizabeth will wear during the royal tour of Australia and New Zealand, Aage Thaarup, the royal milliner, turns to complete details of his own trip to the two dominions.

Thaarup has February shows scheduled in both countries. There will be many new styles, including model hats costing at least 10 to 15 guineas, and some are priced to fit the working girl's purse.

Although no details are available on the royal choice, the selected models are sure to be in line with the latest spring styles. The princess might, for instance, choose the beret style with poke brim and backward-curving crown, reminiscent of a Victorian toque, which is one of Thaarup's new ideas.

And the princess, with her love of green and yellow, might well approve many of the buttercup and cowslip yellows, shamrock and billiard greens that Thaarup will show to Australian and New Zealand women. The designer says greens are more popular "Down Under". English women tend to be superstitious about this color.

A lovely choice for sunny days would be a shepherdess hat in "kookaburra pink" satin, its crown massed in matching roses, a flimsy veil hiding the eyes and rising to a frothy bow at back of the tiny brim.

Other Styles

A choice for wear with tailored shantung and tussor silk dresses would be a light-weight beret of soft grey feathers with quill and pom-pom spear pointing over one eye.

A gothic pill-box with hearts-shaped line is one of the newest sophisticated styles. Shaped exactly like two page-boy pillboxes sloping upwards from either side to a high ridged crown, this number comes in navy white-spotted grosgrain with two tufted, white kid angel's wings rising either side of the central ridge.

Forward-tilted sailor hats are back in fashion and a day-into-evening hat, inspired by the pirate cap Long John Silver wears in illustrations of "Treasure Island," is styled in brilliant satin-striped organza with detachable pill-box crown in black felt. These two-purpose hats have unlimited variations.

New materials include towline straw, coarse and squashy like straw rope, and horse-hair frilled to look like valenciennes lace. This year's blues range from Oxford to Cambridge boat race colors and mauves come as deep as wild violet or as pale as Victorian rose.

Trimmings are exciting—edelweiss, striped cameleias, full-blown white roses and veiling ruched to form a pie-crust frill.

"Starving Millions Greatest Problem" Says Rev. Tonge

The Rev. Walton Tonge, minister of Lakefield United Church, who served for several years as a Christian missionary in China, was speaker at the evening session of the WMS Presbyterial meeting Tuesday.

Mr. Tonge started his challenging address with, "Historians tell us about Alexander the Great who sat all one night in front of his tent crying because he didn't have any more worlds to conquer." Comparison was made to the vast continents of the world ready for exploration by mankind. "How many are crying about it?" he asked.. "We are continually being prodded by the millions of people starving to death. Our Christian faith has spread to most remote points, but ours is a shrinking world," he said.

"Much has been done to dispell slavery from our midst, but the freedom of mankind is threatened today as never before." He agreed with the archbishop of Canterbury who stated, "There are two kinds of people in the world; one a devoted Communist, one a devoted Christian." Countless millions are dying for Communism, not because they believe in it, but because of communistic rule, said Mr. Tonge. "We cannot understand why in China the Communists are having their day, at least are attempting to do what we as a Christian church should have done ten years ago."

It is a harsh statement, but we need to have a few bombs dropped in this country, said the minister. It takes harsh treatment to wake up the world. We cannot have peace as long as war continues in Korea or any other free liberties as long as there are people starving to death.

"A hungry man is a dangerous man. He has ways of destroying the world. The greatest problem facing the western world today is the starving millions. Everything we have done the Communists have done more. Only 54 per cent. of our church members are using the duplex envelopes and only 30 per cent. using the missionary part. We are not out to save salt, but to save souls."

Mr. Tonge's closing words were, "How can we, like Judah, 'go up to our Father if our brother go not with us?' "

Russia Says US Admits Guilt By Paying Fines

PARIS, Jan. 23 (AP)—Russia said today that the United States, by paying $120,000 in fines for four American fliers forced down in Hungary, had admitted they were spies.

Russian fighters based in Hungary forced down a US army transport plane last Nov. 19. The four were freed Dec. 28 after the US paid fines of $30,000 on each to save them from alternative 90-day prison sentences.

Soviet delegate Jakob Malik told the United Nations' political committee the US "recognized the correctness of that judgment" by paying the fines.

They were convicted of violating the Hungarian border to drop maps, radios and other supplies to anti-Communist saboteurs in Hungary.

Police Court Collects More Money

Birth recorded in Peterborough last year were 1715 as compared were channelled through the office with 886 in 1941.

Police court receipts which office of City Clery Outram amounted to $26,639.74 in 1951, when 3224 cases were listed, as against $5,584.45 with 963 cases ten years ago.

The comparisons plainly tell the story of increases in these several branches of municipal statistics cited by Mr. Outram in his annual report Monday to the city council.

The number of births last year was 1715, and in the previous year 1666.

Receipts from marriage licenses on the other hand were down from $2,175 in 1950 to $1,870, a setback of $305.

Collections from parking tickets were off $74, from $5,351 in 1950 to $5,277 last year.

Bicycle licenses amounted to $2,304 in 1951 as against $270 in 1950, a difference of $2,034. Parking stickers were down from $1,296 in 1950 to $1,001 last year, or $244.90 less than the $326.50 of the preceding year.

These and other miscellaneous receipts amounted to $12,452.44 last year, and in 1950 $11,402.71.

Total Receipts.

Total receipts at the office of the City Clerk were $79,913.54 last year as compared with $66,264.58 for 1950.

Of that increase of $13,648.96, the parking meters in the old market square contributed $4,864.55, and police court collections were some $5,000 higher.

The items for last year were: City licenses $8,799.73; police court fines, etc. $22,359.67; miscellaneous $12,452.44; parking meters $30,594.20; city square parking meters $4,864.55; rest room coin locks $842.93. That items in 1950 was only $63.05.

Big Future Predicted For Forestry

OCEAN FALLS, BC. (CP). — Complete utilization of British Columbia's forest resources — meaning freedom from waste—is only a few years away, an executive of the pulp and paper industry believes.

The result, says Paul E. Cooper of Vancouver, should be "permanent payrolls and permanent forests."

The industry's progress toward this goal was outlined at a meeting of the Ocean Falls technical division of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association. Mr. Cooper is chairman of the association's western division executive committee.

Integration will arrive much faster in some areas, Mr. Cooper said, adding:

"For just as the economic laws of costs and markets are largely influencing the integration of our forest industry, so will objective research and a willingness to meet the challenge by management and technical supervision hasten its practical and profitable employment."

Times Change

In the days of the bull whackers and oxen teams, it was "economically unsound' 'to log any timber lower than top grade. This changed with increasing costs, highly-competitive markets and wood substitutes.

Integration took a step forward with the development of the pulp and paper industry and advanced again with the start of plywood production shortly after the end of the First World War.

Mr. Cooper said pulp and paper manufacture "is the key development in the forest industries . . . That to date has largely influenced the rapid trend toward complete utilization."

In the past the indusrty was content to get lumber from a tree, but;

"Could we look backward over the years of a life span and, at the same time, look forward over the same number of years we would probably span the full course of evolution . . . from bull whackers and oxen teams and great timbers of Douglas fir to laminated structural timbers, fine papers, yarns, plastics, alcohol and cattle feed."

MONTREAL—(CP)—If there is an atomic war Montreal is "Canadian target No. 1, and we cannot expect the enemy to bypass us," said Brig. J. Guy Gauvreau, Montreal civil defence head. "Bombers on their way from Murmansk to New York do not have to detour to visit Montreal," he noted.

Missionary Resigns Post

NEW YORK, Jan. 23—(AP)—A Baptist missionary who wrote that "God is working alongside of these (Chinese) Communists" has resigned from the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society.

Dr. Dryden L. Phelps and his wife were recalled from China in December, 1950, after a statement praising the Chinese Reds appeared over his signature in the magazine "Soviet Russia Today."

Phelps' resignation was accepted Tuesday by the society's board of managers.

A board statement said the group "is fully satisfied with the assurance given them by Dr. and Mrs. Phelps that they never have been and are not Communists and that they have always been and are now loyal American citizens."

Phelps wrote that South Korea started the Korean war, and that "95 per cent of the United States press on the Far East is absolutely false."

In its statement, the society board said Phelps never intended his letter for publication but as a personal appeal for funds for a cathedral in Chengtu, China.

However, the statement said, the letter was published in "The Churchman," an independent Protestant Episcopal publication, in October, 1950. "Soviet Russia Today" printed it the following month.

Maj. George was wounded in the throat by shrapnel during one of the raids.

Cost Of Vocational

entering the commercial department.

One reason, he finds, is the high wages paid by industry.

Another, is the fact that there is no option to shorthand and boys don't want shorthand. They tend to regard it stenographic training and shy away from it as work more suitable for girls.

Mr. Toole would like to see an option where the boys can drop shorthand and increase the amount of work on bookkeeping. In that way they would learn some accounting before they leave. The proposed option would also include more mathematics.

Stanley Adamson, chairman of the committee, said: "A good accountancy course must come eventually. The only question is 'is this the year'?"

The Industrial Educational Council has advocated a good course in accountancy.

Before a recommendation is made to the board, the committee decided that Mr. Toole and Mr. Browne should check into the matter further. One thing that will have to be determined is the number of students who would take this option if it were introduced.

Following is a list of the expenditures for 1951 and the estimated of costs of 1952.

Teacher Lauds Film Of Royal Tour

Sister M. Clotilde, St. Peter's High School, president of the Ontario Educational Catholic Teachers Association, today paid tribute to The Royal Journey filmed by the National Film Board during the visit of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip to Canada.

Sister Clotilde described it as a splendid presentation of the royal couple and of Canada itself.

This is what Sister Clotilde said:

"As a fitting prelude to Education Week, we have been privileged to see the first feature-length picture produced by the National Film Board, "The Royal Journey." This film offers a fine presentation of the charming, dignified young Princess who is one day to be Queen of Canada, and the attractive Prince Philip, her husband.

Journey Across Canada

"One could not but feel a sense of proud satisfaction that the delicate, but strong threads which hold the nation members of the British Commonwealth together, should some day be held firmly in the hands of this lovely young woman. We who had not the good fortune to see the royal couple in person, left the theatre with the satisfied sense of having journeyed with them across Canada from Atlantic to Pacific.

"Splendid as was this presentation, even more splendid were the tempting glimpses we were offered of Canadian cities—historic Quebec, cosmopolitan Winnipeg, Pacific-bound Vancouver. From aeroplane, housetop or pavement the 17 cameras enabled us to view government and military centres, or Canada's natural beauty spots. As we listened to the voices of those who represent a cross-section of her democratic and national elements, we found ourselves exclaiming: "This is Canada! How fine is this country of ours."

"And all of this was flashed before our eyes in exquisite colors, for the National Film Board had used a new color process which gave added beauty to the pictures.

"We are indebted to Mr. Ward, representative of the National Film Board, and to the Paramount Theatre for their efforts to make sure that the children of our city schools should have the opportunity of seeing this film. Undoubtedly it has inspired them with the desire to journey from the Pacific to rocky Newfoundland from whose coast they saw Elizabeth and Philip set out on the windswept Atlantic after their memorable visit to Canada.

"The members of the Ontario Catholic Teachers' Federation feel that a public expression of appreciation should be offered to those responsible for this excellent film."

Cold Wave Hits Western States After Blizzard

CHICAGO, Jan. 23 (AP)—Sub-zero cold spread over wide areas of the mid-west today as wintry weather of snow, ice and strong winds hit areas from the Rockies to New England.

The Dakotas and Western Minnesota dug out from a blizzard that nearly paralyzed transportation. Snowplow crews worked overnight in the biting cold to open the wind-drifted roads of packed snow in the blizzard belt.

It was 30 degrees below zero in Grand Forks, ND, early today. Minnesota reported readings of 20 below and it was 12 below at Iowa. No immediate relief from the icy blasts was in prospect.

The Arctic air from Western Canada that hit the north Rockies and northern plains pushed across the mid-continent. It was cold southward to the Gulf of Mexico and eastward to the Appalachians.

All branch-line train travel over the Dakotas and Western Minnesota was cancelled. Mainline passenger trains were running several hours late.

Northern Pacific trains to and from Winnipeg were drifted in at Manitoba junction, 30 miles northwest of Detroit Lakes, Minn., but plows from both directions were expected to free them.

Winds, which reached velocities of more than 50 miles an hour in the three states, diminished today as the blast of sub-zero cold struck. Schools were closed in hundreds of communities as highway travel halted. Eight of the nine persons reported missing in South Dakota were found by snowplow crews in a farmhouse which had no telephone. The missing persons had started out on highway trips.

Snow and rain pelted the northeastern states Tuesday. The snowfall measured three inches in Northern Maine but the snow changed to rain in other parts of New England. The rain not only washed away the fresh snow but also up to three inches of old snow on the ground in northern areas.

New York State reported a mixture of ligh snow, sleet and rain. Winds of 41 miles an hour, with gusts up to 52 mph, were reported in Buffalo.

Man Convicted Of Assaulting Small Baby Boy

Lloyd McCarrell, RR 5, Peterborough, charged with assault occasioning bodily harm, was found guilty of common assault in police court Tuesday.

Magistrate W. R. Philp sentenced McCarrell to 15 days in county jail.

McCarrell was alleged to have beaten a 20-month-old baby boy January 9.

Dr. John McNeill, who examined the child the next day said that an area six inches by nine inches on the child's hip was "bruised, reddened and thickened. It looked as if it had been caused by some flat instrument or flat surface," Dr. McNeill said. "The bruising was severe and extended down the child's legs to its knees."

Does Not Bruise More Easily

Dr. McNeil disagreed with defence counsel Emmett F. Sheehy's suggestion that a child that age would tend to bruise more easily because of its tender skin. Dr. McNeill said, "As we get older, we tend to bruise much more easily. There isn't much difference between a two-year-old and a ten-year-old in regard to tissues."

In aswer to a complaint, John R. Twigg, of the Children's Aid Society, said he went to the residence of Betty Trotter, RR 5, Peterborough, where he found the child and on examining it, Mr. Twigg said he saw an area six by nine inches on his left hip which was dark blue in color. There were other dark bluish spots on the child's body as well, Mr. Twigg said.

The child was then taken into the custody of the Children's Aid Society, and placed in the society's Princess St. home after being examined by Dr. McNeill.

Mother Testifies

Betty Trotter, mother of the child, said she had left the baby with McCarrell the day the beating was alleged to have taken place. She said she never saw any marks on the child. She first denied having heard McCarrell say anything about "whipping" the boy, then when Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw asked her if she recalled giving testimony in that connection in family court recently, she said "He said he whipped the child." After making this statement she quickly changed the word "whipped" to "spanked."

Mrs. May Collins who lives downstairs in the house, said she heard some "thumping" and then "heard the little fellow start to cry harder." She said she called her husband who went upstairs, and the crying stopped. Mrs. Collins said the event occurred on the day of the alleged assault and that only McCarrell and the child were upstairs at the time.

After Magistrate Philp refused Mr. Sheehy's request for a dismissal, McCarrell took the stand. McCarrell said he could not explain the marks and had done nothing wrong to the child. He denied "whipping it or thumping it either." When asked by Mr. Bradshaw if he had said "If I get out of this I'll never hit a child again," McCarrell denied making the statement.

McCarrell's wife Florence, was called as a defence witness and she said that McCarrell had "always been a good father" to their three small children. She said he had never abused them.

Disregarding Mr. Sheehy's argument that there was no direct evidence McCarrell had struck the child, Magistrate Philp commented that there was the bruised area on the child's body. Only McCarrell and the child were in that part of the house at the time, he said in convicting McCarrell of the reduced charge of common assault.

Westwood Wins

HASTINGS, Jan. 23 (ENS). — Hastings Tigers were tamed by the Westwood Wildcats in an exhibition hockey game played before 34 fans at Hastings Monday night. The score was 10-5.

The Westwood team, which plays regularly in the Rural League at Keene, showed more finish around the enemy net, scoring three in the first, two in the second, and five in the third. The Hastings boys showed they were finished with the enemy net by the end of the second period, after tallying all their goals in the middle frame.

For many of the Hastings boys, it was their first game of the season. It was also their first time on ice as a team, and when Bob Scriver of the Tigers, a regular referee in the Trent Valley League, received the first penalty of the game in the first period. It could have been the first time a referee was penalized by a player as the two referees were Jimmy Morrow and Ken Oliver, two of the star players with the Hastings TVL team.

Cardwell, Fife, B. Warr and R. Warr scored two goals each for Westwood, with Post and Jim McMillan each potting once.

Stevens scored first for Hastings, then Jack Scriver, Brooks, Les Scriver, and Bob Scriver followed in their big second period splurge.

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, Jan. 23—(CP)—Maj. Jack George of Edmonton today received the DSO he won in a bitter skirmish last December.

Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, chief of the general staff, pinned the ribbon of the Order, red with blued edges, on George in a moving ceremony before the assembled ranks of the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, Lt.-Col. Norman Wilson-Smith, battalion commander, read the citation accompanying the award.

George won the award for his leadership during a raid by the Patricias on Communist positions. He was wounded in the throat by a shrapnel fragment, but carried on until the operation was completed.

Simonds later inspected company positions of the Royal Canadian Regiment and of the Patricias where he lunched in the officers' mess.

In the afternoon, Brig. John Rockingham, 25th Brigade commander, took him to the headquarters of Brig. A. H. G. Ricketts, commander of the British 29th Brigade, where he also met the commanders of four other British regiments.

Late in the day he visited the 57th Canadian Engineers Squadron and the 25th Canadian Field Ambulance.

Meter Reader Strike Ends In London

LONDON, Jan. 23—(CP)—A strike of London meter readers ended today following successful conclusion of "peace"talks sponsored by the Labor Ministry.

The dispute started two weeks ago after the London Electricity Board hired investigators to check complaints that some meter-readers were knocking off work at lunchtime and spending their afternoon at home or in restaurants.

The unions, which called the investigators "snoopers," said the company should have let them know about the complaints before investigating them.

Under the return - to - work agreement, the unions will consider evidence from the company that too many meter readers are employed. The company agrees to observe the "last in, first out" principle in reducing staff.

Mrs. George Russell

The funeral of Mrs. George Russell, the former Eliza Ellen Crowe of Douro township, who died in Peterborough hospital on Saturday, was held Tuesday from the Kaye funeral home. The Rev. C. G. Boyd of St. Paul's Presbyterian church conducted the service.

Pallbearers were Orville Payne, Frank Payne, Taylor Crowe, Melville Crowe, Alfred Dunford, Roger Bowen. Burial was in St. Mark's cemetery, Warsaw.

Adjudicator Stresses Difficulty Of Shading

EDMONTON Jan. 23 (CP)—The Lethbridge Playgoers Club Tuesday night presented "Angel Street" as the second part of the three - day Alberta Regional Drama Festival.

Adjudicator Pierre Lefevre commended the actors for "sticking to their guns in what they were trying to do" but said they missed the "shade of the Victorian idea" behind the play.

The play, by Patrick Hamilton, had been written in 1939 to revive the old style of Victorian melodrama, and there was a satirical and ironical intention in the author's mind in the imitation of the bygone form.

British Papers Enjoy Guessing

LONDON, Jan. 23—(CP)—The Alexander - for - defence-minister and Massey-for-Governor-General boom continued to intrigue British political commentators today.

Viscount Bracken's statement in Johannesburg Tuesday that Field Marshal Viscount Alexander is ticketed to take over the British defence ministry, and that Vincent Massey is slated to replace Alexander as Governor-General of Canada is regarded here as just about clinching the mattetr.

The Daily Telegraph said "Lord Bracken has declared Mr. Massey is the choice and from what we hear nowadays we think he is right."

The Manchester Guardian speculated that Lord Bracken's statement in South Africa may have been a "calculated indiscretion."

"So many Canadians are indignant at the proposal to appoint a Canadian (as Governor-General) that Lord Bracken may have thought it desirable for the debate to be conducted in public," said the Guardian.

The Yorkshire Post said Massey's presence in London—he is staying in Kensington with his son, Hart—adds weight to speculation about his future. It said Governors-General by established custom are received by the King and Queen before taking up their appointments.

Massey, 64, Canadian High Commissioner in London from 1935 to 1946, has declined comment on reports of a new appointment.

Otonabee Driver Gave Signal; Dismiss Charge

Faced with conflicting evidence in a careless driving charge against Norman Stark, Otonabee township, Magistrate W. R. Philp said Stark was entitled to the benefit of the doubt and dismissed the charge.

When the evidence was heard in police court Tuesday, Stark said that he had his arm out the window signalling a left hand turn for nearly 300 yards, before he was in collision with a car attempting to pass him.

The accident occurred on Highway 7, about four miles east of Peterborough at dusk Christmas night, as Frank Wheeler, 780 St. Mary's St., was passing Stark's car.

Wheeler said he did not see any signal by Stark and that just as he was about 20 feet from Stark's car, Stark turned to the left and the two cars collided.

Both cars were going west.

Stark said he was about to make a left hand turn on to a concession road. He said he saw the lights of an oncoming car some 300 to 400 yards behind, rolled down his window and kept his arm out until he made the turn.

Testimony of two passengers in the Wheeler car and Stark's brother and sister who were riding with him, was somewhat confused, but both Miss Mary Stark and John Stark agreed that their brother had put his arm out to signal.

Drawing Magistrate Philp's attention to the "confusion in testimony," defence counsel Gordon H. T. Farquharson said that if His Worship found Stark had had his arm extended for quite a distance before the turn was commenced, Stark had discharged his obligation under the Highway Traffic Act.

Magistrate Philp dismissed the charge because he said there was no reason why he should not believe either Stark's or Wheeler's testimony. He added that in addition to signalling for a left hand turn, car drivers are obligated to see that the turn can be made safely if there is oncoming traffic.

Dual Defence Development Role Urged For Canada By Mackenzie

OTTAWA, Jan. 23 — (CP). — Canada's contribution to Allied military strength must be a dual effort to build up defence forces and at the same time develop mineral and other strategic resources, M. W. Mackenzie, Deputy Minister of Defence Production, said today.

In the concluding adress of a symposium on "Canada's Place in the Mineral World," which formed the theme of the three-day annual convention of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, Mr. Mackenzie said Canada is fulfilling this purpose.

He stressed: "We are not at war and are not preparing for war. What we are doing is carrying out our part of an alliance which we have made with other like-minded nations to strengthen the defences of the free world, with all that that implies, so that any would-be aggressor will realize that his chances of success are not such as to merit the undertaking."

Two Divisions

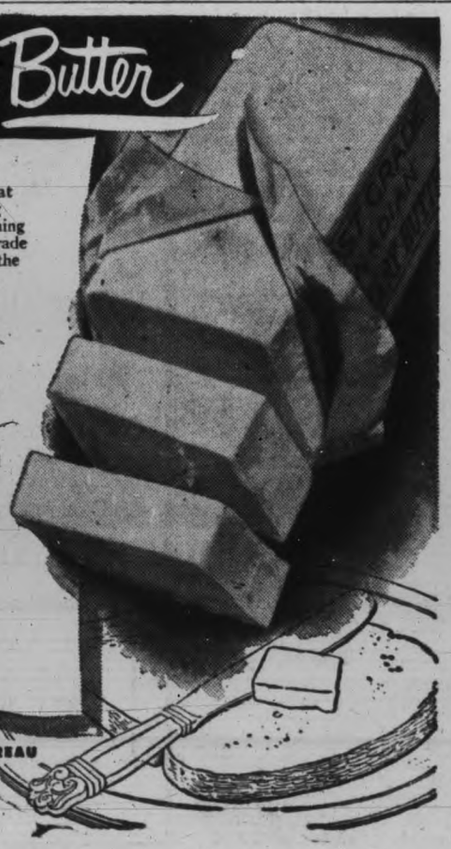
Canada's contribution to the common cause fell necessarily into two parts.

"The development of our resources is as much a part of Canada's defence effort as the building up of our direct military strength. Indeed, any comprehensive plan for strengthening the North Atlantic Community of Nations would not make sense unless it had regard to the development of our mineral and other strategic resources.

"Certainly, Canada has a greater potential resources development than any of its partners in the North Atlantic Pact. This is not to minimize our direct military effort, which is indeed substantial . . ."

He cited figures to show Canada is in fact matching her direct defence investment with investment in resources development.

At the start of 1951, Canada had announced $5,000,000,000 of defence spending to be spread over three years. Biggest element in this program was the aircraft plan.



"Canada has embarked on the building of six different types of airframes and, for the first time in our history, two types of aircraft engines . . . this is our biggest production program, and has been generally described as a $1, 200,000,000 program over a three-year period.

Interesting Coincidence

"It is an interesting coincidence that $1,200,000,000 is the present estimate of what will be spent in approximately the same period on the development of hydro-electric power in the country, apart from specialized projects such as those relating to aluminum, and part from any investment made possible by the development of the St. Lawrence."

Second biggest part of the defence production was in the field of electronics. Spending in this field would be some $50,000,000, "which is about the same amount as is planned for expenditure on the exploration, development, transmission and refining of petroleum and natural gas."

"In all," he said, "it appears that something of the order of $3,000,000 is already planned for expenditure on projects for completion in 1955 or before to increase the supply of hydro-electric power, of metals, chemicals, oil and gas and pulp and paper.

Remnants Of Bombing Mark Former Jap Base

This is the second in a series of articles by Capt. the Rev. Donald Howson, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Howson, Aylmer St. He is a padre with the Canadian army.

By CAPT. DONALD HOWSON.

Iwa Kuni.—The mountains surround Kure on three sides and with their sharp, yet undulating peaks crested with pine trees they resemble a gigantic dinosaur standing guard over the city, reminding its inhabitants of their country's great and colorful past. At least so I thought as I gazed up at the mountains last evening and saw them sprawling there, silhouetted against the setting sun.

This morning I saw some of the reminders of Kure's more horrible present. I drove along the dry docks and shipyards, through the arsenals and warehouses that cover the waterfront for several miles. It was a revelation to me, for here it was possible to see the grim evidence of the destruction that was wrought during the war.

Naval Centre

Kure was a great shipbuilding and naval centre before the war, the site of the largest drydock not only in Japan but in the world. Here the huge 80,000-ton Japanese battleships were built. Here the lesser vessels of Nippon's fleet came for refit. Today, I drove through row upon row of steel skeletons, burnt-out brick walls, masses of crumbled wreckage, piles of scrap iron and rusted salvage. This once proud hive of industry haunts the city even as the mountains hover about it. And I found myself thinking that these steel skeletons could not forever remain silent and extinct as the dinosaur. Once more, I am sure, one will feel the heat of molten steel, hear the hammering and rivetting, see the ships that go down to the sea. And I hoped that the people who would man these ships would remain friendly to us and we to them.

Shortly afterwards, I was back at the Officers' Lounge, watching a pet duck swimming in the pond. I remembered the words of the poet, F. W. Harvey:

"From troubles of the world
I turn to ducks,
Beautiful comical things
Sleeping or curled
Their heads beneath white wings
By water cool . . . ."

And my thoughts turned from the troubles of the world to ducks and other things.

I considered that either the world is a small place or our Canadian army is a very small one. Perhaps both are true. At any rate, little did I think last spring when I met a certain officer at a friend's home in Fredericton that he and I together would be driving about the streets of Kure eight months later.

Both From City

And imagine our mutual surprise when the driver of my jeep and I discovered we were both from the same home town of Peterborough. No matter how much a man-of-the-world it is possible for a soldier to become, these homely touches are extremely satisfying.

In the quartermaster's stores, the corporal, I discovered, used to drive a bread-truck in Fredericton, another chap lived on George Street; a sergeant who heard us talking happened along and he was from Saint John. He wanted to know what the weather had been like there when I passed through in November.

Yes, the world is small nowadays, whether it is measured in terms of distance or human relationships. And it will become increasingly smaller as the members of the Commonwealth and American occupation forces eventually return to their respective countries. For what is happening here in the Far East also is happening in Europe, in the Middle East and in other parts of the globe.

An intermingling of peoples and ideas is taking place, such as the nations of the world have not seen heretofore.

Seen Changes

The transformation that this process has wrought here in Japan is enormous. I was speaking the other day with the wife of the Anglican Bishop of mid-Japan, who with her husband has been in this country since 1916. She spoke of the tremendous changes she has noticed in the past 35 years. When she and her husband first came out here, they were practically the only westerners in the community and wherever they went they were a distinct oddity—a veritable procession of Japanese children would follow them in curiosity.

Now in occupied Japan one sees western dress everywhere—mostly worn by members of the occupation and united forces, of course but one notices many Japanese, both men and women, wearing clothes in western style.

Indeed, at one time, so I am told, to wear "foreign styles" clothes amounted to a feminine craze. Today, as an independent Japan emerges in the post-war world, there is a trend for Japanese women, young as well as old, to adopt the native kimono style of dress, which is so distinctive and so very colorful.

One wonders whether this is merely a trend in fashion, or an evidence of a rebirth of Japanese culture. I do not know and, unfortunately, I do not yet speak Japanese well enough to ascertain.

Narrow Escape For Ship's Mascot

OTTAWA (CP) — The dog known as "PO Wren Alice," the No. 1 canine mascot aboard the Canadian destroyer Cayuga serving off Korea, had a close brush with death.

Naval headquarters told the story of how Alice developed a habit of jumping from her own ship to the tanker during re-fuelling operations. But in one such jump the dog slipped on a spot of oil aboard the tanker and found herself in the narrow strip of water between the two vessels.

Leading Seaman James E. Tyer of Vancouver, who had been caring for Alice for months, feared she would be squeezed between the two ships and called for a gun to shoot the dog.

The destroyer captain, Commander James Plower, instead issued the order to "clear lower decks. Rescue Alice between ships."

The ropes were slackened and bear-off spars were put into play between the destroyer and the tanker. Able Seaman Norman Nelson of Vancouver then swung down a rope and rescued the Cayuga's pet.

Louis O. Breithaupt Appointed New Lt.-Governor

OTTAWA, Jan. 24. (CP)—Appointment of Louis O. Breithaupt, 61-year-old Liberal member of Parliament for Waterloo North, as Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, was announced today by Prime Minister St. Laurent. Mr. Breithaupt succeeds Hon. Ray Lawson, who has served as Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario since December, 1946. Mr. Lawson's five-year term ended last December but was extended briefly. Mr. St. Laurent's announcement said Mr. Breithaupt's appointment will take effect Feb. 18.

Mr. Breithaupt's appointment automatically means that he will resign his seat in the Commons.

The present Commons standing is:

Liberals 186, Progressive Conservatives 45, CCF 13. Social Credit 10, Independent 4, Independent Liberal 2, vacant 2; total, 262.

Mr. Breithaupt is a prominent Ontario industrialist who began his business career by doing, as he puts it, "Joe jobs" in his father's tanneries. He entered Parliament in the 1940 general election.

President of the Breithaupt Leather Company, with parent plant in Kitchener, Mr. Breithaupt is also the owner of plants in Hastings, Campbellford and Penetang.

He was born at Kitchener, Oct. 28, 1890, the son of the late Louis Jacob Breithaupt, one-time member of the Ontario Legislature, and Emma A. Devitt of Waterloo. His grandfather, Louis Breithaupt,

Northern Arena Partly Razed By Night Fire

SOUTH PORCUPINE, Jan. 24 (CP). — Half the big South Porcupine arena and community centre today was a black and frozen ruin after fire Wednesday night raged through the wooden building.

Firemen battled the blaze to a halt after eight hours' work in temperatures that dropped to 32 degrees below zero. Fire brigades from several points in this Timmins gold mining area pitched in to help and South Porcupine merchants supplied them with hot refreshments and clean clothing.

Cause of the fire was unknown. One theory was that the blaze started after plumbers attempted to thaw frozen pipes in the basement of the three-storey building.

Before the fire was out citizens began to talk of raising a fund to re-build the arena which had been a centre of social life here since it was built in 1938. Replacement value of the structure was estimated at $100,000.

Metal Sheeting that covered the outside of the arena and heavy wire screens on the windows made fighting the fire difficult. Hockey fans drove a bulldozer through part of the arena wall to rescue hockey equipment used by the South Porcupine Porkies who played Wednesday night at Schumacher in a Porcupine Mines League game.

The section of the arena that was destroyed held an auditorium, badminton courts and dressing rooms.

A second theory as to the cause of the blaze was that a short circuit might have developed in the electric heaters in the dressing-room.

Firemen still were on duty early today, standing guard over the smouldering ruins.

Firemen Quell Office Blaze

City firemen used a hand extinguisher to put out a small fire in a partition wall behind an overheated oil space heater in the store of the National Cash Register Co. on Hunter Street at 2:05 today.

Called out at 1:39, they had some difficulty in finding the source of the smoke. There was no blaze and the smoke was not heavy. But as in every alarm turned in from a downtown district, all fire equipment was turned out when the call was received.

Firemen first thought the fire was next door in the Cherney Furniture store annex. They tore a hole in the second storey floor of the furniture store to locate the source of the smoke. Finally they located it in the partition behind the space heater where a brown spot showed on the green paint.

Employee William Rice arrived at the cash register store just in time to unlock the door, before firemen broke in.

Abbott Denies Financing Plan

LONDON, Jan. 24 — (CP) — Finance Minister Abbott said today it would be unrealistic to expect an expansion in British purchasing from Canada in the near future.

In an informal chat with reporters, the Canadian Finance Minister said he knows of no new arrangements for financing United Kingdom purchases in Canda.

The minister was asked to comment on reports quoting Agriculture Minister Gardiner as saying in Montreal that Canada is trying to arrange new methods of financing sales to Britain.

Abbott said this presumably referred to the general discussions he has had with various officials during the conference of Commonwealth finance ministers, which ended Monday, and to the current meetings of the Anglo-Canadian continuing committee on economic matters.

But, Abbott said, the Commonwealth discussions did not include "detailed" talks on Anglo-Canadian trade, and it seemed unrealistic at this time to expect any increase in United Kingdom purchasing.

Board Holds Hearing In Cobourg Crash

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (CP) —The Civil Aeronautics Board will hold a public hearing at Burbank, Calif., Thursday into an airplane accident at Cobourg, Dec. 20.

The accident occurred when a C-46 plane owned by North Continental Airlines of Burbank made a wheels-up landing near Cobourg after running out of fuel. None of the 43 passengers or the crew of three was hurt.

French Ready To Retake Town

TUNIS, Tunisia, Jan. 24 (AP)—French forces planned a counter-attack on Tunisian Arabs today to retake the east-coast town of Teboulba seized during Nationalist rioting to enforce demands for more independence from France.

Seven Tunisians and four French officers were killed in Wednesday's riots, all of them in Teboulba and two neighboring towns, about 150 miles south of Tunis. Forty-one have been slain in 10 days of violence.

Demonstrators attacked a French civilian in Teboulba. Police went to his rescue. In the clash, seven Tunisians were killed but a French official said "uncontrolled elements" took control of the town. The French said they would recapture it today.

Sub-Zero Weather Holds Most Of Canada In Grip

By The Canadian Press

Sub-zero weather set in over most of Canada today after storms brought freezing rain and snow to many sections of the country. Temperatures dropped sharply on the prairies, inland British Columbia, the Yukon and Northern Ontario. Coldest spot in the country again was Snag in the Yukon which during the night reported a temperature of 66 below. It was still far from the record low of 81 in 1947.

The maximum reading in Dawson, Yukon, Wednesday was 59 below.

The low temperature during the night for the major prairie cities ranged from 17 below in Lethbridge to 35 below in Saskatoon.

Rain And Snow

The weatherman reported light rain falling early today in the coastal areas of BC and snow in the interior. The snow has reached as far as the Jasper-Calgary-Lethbridge line in Alberta. On the prairies the weather is mostly clear.

In Ontario skies generally were clear but in the lower lake regions light snow fell during the morning. The weather bureau said a low pressure area over Wyoming in the United States would bring light snow to Northern Ontario by tomorrow morning. Southern Ontario would receive snow from this disturbance by Friday night.

The temperature at Sudbury this morning was 26 below. White River reported 29 below. The mercury fell to 16 below at Ottawa during the night.

Sunny skies and dropping temperatures were reported from Quebec.

Strike Called At Ford Plant

WINDSOR, Jan. 24 — (CP). — The executive board of Local 200, United Automobile Workers of America (CIO-CCL) announced today that Ford of Canada workers will strike at 10 pm Sunday night.

The formal announcement was made shortly after noon today. It follows a statement Wednesday night by George Burt, UAW Canadian director, setting the Sunday deadline. Mr. Burt made the bare statement to a Windsor Daily Star reporter, then retired into committee with Local 200 leaders.

Today Mr. Burt stated that 2,500 Ford production men scheduled to appear for the 10 pm Sunday shift will be met by a picket line. An additional 6,500 Ford employees will be met Monday by a picket line—if they attempt to report for work.

Heavy Snows Trap Trains In Mountains

PRINCE RUPERT, BC, Jan. 24 —(CP)—Rail traffic on the CNR line east of here is still held up by heavy snows.

A passenger train, due here Monday is stranded at Terrace, 95 miles east. Three freight trains are trapped by huge drifts.

A serious coal shortage was threatened by the tie-up.

Snow plows have been unable to clear the line.

An eastbound train, the first since last Saturday, was expected to leave today. It left Tuesday night but was forced to turn back at Tyee, 25 miles away.

BULLETIN

LONDON (CP). — A spokesman at Buckingham Paalce said today "there might be" an announcement from the Palace this evening of special interest to Canada. The spokesman declined to comment on whether the announcement, if it came, would relate to Field-Marshal Viscount Alexander's position as Governor-General of Canada or to possible appointments to that office.

Blaze Leaves 5 Homeless As 3 Apartments Destroyed By Flames

Neighbors Carry Man Partly Blind, Wife From Burning Building; Firemen Work in 10-Below-Zero Weather

MARMORA, Jan. 24. (ENS)—Fire today gutted the second storey of the old St. James Hotel here, leaving five people homeless. Nobody was injured. Damage was estimated at as much as $50,000, although the owner of the building, John Jones, said he couldn't give an estimate. He added that he had $18,000 insurance. In the two-storey limestone building, which has stood nearly 100 years, were: three upstairs apartments, a hardware store, a beauty salon, and a shoe repair shop downstairs.

Cause of the fire is unknown.

About 5:15 am, George Aunger, one of the occupants, woke up to smell smoke. He turned in the alarm, and as well awoke occupants of apartments across the street. Two of them, Roy Moss and Joe Murray, dressed hurriedly and went to the burning building.

Rescue Old Couple

From one of the apartments, they rescued 86-year-old Damon King who is nearly blind, and his 84-year-old wife, Mary. Murray carried Mrs. King, who has been ill since mid-October, to his store on the east side of the street. Moss helped Mr. King to Murray's store.

At the home of their daughter, Mrs. Seymour Henry, Mr. and Mrs. King declared: "God carried us through; we put our trust in Him."

Mr. King said they would have known nothing of the fire if Moss and Murray had not knocked down their door and brought them to safety. "We were sleeping very soundly," he said.

Occupants of the third apartment, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bell, were away at the time of the fire. Mr. Bell is employed by the HEPC. All their furniture and clothing was destroyed, as were the clothes and furniture of the Kings and Mr. Aunger.

Temperatures were down to about 10 below when the fire was first discovered, and by 10 am the onetime hotel was almost completely sheathed with ice.

BLAZE LEAVES

Pile Of Ashes Used As Bed By Blind Man

SUTTON, Ont., Jan. 24 (CP)—Blind and crippled, Amos Sweezie lies on a pile of ashes on the floor of his frame cottage while officials in this village 50 miles north of Toronto worry about what to do with him.

The elderly bachelor, believed to be about 83, lies near a battered old wood-stove in his one-room dwelling, food, water and wood for the stove are brought to him daily by James Sinclair, a neighbor.

Field mice crawl around the room. Empty bottles, jars and tin cans are stacked everywhere.

A table in a corner of the room is covered with a thick coating of dust and obviously hasn't been used for years except by mice that scamper about on it.

Dr. R. M. King, chief of the York County Health Unit, said today that Sweezie was able to look after himself until a year ago. But in recent months his condition had "deteriorated" rapidly.

Dr. King recommended to North Gwillimbury township council that the man be taken to hospital and then to the county home for the aged.

Not Washed In 5 Years

Neighbors said the man has been unwashed since he left hospital after an illness five years ago.

"We buy groceries for him every weekend at Jackson's Point and Mrs. Sinclair cooks his food," said Mr. Sinclair. The latter's son, Charles, 19, and another youth, Douglas Graves, 17, frequently take food to Sweezie.

Charles said that no matter how much food is taken to him, he eats it all at once.

"I have seen him eat a pound and a half of cheese in five minutes," said Charles.

Cocktail Spree But All Sober

LONDON, Jan. 24 (AP).—The grandest cocktail spree since the invention of the Martini got under way Wednesday without a souse in the house.

Cocktails of all hues — red, green, yellow, even blue ones — poured from frosted shakers in an alcoholic marathon designed to find the world's champion mixed drink magier.

It was tantalizing for everyone but the four judges—two men and two women—and they were allowed only one sip.

A few hundred watchers and a handful of newspapermen stood around with their tongues hanging out.

It was the opening of the world's cocktail-mixing championship, which has attracted 375 entries from 22 countries.

Hungry After 38 Days

Six Convicts In Jungle Broil, Eat Fat Companion

BOGOTA, Colombia, Jan. 24—(AP)—Six wild and bearded convicts who escaped a tropical jungle prison camp said today they killed, broiled and ate a seventh companion—the fattest one—and were planning to eat another when they stumbled into a settlement and surrendered.

Their confession was reported by Horacio Rosero Caicedo, director of the National Territories Department of the Interior Ministry.

The men wandered 38 days through treacherous swamps and jungle inhabited almost solely by snakes, beasts and wild natives. They covered a crow-flight distance of about 250 miles before they reached Puerto Umbria, a river village in an Andean valley, and gave themselves up.

Some were ill with malaria. All were clothed in rotted tatters.

Eating their plumpest companion, they said, was the only way they could get strength to escape the jungle.

The Araracuara prison colony they fled is on the Caqueta River, which rises in the Andes and flows eastward into the wilds of Brazil.

At Araracuara, there are no walls or fences. Authorities rely on the immensity of its almost impenetrable surroundings, its long distance from all civilization and the prospect of tortuous hardships to prevent escapes.

Some who try it are never seen again after they slip into the jungle.

Those who are recaptured face longer sentences under closer confinement—in the same jungle camp.

Fake RCN Surgeon Likes Short Cuts

Read Medical Books At Night Before Performing Complex Operations

NEW YORK, Jan. 24 (AP)—A bright young man, who never finished high school but who won acclaim as a skilled surgeon, is trying to decide what to do next.

"Being an impostor is a tough habit to break," he says.

Despite his lack of schooling, Ferdinand Waldo Demara, Jr., 30, has posed successfully as a doctor of philosophy, an eminent zoologist, and has been, among other things, a college psychology professor and Trappist monk.

But the collapse of his latest master hoax, during which he performed brilliant operations as a surgeon in the Royal Canadian Navy, has left him uncertain.

"I'm tired of aliases, or as I prefer to think of them, noms de plume," he said. "But how can I use my own name after all that's happened?"

At his parents' home in Lawrence, Mass., Demara told his story to a magazine.

Demara used the name and credentials of Dr. Joseph C. Cyr, of Grand Falls, NB, to get his surgeon's commission, much as he had used academic records of others in his other roles.

Newspaper accounts of his spectacularly successful operations on wounded Korean soldiers led to discovery of the fraud last November, and the Canadian Navy brought him home and quietly discharged him.

Demara, who concedes he "always wanted short cuts," previously passed himself off as various noted scholars, attended educational conclaves, was a deputy sheriff, American soldier and sailor and twice a hospital orderly.

As a one-time psychology professor at St. Martin's College, in Lacey, Wash., Demara said "I just kept ahead of the class. The best way to learn anything is to teach it."

His story, which the magazine says has "stood up" against careful checking, relates these experiences as a "doctor":

When commissioned as a surgeon-lieutenant last March, his first duty was at the sick bay in Halifax's naval hospital. By consulting books, he handled routine cases with ease and treated some psychiatric patients.

No Mystery To It

"There's no mystery about psychiatry," he said. "Anybody with common sense could practice it."

Assigned to the destroyer Cayuga, his first problem arose when the ship's skipper, Cmdr. James Plomer, needed a tooth pulled.

"I told him to wait until morning," Demara said. "That night I stayed in my cabin, reading up on dentistry, which was all new to me. In the morning, I shot the skipper's jaw full of novocain and out came the tooth; no trouble at all."

His first serious case came one day in September when a wounded South Korean soldier was brought aboard from a junk with a bullet near his heart.

"I couldn't have been nervous, even if I felt like it," Demara said. "Practically everybody on the ship was standing there, watching me."

Worked Fast

After administering pentothal sodium as an anaesthetic, Demara worked swiftly, opening the chest with incisions above the heart and along the breastbone.

"I kept one basic principle in my mind," he said. "The less cutting you do, the less patching up you have to do afterward."

After finding the bullet within a fraction of an inch of the heart, Demara said, "I was afraid he'd haemorrhage when I took out the bullet. But he didn't. I pulled it out and slipped some gelfoam, a coagulating agent, into the wound and it clotted almost immediately."

Demara sewed up the incisions, wrapped the chest tightly, gave the man an injection of 1,500,000 units of penicillin and 12 hours later the man walked off the ship.

Demara also told of performing various other operations in Korea, including a complex resection, or lung removal. He did this after reading accounts of such an operation on the King.

Troops Retake Airbase

One-Day Revolution Ends Leader Flees With 150 Men

KHATMANDU, Nepal, Jan. 24 —(Reuters)—Dr. K. I. Singh, left-wing leader of an armed revolt Wednesday, eluded troops and fled with 150 of his national guard rebels into the mountains of northeast Nepal, it was reported today.

Government forces considered themselves in control of the situation this morning, though about 100 rebels still held out in the government secretariat which they captured Wednesday.

The one-day revolt—led by Singh to back demands for a government coalition including Communists—was considered finished when government troops recaptured 400 insurgents and almost all their positions.

They drove the rebels out of Guachar airbase, arsenal gun emplacements, the telephone exchange and the broadcasting station. The rebel force consisted of about 650 members of the Raksha Dal (militia).

Khatmandu was quiet but tense in all sections.

Singh led the revolt a few hours after his followers rescued him from prison. He was arrested a year ago for defying the coalition government.

Singh, interviewed inside the secretariat Wednesday, said he did not want a blood bath, but would fight to a finish if King Tribuvan did not grant his demand for immediate establishment of an all-party coalition.

New Dollar Level Hits Farmers Hard On Western Wheat Price

MONTREAL, Jan. 24. (CP)—Higher price for Canadian wheat and an increase by the government in the wholesale support price on eggs were advocated Wednesday at closing sessions of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture convention. Climb of the Canadian dollar to par with the United States dollar has brought financial trouble to western wheat producers, said Jack Wesson of Regina, president of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Producers.

Under terms of the International Wheat Agreement, with wheat fixed at $1.80 a bushel for No. 1 Northern, Canada had been getting $1.98 a bushel in Canadian funds as the fixed price was in American funds.

Now, with parity, Canadian farmers were losing 18 cents a bushel—or back to $1.80.

The Federal government will be asked to increase the wholesale support price on eggs from 38 to 44 cents a dozen.

To make up the wheat difference, the Federation agreed that the domestic price should be freed from the terms of the international agreement and adjusted in accordance with fluctuations in farmers production and living costs.

Suggests $2.15 Price

In a later interview, Mr. Wesson said he had in mind a price of $2.15 a bushel although this is not the price the Federation will necessarily approve when this and some 24 other approved resolutions are studied by the board of directors in a closed meeting today.

During the two-day convention, some 400,000 farmers delegates agreed on most resolutions but split on creating a feed-grain bank in eastern Canada and British Columbia to avert sharp fluctuations in price in periods of scarcity.

Resolutions adopted embraced a wide range of demands on the Federal government from Federal aid for education to assistance in obtaining sulfa compounds and anti-biotics at lower prices.

Urged was a speed-up in the development of the St. Lawrence seaway and renewal of the four-year international wheat agreement with higher ceiling and floor prices.

Also endorsed was the federation's policy of seeking international commodity agreements to expand trade and stabilize markets and urging of the government to expand preferential tariff concessions to Britain.

Will Investigate Hospital Death

TORONTO, Jan. 24 (CP). — Health Minister Phillips said on Wednesday that a complete and impartial investigation will be held into the delay in revealing the death of a 69-year-old woman at the Ontario (Mental) Hospital here Dec. 20.

Coroner Smirle Lawson reported Wednesday that the woman, wife of a retired banker, died on an X-ray table after a physician was said to have injected alcohol into her veins instead of a colorless fluid used in preparations for taking X-ray pictures.

An inquest will be held today.

Warns Farmers Watch Crops Plowed Under

TORONTO, Jan. 24 (CP). — Farmers who plow under green legumes and other nitrogenous crops may be doing the soil more harm than good, said J. N. Appleton of Wallaceburg Wednesday.

He told the 15th annual convention of the Ontario Crop Improvement Association that when green crops are plowed under, bacteria in the soil sharply reduces the elements which contribute to permanent soil fertility, such as phosphates and calcium.

He recommended extensive use of animal manures together with commercial fertilizers bearing phosphorus and potash as determined by soil analysis.

Col. A. Young Named Police Chief In Malaya

LONDON, Jan. 24 (Reuters)—Col. Arthur Edwin Young, the city of London's 45-year-old police commissioner, has been appointed chief of police in bandit-infested Malaya, it was announced today.

The move nearly completely the reshuffle in the colony's key security posts. Young replaces Col. William Gray, whose resignation was accepted Jan. 14, following an on-the-spot inspection by colonial secretary Oliver Lyttleton.

Last week Gen. Sir Gerald Templer, former commander-in-chief of Britain's eastern command, was named British high commissioner in Malaya. He replaced Sir Henry Gurney, killed in a guerrilla ambush last October.

Templer and Young will face a critical situation caused by the stepped-up Communist terrorist campaign which has seriously hit Malayan rubber and tin production.

Charge POW's Used By Reds As Truce Lever

MUNSAN, Korea, Jan. 24 (AP) A United Nations truce negotiator today accused the Communists of planning to use sick and wounded prisoners of war as a lever to force Allied acceptance of Red armistice terms.

The charge came from Rear-Admiral R. E. Libby after the Reds turned down a repeated Allied appeal for an immediate exchange of sick and wounded prisoners.

"It is evident that you intend to use them as a lever to force us to agree to your fraudulent demands," Libby said.

In an adjacent tent at Panmunjom, UN negotiators again asked the Communists to express "in simple terms" whether they intend to increase their air strength during an armistice.

Oral Promise

Observers said phrasing of the question strengthened belief that the UN might accept an oral promise by the Reds not to construct or repair military airfields. Such a pledge would become part of the conference record, but would not be written into the armistice.

The issue of airfield construction has blocked agreement on how to police an armistice for weeks.

Neither sub-committee reported progress. Both scheduled meetings for 1 am Friday (9 am EST Thursday).

Communist staff officers turned over a map showing the exact location of 10 North Korean prison camps and promised to pinpoint the location of an 11th camp later.

The Allies asked for specific information after the Communists said a UN plane bombed one camp earlier this month.

The Reds also agreed to paint signs measuring roughly 25 by 13 yards on the ground or roofs of buildings so the camps may be identified easily from the air. The red and white panels will carry Korean letters for "POW."

Don't Want Envoy With Iran Experience

TEHRAN, Iran, Jan. 24 (AP)—A government spokesman said today that Iran rejected Robert Hankey as the new British Ambassador because Iran believes a British envoy with no previous experience here would better facilitate an oil settlement.

Hankey served as first secretary of the British Embassy in Tehran from 1942 to 1944. Iran said he was unacceptable as a replacement for the Ambassador Sir Francis Sheppard, who is due to leave next Monday after two years in the post.

Roads Minister Javad Bushehri said at a press conference: "After the oil dispute is settled, the government may withdraw the ban on British ambassadors with previous service here."

Direct negotiations between Britain and Iran to settle their oil dispute were broken off last summer after Iran nationalized the holdings of the British controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company and ordered British technicians to leave the country.

Stock Prices Slip Steadily On Exchange

TORONTO, Jan. 24 — (CP).—Stock market prices slipped steadily today in early afternoon dealings.

Prices opened irregularly, but industrials and western oils turned sharply lower within the first hour to continue yesterday's trend. Golds drifted slowly downward while base metals weakened irregularly.

Miscellaneous issues posted a scattered list of fractional advances to form industrials' strongest section. Refining oils and manufacturing companies drew firm support, but utilities, liquors and textiles weakened. Papers, foods and banks held gains and losses in balance as steels dipped steadily.

Western oil losses outnumbered gains about three to one. Calmont, Calvan Consolidated, Central Explorers, Central-Leduc, Federated Petroleum, Gridoil, and Commonwealth Petroleum showed declines ranging to 50 cents.

Base metals were mixed. Anacon Lead, Estella, Hudson Bay, Minda-Scotia, Sheritt-Gordon and Steep Rock strengthened, while Barvue, East Sullivan, Golden Manitou, and United Asbestos weakened.

Senior golds slipped. Giant Yellowknife, Malartic, McIntyre and Wright-Hargreaves eased. Secondary issues made little headway.

The announcement came from Rt. Hon. Thibaudeau Rinfret, chief justice of Canada and chairman of the fund's trustees.

The Princess indicated she "is most happy to think that this money given to her, so generously, when she was in Canada is to be used for cancer research."

Carol Sue, a rheumatic fever victim since birth, doesn't seem to think too highly of the decision.

Union Approves Job Switching

LONDON, Jan. 24 (Reuters) — British trade union leaders and employers tonight promised support for a country-wide plan to switch manpower from luxury jobs to under-manned arms and exports factories.

The plan—sponsored by the government—seeks the voluntary movement of 250,000 men and women to new jobs this year.

They are badly needed by aircraft and munitions plants, coalfields, railroads and in export factories working hard to balance Britain's books.

Details of the plan are secret. They will be given to parliament by Sir Walter Monckton, Labor Minister, at the end of the month, informed sources said.

The Minister was promised backing for the plan when he explained it to his national joint advisory council, a top-level group of union leaders, employers and representatives of nationalized industries.

Most of the volunteers, the government hopes, will come from industries forced to fire men because they lack steel. Firms manufacturing autos and other "luxuries" for the home market come in this category.

TTC Arbitrator Named Today

TORONTO, Jan. 24 (CP). — The arbitrator of the Toronto Transportation Commission wage issue may be named today.

Labor Minister Daley, announcing settlement of the 19-day strike of 4,700 TTC streetcar and bus operators and of drivers for the subsidiary Gray Coach Lines interurban bus system, said Tuesday that no time would be lost in appointing the arbitrator.

With the streetcars and buses running again since 5 am Wednesday, reporters pressed Mr. Daley for news of the appointment, but he said only that it will be made "soon." Later Wednesday he conferred with Premier Frost and Attorney-General Porter, touching off speculation that the naming of the arbitrator, probably a judge, will follow a meeting today of the Ontario cabinet.

The arbitrator will fix the TTC basic hourly wage somewhere between the $1.45 of the TTC's final offer and the $1.55 the union demanded. The $1.45 represented a five-cent increase.

He also must decide whether the bonus formula, a one-cent-an-hour increase for every 1.3 rise in the cost-of-living index, is to be improved.

Blaze Leaves

Firemen and volunteers, sprayed by water from hoselines, had their clothing encrusted with thin layers of ice.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance from Belleville arrived about 6:30 am with a hook-and-ladder truck, and Marmora's pumper was being used to keep water pressure up.

Firemen believed the blaze started in the rear of the building near the north end. At 11 they were still concentrating their efforts on that part of the building, but the smoke had subsided enough that they were able to enter the second storey.

Heavy Water Damage

Smoke and water damage to the ground floor stores was heavy, particularly to the hardware store at the north end, owned by John Jones and James Potts. The hairdressing shop owned by Josephine Kouri, suffered some water damage, but some jewellery, a sideline of the beauty salon, was salvaged before the fire was under control.

Machinery from the shoe repair shop operated by W. B. Wilde was standing on the street, as well as a stuffed moose head, one of Mr. Wilde's trophies.

By noon, little effort had been made to enter the hardware store, and nothing had been brought out from it.

Attached to the north end of the building is a one-storey grocery and confectionery store owned by Mr. Aunger, who discovered the fire. There appeared to be no damage to it.

Directing traffic at the western approach to the village was T. J. Bateman, Marmora township clerk. Corporal Jack Hatch and Constable Hector Gould, of the provincial police, were directing cars on the east side of the main intersection.

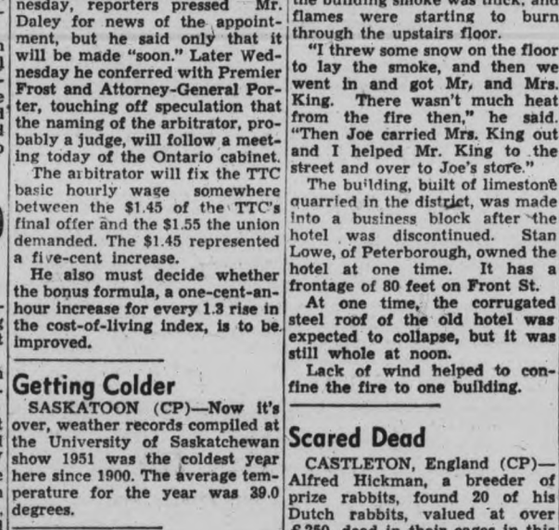
Smoke Thick

Moss, who with Murray saved the elderly couple from their apartment in the burning building, said that when he entered the building smoke was thick, and flames were starting to burn through the upstairs floor.

"I threw some snow on the floor to lay the smoke, and then we went in and got Mr. and Mrs. King. There wasn't much heat from the fire then," he said. "Then Joe carried Mrs. King out and I helped Mr. King to the street and over to Joe's store."

The building, built of limestone quarried in the district, was made into a business block after the hotel was discontinued. Stan Lowe, of Peterborough, owned the hotel at one time. It has a frontage of 80 feet on Front St.

At one time, the corrugated steel roof of the old hotel was expected to collapse, but it was still whole at noon.



Lack of wind helped to confine the fire to one building.

MORE ABOUT—

Louis Breithaupt

emigrated to Canada from Buffalo, NY, in 1851.

Mr. Breithaupt went from university into the tanneries of the Breithaupt Leather Company, of Limited, Kitchener and for 25 years worked in various departments in the business, eventually becoming president.

Other Positions

He also is president of Whitehall Apartments, Limited, and director of Economical Mutual Fire Insurance Company, Equitable Life Insurance Company of Canada, Corporate Investors Limited and Canada Trust.

He was elected to the House of Commons in 1940 and was returned in the general elections of 1945 and 1949. He is chairman of the standing commons committee on railways, canals and telegraph lines and has been a member of a number of other committees.

It was Mr. Breithaupt who saved the boyhood Kitchener home of former Prime Minister Mackenzie King from eventual destruction. The residence, known as Woodside, was falling into decay when Mr. Breithaupt formed a foundation, known as the Mackenzie King Woodside Trust, for its preservation as a national memorial.

Early Education

Mr. Breithaupt received his early education in Kitchener public schools and then went to North Central College at Naperville, Ill., and from there to the University of Toronto. In 1919 he married Sara Caskey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Caskey of Toronto.

Service to the community has become a tradition of the Breithaupt family. Three successive generations of Louis Breithaupts have served as mayor of Kitchener.

Mr. Breithaupt himself was an alderman for four years before he won election as mayor in 1923 at the age of 32—the youngest mayor in the city's history. He also served on the public utilities board and other civic organizations.

Mr. Breithaupt's hobbies and recreations are fishing, boating, golfing, skiing, hunting and his family. His clubs, reflecting his outdoor interests, include the Kitchener Granite, Kitchener-Waterloo Rotary and Westmount Golf and Country; the National Club and the Royal Canadian Yacht Club in Toronto; the Royal Ottawa and the Rideau in Ottawa; the Seigniory Club at Montebello, Que., and the Anglers Club, Honey Harbor, Ont.

Interested In Education

He has been a member of the Toronto Board of Trade for more than 30 years and is a past president of the Tanners Association of Canada and a former director of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

With wide interests in the field of education, Mr. Breithaupt is a governor of Hamilton College at McMaster University, Hamilton; governor of North Central College at Naperville, and Canadian vice-president, Christian Education Division of the National Council of Churches of Christ in America.

He is a trustee of Zion Evangelical Church.

He and Mrs. Breithaupt have two sons, two daughters and five grandchildren.

The daughters are Mrs. R. H. Cram of Philadelphia and Mrs. Donald Bastedo of Kitchener. One son, Louis P. Breithaupt, lives in Toronto and served in the RCAF during the war. The other, Herbert, lives at home in Kitchener.

One grandson, Louis Massey Breithaupt, is the fifth generation to carry the family Christian name of "Louis" since the first Louis Breithaupt crossed into Canada from Buffalo 100 years ago.

$250,000 Fire At Army Camp

BARRIEFIELD, Jan. 24.—Four investigations will be held into a fire which destroyed a large drill hall at the Barriefield military camp Wednesday causing damage officially estimated at about $250,000.

RCMP officers, the fire marshal of the armed forces and the Canadian Fire Underwriters Association have started preliminary investigations. In addition, a court of inquiry is being set up.

Water pressure had been lowered while workmen installed new mains and this hampered firemen. Eight men in the building when flames broke out escaped unhurt.

The fire apparently started in the chimney and spread quickly through the walls. The building burned before engineering supplies stored inside were damaged by fire, smoke or water. But the walls caved in, destroying the material. Earlier reports that radar equipment was kept in the building were incorrect.

Cub games were conducted by the cubmaster's assistant, Margaret J. Joyce and the Pack instructor Stewart Whetung.

A certificate was presented to each Cub by Rev. C. Richmond, chairman of the group committee. Grant Hart and the Red Six received Cub crests for winning the Pack competition. Scouts of the First Omemee Troop served hot chocolate and cookies prepared by the parents.

Investitures in the Scout troop will take place very soon. Jim Elliott and Paul Whitmore have been appointed patrol leaders.

History Of So-Ed Outlined To 150 Members

The history and development of So-Ed groups and activities were outlined by Mrs. William Tucker, at the So-Ed evening Wednesday night.

Mrs. Tucker is the vice-president of National So-Ed and a teacher of speech at the University of Toronto extension classes. The topic of her address was Learning to Live.

In her address to approximately 150 in George St. United church Sunday school auditorium, Mrs. Tucker explained that the idea of So-Ed came originally from the State of Oregon. However it was in Vancouver, BC, that it was developed by a director of the city's YMCA.

At present between 50 and 60 communities in Canada are holding So-Ed programs. Some of these programs extend into the summer months and include bicycle and canoe trips.

Take Part In Groups

The speaker emphasized the necessity of participation in groups as one of the major requisites in learning to live. She explained that in such groups as So-Ed, not only are the interest groups important, but the learning process of making decisions and planning activities for the programs teaches the idea of responsibility which is carried on into other organizations to which So-Ed participants belong.

The speaker then turned to the rapidly increasing responsibility that women are being forced to take in the modern world. Women have equality now, but they must learn to accept the responsibility that accompanies equality. This responsibility can best be learned in group participation, she concluded.

Following the interest groups an hour of folk dancing and folk songs was conducted by Mrs. Francis Adleman.

Dr. Don Atcheson who is with the Toronto Family Court will be the special speaker at the Jan. 30 So-Ed meeting. His topic will be, Mental Health and Family Relations.

St. Lawrence Floods Paper Factory, Homes

MONTREAL, Jan. 24 (CP) — The St. Lawrence river today continued to rise after a Montreal paper factory and some two dozen north shore homes were flooded Wednesday.

The river's rise was blamed partly on the recent six-inch snowfall and partly on a new ice jam forming near Charlemagne, just east of Montreal island.

Rising waters flooded the basement of the Milmont Fibreboard Company, causing an estimated $50,000 damage.

HISTORIC AUTO

The first automobile powered by a steam motor was produced by the French inventor Nicholas Cugnot in 1769.

FOR COUGHS COLDS— YOU CAN'T BEAT BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE

THE JET PILOT'S FRIEND is this ejector seat which will be assembled in a small Cobourg plant. H. O. Taylor, secretary-manager of the Cobourg Chamber of Commerce, sits in one of the ejector seats, hands on the handle which triggers the charge to throw the seat out of an aircraft with the pilot still safely aboard.—(Murray Smith Photo).

New Plant To Assemble Aircraft Ejector Seats

COBOURG, Jan. 24 (ENS)—In a modest two-storey garage building in Cobourg, a new and significant aircraft equipment industry is blossoming forth to manufacture the Martin-Baker ejector seat which catapaults pilots of disabled fighter aircraft to safety at the high speeds of to-day's jet aircraft.

At the present time the company, Canadian Flight Equipment Limited, is prepared only to assemble the component parts of the seat, shipped in from Great Britain but plans are in progress to allocate the manufacture of these parts in Canadian plants and in time the company intends to make the seat in its own plant.

A small staff of employees will comprise the workers for the time being but as production warrants it ,the personnel will increase. Some of the employees will be highly skilled men from England, said the president of the company, R. A. J. Murison. Other company officials are John A. Craig, O.B.E., C.A. who is vice-president and Peter Wright, O.B.E., a director.

Used In Many Planes

The aircraft ejector seat was designed by James Martin, managing director and chief designer of Martin-Baker aircraft. It is now used in the CF 100, manufactured by A. V. Roe Canada, Ltd., Malton, and won its spurs in the Gloster Meteor 8, the Westland Wyvern, the English Electric Canberra, the Hawker P. 1067 and other aircraft.

In announcing the new industry, Col. Griesinger, Ontario's Minister of Planning and Development, commented that Canada had now obtained the consulting services of one of the world's foremost aircraft designer, James Martin.

Many of his postwar inventions will be assembled and later manufactured here, including the M-B automatic seat, the Martin flat feed for the 20 mm Hispano Cannon, and an automatic feathering device for propellors. The company expects to participate in both Canadian and United States defence production.

The plant is located on Swayne Street in a garage formerly occupied by Stuart Webb of Cobourg. The front is a two-storey building, well adapted for factory purposes and a long one storey building extends to the back.

Mr. Murison explained that he and his associates decided on Cobourg after first noting an advertisement sponsored by the Cobourg Industrial Commission in an industrial book circulated in England. He looked over 19 other centres besides Cobourg and finally decided on this town because of its location and its importance as a port in the event the Canadian seaway development matured.

He was grateful, he said, for the help and co-operation from H. O. Taylor, secretary-manager of the Cobourg Chamber of Commerce and from Mayor Jack Burnet.

The ejector seat accommodates the pilot while the plane is being flown and when an emergency develops the pilot bails out by jettisoning the canopy overhead, settles his feet in the chair slots and then reaches behind the top of his head with both hands, forearms flat against the chest and pulls on a handle. This accomplishes two things, one right after the other. First it draws a blind over his head to break the initial impact with the slipstream, secondly it shoots the pilot, seat and all, out of the cockpit.

A small parachute opens and serves to keep the seat and the pilot on an even keel. When he is well clear of the plane, he releases the safety belt. The seat and frame drop away and he pulls the rip cord of the parachute and descends to earth.

An automatic type which will be produced here is so designed that the pilot can be ejected into rarified atmosphere without any danger if he blacks out. The automatic equipment, triggered by barometric pressure, releases the pilot from the seat when he has descended into air of the required density and opens his parachute.

Federal Grant Makes Up Loss Taxes Through Army Depot

COBOURG, Jan. 24 (ENS). — The town of Cobourg has been promised compensation in the form of a grant for the tax-free property which had been acquired for the army depot, Mayor Jack Burnet said at the Council meeting Tuesday night. Mayor Burnet was replying to remarks said to have been made "off the record" by tax collector E. A. Hircock at a meeting of the Industrial Division of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mayor Burnet said that Mr Hircock was quoted as having said that the town had committed itself to supplying all the services to the new ordnance depot without getting any guarantee of future returns from the government. The Mayor said that Mr. Hircock would be asked about it at the next meeting of Town Council.

Assurance Given

Dr. F. G. Robertson of Cobourg, Federal member of Northumberland, who was in part responsible for Cobourg's acquisition of the ordnance depot, had assured him that Cobourg would receive certain grants in lieu of taxes, the Mayor said. Furthermore, the returns will increase as the ordnance depot grows, asserted Mayor Burnet.

Council let a tender in the amount of $33,278 to the S. R. McQuarrie Construction Co. of Stirling for the D'Arcy Street sewer to the ordnance depot property. It was revealed that the town last week sold debentures of $59,691.08 to a Toronto bond house for 99.14 at 4½ per cent, the proceeds to be used to complete the arena payment, sewage disposal plant balance, and the park lavatory. This rate is higher than many other municipalities, the town clerk pointed out.

Council appointed Roy Dodge to the rink board to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Harry Gadd. Councillors Harold Richardson and Charles Johnston were appointed members from the Town Council on the rink board. Reappointed to the board were Robin Mallory and J. R. Cooper. Tender for the collection of garbage for 1952 was awarded to Harry Jenkins at the figure of $6,700. Next lowest was $7,000. Mr. Jenkins has been collector since 1941. Prior to the calling for tenders this month, he had been getting $5,720 per year for the contract, but he pointed out that expenses had risen and the collection area had increased.

Citizens Review Affairs In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 24 — (ENS).—In spite of a severe snow storm here on Tuesday evening, 30 members of the Campbellford Citizen's Association turned out to the regular monthly meeting.

The feature was a report from councilor David Ness, who is chairman of the Industrial committee. Mr. Ness outlined the work that will be necessary to bring additional industry to Campbellford. The job will require the efforts of all citizens and organizations of the town. He said there were excellent possibilities of attracting additional industry to the town, and felt that with the help of the Chamber of Commerce this could be accomplished.

A letter of thanks will be sent to former mayor J. E. Ayrhart for a donation of $100 which he has made to the association. Later in the meeting Mr. Ayrhart was named honorary president.

Two new committees were added. A committee on education will be headed by Mrs. Vera Newman, and a committee on welfare will have Mrs. Isobel Tatham at its head.

Hector Macmillan was appointed sergeant at arms, and took up a collection among the members present. This resulted in $30 being added to the funds.

A letter was received from the town council, outlining the additional free skating at the arena. This free skating is for the children of the town. The secretary was instructed to write to the council, thanking them for their efforts on behalf of the children, but at the same time going on record as not being entirely satisfied with the amount of free skating time available to children. The association feels this could be overcome by providing one or more outdoor rinks for the children. This will be left until next winter, when the association hopes to be in a position to do something about the rinks.

An invitation to the next meeting of the Home and School Association was received, in order that members may hear a field representative of the Board of Education, who will give an address and show a film on community playgrounds and recreational centres.

Fire Protection For Seymour Twp.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 24 — (ENS)—The first move to provide the ratepayers of Seymour township with some form of fire protection was made on Wednessday afternoon, when members of the Seymour council, members of the fire, water and light committee of the Campbellford council and other interested parties met with G. Mallory of the fire marshal's department and A. Anderson of the Bickle Seagrave Company.

The Seymour council made no definite commitments but were interested in obtaining a truck that could be stationed in Campbellford, to use in fighting township fires. The two councils will probably get together soon to see what arrangement can be worked out for combined use and storage of the equipment. The unit must come up to the standards set by the department in order to receive the government grant.

Minister Urges Adult Support For Sunday School

OMEMEE, Jan. 24. (ENS)—Annual congregational meeting of Trinity United church was opened with prayer by the Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt, after which the minutes of the last annual meeting were read. George Bannon was appointed secretary for the evening.

In the minister's report, Mr. Zufelt solicited more adult support for the Sunday school both in the Bible class and on the teaching staff. The YPU had emerged from its critical period, he said, and this year was a strong union. He announced a gain of nine in church membership on the charge, 12 weddings, 16 baptisms, and 13 funerals. A period of silent prayer was observed in memory of those who died since last annual meeting.

Financial reports for the Omemee appointment were given by the following: C. R. Vaughan for board of stewards, G. Bannon for trustee board, S. D. Vaughan for missionary and maintenance, Mrs. A. N. Weir for Woman's Association, Mrs. R. E. Brooks for Woman's Missonary Society, Mrs. S. D. Vaughan for Mission Band, Mrs. H. Deyell for Baby Band, Miss Joan Whitmore for Sunday school, Miss Joan Saulter for Young People's Union, G. Pogue for the choir and A. N. Weir for the building fund.

Total amount raised for all purposes to date is $6,034.29. Of this, $1,128.81 is for missions with YPU donation to follow.

On motion of T. A. McConnell and R. E. Brooks it was agreed to close the books in all departments of the church this year December 31, 1952, and to notify members and adherents of the same through the annual church letter.

W. D. Weir, choir leader, spoke on the progress of the choir. Garnet Pogue, YPU president, asked for ratification of a fellowship group meeting in the church on February 3, when the evening service would be taken over by young people of three denominations. The group will include young people of the Reaboro Baptist church, Anglican young people from the parishes of Omemee, St. John's and St. James', and the YPU's of Bethel and Omemee United. Theme will be "Stand Fast in the Faith." The open collection will go to the National Young People's Organization.

Miss Marion Rea and Miss Christina Connell were re-appointed as auditors. Retiring stewards: P. Pace, I. Connell W. D. Weir and R. E. Brooks were also re-appointed. T. A. The salary of the organist, Miss L. Race, was raised $50.

A motion of appreciation for the work of Mr. and Mrs. Zufelt, the choir, their leader and the organist was made by W. Wilson and seconded by Mrs. V. Lang.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 24 — (ENS)—Grant MacColl, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. Alex MacColl, has been awarded a scholarship worth about $580 to attend Royal Military College at Kingston. Grant has been attending the college since last September, and was notified that he had won the scholarship only last week.

This Dominion scholarship is awarded each year to eight students to enable them to attend college. Four of the awards are for Royal Roads in BC and four are for RMC at Kingston. The basic qualifications are that the applicant's father must have been a veteran of the First World War, and have 15 years of service. Grant's father, N. A. MacColl qualified in this respect, having put in three years on active service with the 1st Battalion, CEF and more than 12 years with a reserve unit. In 1940 he took command of the Veteran's Guard in Campbellford and held that post until the war ended.

Hot Spot In Southeast Asia

Canada, which has troops already on the mainland of Asia, engaged in fighting the Chinese and North Koreans, must concern herself with the recent threats on another Asian war front, in the southeast. If the Chinese should invade Indo-China, united action against them might be called for, and Canada is a United Nation, pledge to support UN policies to defend peace.

* * *

Nationalists and Communists have been fighting a guerrilla war in Indo-China since 1946. The French have suffered heavily. Their casualties have been greater than the total American casualties in Korea—more than 100,000. The late French soldier-statesman General de Lattre achieved some stability there, but his leadership is now gone, and the Chinese have 200,000 armed men poised on the Indo-Chinese border. It has been suggested in the United States that the Chinese are willing to have an armistice in Korea because they want to open another front—in Indo-China.

* * *

Farther south, in Malaya, British and native troops have long been fighting a jungle war against nationalist guerrillas, Communist-inspired. The assassination of Sir Henry Gurney, British High Commissioner for Malaya, was an incident in the Communist propaganda drive to recruit and inspire more guerrillas. There is a real war in progress there, and the guerrillas are better organized than mere bands of disgruntled gunmen.

* * *

French generals argue that the British and Americans should promise armed forces for Indo-China if the Chinese invade. Otherwise, they say, Indo-China would come under Communist rule and so open the way for further Chinese and Communist action in Malaya and Burma. The Americans have made no promises, but they heard Mr. Churchill say in his address on January 17th to a joint session of the Congress:

"In the anxious and confused expanse of Southeast Asia there is another sphere in which our aims and interests and those of France (who are fighting bravely at heavy cost to their strength in Europe) may find a fertile field for agreement on policy.

"I feel sure the conversations we have had between our two Foreign Secretaries, Mr. Eden and Mr. Acheson, will help to place the problems of Southeast Asia in the right setting. It would not be helpful to the common cause if an effective truce in Korea led only to a transference of Communist aggression in other fields."

Does this mean that Mr. Churchill has committed Britain to aid France in Indo-China, and wants such a commitment from the United States? A week before, Mr. Eden skirted the subject in his address at Columbia University. After referring to the guerrilla fighting in Indo-China and Malaya he said:

"These positions must be held. It should be understood that an intervention by force by Chinese Communists in Southeast Asia—even if they were called 'volunteers'—would create a situation no less menacing than that which the United States met and faced in Korea. In such an event the United Nations, I trust, would be equally firm to resist it."

* * *

Is another Korean war likely to break out, and will the United Nations commit themselves to it? Or is a larger war likely to emerge, if China makes a move in Southeast Asia? The American temper is on edge and the American General Staff are said to be tired of trying to localize wars; it is reported that they favour answering another Chinese move in Asia by making war against China herself. It is reassuring to recall another part of Mr. Eden's speech, in which he said that he considers the risks of a world war to be less now than they were two years ago.

Two Sessions A Year

Two sessions of parliament a year have become customary since Prime Minister St. Laurent took office. The 21st Parliament has already had five sessions and a sixth is due to begin in a month or two. Their opening dates have been: September 15th, 1949; February 16th, 1950; August 29th, 1950; February 14th, 1951, and October 9th, 1951.

The amount of work which Parliament has to do is increasing, and either one long session, or two shorter ones a year are needed. But that is not the reason that the two-sessions-a-year pattern finds favour with many Members of Parliament and Senators. They like the extra pay, and may feel that the present indemnities are inadequate to today's conditions and that getting annually indemnities for two sessions compensates for this. Both Senators and Members of Parliament get $4,000 a session and annual expense allowances of $2,000. Thus their pay rises from $6,000 to $10,000 in a year in which two sessions are held.

We do not feel that $10,000 is too high an annual pay for members of the Houses of Parliament but that the method of reaching it is unsatisfactory. A member's stipend should not be subject to the vagaries of the Government's whims for or against holding two sessions in a year. The matter of indemnities should be reviewed, and some way found to make a member's annual pay stable, whether one long or two short sessions are held. If our Members of Parliament should get $10,000 a year, they should have courage enough to legislate for it.

Is Freedom Threatened In The United States?

Thomas Jefferson believed that the proper remedy for bad opinions is not punishment but good opinions. This American tradition has been carried on nobly in this century by great men like Mr. Justice Holmes, but in the last four years has been virtually discarded. The situation is analysed by an editorial writer on the Washington Post, Alan Barth, in a book called "The Loyalty of Free Men." Conformity is taking place of toleration as a social virtue; hysteria is replacing reason, and the test of loyalty is no longer a citizen's behaviour but the ideas he holds, has held or is thought likely to hold. Congress is attempting to guarantee national security through suppression and American liberties have declined during the last four years.

There are Congressional Committees sitting over men and their opinions in the dual role of inquisitor and judge. There are people like Senator McCarthy making grave charges without substantiating them and ruining men through publicity. There is Senator McCurran the author of the Internal Security Act, carried by Congress against the President's veto because it did not establish an impartial review board. There are the "loyalty" oaths and investigations. The loyalty program has been in operation for three years, and up to the middle of last year only 225 civil servants out of 12,000 investigated had been ousted for disloyalty. Mr. Barth believes that the damage done by this process outweighs the risks toleration would have run: "It leaves its mark on those who survive it as well as on those who do not. It leaves its mark, indeed, on the whole character of government."

The hysteria of anti-Communism is destroying traditional American freedoms and may indeed be more dangerous to the state than the activities of the Communists themselves. When an idea is bad because it is unpopular, and when that bad idea rouses governing bodies in Washington, in the separate States, in universities, in all sorts of public and private institutions, to attempt to suppress the idea rather than to replace it with a better one, then, as Mr. Barth suggests, the dam of liberty is breached so that the river of McCarthyism can flow through.

Profit On British Books

We do not suppose that we can interest many people in the matter, but as a point of curiosity we should like to know why it is necessary to pay so much in Canada for books which are published in Britain. Take the case of the Penguin books—those cheap reprints, which appear bound in paper, and printed upon a good grade of newsprint. The price of those books in England is two shillings: it is printed on the cover. The price in Canada is sixty cents; now that an English pound is worth $2.80 Canadian, two shillings is the equivalent of 28 cents. Why is there 32 cents difference between the English and the Canadian price?

There is a ten per cent. import duty on books entering Canada; in this case it would be about three cents. It costs money to bring the books here and distribute them. But we are quite sure that it does not cost so much as to make a difference of 110 per cent. between the British price and ours.

We do not think that the booksellers are to blame, though they must do well on English books. It is the Canadian jobbers who set the Canadian prices for these books, and for the American books which they also distribute.

It costs more to be well-read in Canada than it does in the U.S.A. or in Britain. The fact that Canadians have so long been indifferent to this matter suggests that Canadians do not care.

NOTES AND COMMENT

Edmonton is now said to be almost completely surrounded by oil, a state of affairs which causes the waggish Ottawa Citizen to refer to it as an "oiland." Oh, my gush!

A physician says that eating a bug in a salad is no cause for worry. It isn't so much eating them; it's half-eating them.

A referee at a hockey game recently ruled that a spectator who spat on one of the players, as a sign of contempt, had paid his money and could do as he liked. We had not previously known that the price of admission to a game included such a privilege.

Rain Queen Refuses Poison

By COLIN LEGUM

MEMORIES of Rider Haggard's mysterious white goddess Ayesha—She Who Must Be Obeyed—will be revived by the reported decision of Modjadje III, Rain Queen of Africa, not to take her own life by poison as custom demands. For Modjadje is the daughter of the African chieftainess who inspired Rider Haggard's "She." (Sir H. Rider Haggard, British author of adventure stories, 1856-1925. "She" was published in 1877.)

The decision not to poison herself was communicated personally by Modjadje to Dr. H. F. Verwoerd; South Africa's Minister of Native Affairs, when he visited her recently in the Lovedu Reserve of the Northern Transvaal.

✧ ✧ ✧

SHE is nearing the end of her life and complained to the Minister that she was suffering from ill-health and age. If she were to follow the customs of her mother and grandmother she should now take her own life to prevent herself dying a natural death. Her skin would then be used, as has been customary, for the Royal Drum which is beaten in the rain-making ceremonies of the Lovedu.

The prowess of the Rain Queen has been famous throughout southern Africa for generations. African tribes far and wide have traditionally solicited her aid in times of drought, and have brought her rich gifts to engage her sympathy.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE late General Smuts wrote of Modjadje that "the Queen is the rainmaker par excellence of Africa and to maintain that position her secret weapon must never be divulged."

Largely through the research of two South African anthropologists, the Kriges, some of these secrets are now known. What remains a mystery, however, is how the Lovedu came to be ruled by a Queen who was almost White, and how she came to be invested with the legend of being able to control the weather. While something is known of the old kings of the Lovedu, there is no exact information about Modjadje I, the mother of 'She' and grandmother of the present Rain Queen.

✧ ✧ ✧

MODJADJE is assisted in her rites by a team of Rain Doctors. If the ritual for making rain fails, changes are made among the Rain Doctors. The Queen can do no wrong. Her divine power has never seriously been challenged.

She makes an annual pilgrimage from her mountain abode above the village of Duivelskloof (Devil's Canyon) to Tatsa, the burial-place of her mother and grandmother, where she seeks their intercession for the maintenance of her powers. Then the great holy drums, made partly from ox skin and partly from human skin, beat their eerie tattoo across the veld.

✧ ✧ ✧

DURING their lifetime distinguished members of the tribe are chosen for the honour of having their skins used for the drums. They are entitled for the rest of their lives to special privileges, including all they require in the way of food and drink. When they die their skins are removed.

The Rain Queen may not marry. She chooses from among her Counsellors and their sons a number of consorts. In the past all the male children were killed at birth. Only the daughters may live, and the eldest becomes heir to the throne.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE has been trouble over the line of succession because Modjadje's daughter fell in love with a commoner. The Rain Queen visited her displeasure upon her people and withheld rain until she was partly reconciled with her daughter. That act of vengeance is popularly believed to have caused the great drought of 1934-1935.

One of Modjadje's close friends is a neighbouring European farmer, Mr. J. D. Wentzel, who is also the census enumerator for the Lovedu. He tells how once, after visiting the Rain Queen, the clouds opened overhead and a much-needed rainfall descended over the lands. Subsequent investigation showed that this rain fell only on the lands of his farm. Mr. Wentzel tells the story without comment.

✧ ✧ ✧

MODJADJE is a striking woman. She has a light complexion and is unusually tall, being only two inches short of six feet. She is described as being gentle, tolerant and full of wise sayings.

Her decision to break with tradition, which is also bound to affect other rituals used in the rain-making ceremony, is a sign of the times. As education spreads among the Africans, the old order changeth, yielding place to new.

A Man Is Hanged

(Commons Hansard)

Mr. MACDONNELL: The CBC has the power of life and death over every broadcasting station. As I said, if people have the power of life and death it does not matter much whether they exercise it in a nice or a nasty way.

I remember reading an essay somewhere on murder, I think is was by De Quincy. The author said that he "once knew a bulldog who had murdered a brother bulldog with pleasing circumstances of good taste". I suggest that it is not going to be at all helpful to the private broadcasters if this power of life and death is used even in the most pleasant of fashions.

The fact that you give a cigarette to a man who is going to hang makes no difference, because he is hung all the same.

Mr. FLEMING: Hanged.

Mr. MACDONNELL: I thank the hon. member for correcting me. What I have said it that this power overhanging the private broadcasters, however pleasantly it may be used, comes very near to being a pre-broadcast censorship.

A SECOND LOOK

"Too bad about our neighbours, the Flubbs," sighed Mrs. Chatter. "They've been married only six months, and now he's beginning to find fault with her looks."

"Why, I thought he fell in love with her at first sight," remarked Mr. C.

"He did: but now he discovers that he needed glasses."

MAKING SURE

An employer, on leaving his office, was instructing his new secretary what to say if anyone called while he was out.

"I may be back this afternoon," he told her. "And then again, I may not."

The girl nodded brightly.

"Yes, sir," she said. "Is that definite?"

Letters To The Editor

SAYS TRUSTEES' CHARGES BASELESS

Sir: This, Mr. Editor, is in reply to the masterpiece of misrepresentation which appeared in your column on Friday, January 18, 1952.

I do not refer to the school question, but rather to the ridiculous accusations made by the school board of School Area No. 2, Douro and Otonabee, regarding the candidates for the Douro Township Council. While I have taken it upon myself to write this letter, I feel certain that what I say expresses exactly the feelings of the other two defeated candidates.

The school board, which, by the way, has nothing to do with the township council, has called us inexperienced, extravagant men seeking power with a plan to overthrow the council.

Inexperienced?—Certainly! But how else, I ask you, can we gain experience except by serving on the council. I assume, however, that each member now "serving" on the school board was "fully experienced" before he was elected. That's quite a trick, I would like to know how it is done.

Extravagant?—If we were extravagant would we have built houses under a plan which makes us pinch our pennies, and save money in any way possible, and even encourages us to do our own contracting in order to cut down costs? If this accusation is true, we should be living in $20,000 houses with built-in bars and television sets, and hang the expense.

Seeking power?—On a township council? That accusation is so laughable that it doesn't merit answering.

A plan to overthrow the council?—We ran three men,—mark it down to inexperience if you like. We realize now that we should have run only one. But let me make this clear, our only reason for running three men, was a hope that ONE would be elected. We do not want to run the township, we merely want a voice in its administration. We are willing to work side by side with the council to make Douro a better place for us and our children to live in. We knew long before election time that all three of us wouldn't be elected, yet we fostered a hope that we would gain one seat.

Believe me, sir, this letter carries no malice to anyone personally, but I would like to say that the school board, by making such wild and extravagant statements without of course, any foundation whatsoever in fact, does little to encourage young men who are anxious to serve the municipality in which they live.

I am,

"ONE OF THE POWER SEEKERS".
JOHN K. RYAN.
R.R. No. 10, Peterborough.

POST OFFICE THANKS PUBLIC

Sir: Mail volume in the recent Christmas rush once again set up a new record, and so also I might say did the weather. Both these factors imposed a particularly severe strain upon the facilities of the Postal Service of Canada, despite the preparations made to handle the extra anticipated load, and which among other things involved the employment of 27,000 temporary helpers.

Co-operation extended by the public in early mailing of their Christmas gifts and greetings was, however, even more notable than in previous years and it was this fact that enabled the postal workers to cope efficiently with the unexpected difficulties that arose.

While it is true that in some areas the severe weather conditions were responsible for delays in mail delivery, in general throughout the country Post Offices were able to keep pace with the mail as it came in and most were back onto a normal basis by the day before Christmas.

The purpose of this letter is to thank the public for the assistance given to us, and also to express to the newspapers of Canada our appreciation of their help in making the public aware of the many ways in which their co-operation could be made effective.

Yours sincerely,
W. J. TURNBULL,
Deputy Postmaster General.

COMPARES DOURO AND APSLEY

Sir: In reply to "In Defence of Education in Douro", let me also tell you some of the facts which led to the defeat of our candidates for the School Board.

(1) Polling hours were from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wonderful hours for the farmers who are not busy at this time of year, but unfair to our working men, whose hours are from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

(2) False propaganda was spread as to location of new school. An option had already been taken by the Board on a central site, situated on the Warsaw Road, near the garage.

(3) Rumours that the veterans wanted a hall to hold their dances in. Dances were held in the Rifle Range School by the farmers long before the veterans moved out.

(4) Estimates for a six-roomed school, given by the school inspector, were doubled. I attended the November meeting of the School Board when our inspector suggested plans drawn up by a well-known Peterborough contractor. The cost was to be $108,000 and not $200,000 as the Board claims. The estimates given, double checked and triple checked at this meeting covered the total cost for six teachers, janitor services, heating, bus transportation, as well as the cost of building and furnishings, would impose a total mill rate of 18 mills. Why then, at a meeting held in the Auburn school—(to which our inspector was not invited)—were the figures padded to bring the mill rate up to 27 mills?

Their well-lighted, well-located schools could not possibly be the Rifle Range School, and Auburn. Lighting in both schools is outdated.

Of the sixty or more pupils in Rifle Range School, about 10 pupils come from Otonabee, while the majority of the children live in the veterans' subdivision on the Warsaw Road nearly two miles away.

In the School Board letter an assessment figure of $1,000 is mentioned. Most of the homes are actually assessed for many hundreds over that figure, and many of them have still to be completed.

Douro has become the laughing stock of other townships. Even remote places like Apsley have followed the modern trend in education, and have built a central school with inside plumbing, and are providing transportation to and from it. Much of the cost of transportation is covered by a government grant, and would cost the ratepayers very little.

I quote from the Examiner of January 18th. "We built a temporary school room". Has the Board forgotten how last August, when they were caught short with 70 children to accommodate, they appealed to the veterans, who went down and helped build that school? Not a member in the Board or a farmer in the community helped in any way, except the paid secretary. The veterans were not paid, nor did they want to be paid, but they would have appreciated a letter of thanks from the School Board.

Auburn district has in its midst a well-known collegiate teacher, whom the Board berated, and even tried to disqualify when he ran as a candidate in the recent election. The services of such a man would have been invaluable on the School Board.

Certainly we have three good teachers, but they were all hired under the assumption that a modern six-roomed school would be built. The Board need not be surprised if they do not linger long.

We are working people, and do not like high taxes any more than the Board members, but at most the school mill rate would only be raised 9 to 10 mills.

I believe the only solution to this deadlock would be a full investigation of both sides by the Department of Education in Toronto.

Respectfully yours,
STILL ANOTHER FOR EDUCATION.
MRS. NORMA MUIR.
R.R. No. 10, Peterborough.

A QUESTION OF PROPERTY

Sir: Out of a clear sky, without any previous discussion with owners of wood lots in Peterborough County, comes an attempt to push through a bylaw with some great big shiny teeth in it to practically nullify the value of privately owned property in the form of wood lots, where so many of our so called "free people" depend on making a dollar. I doubt if the committee trying to pull this fast one would stand idly by while some stuck their teeth in them and told them what they could do with their property and what they couldn't. In the first place what is behind this move? Is the public who depend on wood for fuel going to be forced to install a different set up entirely, or perhaps pay a prohibitive price for previously cut wood until the supply is exhausted, or what is the game? It's a laugh how they go about saving trees on others property; we understand we could cut freely of cherry, poplar, ironwood and Manitoba maple and get a load of this—Christmas trees, which consist of spruce, balsam and species of pine! They would have said a mouthful if they encouraged people to use cedar in the place of the above mentioned Christmas tree. Of course this is provided they used their own property.

I would suggest they get their noggins together and build roads to huge tracts of government owned bush (which is not a tenth of the distance of B.C. lumber which is shipped here at competitive prices), but which burns up each year, before they start pouncing on privately owned property. The people be taxed to the hilt to provide salaries for an army of "inspectors" or agents with "big teeth". It would be very interesting to know how to fall any tree without damaging a sapling; perhaps we should start at the top, shake the leaves of and then lower each foot long limb by a rope, and all this on our own property! They also wish to preserve Peterborough County trees by giving permission to hack them down if you wish to clear the land. Heads I win, tails you lose! Allow me to add if it wasn't for a lot of woodlots being privately owned I doubt if a tenth of what you see standing through the country would be standing today. So I hardly think we need be policed at a terrific price to preserve the woods of Peterborough County or any other county. Another stipulation of their proposed bylaw is, you can cut for your own use, but not to sell. Sounds something like you can buy and raise 1,000 chicks, have some yourself, but you mustn't sell any! What are you other wood owners thinking?

Yours truly,
PRIVATE PROPERTY.

PLUMBER SEEKS WORK

Sir: As I have no friends and relatives in Canada, it is impossible for me to emigrate to your wonderful country of which I have heard so much good. Therefore, in my great need I turn to you and ask your kind help. Would you please try and help me finding a job or home in Canada. Being a homeless refugee from Eastern Europe, it is my greatest desire to find a new home for my family and myself in Canada. In order to do so, however, I need either a job contract or an affidavit of support.

I am a plumber by profession and am able to speak, read and write English. I am willing to work any place and do any kind of work. I am 35 years old, German national, married and have two children. My home till the end of the war was in Silesia. I have had the opportunity to be repatriated there with my family but we refused, as we are against communism.

Please, sir, be kind enough to help us if you are able. We would greatly appreciate your helping us. Please accept our warmest thanks.

Very truly yours,
WALTER E. ZELETZKI.
Giessen, Germany, Schottstr. 33.

ED. NOTE: We publish this letter in order that anyone wishing to correspond with Mr. Zeletzki may do so.

SPARROWS DECIDEDLY NOT DECREASING

Sir: I'm very glad that you've brought up this matter of sparrows; for they have been causing me a great deal of embarrassment of late. Regarding you're question: Are sparrows on the decline; my answer to that is NO. They are on the increase, and that is what is causing the embarrassment, for you see, where I work, we are kind to sparrows; we not only feed them, but provide them with a nice warm place to sleep. I work in a boiler house with open windows and lots of nice warm bunkers and girders from which the dear little souls are able to repay our kindness to them. Having fed heartily on the firm's byproducts of manufacture they show their contempt by showering us with a silvery rain from above. Sometimes I think the odd eagle comes in through these windows, for every now and then there is a mad rush for exit and strange bird sounds come from aloft. All is not pure joy for the sparrows though. Having created a niche they must fight to hold it and I have witnessed some bloody battles on the boiler house floor. It is in the Spring though that the trouble really starts. Mating season! And is it not so the world over? Besides the usual droppings with which we are regularly deluged, strange things come drifting down, to settle on our heads or down our necks. Tragedy stalks the boiler house too! For I have, on numerous occasions swept up the little bodies of half formed sparrows that have fallen from their nests. Sparrows are not on the decrease.

Not where I work anyway.

FRED HORN.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Israel was greatly impoverished because of the Midianites; and the children of Israel cried unto the Lord. And it came to pass, when the children of Israel cried unto the Lord because of the Midianites, that the Lord sent a prophet unto the children of Israel, which said unto them, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, I brought you up from Egypt, and brought you forth out of the house of bondage....And I said unto you, I am the Lord your God; fear not the gods of the Amorites, in whose land ye dwell: but ye have not obeyed my voice.

And there came an angel of the Lord, and sat under an oak which was in Ophrah, that pertained unto Joash the Abi-zerite: and his son Gideon threshed wheat by the winepress, to hide it from the Midianites. And the angel of the Lord appeared unto him, and said unto him, The Lord is with thee, thou mighty man of valour.

And Gideon said unto him, Oh my Lord, if the Lord be with us, why then is all this befallen us? and where be all his miracles which our fathers told us of, saying, Did not the Lord bring us up from Egypt? but now the Lord hath forsaken us, and delivered us into the hands of the Midianites.

And the Lord looked upon him, and said, Go in this thy might, and thou shalt save Israel from the hand of the Midianites: have not I sent thee? (Judg. 6: 6-8, 10-14.)

Young Britons Working As Voluntary Prisoners

By ROBERT F. S. JONES.

ALDERMASTON, England, Jan. 24 (AP).—One day soon a bus will draw up alongside a 12-foot-high wire fence in the hills of Berkshire, and out will tumble more than 20 school boys.

They will carry their grips past a cluster of guards through a gate in the fence—then, as far as the outside world is concerned, they will virtually disappear to a life as rigorous and secluded as any Monk's.

These boys, aged 15 to 18, may be Britain's atom scientists and engineers of the future. The fence they will disappear behind is the one ringing the 10 square miles of Aldermaston, Britain's biggest latest and most hush-hush atomic plant being built in what was once a deer forest owned by Harold, last of the Saxon kings.

They have been hand-picked from applicants answering newspaper advertisements for craftsmen apprentices. For their five years training they will be voluntary prisoners.

Expected To Return

Apart from periodic visits home they will eat, sleep and work at the plant until they are ready to take their university course. Afterwards, they will be expected to return to Aldermaston as full-fledged atom workers.

This way, authorities think, they will be kept away from Communists and Communism, and there will be less risk of another Fuchs or Pontecorvo.

The plant itself already has started to operate in a small way, months ahead of schedule. Psysicists are working in two laboratories hidden away behind their own little security fence inside the main perimeter.

No one knows exactly what will be going on in the main plant. The Supply Ministry, which runs Britain's atomic energy program, maintains strict security.

The plant itself will be the first in Britain to run on the "assembly line" system. No worker will know how his own work fits into the general plan.

Unofficial estimates put Aldermaston's total cost at £12,000,000. It is the only one of Britain's six known atomic centres to be built under such secrecy wraps.

US Holds Up Russian's Visa

VIENNA, Jan. 24 — (AP). — The US State Department Wednesday withdrew visas it issued Tuesday night to a former Russian army officer and his family to emigrate to the United States with the financial aid of Robert A. Vogeler.

The US Consulate at Salzburg had issued the visas to Niktka Kabiakov 30, his wife and two small sons. Vogeler, who spent 17 months in a Hungarian jail on spy charges, claimed the Russian tried to engineer the American business man's escape.

A State Department spokesman said the visas had been withdrawn because Ambassador Walter J. Donnelly did not believe Kabiakov had been properly investigated.

Vogeler said in New York on Monday that his wife and several Russian officers, including Kabiakov, had arranged a plot to free him. Ha added that in appreciation he had arranged for Kabiakov and his family to emigrate to the United States.

"He is not a Communist," said Vogeler. "He has been working for the Allies."

Kabiakov got the visa Tuesday after months of waiting in a displaced persons' camp.

Soldiers Well Fed Visitor Gains 8 Pounds

VANCOUVER, Jan. 24 (CP)—Canadian soldiers fighting in Korea are being well fed. So well fed, Ralph Campney said Wednesday night, that he gained eight pounds while sharing their fare.

Mr. Campney, parliamentary assistant to Defence Minister Claxton, visited Korea earlier this month. He returned to Vancouver Wednesday after a short holiday.

The Vancouver Centre Liberal member of parliament said his extra poundage was evidence of the high quality of the food. He gained the weight, he added, despite vigorous walking and climbing.

Construction Men Get Lesson From The Bible

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Robert Drummond, immediate past president of the Canadian Construction Association, is a bluff Scot who was brought up on the principle of "No whustling on the Sabbath."

Under this principle, the porridge was made on Saturday night, the blinds were drawn on Sunday, you went to the kirk, and you read the Bible.

Now, if you meet Robbie Drummond today, and it is your loss if you don't, you probably won't think of him as a Bible student.

But indeed he is, and he causes occasional astonishment to his colleagues by the quotations which he brings forth on divers occasions.

The other day, for instance, at the Construction Association's annual meeting, delegates had spent a long forenoon listening to reports.

For such a situation, Mr. Drummond thought there must be a text, and, as he arose to give an account of his stewardship as president for two years, it came to him. It was from Isaiah, Chapter 47, Verse 13, and it reads:

"Thou art wearied in the multitude of thy counsels. Let now the astrologers, the stargazers, the monthly prognoticators, stand up."

Good Future

And so he stood there, and he peered into the future of Canada, and he found it good. There are reasons why he found it good, but first he might give us a further lesson on the Bible, and it is this, in his words:

"I find something new in the Bible every time I open it. I think the five verses of the 15th Pslam, for instance, have everything of religion and life." He offers this adaptation of it:

"If you're a decent guy you'll come out all right."

This writer, who attends a lot of business conventions, always feels a little sad as he sees a man retiring from the head of a national association to which, for a year, or two, he has devoted so much of his time. Nearly always, the man says he is glad to be free again—but probably he is a little sad, too.

Mr. Drummond, for instance, for two years, has spent nearly half his time on association work—that much time taken away from his business — and he has travelled thousands of miles.

Rich Experience

But, like most men who take on such jobs, he has found it one of the richest experiences of his life. Asked what was the chief thing he got out of it, he said, probably it was what he had learned of the possibilities of all of Canada—every province—that, and meeting people.

Asked for some advice for young men starting out, he stated:

"There are more opportunities than ever before; more facilities for learning—but don't be afraid of work. Our great lack now is trained and experienced men. We lost a generation through depression and war."

He joined Anglin, Ltd. (now Anglin-Norcross, Ltd.) in Montreal as a youth, and at 25 was sent to Toronto in charge of administration of the building of the head office of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, highest building in the British Empire.

In 1937 he joined A. W. Robertson, Ltd., of Toronto, as managing director, and was made president and general manager in 1948. He is also vice-president of Angus Robertson, Ltd., Montreal, and a director of Raynew Construction, Ltd., Toronto, and other companies.

But for two years perhaps his greater fame, up and down Canada, has been as president of Canadian Construction Association; that, and his cheery word and slap on the shoulder; and, at appropriate times, a quotation from the Bible.

Petes Down Eagles By 8-3 In Speedy Senior Scrap To Tighten Hold On Second

Beating the Eagles here 8-3 last night the Petes took a tighter grip on second place in their OHA senior "B" group standing. Despite the cold a goodly crowd turned out and saw another lively struggle between the old rivals. But the Petes clicked better to earn the win this time, the Eagles being off in their shooting and having some costly penalties. Three Petes' goals were scored when Eagles were shorthanded.

The Ellis crew swept to a 3-1 lead in the first frame and had a 6-2 margin going into the third. The winners drew seven of the 13 penalties, which included majors in the third to Bill Crowley and Bob Wyatt for fighting, and a misconduct in the second to Freddy Mortimer. It was the third penalty to Eagles at the 15.29 mark, Montgomery getting a minor for holding, Mortimer a misconduct for arguing too strenuously over it, and Jim Munroe a minor for delaying the game when he argued over the penalty to Montgomery. Two goals counted with two Eagles in the sin bin.

Fryia Shone

Chum Fryia proved the payoff man for the winners with three counters and one assist in a starry showing. Ted Collins, Curly Mason and George Steel were other potent factors on the attack, each being in on two tallies, as singles went to Don Floyd, Gus Leonard, Arn Dugan and Jack Mortimer. Back on defence, Earl Leonard found time to score one and assist on another. For the Vitarelli squad, Bert Hill, Jed Wilson and Toodie Greenlaw were the snipers, an assist each going to Dootch Vitarelli, Fennell and Fred Mortimer.

Eagles struck first to score early when Hill slapped home Vitarelli's corner passout at point-blank range. Mason and Montgomery were gated for roughing and Wyatt hit the post. Wade later went over for elbowing but was back and play was hot and even when Floyd tied it up from Steele on a hot shot. Collins put Petes up on an angle drive from Leonard right after that. The Eagles swarmed to the attack in the fairly even first heat but were caught up the ice when Fryia broke away and fooled the goalie in close to make it 3-1.

Speedy And Even

Stewart hit the post with Ray down to open the second, and then Collins whammed a sizzling shot from the side, partly screened, on a pass from Steele. Play was speedy and even the first part of the heat and Eagles pressed hard when Dugan went away for charging. He was back when Wilson got in close on a neat pass from Fennell to hit the hemp and make it 4-2 for Petes. Then Monty went over the wall for holding when he and Wade nearly tangled and the Eagles argued for a double penalty. Fred Mortimer argued too much and got a misconduct and Jim Munroe went off, too, for delaying the game arguing the point. Fryia flew in to score from Mason and Earl Leonard got another in close from Fryia before the two Eagles got back.

Steele drew an interference penalty to open the third but was back again when Fryia cuffed home a rebound on a crease-edge play with Dugan and Mason. Crowley and Wyatt tangled in a brief fight and grappling match to draw majors, and Gus Leonard followed for high-sticking. The Eagles pressed but couldn't tally till the sides were even once more, and then Greenlaw took Fred Mortimer's return pass right inside to slip the disc home. Montgomery drew the nod next for tripping and Gus Leonard cashed in on it with a goal on Jack Mortimer's passout at close range. All were back when Floyd hit the penance path for interference but there was no further scoring. Teams:

Ingram's Rink Captures Ostrander Cup

By HERB. MARTIN.

A. Ingram's rink won top honors and the Ostrander Trophy in yesterday's open bonspiel at the Charlotte Street Curling Rink. R. Williamson came second, and Dr. R. Clark was the other three-game winner. So completely did the local boys dominate play that not one visiting rink reached the prize department. The curling was good and the ice in splendid condition. Throughout the day No. 8 was well patronized by the spectators.

A Good 'Spiel

The club appreciates the generosity of Ostrander's, and it was through the fine co-operation of manager M. Knox that the bonspiel was a success. Secretary Ira Moore handled all details and did a good job.

Tonight starts the second schedule.

The Winners

First: Ostrander Trophy, and each a table lamp donated by Ostrander's—S. Lockington, W. Western, H. Dulmage, A. Ingram, skip.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Baseball is certainly out of season now but summer eventually and reluctantly will arrive. Gord Snape figures its time to call a re-organization meeting of the junior ball club, so he set next Wednesday p.m. at 7.30 as the time and the bus barn in East City as the meeting place. Those interested are invited. Idea is to get a committee working for the next few months on it to revive junior ball in a big way. He is assured of uniforms now, and thinks the clubs might get into the Lakeshore League. Gord, who coached the local OBA juniors last year, formerly played for Guelph seniors and Trenton Flyers, as well as being minor ball coach at Guelph ere coming here.

Comes a letter from Nels Stewart, who has written a booklet "How to Watch and Enjoy Hockey". Big Nels—known to NHL opponents for many years as "Old Poison"—still holds the all-time big league record for scoring goals. A great player in his day, he should know where of he speaks concerning hockey. He deals a lot with some important fundamentals of the game in clear style. Says in part: "When it comes to the writing game I'm strictly an amateur but I hope you will find the book of interest. I have kept what I had to say simple so it may be easily read. I'll be glad to send a copy of this book to any readers who'd care for one. Ask them to write to me in care of O'Keefe House, Toronto." Sure, why not.

Eagles And Petes Again

Next OHA senior "B" puck attraction here is tomorrow (Friday) eve at 8.30 in Civic Arena, and again it's Eagles vs. the Petes. That should mean another exciting and speedy struggle between these enemies of the ice lanes. Rarely is there a lemon for fans when Jim Ellis' fast Petes and Ned Vitarelli's scrappy Eagles tangle in league play. Regardless of past scores they fight their heads off to win each time and some upsets have occurred already in their clashes. It's hustle-hustle-hustle all the way (and bump-bump, too) in these tilts. The Friday night fray should draw a big crowd to the arena.

* * * * * *

In last night's number, the Petes earned the win but the score could have been closer. It was 8-3 but two goals by the winners were scored with two Eagles in the sin box, and later another one counted with Montgomery sitting it out. Apart from a Crowley-Wyatt slugfest of short duration it would have been a fairly clean contest but for the vocal outburst over penalties in the middle chukker, Eagles claiming the refs were too fast on the trigger in tossing three penalties at 'em at once. Even so, the Petes cashed in better on their chances over the route to get the decision, as Eagles' shooting was off. Despite the fast, scrappy game, Goalie Ray Harding didn't have too many hot ones to handle in this joust.

Ref's Life A Rough One

You'll always have arguments when these two clubs clash and especially if the refs are Peterborough officials. The fans take definite sides and roast any referee when he thumbs off one of their favorites, be he a Petes' player or an Eagle. It's a tough assignment. Chum Fryia was top scorer with three tallies and an assist, as Ted Collins, Earl Leonard, George Steele and Curly Mason were in on two each, Collins counting a pair. None of the Eagles figured in on more than one marker in this melee. George Brabin played with a cut inside his mouth from practice, Fred Garvey was out with a broken thumb from the Belleville tilt, and Junior West was an absentee owing to the death of his father-in-law. A goodly crowd for a real cold night.

* * * * * *

Oddfellows' undefeated junior "B" streak snapped after five games last night on Quinte ice, but the Godfrey gang gave the front-running Hawklets a real battle. Finally bowed 4-2 on a brace of Belleville tallies in the third stanza of a dandy ice duel. Bus Jensen, Red Robinson and Clare Ferguson were probably the pick of the IOOF-ers, though the whole team toiled mightily against strong opposition. Some 500 fans on deck for the tussle. Play roughened up somewhat in the middle canto. Triple Links trek to Lindsay for a tough test tomorrow, and then aren't listed for a game till Feb. 6.

St. Mike's Win Cage Tilt Against Saints

Probably the best basketball quintet to appear this season at the PCVS gym, St. Michael's of Toronto, easily turned St. Peter's cagers aside Wednesday night 55-20.

This was St. Peter's first appearance in the Ontario Catholic Conference which includes St. Mike's, De LaSalle Oaklands, Brantford, Kitchener St. Jerome's and SPS. Last year in the cage conference, St. Peter's and De LaSalle were the weak sisters.

Playing exhibition games with the best Ontario collegiate quintets and strong American schools, St. Mike's were in better condition and more thoroughly experienced than St. Peter's squad, composed mostly of junior age players.

St. Michael's had several of Ontario's best cagers, one of them, John Sheppard, formerly a player with Niagara Falls in the COSSA and an OABA juvenile with St. Catharines. An American import, Hugh Coyle, made his first appearance with St. Mike's Wednesday after a four-day sickness.

Sparks Team

Despite the days off, Coyle governed the St. Mike's cagers throughout the game, sparking the team with quick breaks and leading off the smooth network of passing plays.

The whole St. Mike's team was stronger than St. Peter's, having excellent depth. They worked a stiff zone defence which troubled St. Peter's until the fourth quarter and were nearly down to perfection on passing and could shoot well.

In the first few minutes St. Mike's whipped in 10 points, then realizing they were much stronger settled back to practice their plays. They went up 24-7 at the half and 41-11 at the three-quarter.

Then St. Peter's sparked by Doug Galvin and Fred Legros, broke the zone defence when St. Mike's seemed to become overconfident. The Saints outscored Toronto 9-4 until three minutes to go when Sheppard, Coyle and Disano sent in 10 points.

Florian Matsulla led the scoring with 13 points, followed up by Coyle with 12, John Sheppard and Jim Brock, each with 11. Doug Galvin chalked up eight points for SPS while Jack Richardson and Fred Legros each had five.

Lineups:

St. Peter's (20): Richardson 5, Jones, O'Leary, Farley 2, Galvin 8, Legros 5, McGillen, Simmons, O'Rourke, Cavanaugh, Quinlan.

St. Michael's (55): Coyle 12, Sheppard 11, Matsulla 13, Graham, Disano 6, Brock 11, Hummel 2.

Leonard Signs Contracts

CHICAGO, Jan. 24 (AP). — Dutch Leonard, Chicago Cubs 41-year-old relief pitcher, has signed another of a long list of baseball contracts. The Cubs announced receipt of the veteran righthander's contract today. He is the 12th Cub to sign for the 1952 season.

Hawks Defeat Oddfellows By 4-2 In Speedy Contest To End Undefeated String

Belleville Hawks ended Oddfellows' undefeated string at five games Wednesday night in the Quinte town as they edged the Godfrey lads 4-2 in a hard-fought battle before a good crowd. The victory enables Lloyd Doran's boys to retain their lead over Lindsay Kin for first place in the hot Junior "B" hockey race. Hawks had to go all out on home ice to earn the close decision over the battling Links, after suffering defeat to the tune of 9-4 earlier in the week at the hands of the hottest team in the league. Goals by Duke Doran and Ross Mason proved decisive in the final frame after the teams had battled on even terms for 50 minutes. Oddfellows opened the scoring in the first period as play started at a fast clip with both squads playing heads-up hockey. Hawks roared back to equalize in a thrilling but rough second stanza as Duke Doran tallied his first of two fine markers. Both scored early in the final frame, but the homesters managed to gain a slight final edge in the late stages to triumph. Both goalies shone in the torrid duel with Barclay playing possibly his best game to date, and Wasson not far behind.

Fast Period

Play was fast both ways in the first as both teams attacked and checked well in the usual Hawk-Oddfellow style. Finally, near period's end, Clare Ferguson scored for Links when he sank Clapper's rebound in a passout from Red Robinson. Hawks were unable to dent Wasson's armor this even first frame, marred only by miscues to De Gray and Armstrong.

Belleville snared the only goal of the mid-session when Duke Doran combined with Hec Lalonde and Henry Therrien on a passout to beat Wasson. This stanza proved roughest of all as eight penalties, evenly divided, were meted out by the arbitrators.

Went Ahead

Ted De Gray, who with Doran and Mason proved most effective for Hawks, gave his team an edge at the four-minute mark in the hectic final period when he scored over the prostrate Wasson following a scramble in front of the visitor's cage on an effort that gave the sorrel-top no chance. Mason drew an assist on the play. Seconds later, Ferguson and Robinson combined on one of their fine rushes, with the red-head hitting the mesh to put the teams on even terms once more. Hawks took the lead close to the halfway mark in the frame, however, when Mason and Green rushed and the former handed back a nice pass from behind the goal, the latter shot and Duke Doran banged in the rebound to put Hawks one up. Links fought hard to get the equalizer but Belleville held on with Barclay unbeatable for the remainder of the duel. Ross Mason ensured victory at 1:08 with Hawks final tally a smart individual effort as the former Link player rounded the cage and potted his own rebound after Wasson dropped down to save the first hard drive.

Without Richard, Geoffrion Montreal Canadiens Humble Maple Leafs 4-2

By The Canadian Press

The experts have always contended that Montreal Canadiens without Maurice (the Rocket) Richard were just another team. When young Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion came along to add fuel to the Rocket's fire, they were more than ever convinced that the Habs owed their recent National Hockey League surge to the pair of French-Canadian aces. But Wednesday night the Canadiens, minus both Richard and Geoffrion whipped the second-place Toronto Maple Leafs 4-2 before 13,329 Toronto fans in the league's only action.

Spotting the Toronto club a 1-0 first period lead, Dick Irvin's crew capitalized on two Toronto penalties in the middle session and came up with three quick goals to take a lead which they never relinquished. Leading 3-1 going into the final stanza, the Habs split a pair of markers for their 4-2 final.

The victory, Montreal's fifth in the last six games against the Maple Leafs, moved the Habs to within five points of the Toronto team. It gives them a seven-point lead over fourth-place New York.

Bentley Gets Lead

Max Bentley, scoring his 17th goal of the season, gave the Maple Leafs their first period lead. Dickie Moore, Elmer Lach and Billy Reay replied for the Habs in the middle stanza. Moore's goal came while Gus Mortson was serving a minor and the other two were scored with Fern Flaman sitting out a major for starting a brawl with Bud MacPherson.

Rudy Migay cut the Canadiens' lead to 3-2 of the final period, but Dickie Moore came up with his second goal of the tussle to put the contest on ice for the Montreal club.

The brief burst of fisticuffs during the second period came when Flaman and MacPherson tangled, dropped their sticks and went at it. The only blows landed however fell on linesman Bill Morrison's head as he moved into range of Flaman's fists while dragging the Montreal player away.

Call Up Armstrong

In an attempt to gain more scoring punch, Toronto Maple Leafs announced they would bring up forward George Armstrong from their American Hockey League Pittsburgh Hornets farm club. Armstrong is currently holding down second place in the circuit's point parade.

Canadiens will return Cliff Malone, up from the Quebec Senior Hockey League Montreal Royals. They will replace him with Lorne Davis of the AHL Buffalo Bisons.

Tonight's NHL play will see Toronto moving into Detroit while Montreal squares off against the Black Hawks at Chicago.

Hornets Bow To Bears 2-1

By The Canadian Press.

Pittsburgh Hornets lost an overtime game 2-1 to Hershey Bears Wednesday night but are so far ahead of the rest of the western division of the American Hockey League the loss meant nothing in their hold on first place. The Hershey team heads the eastern division of the loop.

At Syracuse, Cleveland Barons squared the season's rivalry with Syracuse at three games each by defeating the Warriors 6-2.

The Barons piled up a three-goal lead in the first period on goals by Phil Samis, Ken Schultz and Jerry Couture scored. Ed Reigle hammered home a pair of Cleveland goals in less than a minute during a Syracuse short-handed spell in the third period but Dan Summers and Kelly Burnett of the Warriors equalled them. Joe Carveth got the final Cleveland tally late in the game.

At Cincinnati, Buffalo, who haven't lost a game all season to Cincinnati, trimmed the Mohawks 3-2.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Montreal's Elmer Lach scored a goal and an assist Wednesday night as Canadians outscored Toronto Maple Leafs 4-2 to move back into a first-place tie with Gordie Howe of Detroit in the National Hockey League's individual scoring race.

Lach now has 11 goals and a record 31 assists for 42 points. Howe's point total is made up of 24 goals and 18 assists.

Oshawa Wins Tankard Trophy

OSHAWA, Jan. 24 (CP).—Two Oshawa rinks Wednesday piled up a 17-shot lead to win the Ontario Tankard Curling trophy. Two other Oshawa rinks were edged out by a fourshot margin to lose the Governor-General's curling trophy at Woodville.

Last year, Oshawa rinks carried off both prizes.

In the Ontario tankard finals, A. J. Parkill skipped his Oshawa rink to a 22-5 victory over W. J. Potts of Cobourg. Oshawa's Dr. J. Brock drew to a 15-15 tie with M. Booth of Cobourg.

Woodville rinks skipped by S. J. Newman and E. Thrope scored 17 and 11 respectively to win the Governor - General's prize. L. Eveniss and Ross Strike skipped their rinks to 12 points each for Oshawa, leaving the side four points behind Woodville.

Ex-Sports Promoter Said Would-Be Briber

NEW YORK, Jan. 24 (AP). — A former Cincinnati sports promoter was held in $10,000 bond Wednesday, named as the would-be briber of two University of Cincinnati basketball players.

Cincinnati was the eighth school drawn into the year-old basketball fix scandal—but its players were praised in court for turning down the bribes. The players were Alvin Rubenstein and Jack Laub.

The promoter, Sam D. Feinberg, 39, a stocky, bespectacled man, was held as a material witness. It was not explained why he was not a defendant.

He gave himself up voluntarily.

The State said he recruited players for the Cincinnati team and was chummy with the school's officials as well as its players.

Hockey Fans To Honor Schmidt And Dumart

BOSTON, Jan. 24 (AP).—Milt Schmidt and Woody Dumart, the still-active members of the Boston Bruins' famed Kraut line, will be honored by the New England hockey public during a game with Chicago Black Hawks here on March 18.

They, with their retired Kitchener townsman, Bobby Bauer, first joined the Bruins during the 1936-37 National Hockey League season.

During their 13 seasons as Bruins, both Schmidt and Dumart have gained all-star team laurels. Schmidt was voted the Hart trophy as the NHL's outstanding 1950-51 player.

Both seem certain to become 200-goal scorers, a total reached by only one other Bruin player in the club's history, Dit Clapper, who wound up his hockey career as Boston coach.

Dumart needs only one goal to hit the 200 mark. Schmidt lacks seven.

Build Nest First

WELLINGTON, NZ — (CP).—James Maher, New Zealand MP who raised a storm by declaring that a man marrying at 23 or 24 was "letting a good girl down" if he had not saved $3,000, has come up with another maxim: "Don't have the wedding until you have built the nest."

US Players Battle Sedgman To Standoff

ADELAIDE, Australia, Jan. 24 (AP).—Dick Savitt and young Hamilton Richardson of the United States, battled Australia's top doubles team of Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor to a standoff today in their semi-final match in the Australian national tennis championships.

Each had won two sets when further play was postponed until Friday because of a strong wind and overcast sky.

Sedgman and McGregor won the first set, 6-3. The American duo rallied to take the next two, 6-3, 6-4, only to have the Aussies square the match by winning the fourth set, 6-4.

Hastings Beaten

HASTINGS, Jan. 24—(ENS)—Trenton RCAF proved too strong for Hastings intermediates last night as they banged out an 11-4 win on Hastings ice in a regular TVL fixture.

Play started even enough but the line of Beach, Bowman and O'Mara went on the rampage and at the 20-minute mark the score stood at 5-0, with that one line accounting for all goals.

They evened up in the next period, as both teams notched two, but Trenton pulled out well in front again, rapping in four to Hastings' two counters in the third.

The line of Beach, Bowman and O'Mara stood out for Trenton, as they accounted for eight of the goals, while Scott was a standout in the nets, robbing Hastings on several sure goals.

Morrow, of Hastings, made the nicest rush of the game as he went through the entire team to drill one past Scott.

Hastings—Goal, Hill; defence, Petticrew, Taylor; centre, Blake; wings, Herrington, Hurard; alternates, Stevenson, Morrow, Oliver, Jeffs, Isaacs, Calby, Nicholls, Peters.

Henry, McIlmoyle and Chittick counted for Lakefield, the latter helping on a pair and Henry on one. Henry, Birch and Knox tallied in the second and Birch aided on one, while B. Dutchmen Continue Sweep Clip Hamilton Tigers By 6-1

By The Canadian Press.

Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen almost had themselves a shut-out Wednesday night in Ontario Hockey Association senior play but Hamilton Tigers ruined it with a goal in the last minute of play.

Dutchmen, however, could console themselves with a 6-1 victory over the Tigers that gave them a tighter hold on second place in the senior standings.

In the other senior OHA game Wednesday night, Stratford Indians played mean hosts to Sarnia Sailors, defeating them 10-3.

In Junior A OHA activity, Toronto St. Michael's journeyed to Barrie to give the home-town Flyers a 5-2 trimming. Twelve penalties were handed out during the game, eight to St. Mike's.

Ron Wallace led the Toronto squad in scoring with three goals. Marc Reaume and Bill Dineen added singletons. Doug Mohns and Bob White scored Barrie's two goals.

Lead Indians

In Stratford Lyle Roth and Bill Flick scored three goals each for the Indians. Ken Ducharme scored two more and Bruce Bi[illegible]ett and George Aitken accounted for the rest. Goose Gosselin, Don Emms and Don Gardner did the honors for Sarnia.

Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen used Ed Stankiewicz for two goals and Doug Verity, Don Bauer, Bob Bauer, and Bob Schnurr for the rest. Hamilton's singleton was scored by Hal Hursley.

In the Sault shut-out against Sudbury, Terry Biocchi, Hec Pozzo, Ronnie Lay and Ted Roney were the goal-getters for the winners.

Both Sendor and Junior A OHA activity is at a standstill tonight—no games are scheduled.

200 Of Knox Congregation Hear Reports Of Progress

More than 200 members and adherents of Knox United Church met in the new basement Sunday school last night for the annual meeting. The Rev. H. G. Douglas presided, and was assisted by Arthur Pitchford, clerk of the session.

The meeting opened with prayer and the chairman welcomed the members. Reports were presented by the various organizations. Mary Blair, for the junior choir, spoke of a great increase in interest and membership, with a roll of 28 members, and a boys' choir in process of formation. CGIT and Explorer groups were also shown to have made good progress, with increased membership, in a report presented by Dorothy Drummond.

Freda Ross for the Happy Band, reported a roll of 70, with 23 going into the Mission Band. Mrs. Gordon James, speaking for the Mission Band, told of good progress, with a membership roll of 37 children. Mary Morton, speaking on behalf of the Helen Roger Society, also reported increased membership and activity.

The Women's Missionary Society report showed 19 annual members, six life, and 10 associates. Mrs. Clegg spoke of 212 visits made to homes, and 88 in hospitals, while much valuable work had been done in supplying clothing and other supplies to overseas missions, while at the same time increasing the allocation to our own church.

The WA group was shown to have done excellent work with an average attendance of 22, having made 265 home and 42 hospital visits. The Married Couples Group had also had a good year, and a great amount of interest had been created by lively program planning, among the subjects presented were a series of films on Child Psychology and Welfare, chosen and shown by Ray Gillies; a talk by Mr. McKay on Mortgages, and on Painting Pictures for Fun, by H. G. Lewis.

Mary Morton spoke of the activities of the senior choir for the year, and thanked the organist, Wm. R. Potter, for his work. Mr. Douglas spoke warmly of the great contribution made by the choir to the worship of the church and of their great loyalty. He seconded a suggestion that the board of stewards might recognize that loyalty by restoring the custom of giving the choir a banquet.

Theatre Activity

Ada Huffman reported a very good year for the Knox Theatre Group, with a large number of presentations of plays in the Church, the Drama Festival and in many Churches in the surrounding district. The Easter presentation of "Behold the Man" had played to a record congregation for this type of worship service, and had also been presented in whole or part in a great number of churches. The chairman thanked the director of the group, Peter McCombe, and spoke warmly of the contribution the drama was making to the church life.

Vincent Grainger told the meeting that the Mens' Club membership had increased very considerably as a result of the changing of the meeting night, and indicated that, among other activities two teams of boys had been formed for the playing of hockey, known as the Peewees and Bantams.

The Sunday School has made very great progress this year according to the report of Harold Murduff, with considerably increased membership and finance. He spoke appreciatively of the pleasure of working in the new Sunday School, and thanked the teachers and officers for their great loyalty. In speaking of the finances of the Sunday School he mentioned the receipt from Mrs. Taylor, of Anson House of two donations as an example of the fine spirit of stewardship shown by some of Knox members.

The report of the missionary and maintenance society was presented by Herb. Trotter, who, in retiring from the office of secretary thanked the members for past co-operation. The accounts showed receipts of $1,734, being an increase of more than 10 per cent over the required allocation. Mr. Douglas thanked Mr. Trotter warmly for his work in the past. Mrs. R. Hanscom reported the result of a canvass for members which had been conducted, 317 cards returned, with a total of 466 names. Tom Taylor and also Robert Hanscom were thanked for the fine effort in bringing the church register up to date.

Church Rebuilding

Clerk of Session Arthur Pitchford reported on the year as one of fine achievement both materially and in the deepening of the spiritual life of the congregation. He spoke of the fine work of rebuilding which had been carried on, and looked forward to even greater achievements in the present year.

Mention was made of the death of the late Andrew McKenzie and of the great debt of gratitude owed by the Knox Church for his generosity and self-sacrificing labors. The congregation stood in silent remembrance.

The report of the board of stewards was presented by Fred Watson showing an income of $9,430 with an expenditure of $11,105, which brings the total balance to $1,140. Replying to questions regarding an item for hall heating equipment he explained that difficulties had arisen in connection with the operation of the new system recently installed, and that further expenditure would be required before satisfactory results would be obtained. The general heating of the church would also require some attention.

Building Debt

For the building committee a report showed that of a total debt of $10,898 incurred for the new Sunday School premises, $6,826 had been cleared, and that an overdraft of $4,072 remained.

Norman Hughes was re-elected as auditor. Tom Taylor was appointed a trustee. Representatives ot the Bible Society are Mr. and Mrs. Wright, and Anson House representative is Miss Summers.

The retiring members of the board of stewards were re-elected namely, W. Lockie, George Davis, Alan Whyte, D. Campbell, James Gerard and Norm Hughes. There were appointed, in addition, Gordon James, H. Knox, S. Auldbrook and John Donaldson.

The thanks of the congregation for his faithful and inspiring work and example were expressed by Mr. Lockie to Mr. Douglas, who replied gratefully. The meeting closed with a benediction.

Tea was then served by the ladies of the church.

Fine Hockey Player $143 For Referee Fight

BRAMPTON, Jan. 24 (CP). — Hockey player George Leach, 25, Malton, Wednesday was given a $143.50 penalty for fighting with a referee.

He was found guilty in nearby Cooksville Tuesday of assaulting referee Lou Vipond during a game at nearby Dixie last December.

Evidence was that Leach struck Vipond after a game in which Vipond gave him a penalty for boarding. Vipond required 17 stitches to close wounds in his head and elbow.

Leach, who has been barred from all organized hockey as a result of the fight agreed to pay all doctor bills for the injured referee.

Chicago White Sox Sign Three Players

CHICAGO, Jan. 24 (AP).—Chicago White Sox today announced the signing of three players for the 1952 season, including outfielder George Wilson, only Sox prospect drafted from the minors this winter.

Wilson, 26-year-old lefthanded slugger, was drafted at the December major league meeting. He played last year with Birmingham of the Southern Association, batting .325, driving in 112 runs and hammering 29 homers.

Others newly in the Sox fold are infielder Mel Hoderlein, acquired Nov. 14 in a trade with the Boston Red Sox, and outfielder Bill Higden, who played with Memphis in 1951.

Thirty-one Sox now are under contract for 1952.

WOMEN'S SKI COACH — Frank Gabl, 29, Banff ski instructor, is coach of the Canadian women's ski team at the winter Olympics to be held next month at Oslo, Norway. A native of St. Anton, Austria, Gabl has an impressive record: second in 1948 Olympic downhill; first in Tyrolean championship, 1950, and in the Western Cup (American races) and the Hannes Schneider Cup (American races).

Here And There In Sports

By The Canadian Press

Suzanne Ann Morrow of Toronto Wednesday won the women's figure skating competition at the winter sports festival in Garmisch Partenkirchen, Germany.

Miss Morrow, there to train for the coming winter Olympics at Oslo, won the women's crown with 162.54 points. Erika Krafft of Germany was second with 156.16.

World champion Dick Button of Englewood, NJ, easily mastered a group of European aces to win the men's event.

Although he fell once, Button's total points for both the compulsory school figures and the free-skating competition was 180.97, well ahead of the European champion, Helmit Seibt of Austria, who compiled 172.48 points.

With one week to go until Frank Sedgman's marriage, the wedding fund conducted by three Australian newspapers now totals 5,357 pounds ($12,000). The Australian tennis ace, who turned down professional offers after leading his team to a second straight Davis Cup victory over the United States, is to wed Jean Spence of Melbourne Jan. 30.

Max Lanier, 36-year-old southpaw pitcher who came to the Giants in the deal that made Eddie Stanky manager of the Cardinals, has signed his 1952 contract, the New York club said on Wednesday. Lanier probably signed for about $22,000.

George Saybol, 42, of Whitestone, RI, alleged "money man" in the Rhode Island race-fixing scandal, was fined $500 and costs on one charge and given a suspended sentence on another on Wednesday in Providence, RI. T. Paul Kanall, 33, of Winthrop, Mass., an alleged "key man" in the jockey-fixing plot, drew a $300 fine on one charge and was given deferred sentence on a second count.

Montreal Canadiens announced Wednesday night in Toronto that Clift Malone, up from Montreal Royals of the Quebec Senior Hockey League, would return to his amateur team after Wednesday night's game with Toronto Maple Leafs. His place will be taken by Lorne Davis of Buffalo Bisons, American League club, for Thursday's game at Chicago against the Hawks.

A German all-star team in Munich Wednesday upset Edmonton Mercurys 4-1 in an exhibition hockey game. The Canadian goal was scored by Billy Gibson in the first period. The loss was the first for the Canadians in seven games against German teams.

Creation of a special state commission to investigate professional boxing in New York was proposed Wednesday in Albany, NY, by a Senator who favors abolishing the sport because, he says, it is dominated by hoodlums. Senator James F. Fitzgerald, Queens Democrat, introduced a bill in the Legislature to establish a 15-member commission to probe boxing and to recommend action "to improve" it.

Armand Savoie, 138½ lbs., of Montreal, Wednesday night punched out a split 10-round decision over Jackie O'Brien, 140 of Hartford, Conn., at Miami Beach, Fla. The fight drew 2,371 customers and a gross gate of $5,400.

Yonkers Raceway will distribute nearly $1,800,000 in purses during 1952, The Metropolitan Harness Track announced Wednesday in Yonkers, NY. The night racing oval will offer purses of around $700,000 during the 35-night spring meeting opening on April 15.

ADDED FIRE HAZARDS — Ice was an added hazard when firemen fought a $100,000 early-morning blaze in mid-town Montreal. Ice crusted their coats and hats and they were forced to chop it from the ladders. Tons of water from 20 hose lines left the streets for blocks around coated with ice.

1,000 Elephants To Parade Before Princess In Ceylon

COLOMBO, Jan. 24 (AP). — This is festival year in Ceylon, and its highlight will be the Royal visit of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh to this tiny island.

Substituting for her ailing father, the King, the Princess and her husband will spend a week here starting Feb. 14 on their way to a Royal tour of Australia.

Ceylon plans a celebration for the Princess such as this island has seldom seen, including a perahera (procession) of a thousand richly dressed elephants.

It is election year in Ceylon, too, and the lavish program for the Princess is closely tied to political developments. All in all, Ceylon is in for more excitement than since the busy days when it was a key base in the Second World War.

Special Events

Princess Elizabeth and the Duke will see the Colombo Exposition, an all-Asian tennis championship, a football tournament between Ceylon, India, Pakistan and Burma, and special cricket matches.

The Royal program includes a visit to Kandy—capital of the last King of Ceylon—to see the famous Temple of the Tooth of Buddha and open the new University of Kandy, a visit to the ancient city of Polonnaruwa, and departure from Trincomalee naval base on Feb. 21.

Behind the glittering pomp and ceremony of the Royal visit is a growing struggle for political power between the middle-road United National Party Government and extremists, including a strong group of Stalinist Marxists.

The elections will be held in October, but all political factions are attempting to use the Royal visit, with its great crowds and special attractions, to lure supporters.

The agreement signed between the Toronto Transportation Commission and the Street Railway Employees' Union (AFL-TLC) provides for arbitration of the wage issue with the bottom figure fixed at the $1.45 an hour the company offered and the top at the $1.55 the union demanded. Shown signing the agreement are, left, TTC general manager H. C. Patten and James Robertson, union business agent. Deputy Labor Minister Metzler of Ontario, left, and Labor Minister Daley look over their shoulders.

Dressed In Rags Find Old Man Left $500,000

NEW YORK, Jan. 24 (AP). — A shabbily dressed old man buried in a Brooklyn Potter's Field grave last November was found Wednesday to have left an apparent fortune in a safe deposit box.

Police said the box contained bank books, bonds and stocks showing a value of $500,000. How he amassed them nobody knows. He left no relatives and no will, so far as is known.

Police identified the old man as Harry C. Smith, 84. He lived amid a shambles of old newspapers and junk in a dilapidated house in Brooklyn. His home had no bed.

His clothes were rags. He wore two pairs of trousers at once, held up by pins.

Three or four times a week he visited his safety deposit box at the Pioneer Warehouse in Brooklyn. Until his death, nobody knew what he had hidden inside.

Smith had told a few neighbors he was a newspaperman. He said he wrote society items, financial news and a syndicated column — but never disclosed where or when they were published.

Some months ago his visits stopped. Two weks ago the warehouse people inquired. His neighbors hadn't seen him. The Missing Persons Bureau was called in.

The bureau found that he entered King's County Hospital Oct. 21 and died Oct. 24.

Nobody knew him. He was buried in Potter's Field on Nov. 5.

Reds Criticize Poem Winning Stalin Prize

NEW YORK (CP). — Canadian readers may form their own opinions of official Moscow's literary criticism from an article in a recent issue of The Ukrainian Quarterly, published here.

A Ukrainian poem written in 1944 and awarded the Stalin Prize, highest Soviet award, was subjected to severe press criticism during a festival of Ukrainian art, officially organized last June in Moscow.

The poem, Volodymyr Sosyura's "Love Ukraine" translated into English by Florence Randal Livesay, well-known Canadian newspaper woman and writer, is in praise of the land, beauty and achievements of Ukraine. Mrs. Livesay is the author of "Songs of Ukrainia" and "Marusia" translated from the Ukrainian.

Sviatoslav Hordynsky, literary adviser to The Quarterly, comments that Sosyura was censored "not for what he wrote, but for what he did not write: the praise of the Soviet regime in Ukraine . . . He, a Ukrainian poet, propagated the love of Ukraine in the first place before all others."

The Festival included works by more than 80 poets and writers, 1,000 works or art, theatrical performers and folk art.

Except for the folk art such as ceramics and wood carving, very little of the exhibition pleased press critics.

Planning Ahead

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) —Three casks of wine laid recently at Soppeltsfield, South Australia's famous wine-making centre, will be opened in the year 2001. The wine in the casks then will be 50 years old, coincident with the centenary of Australian federation.

Newsboy Victims

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—Police stopped African newsboys from selling newspapers at the main entrance of the railway station here, reserved for use of white people. Police said the boys were moved after complaints that the color bar policy was being violated.

Long Voyage

BRISBANE, Australia (CP) — Former Royal Navy Captain H. V. Hudson, 68, who sailed from Britain three years ago in a 75-foot ketch "to see the world," has arrived in Australian waters. Captain Hudson said he is taking the ketch Palmosa around the world because he "loves the sea."

This is the Outspan Hotel's ANNEX, known locally as "treetops hotel," in Nyeri, Kenya. It is possible that Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh will spent a night there watching big game in its natural haunts during the coming Royal Tour of Kenya, Ceylon, Australia and New Zealand. During their visit to Kenya, Their Royal Highnesses will be staying at the Royal Lodge, 20 miles from the treetop "hotel" on the slopes of Mount Kenya. The Royal Lodge was the colony's wedding gift to the Royal couple.

Australia Needs More Coal To Supply Power

By LOUIS L. LECK

SYDNEY, Australia — (CP) — Australia set a record for coal production in 1951, but even when more than 300,000 tons of imported coal were added was still far short of meeting the domestic demand.

Almost all electric power in Australia comes from steam generating plants fired by coal, and vast expansion of coal-mining is seen by experts as necessray to meet the ever-growing demands for electric power.

Australia in former years was a coal-exporting nation, but last year was forced to import heavy supplies on top of the record domestic production of 13,500,000 tons.

To step up production to the estimated demand for 20,000,000 tons of coal yearly by 1960, capital expenditures of at least £50,000,000 will be needed. This estimate was given by Samuel F. Cochran, chairman of the coal board.

Cochran said mine owners have had neither the profits, incentives or resources to develop their mines themselves, and as a result he forecast huge government spending on mine development, mainly by enlarging existing machinery pools which hire or sell equipment to coalmine owners.

Political Problem

Apart from currency and material difficulties, main obstacles to such an expansion so far have been political. The powerful Communist-controlled Miners Federation has resisted mechanization at every step. Man-shift production has increased where machines have been introduced, but absenteeism has increased at the same time.

The present system of payment for coal, based on cost of production plus a percentage profit, offers no inducement to owners to mechanize their mines or use machines efficiently. In 1949 when 32 per cent of Australian coal was mechanically loaded, production per manshift was 2.91 tons. This was actually 17 per cent less than in 1938, when only 10 per cent of coal was mechanically loaded.

Greatest disappointment to those charged with getting more coal at almost any price was the failure in 1951 of the newly-introduced attendance bonus. This bonus gives about an extra day's pay to each mineworker, time or contract, every fortnight that he works full time. Miners' leaders, who said it was a threat to the wages system and against union principles, saw it as a possible deterrent to Communist-called or Communist-inspired petty strikes. They ordered weekly one-day stoppages in protest, which lost 400,000 tons of coal in the five weeks the protests last.

In spite of the bonus, there were 34 per cent more strikes, excluding the anti-bonus strikes themselves, than there were in 1950. Strike losses averaged 42 tons a worker a year compared with 35 tons in 1950.

Rationed Power

The record production of 13,500,000 tons in 1951 was nearly 3,000,000 tons short of the demand. This meant rationed electricity, heavy cuts in rail transport and underproduction of iron and steel. Industry in New South Wales, main manufacturing state, has for months been working with one powerless day in five. Coal stocks held by power stations have dwindled far below normal.

Main reason for last year's record production was a huge increase in open-cut, or above-ground mining.

But for many years it will be underground coal which will have to carry Australian industry. It's the best coal, and underground resources are estimated to last a thousand years.

Big Surprise

AUCKLAND, NZ—(CP)—A man with a hacksaw started cutting up a length of armored electric cable near a power station, probably to sell it for scrap, when he caused a blinding flash from the 22,000-volt cable and the whole city plunged into darkness. The flash burned the ground and melted the hacksaw but the man ran away unhurt.

Ballot Inquiry

PORTH ARTHUR, Jan. 24 (CP) —A judicial inquiry into the finding of bogus ballots on the street of Port Arthur after the Dec. 10 civic elections learned Wednesday that City Clerk Arthur Evans' check of receipts and election statements showed only five ballots, for various offices, unaccounted for in returning officers' statements.

Urge More Homes Built Yearly In Canada

TORONTO, Jan. 24—(CP)—The Canadian Construction Association Wednesday urged that more homes be built in Canada.

A resolution adopted at the association's annual meeting asked the federal government to recognize that an annual program of from 100,000 to 125,000 dwelling units should normally be considered a minimum national target during 1952.

This compares with some 82,000 units in 1951 and 91,000 in 1950.

Dealing with the St. Lawrence Seaway, the association said that "should the Canadian government carry out the proposed project with its own resources, only Canadian contractors be engaged on the work."

AN OPERATION INTENDED to catch guerrillas who have been sniping British troops in the controversial Canal Zone area for months past resulted in the taking into custody of 150 armed Egyptian police after Grenadier and Coldstream Guards cordoned off Tel-el-Kebir and the contiguous village of El-Hamada over the weekend. Some of the policemen, hands clasped on heads, are shown being escorted to a detention point by armed guards. British troops now have undertaken a house-to-house search for lurking guerrillas and ammunition caches.

Frozen Body Found In Ditch

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 24 (CP)—A human hand sticking grotesquely above the surface of a water-filled ditch Wednesday led to the discovery of the frozen body of Camiel Drewe, 65, of London.

Three small boys made the gruesome find and told their father, Russell Awcock, of London, who found the dead man and called police.

Drewe, a breeder of prize horses and dogs, had left his home on Highbury Avenue to go to his suburban farm Tuesday and had not been seen since.

Coroner Dr. A. R. Routledge said Wednesday night he probably had been in the water since Tuesday. His body was frozen solid and had a "bad gash" in the skull.

Cause of his death will not be known until a post mortem is conducted today.

George Lemay Plans Return To Florida

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 24—(AP)—George Lemay, husband of the missing 21-year-old Canadian beauty, said Wednesday night there are still hopes that she may be found alive but that he is returning to Montreal today.

"I have to leave Miami because I cannot stay here indefinitely and it is almost three weeks since Huguette vanished," the 26-year-old husband said.

Raymond Daoust, Montreal lawyer and brother of the missing beauty, plans to fly home, also today.

Huguette, brown-haired French-speaking beauty, vanished in the Florida Keys while fishing with her husband from a bridge Jan. 4. She walked 150 yards to their parked automobile, changed into heavier clothing, and disappeared into the night.

500 Cures With Most Fantastic Remedies Recommended To Man Victim Of Hiccups

SHIPLEY, England — (CP).—More than 500 cures for hiccoughs including some fantastic remedies, have been sent to Fred Ramsden, 65, who has been an off-and-on victim since last summer.

He's had letters from such far-off places as Marrakesh in Morocco, the latter being addressed simply "Ramsden, Hiccups, Yorkshire."

Among the remedies were these:

Try 10 drops of ether on a lump of sugar.

Consult a hypnotist.

Take a spoonful of sugar soaked in vinegar. Or an eggcup of vinegar, neat.

Suck a piece of ice.

Other potential cures: Mustard plaster, home-made damson jam, brandy and castor oil, cold water, glycerine and water.

One correspondent suggests pressing fingers aaginst the eardrums.

Ramsden, who has tried some of the remedies, is still hiccuping. His ambition is to take his first walk in 12 months. Now he is too exhausted by lack of sleep.

1951 Pulp Production Sets All-Time Record

MONTREAL, Jan. 24—(CP)—E. J. Thom, manager of pulp sales, Howard Smith Paper Mills, Ltd., Montreal, Wednesday said Canadian groundwood pulp production of 5,135,000 tons in 1951 exceeded all previous records.

Mr. Thom, who is also chairman of the mechanical pulp section of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, told the association's annual meeting here that last year was the fifth consecutive year groundwood mills in Canada had broken all previous production records. The 1951 increase was about 5.4 per cent above the record year of 1950.

Gordon Godwin, assistant general manager for woodlands of the Ontario Paper Co., Ltd., Thorold, told the woodlands section that arrangements were concluded with the Pulp and Paper Research Institute of Canada to conduct a three-year research project into the problem of containing wood in holding grounds.

Miss Grace A. Yonge was reappointed secretary-treasurer at an annual salary of $360.

Committees were appointed as follows—finance, Mrs. H. Wilford and Rev. W. B. Walker; property, Dr. R. H. Campbell, R. B. Jackman and R. E. Millage. Dr. Campbell was also appointed purchasing agent for the board.

E. W. Bailey was appointed to the Lakefield District High School Board and G. Samis was appointed attendance officer at $50. per annum.

The overcrowded condition of the school was discussed and on motion of trustees Wilford and Campbell the Lakefield District High School Board will be requested to vacate one room, in the High School Building (to be designated at a later date) for Public School use, by June 30.

The treasurer was authorized to pay to the Lakefield and District Community Centre Board the sum of $100. for use of the rink for skating and hockey for the pupils of the Public School, and Principal E. G. Sloan was appointed to the rink committee as representative of the Public School Board.

Frank A. Payne spoke to the Board about several insurance renewals and mentioned the advisability of the board acquiring the straight medical policy in conjunction with the liability policy now carried.

Mr. Sloan reported attendance for the month of December, as 292 pupils, being 92.09 per cent attendance. Opening enrolment for January being 295. The subject of staggered classes and salary schedule was discussed and left over for a further meeting. This meeting was held on Saturday evening and resulted in the following salary schedule being adopted—minimum salary $1,850; maximum salary $2,400.

Increments were as follows: for each year outside experience, up to six years, $50 per year; payable in January following appointment $100.00. Payable annually in January $100. One final increment of $100. or $150.00, except that the maximum may not be reached in less than three increments; any adjustment in salary due to this restriction to be made in third year. Sunday School Holds Missionary Program

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 24 (ENS)—Open House was held at the United Church Sunday School Sunday morning when the Missionary and Service Club were in charge of a special missionary program. Mrs. L. O. Bailey was responsible for the program arrangements.

The scripture lesson was read by Bill Hunter and Ruth Northey led in prayer.

Under the direction of Mrs. George Carey, Mission Band leader, four members of the band presented a skit "The Four Ropes". Those taking part were David Payton, Carolyn Northey, Betty Ann Payton and Gloria Carey.

Mrs. Carey then introduced the color film "Christianity Goes To Press", a picture showing a mission press in action at the birth place of printing. This film was of special interest to those who saw it as it showed the work carried on by the minister and his wife, the Rev. W. H. Tonge, and Mrs. Tonge while in China, and also that done by Mrs. Tonge's parents, the Rev. John Kitchen, and the late Mrs. Kitchen.

A vote of thanks to the Service Club and especially to Mrs. Bailey was moved by Superintendent Neil Wood.

TED HUBERT, veteran of the First World War, his wife and seven children have lived all winter in these two tents on the Mountain at Hamilton. Mr. Hubert, unable to get a home because he had too many children, ran short of cash while he was laying the foundations of his own. All winter they lived through below-zero temperatures, and when the snow fell they banked up the drifts to make a semi-igloo to keep the cold out. Mr. Hubert says his children are "perfectly healthy."

Mink Farming Big Business

LONDON (CP).—The second annual show of milk pelts and livestock held in London showed that British mink farming is an up-and-coming industry.

The show, held early in January, consisted of 180 animals and 240 pelts, and it was disclosed there now are more than 100 mink farms, compared with six in 1945.

Although most pelts went to agents for export orders, the show attracted many customers whose acquaintance with mink had never been closer than a furrier's window. In the glare of television cameras and amid the screams of bad-tempered animals, judges awarded 21 first prizes for first-grade pelts and 34 prizes for livestock.

These were merit awards. The silver challenge cups for pelt and livestock went respectively to a mink farm in Teignmouth, Devon and a similar-sized farm in Sidmouth, Devon.

Both these farms are run on commercial lines with livestock numbered in three figures. Some mink farms in Britain are just a sideline. One exhibitor at the show was 33-year-old Harry Leach of Nuneaton, Warwickshire an engine driver who keeps 70 mink in his back yard.

Small Business Firms To Get More Steel

TORONTO, Jan. 24 — (CP) — Some small business construction for which steel now is restricted will be given relief by federal permit, it was announced here Wednesday by D. C. Beam, steel construction adviser to the Defence Production Departfent.

Mr. Beam told delegates at the annual meeting of the Canadian Construction Association that up to two tons of steel now may be used for construction of stores, warehouses, garages, banks, motels and similar structures.

The relief has been given by taking pipe of less than four inches from federal control.

21 Strikers Return To Jobs, Reject Union

OTTAWA, Jan. 24 — (CP) — Joseph A. Perkins, president of Taggart Service, Ltd., said Wednesday night 21 of more than 30 striking truck drivers have returned to work and disclaimed all affiliations with the Ontario Teamsters Union.

He said the men had returned on the promise of a five-cent-an-hour wage increase, commencing today. The drivers struck Monday demanding a three-cents-an-hour wage boost. The company termed the walkout illegal.

Court Awards Cavan Family $2,000 Damages

A Cavan family have been awarded a total of $2,000 damages in a motor accident case heard before Justice A. M. Lebel in Supreme Court.

Thomas McCamus gets $900 damages, his wife Sybil $1,000, and his seven-year-old daughter, Marion, $100.

Defendents were Fred Woerrmke, RR 3, Pembroke, and a Toronto trucker, Reginald Fraser.

Woerrmke was driving a car, owned by Fraser, when he collided with another car driven by Mr. McCamus on Highway 28, six miles south of Peterborough. The accident was Oct. 8, 1948, shortly after noontime.

As a result of the accident Mrs. McCamus received head cuts and concussion and Marion, then a 14-month-old baby, received a broken lower jaw and other injuries.

Both were treated in St. Joseph's hospital.

Woerrmke was driving his daughter—common-law wife of Fraser, the owner of the car—and five others to Toronto.

No Permission

Fraser contended that he didn't give Woerrmke permission to drive the car. But Justice Lebel ruled that he must have known Margaret Woerrmke was sometimes driven by her father. At this particular time she was pregnant.

Therefore said Justice LeBel, Fraser had given his tacit or implied consent.

Before Justice LeBel gave his ruling, T. J. Carley KC—making his first appearance in court since a recent illness—brought in a tricky point of law.

Mr. Carley went back to a split decision of the Ontario Court of Appeal in 1933 to show that Fraser was liable anyway. At that time the majority ruling was this:

If the owner "A," lends "B" his car and "B," with or without "A's" consent, lets "C" drive, then "A" is liable for damages if the car gets in an accident.

As long as "B" is riding in the car he is deemed to be in "possession." He doesn't have to be behind the steering wheel.

Justice LeBel said he was "surprised" to hear this argument put forward by Mr. Carley, but after looking over the cited case he found that Mr. Carley's argument was "sound law."

At the same time he said he didn't fully agree with that definition of "possession." But he was bound by the majority opinion of the Court of Appeal.

T. R. Deacon, Toronto, was counsel for Woerrmke and Fraser.

Family Of Six Homeless In Havelock As Flames Race Through Frame House

Only $700 Insurance On Home Says Owner
Damage Estimated At $5,000
As All Clothes And Furnishings Lost

HAVELOCK, Jan. 24. (ENS)—Six people are homeless today after fire razed their six-room house at the east end of Havelock on Highway 7 on Wednesday night. Homeless are: Wesley Smith, his wife, children, Joan 2, Robert 4, Lois 7 and Shirley 13. Havelock's volunteer fire department was called to the fire by 10 pm, half an hour after the blaze started, Mr. Smith said. Within two hours the house was gutted, and the Smiths had lost everything they owned. Damage is set at about $5,000, and only $700 insurance was carried on the two-storey frame house.

Mr. Smith said he thou[illegible] the fire started on the roof an[illegible]ad down. "I opened a cupb[illegible] we keep our pots and pans in, and the flames shot out and burned my face and head. I can't figure out how it started; I cleaned the pipes two weeks ago, and I don't think it was the wiring. Maybe it was a spark from the chimney."

25 Volunteers

The 25 volunteer firemen answered the wailing siren with their pumper truck and an auxiliary pumper. When they reached the house, flames were leaping out the doors and windows in the east wing of the L-shaped house.

With four lines of hose stretched from a creek behind the house and from the CPR tank, the firemen attempted to confine the fire to the east wing, but hampered by the 10-below zero temperatures, they were unable to prevent it from spreading.

An hour and a half later the fire was out and the house gutted.

A Havelock businessman, E. J. Sanderson, praised the work of the volunteer brigade and other workers saying "it was really remarkable how the men worked in those freezing temperatures."

May Rebuild Section

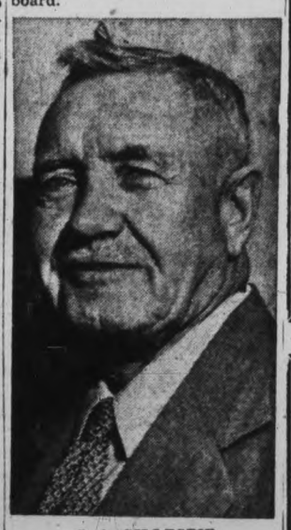
Mr. Sanderson added that the villagers hope to rebuild one section of the house enough for the Smith's to live in. This part was not damaged as badly as the eastern wing.

"It's difficult getting the organization started but there'll be something done for them today."

The Havelock Rotary Club has helped the family with clothes and other necessities because "the family had nothing left" and other organizations "are co-operating."

Today the Smith family is staying with neighbors until some definite work can be done.

NORMAN McCONKEY was elected president of the board of directors of Peterborough Exhibition Wednesday night for his second successive year. John Kitney was chosen vice-president and Don Milburn second vice-president. R. B. Arnold was chosen treasurer again.



G. A. Gillespie Offers To Resign Board

G. A. Gillespie offered his resignation as secretary-manager of the Peterborough Exhibition at a directors' meeting Wednesday night.

Back of the offered resignation was Mr. Gillespie's feeling that the new dates chosen for the exhibition —September 9-13 —are not good.

After more than an hour's discussion, with Mr. Gillespie absent, the board stood pat on its dates but asked Mr. Gillespie to reconsider. He said he would carry on for 1952.

Feeling of the board, in the discussion, was that it was not the secretary-manager's fault if the exhibition turned out to be a failure. The onus of that was on the board.

G. A. GILLESPIE

Mr. Gillespie had said that "if I can't go into a thing seeing I can make a success of it, I'm not going into it."

He believed the exhibition could possibly lose up to $2,000 a night in the case of rainy weather which was more probable in the September dates. "I conldn't see my way clear to making a profit: I would not have any enthusiasm."

Camera Club Sees Films Of Rockies

Colored slides of the Rockies were shown by C. V. Phillips to approximately 75 people at the Peterborough Camera Club meeting in the Public Library auditorium Wednesday night.

Mr. Phillips is a retired warden of Jasper Park and the slides he showed he had taken in Jasper, Banff, Cootnay and Yoho parks. He is spending the winter in Peterborough.

Badminton Club Has Tea City Clock In Darkness

The badminton club that cavorts in the market hall is not likely to be tossed out among the parking meters on the city square, but there has been a lifting of landlord eyebrows in their direction. The landlord is the city, represented by its realty manager, City Clerk Outram.

Complaints had been coming to the city authorities about the market clock being in darkness when it should be in full light on its four faces. It didn't take much sleuthing to ferret out the cause, according to comment at the city hall. Clues led straight to the badminton club.

Fuse Missing

It was discovered that a fuse was missing from the clock tower circuit. Obviously somebody must have lifted it, and evidently on nights the badminton folks were in action.

So, it transpired that the club had a hot plate at one end of the market hall where they make tea and when they needed a fuse to suit their electric connection they helped themselves to the dingus in the clock circuit. That's how simple it was, albeit the illumination up in the tower was doused when the club was toying with tea after their strenuous games.

The little mystery was soon cleared of question, and the B. club has been reminded that after all the market clock has to be kept lighted at night in spite of the members' propensity for post-game tea; and also that some of stores may supply corresponding fuses for the club's electric plate.

Bread Co. Wants Ashburnham Site

Correspondence relating to Canada Bread Company's interest in securing the Rogers St. site for a factory in Peterborough ineluded the following letter from D. A. Ross of that company dated Dec. 20:

"I had thought the matter entirely settled when the city offered us the property.

"This is definitely the property we want as it meets our requirements in every respect. I trust therefore that your Board will pass the necessary resolution making this property available to us.

"We would like to build in Peterborough, but may have to change our thinking on the matter if this property is not available to us."

Lunch Bars Install TV To Snare New Customers

A dwindling night business in Peterborough's lunch bars has prompted owners to turn to television sets to attract customers. Already in the past month four diners have had sets installed and business is reported increasing.

A northend lunch bar owner said that using television to attract sales has been used for some time in the United States and with some success, both in restaurants and bars.

"I noticed when I went through the States that the lunch bars were filled, the people's attention drawn to the TV sets", he said.

He explained that Peterborough diners are experimenting with TV to help business which has fallen off recently especially at night.

Successful So Far

"It's to help business and so far it's proving successful," he explained. "Besides being a good form of advertising it offers the customers some pleasure while waiting for their food. With the variety of sports and other shows, the shop owners are sharing their entertainment with the customers".

He added that he has found that people come in more often and stay longer, "spending more freely at the same time, seeming that they appreciate what we're trying to do."

TV in the lunch shops is going over big with the children. The boys and girls are filling in the shops between suppertime and 7 pm when "the kids' programs are on."

Know Where Kids Are

"We allow the children to watch," said a lunch bar owner. "After all, if we please the children, their mothers and dads will be pleased at the same time. They also know where their boys and girls are."

He explained that a number of the programs are educational for the children. They are able to see programs which often include work taken at school, the study of animals for an example. The TV programs include circus shows which have the wild animals doing tricks as well as the "behind the scenes" pictures such as feeding the beasts.

So far the reception by the TV sets has been "excellent for the Peterborough district." All the lunch bars report they receive good reception about 75 per cent of the time, the only interference from buses and some types of cars.

With business improving in the shops with TV sets, an owner said "Most lunch bars will have to have them soon to help bunessni have them soon to help business."

Detroit Street-Car Strike Costly To Men and Citizens

By LESLIE WILSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

DETROIT — (CP). — No one, they say, wins a strike. Certainly no one claims victory in Detroit's transit strike.

Twelve men, authorized by the union members, early one morning last spring called a strike of street-car and bus operators against the publicly owned Detroit Street Railway.

As in most labor disputes, the basic reason was to enforce a demand for a wage increase. But they were disgruntled at long-drawn-out negotiations without a settlement. They were angry because civic officials—later criticized by a trial judge—had not shown up at a conciliation meeting.

Whatever the reason for the decision by the 12-man executive of the Street-Car and Bus Operators' Union (AFL), the strike occurred. It lasted for 59 days, from April 21 to June 19, the longest transportation tie-up in Detroit's history. Its effects still are being felt in this centre of the automobile industry.

The DSR lost $7,500,000 in revenue. More important, it suffered a permanent loss in passenger revenue of 9 per cent. An estimated 166,000 persons who formerly rode street-cars and buses made other arrangements for getting to and from work.

Before the strike, 2,160 buses ran on Detroit's streets. Now 1,960 are being operated. The number of street-cars was cut from 300 to 200. A 16 per cent reduction in the frequency and mileage of service has been effected.

Ruled Illegal

The men got nothing. The Michigan Supreme Court subsequently ruled that the strike was illegal and that the operators could not receive a pay increase until a full year after the strike settlement. The basic rate was $1.67½ an hour before the strike. It cannot be raised until next June 19. Each man lost $700 in wages.

The 4,200 operators and other striking employees demanded a 25-cent-an-hour wage increase but after the strike began, reduced this to 8½ cents. The city throughout stood firm on its offer of five cents.

From the beginning, the city held that strike action not only was illegal but was a violation of the population's right to enjoy a functioning government. It contended that DSR employees, as civic workers, was barred from strike action by state law which forbids public employees to strike. The supreme court upheld this contention.

Detroiters, like Torontonians during the transit strike in that city which began Jan. 4 got about during the tie-up by automobile or in truck. Emergency car-pools carried hundreds of thousands of persons about the city. Hitch-hikers had no trouble obtaining lifts. Traffic experts, by various means, kept the flood of cars moving freely. Business, off 35 per cent at the start of the strike, recovered quickly.

The back of the strike was broken June 6 when a court ruled that the law applied to the strikers and, five days later, ended the walkout by ruling that the dispute be referred to its April 20 status. The state supreme court upheld the ruling.

The DSR fare was, and still is, 15 cents.

ENGLISH CO-EDS

Women were first admitted to membership and degrees in Oxford University in 1920, and at Cambridge in 1948.

A SLIP and it's death for Papazoglo Nicholas, Greek crew member of the grounded Liberian ship "Liberty," as he is hauled ashore by breeches buoy after the vessel ran aground last weekend on the rocky Lands End coast near Cape Cornwall, England, in a 90-mile-an-hour gale. Nicholas was the last man to leave the ill-fated vessel after aiding other members of the crew to make shore in safety. It is unlikely that the "Liberty" will be salvaged.

Democrats, Republicans Busy Picking Presidential Candidates

By ED SIMON

NEW YORK, Jan. 24 (CP)—Stick a pin in the congressional directory today and you'll probably puncture a presidential candidate.

As both major parties make ready for the presidential primaries—the state-wide ballots in which delegates are chosen for Republican and Democratic national conventions—a variety of names is being offered to registered party-members as presidential timber.

Few aspirants have declared themselves at this stage. Some whose names were mentioned say they don't want to be president. A few of them mean it, while others may be counted on to yield to coaxing.

Three prominent Republicans have announced that they are candidates for the party's nominations at least two of them—Senator Robert Taft of Ohio and Governor Earl Warren of California—are likely to be around for the finals.

The third is former governor Harold Stassen of Minnesota. Some experts expect him to withdraw in favor of another candidate.

Not Committed

But two of the outstanding presidential possibilities are men who haven't committed themselves. One is General Eisenhower, who says he has a job to do in Europe as Commander-in-chief of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. The other is Harry S. Truman.

Eisenhower has hinted that he'll let his name stand for the Republican nomination but says he won't campaign for it. Truman hasn't given any hints at all whether he wants a third term.

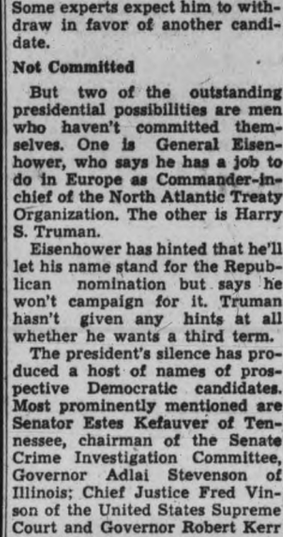
The president's silence has produced a host of names of prospective Democratic candidates. Most prominently mentioned are Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, chairman of the Senate Crime Investigation Committee, Governor Adlai Stevenson of Illinois; Chief Justice Fred Vinson of the United States Supreme Court and Governor Robert Kerr of Oklahoma.

However, Stevenson and Kerr say they won't run; Kefauver and Vinson haven't committed themselves.

Doesn't Want Job

Another man who says he doesn't want the job is General Douglas MacArthur. But MacArthur-backers in Illinois say they'll resort to legal action if necessary to prevent anyone—including MacArthur—from removing his name from the Republican state primary.

The primaries have only an indirect effect on the choice of a presidential candidate. The delegates to be elected are pledged to vote for a certain man on the first ballot when they get to the convention. But if no candidate receives a majority of the ballots cast on the first tally, anything can happen.



At that point, the convention adjourns and the time-honored institution of the smoke-filled hotel room takes over as rival campaign managers lobby the delegates.

Here, candidates begin to drop like nine-pins. These are the "favorite sons"—prominent citizens of a state to whom its delegates have pledged themselves on early ballots while they look around for a strong contender.

Nearly 20 of these are likely to be nominated in the Democratic convention alone. And there's always the possibility that one of them may prove to be a dark horse.

Toads Reported

Murray Street To Dedicate Stained Window

A stained glass window dedicated to the glory of God and in honor of the late T. Frank Matthews will be unveiled in Murray Street Baptist Church Sunday morning.

The window, executed by Peter Haworth of Toronto, is placed in the north wall of the church. Its theme is "Praise". In a circle at the top the Holy Spirit is represented in the form of a dove. In the west light are seen praising angels. The first figure holds a chalice symbolizing communion with God through our Lord Jesus Christ. At the base of this light is the harp, the symbol of song. In the east light are praising angels also, the one holding a wreath of victory representing salvation through Christ's sacrifice and victory over death. At the base of this light is the crown of victory, the symbol of Christ's triumph. At the top of these two lights are seen the Sun, the Moon, and the Stars symbols of the fact that the whole universe praises God.

The words from Psalm 100, "Serve the Lord with gladness: come before His presence with singing" are inscribed on the window, as is also the dedicatory inscription "To the glory of God and in loving memory of—T. Frank Matthews 1869-1947."

At the service on Sunday the window will be unveiled by Mrs. T. Frank Matthews.

Came Here In 1881

Mr. Matthews came to Peterborough from Lindsay as a boy of 12, in the year 1881. He became head of the George S. Matthews Company, and subsequently president of the Canadian Packing Company. When this concern became a part of Canada Packers Limited, Mr. Matthews was made vice-president of the new organization and took up residence in Toronto.

From his youth Mr. Matthews was an active member of Murray Street Baptist Church, and when its present edifice was erected in 1911-12, he was chairman of the building committee. Moving to Toronto, he assumed a similar responsibility in connection with erection of Yorkminster Baptist Church, the largest Baptist Church in Canada.

Asks $200,000 Limit On Copyright Fees

OTTAWA, Jan. 24 — (CP) — Joseph Sedgwick, of Toronto, counsel for the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, said Wednesday privately-owned radio stations should not be asked to pay much more than $200,000 in copyright fees this year.

The stations paid approximately $153,000 in 1951. It is estimated that the fees proposed by Composers, Authors and Publishers Association of Canada for 1952 would cost the stations $350,000.

Mr. Sedgwick spoke to the Copyright Appeal Board, which is hearing evidence on the radio fees proposed by CAPAC for 1952.

What will his eyes see?
Big things are happening in Canada today
His eyes, so far, have seen little more than his mother's face. Soon they will see further . . . his home, his school, his town, his province, his country—the Canada that one day will be his.
From year to year, The Royal Bank of Canada's Annual Financial Statement is a measure of Canada's vitality and growth. The figures are cold, as figures must be, but the story they tell is an exciting story, for you and for your children.
Total assets of the Royal Bank have now passed the $2.5 billion mark, a figure never before reached in Canadian banking history. Total deposits exceed $2.3 billion, another Canadian record. Interest bearing deposits of nearly $1,124,000,000—the highest point ever reached by the bank—are an indication of the thrift of Canada's citizens. Loans to Canadian farmers, fishermen, to manufacturers, to firms large and small, and to individuals exceed $600,000,000.
These impressive figures are more than an index of the Royal Bank's record of accomplishment; they are a clear indication of Canada's economic health, and the scale of opportunity that is ours.
ALUMINUM—Canada is the world's second largest producer of aluminum. The half-billion dollar expansion programme now under way will double our aluminum capacity, making it approximately a million tons a year.
STEEL—Canada produced 3,384,000 tons of steel ingots and castings in 1950. Production will be increased about one-third by the early part of 1953.
IRON ORE—Iron ore deposits discovered in Labrador have estimated reserves of 350 million tons of high grade ore. Development work has begun.
POPULATION—Canada's population has increased 20.7% in ten years. It was 13,992,000 according to the 1951 census.
MANUFACTURING—Over a thousand new manufacturing plants were opened in Canada between 1946 and 1950. Industrially Canada is one of the world's fastest growing countries.

KNUCKLEHEAD, a young chimpanzee at Forest Park Zoo, Fort Worth, Texas, went on a telephone spree over the weekend. His winter cage is in the feed house near the zoo keeper's telephone stand and like all youngsters, the chimp was curious and grabbed the phone. He ran into difficulties when he got the City Hall switchboard. His phoning lasted 15 minutes before the switchboard operator reported the monkeying around and Knucklehead was discovered.

Scientists Protect Salmon Declare War On Kingfisher

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Jan. 24 (CP)—Canadian scientists are gunning for birds, and they hope the hunting will result in richer salmon catches along the Atlantic coast.

The dive-bombing Kingfisher and the migrant Merganser, a couple of flying anglers that look on young salmon as tasty hors d'oeuvres, are the objects of the hunt in the interests of scientific research, better angling and more salmon on the dinner table.

It's an experiment aimed at showing—and fish scientists say it's already pretty well shown—that cutting down on the two fishing birds along Atlantic spawning streams will step up the population of the delectable and sporty salmon.

Outdoor Laboratories

With the unaccustomed shotgun and the bird trap, the researchers have been working in two big outdoor laboratories marked out in New Brunswick, where salmon is big business both from the commercial and the sporting standpoint.

There, Kingfisher-Merganser control and other measures are being tested under the auspices of a co-ordinating committee on Atlantic salmon. This body is made up of representatives of the federal fisheries department and the governments of the five east-coast provinces.

On New Brunswick's Pollett river, its experts for six years have been watching the survival rate of planted salmon. Part of the time, they gave the fast-flying, fast-swimming Merganser duck and the smaller Kingfisher, who has an exclusive diet of fish, a free hand. In other years, they thinned out the two birds by gunning and trapping.

Dr. C. J. Kerswill of the Fisheries Research Board, secretary to the committee, says that in the bird-controlled period there was a jump of eight or nine times in the number of salmon surviving long enough to set out for the sea at the age of two years.

Used Special Permits

On the 11-mile river stretch, fishery teams disposed of between 50 and 75 Mergansers a year, using special permits under the International Migratory Birds Convention. About 180 Kingfishers a year were killed.

Studies of the birds showed, Dr. Kerswill said, that baby salmon, when available, are the main dish of both the Mergansers and Kingfishers. But the Kingfisher's appetite is relatively light.

So in the current experiment—in the larger area of two tributaries of the salmon-rich Miramichi in New Brunswick—the government men are concentrating on Mergansers. They plan to thin out the Mergansers by about 100 a year. This will be done first on one tributary and then on the other, wtih the results checked against each other.

Dr. Kerswill said it's hoped the annual run of two-year-old salmon to the sea will be doubled.

So far, he emphasized, the whole thing is in the research stage.

"We hope to demonstrate," Dr. Kerswill said with scientific caution, "that this is a practical procedure for increasing the run of salmon. It must be stressed, too, that if it were put into effect, it always would have to be carefully controlled and well organized."

As a matter of fact, it is not too clear that there could be such a general thinning-out of a migratory bird under existing legislation. But it will be a few years yet, at a further stage in the research, before that point is likely to be raised.

Long Sault Battle Said In Ontario

OTTAWA, Jan. 24 — (CP). — Government archaeologists think they have located the site of the Battle of Long Sault.

The historic battle saved Montreal from an Iroquois attack in 1660. Seventeen Frenchmen under Adam Dollard des Ormeaux, with some Huron allies, stood against hundreds of Iroquois on their way to attack the settlement. Dollard and all his men were killed, but losses they inflicted discouraged the enemy from their expedition.

The gallant stand was made in an old Indian palisade about 25 miles up the Ottawa River from Montreal, and a monument to the exploit stands at Carillon, Que., in that area.

Farther Away

But the Research Department said Wednesday research indicates the encounter actually took place about seven miles upriver from Carillon and on the Ontario side of the stream, at the foot of the Long Sault rapids.

At this point, it said, excavations carried out by National Museum workers have revealed the outlines of what once was a circular palisade. The findings support local tradition that this was the site of the battle.

"While not conclusive," the department said, "the evidence so far obtained would seem to warrant further research work and the submission of the matter to the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada."

Havelock Vestry Appoints Wardens

HAVELOCK, Jan. 25 (ENS) — The annual vestry meeting of St. John's Anglican Church was held on Monday evening in the parish room and was well attended. Owing to the illness of the rector the Rev. H. E. Peasgood, Mr. H. W. Roche was appointed chairman of the meeting.

The vestry opened with prayers for the parish, after which Mrs. D. D. Kirk was appointed vestry clerk.

The following officers were appointed for the ensuing year:

Vestry clerk, Mrs. D. D. Kirk; wardens, L. A. Thompson and H. W. Roche; treasurer, Mrs. F. J. Watson; auditors, F. J. Watson and F. J. McKay; sidesmen, W. Cartwright, E. J. Sanderson, George Fox, H. Smith, H. A. Michaelson, F. J. McKay, W. Woodbeck and L. Pluthero; lay delegate, H. W. Roche; advisory board, the wardens, lay delegate and organization presidents.

The rector's report, together with the treasurer's financial report, organization and building committees, all showed a substantial increase. The warden's budget was also presented and adopted.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended to the rector, wardens, treasurer, Mr. E. J. Sanderson for the building committee, the organization, Sunday school and choir members for the splendid showings throughout the past year.

The vestry closed with the benediction.

Jury Can't Agree

WELLAND, Jan. 24—(CP)—A jury at the murder trial of Chris Kovich, 60, accused of shooting his 33-year-old wife, disagreed last night after deliberating 4½ hours. A new trial was ordered for Kovich, a former miner. It will be held at the fall assizes of the Ontario Supreme Court.

Instructor Named

EDMONTO—(CP)—D. A. Petrie, a teacher at the Westmount school, has been appointed full-time chief of instructors in the Edmonton civil defence organization. Released by the public school board until June, he will be paid his salary by the board, which will be reimbursed by the city.

Survey Workers To Determine Equal Treatment

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 24 (AP) —Since the birth of business, office employees have wondered, "Am I treated as well as the fellow in the building across the street?"

The National Office Management Association of Philadelphia attempted today to answer this question.

It conducted a survey of more than 2,000 business firms in 120 cities and came up with a report outlining the average office practices.

Perhaps the most frequent question is the office rule on smoking. The report discloses that less than three per cent of the companies interviewed forbid smoking entirely. Almost half forbid smoking by women.

Smaller organizations tend to be more lenient.

Firms in Canada and the west-central United States are least friendly to smokers.

About 30 per cent of the companies surveyed do not care how much a worker smokes or where he does it.

Between-meal snacks are another item enjoyed by some office workers and forbidden to others. The "morning coffee hour"" has come to be a tradition in many places of business.

Less than three per cent of the companies concern themselves with the dress of their employees. Only two per cent require males to keep suit-coats on.

Here is the average hours schedule revealed by the report:

Start between 8 and 8:29 am. One hour off for lunch. Quit between 5 and 5:29 pm. No Saturday work.

Alberta Long Free Of Rats Battles Border Invasion

By LORNE BRUCE

EDMONTON (CP)— "Go west, young rat, go west," the old rats tell the young rats.

That's the facetious suggestion of A. M. Wilson, Alberta Field Crops Commissioner who has the job of keeping rats out of the province.

For a long time Alberta boasted of being the only rat-free area in North America. Now the rodents have invaded the province on a 60-mile front along the Saskatchewan boundary.

"They have been found as far as 11 miles inside the province," said Mr. Wilson.

The infiltrated area starts about 200 miles southeast of Edmonton at Bodo and runs south to Acadia Valley, about 150 miles east of Calgary.

The rats have gained a foothold, but Alberta has launched a vigorous counter-attack.

By keeping special crews on the job all winter it is hoped to wipe out all the colonies in the province before spring. Rats are easier to fight in winter because they live under barns and other buildings. In the summer they are in the fields.

Permanent Job

But even provided the existing colonies are wiped out, rat control in Alberta probably will be a permanent job unless the large numbers in Saskatchewan adjacent to the Alberta boundary are curbed.

In Alberta, a bill was passed by the legislature a year ago making rat control the responsibility of the municipalities.

"The responsibility passes right down to the man on the land," said Mr. Wilson.

But the provincial government is keeping a close check. And it is providing supplies, without cost, of a new control agent called "Warfarin," developed by the Wisconsin Research Foundation.

The poison brings death so slowly there is no warning to other rats. They die in three or four days of internal bleeding without convulsions or seizures. Often they die in their nests.

The poison has been highly effective in some test areas. In Alberta there have been no conclusive results. Because of the small number of rats in the province, it has been difficult to make a thorough test.

"Bait Was Taken"

"The bait was removed regularly during the first week of our tests," said Mr. Wilson of the Albert aexperiments. "But nothing happened after that. We don't know whether we killed off all the rats or whether they became wary and are staying away."

Mr. Wilson said the most serious danger arises from the steady westward movement of rats rather than from the arrival of individual rats in box-cars. No established colonies have been found well inside the province although individual dead rats have been located in box-cars.

Grow Overcrowded

Why do rats move westward? one theory is that the gradual westward movement is caused by colonies in the east becoming overcrowded, with the result the young ones are pushed out.

Alberta is protected from rat infiltration from the west by the Rockies, by sparsely-populated rangeland on the south and by sub-arctic wastelands on the north.

Although the province has lost its claim to being the only rat-free area on the continent, it is determined to be able to say it has fewer of the rodents than any other area. But it will be a tough battle—because one pair of rats is capable of multiplying to 3,500,000 in three years.

DOROTHY DIX

Army Wife Should Keep Home Intact

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Last week my husband got his call for the army. Of course I think he should do his duty for his country, but since we do not live in the same town as any of our relatives, and mother's home has recently been broken up with the death of my father, I have no other relatives to go to. I would like to know what to do—should I sell my furniture and move back home to a room somewhere, or try to keep up our home?

Dorothy Dix

MRS. D. N.

ANSWER: If it is at all possible to do so, keep your home! You will certainly be much happier while your husband is away if you are at least surrounded by the things you both took such joy in acquiring. Spending the waiting interim in a strange looming house would be the most depressing thing you could do. Furthermore, the possibilities are that your husband will be able to spend his furloughs, at least, at home. To be able to come to his own home, with his own furnishings, will aid his morale immeasurably.

Establishing a home is the first achievement of marriage; it is, in fact, the complete basis and purpose of marriage. Acquiring a separate domicile is not possible for practical with all young couples, but it is the perfect beginning to a happy future. Since you and your husband have been able to achieve this essential nucleus, do your best to maintain it. Through the loneliness of separation, the uncertanties of our troubled times, your home will be a haven for both of you.

Responsibility Will Help

The responsibility of keeping a home will be good for you, too. It will also serve as a laboratory to test your expanding talents in homemaking, so that when your husband is home for short visits —and ultimately for good—you'll have a whole string of accomplishments to show off.

Think how proud he'll be to bring his buddies home for a well-cooked meal, how pleased to exhibit your handmade slipcovers. Established roots, a firm foundation; these are the things your home will give you and your soldier-husband. Don't surrender them unless it's absolutely necessary!

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I hope you can help me, for I don't know which way to turn. I've been married for a year to a divorced man with two children. I have three children. My husband's ex-wife supports her youngsters now and then, and I'm working to help with my children. My husband doesn't earn enough to keep two families. Some weeks I get no money at all from him. I know it's his duty to support his children, but what am I gaining? I'm so worried about bills that I'm a nervous wreck. At the time we were married he had a good job but hasn't now.

W. D. P.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You are in a dilemma that seems well nigh hopeless. Starting married life with five children between you to support was in itself a tremendous undertaking. The loss of the good job that made this task possible now puts you in a desperate plight. Your husband is, as you realize, bound to support his two children, unless their mother is in a position to do so, and can be thus directed by the court which handed down the original provisions of custody.

Any woman who marries a divorced man with children is taking on an unenviable job that all do frequently ends up in a situation similar to yours. The consequent strain, emotional and economic, is hard on everyone in the household. The Family Service Agency in your city may be able to give you more concrete advice. A personal interview will give them more of the necessary details of your case.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Is it proper for a girl to go to a boy's home to see him? I'm 14 years old, and the boy I like is always asking me to come to his house but whenever I ask him to come to mine he has some excuse. My mother doesn't like the idea of my going to see him.

M. N.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: While your boy friend may simply be too shy to come calling at your house, that is nevertheless the only proper thing to do. He is lacking in courtesy and consideration to ask you to his home under the circumstances. If he were a frequent visitor at your house, and his mother asked you to visit at their home occasionally, it would be all right. However, the idea of making all the visiting one-sided, with you doing the calling, is all wrong. Abide by your mother's decisions; she is right!

THREE OF 1952's SHORT-SHORT HAIRDOS as are now being demonstrated by leading Paris coiffeurs. Optimistic Look is the name of the 'do' on the LEFT and is achieved with the spindle line. In CENTRE is the arrow line which sweeps hair to top of head and utilizes bias feather edge cut. On RIGHT is the round line which gives fullness on each side of the face with feathery curls.

Paris Hairdos For 1952 Are Short-Short

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

PARIS (NEA).—Time was when a woman's "crowning glory" meant long, thick tresses which never were touched by the hairdresser's scissors — except of course when she renounced the world to enter a convent.

Today a Paris coiffeur can scarcely resist the impulse to shear off these locks. The master hairdressers who dictate feminine hair styles seem to think no woman can claim to be chic unless her head is made to look as small as possible.

But while short hair still remains the only solution for busy and practical-minded women, it is amusing to note that the experts who make the headlines go to great lengths to launch styles which give the impression of long hair.

Guillaume, who counts crowned and uncrowned heads among his fashionable clientele, has two new lines for 1952—the "Round" and the "Arrow" lines.

The first gives width at each side of the face. The second sweeps the hair to the top of the head. Both are made possible by subtle methods of cut.

There is also the "Pagoda" which cuts the hair in terraces and thins the ends to form "comma" curls.

Incidentally, tight or flat curls are outmoded. The latest mood is for curls as soft and feathery as a baby's. The "Ogival" cut, which gives a rounded form to the head, is achieved by cutting away inside the hair, leaving the outside layer intact.

Guillaume is also an exponent of the "Feather-edge" cut which is done on the bias. In any case hair is seldom worn longer than six or seven inches after Guillaume gets through, and usually between two to three inches for the short-short hair-dos.

Fernand Aubry launches the "Feather," "Crest" and "Flat" hair cuts. All three feature almost straight hair which is given the unswept movement, sometimes brushed into a smooth crest-like roll at the back of the head.

A master in the art of make-up also, coiffeur Aubry favors the upward movement which molds the face in triangular effect.

Eyebrows are antennae-shaped and much thicker than before, rouge is applied to cheeks and lips to follow the general trend, while all features are clearly delineated, no longer blurred or melting one into the other.

It gives an "optimistic, happy look," he says.

Marie Wilson Hides Curves For TV Shows

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 24 (AP)—Dagmar doesn't have to worry. Marie Wilson isn't going to battle her for plunging-neckline honors on television.

Marie made her TV debut with her "My Friend Irma" show a couple of weeks ago, and so far her gowns haven't been cut much lower than her adam's apple.

"It's not my fault," she said, somewhat wistfully. She was acting under orders of Cy Howard, who operates the "Irma" show on radio and TV.

"He issued orders that I wasn't supposed to wear any low-cut gowns or sweaters," Marie reported. "He says they wouldn't be in character. Also, he's afraid such things would take attention away from the laughs.

Curbing Curves

So Marie has selected her TV clothes with an eye toward curbing the curves. For Marie, this is a major achievement.

The balmy blonde (wiser than most people suspect) is in a whirl these days. She has been continuing her air show, inaugurating the TV version and campaigning for the March of Dimes.

Marie paused during our conversation to answer the phone. She had placed a call for a Mr. Ackerman with CBS in New York. After a brief conversation, she discovered she was talking to a Mr. Ackerman with Paramount pictures in New York.

"That telephone operator is a real Irma," Marie commented.

What's Right?

When you are reading, another person says something to you.

WRONG: Answer without looking up from your page.

RIGHT: Stop reading long enough to answer the other person with at least a pretense of interest.

CASUAL FROCK — Prints this spring are small, concise and colorful, good complement to the wide skirt styles and snug waistlines. Cravata, a fabric, is used here in a very feminine version of the casual frock with an extravagantly full skirt, a convertible collar, and the softly rounded shoulder line popular for spring. Neat self belt, crisp white gloves and little white hat are perfect accessories.

Royal Babies Mind Of Own

LONDON, Jan. (CP)—Prince Charles has a will of his own, an inquiring mind and clear blue eyes capable of an "unwinking stare," says P. H. Mitchiner, senior vice-president of the Royal College of Surgeons at Lincoln's Inn Fields.

Speaking at a ceremony at which Princess Elizabeth received the honorary fellowship of the college, Mitchiner said the young Prince's qualities "augur well for the future of this country under the rule of Charles III."

As for Princess Ann, he forecast a fine independence of character coupled with a forthrightness of speech. He said the latter reduced this from her habit of putting her parents and relatives to one side when being photographed.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

If You Ate Too Well At Christmas You Better Do Some Slimming

Obesity (overweight) in relation to health and disease is described in lucid detail in October 1951 issue of Borden's Review of Nutrition Research.

I read it carefully and all of the time was resolving to stiffen my reducing regime—so that my chances of dying earlier because I had some padding were reduced. (That's what the book said.)

I weigh 130 lbs. and am within the limits of the average weight for my height of 5' 4¾", but I know only too well that my waistline is larger since Christmastime. Too much Christmas cake and turkey and shortbread and other sweets and such.

By any chance, duckies, did you do it too?

Of course, I know that most of you were too sensible, but to my self-indulgent sisters I am going to give the calorie-count meals I am eating this month—and trying to be satisfied with.

By the way, I do one exercise that brings results. After I clean my teeth, three times a day, and while I am in front of the bathroom mirror, I stretch my arms above my head, and standing tall, with abdomen contracted, I bend sideways, stretching all of the time—ten times for each side. It is a simple waistreamliner.

Breakfasts:

1) One large orange, peeled, and eaten in sections; ½ slice whole wheat bread with ¼ pat butter, toasted, under poached egg; 1 or 2 cups clear coffee.

2) Unsweetened fresh or canned grapefruit juice—8 oz.; 2 slices back bacon, fat left on; 1 small fresh tomato sliced; ½ slice whole wheat toast with ¼ pat butter; 1 or 2 cups clear coffee.

3) Eight-oz. glass fresh unsweetened orange juice or one-half unsweetened grapefruit; 4 oz. cornmeal porridge with 2 teaspoons brown sugar or honey and 2 or 3 ounces half-and-half cream. 1 or 2 cups clear coffee.

Repeat these various breakfasts, but change the way you cook your egg but do not cook it in fat.

Lunches

1) Meat, cheese or egg sandwich in whole wheat or dark rye bread with lettuce and 1 teaspoon mayonnaise—no butter. (If you can stand it without salt you will reduce faster.) Eight-ounce glass skim or buttermilk; one small banana or apple.

2) Tomato soup diluted with skim milk; 1 slice whole wheat bread cheese sandwich with lettuce,—no butter (cheese should be ¼-inch thick); large orange.

3) Broiled hamburger on toasted bun with mustard; 1 sliced tomato and heart of celery; 8-ounce glass skim milk or the-au-lait (hot strong tea with one-half part hot milk); (you don't need dessert with that.)

Dinners.

1) Three-quarter or one-inch pork chop broiled; small baked potato; 4 ounces spinach with lemon (better for reducing purposes without salt); half grapefruit unsweetened; clear coffee.

2) Broiled round steak meat cake—4 oz.; diced beets, ½ cup; shredded green beans with ½ pat butter; medium sized banana sliced in whole milk; clear tea or coffee.

3) Broiled halibut steak (or salmon) with lemon; stewed tomatoes—6 or 8 oz.; baked squash—4-inch square—½ pat butter; 1 apple and 1 orange or 16 or 18 Malaga grapes; clear coffee.

Repeat these or menus equally calorieful and walk outside for 30 minutes every day—walking with waistline stretched up to make you taller—and smaller!

TRIM 'N TIDY—These neat little numbers from New York Spring showings would indicate that the suit picture is going to be a tidily elegant one. (left) A 'new slant' suit of lightweight navy wool with double breasted jacket pointing with a slant to one side. The skirt is newly shaped for smooth curve from hip to hemline. (centre) Light grey wool is the fashionable springlike fabric used for this double-breasted model, a suit whose flat broad collar rolls in becoming fashion. (right) The grey wool classic turns up perennially, here is one with rounded collar and lapels, four button front, shaped seam details and rounded slant pockets, in pic and pic birdseye with muted overplaid.

Elect W. Mayfield To Head Kawartha Deaf

The new President of the Kawartha Deaf Club is William Mayfield of Peterborough. He was elected at the annual meeting recently and succeeds Charles E. Meygite, also of Peterborough

Vice presidents chosen, are Mrs. Ball and Mr. Albert Gerow. The new treasurer is Mr. Joseph J. Meyette and the new secretary is Mr. C. E. Meyet te. te.

Retiring president Meyette briefly thanked the officers and members for fine cooperation during 1951. He felt they have done good work and accomplished some worth while events and socials during the past year. The Club's annual picnic and corn roast at Cobourg was a great success last summer.

Among the K.D.C.'s aims is the improved sociability of its members. Bowling and contract bridge and euchre are the chief forms of recreation but this aim is also accomplished by game and dancing parties, picnics and sport activities, such as softball, horseshoes and fishing.

Newly elected president Mayfield has a big job underway at present organizing the province-wide bowling tournament in Oshawa in the spring as he is president of the Ontario Bowling Association of the Deaf.

Members welfare and the education of deaf children are other interests sponsored by the Club.

Next event for the Kawartha Deaf Club is a social evening at Dixon House on March 1st. Proceeds from this event will go to the Ontario Association of the Deaf convention fund.

Music Teachers Are Lectured On "Technique"

An instructive lecture on "Teaching piano technique" was given by Mr. Boris Berlin, teacher on the staff of the Royal Conservatory, Toronto, at this month's meeting of the Ontario Music Teachers' Association held Tuesday evening in the Public Library auditorium.

Mr. Berlin stressed the importance of adequate technical preparation from grade one up so that it will become automatic. "Technique is the craft inseparable from the art" he said. "Only then can one produce from the piano best possible tone effects, touches and musical performance demanded by an examiner or even listener."

"Every student should follow a daily diet sheet of technique" the lecturer stated. He demonstrated a sample daily technique sheet that should be used—if only for ten minutes every day. Playing a lot of studies and pieces to improve sight reading and appreciation of music was also stressed. Mr. Berlin demonstrated with pieces from the various examination grades what the examiner expects from a student.

A short business meeting was conducted by the Association president Mrs. D. Flett with final arrangements being made for the outstanding recital of March 11th by two young Canadian artists—Margo McKinnon, soprano, and Ray Dudley, pianist. Mrs. E. Johnston, program convener, gave a brief outline of the brilliant performances they have given. Tickets for the concert in the Collegiate auditorium were distributed to members.

A vote of thanks to the evening speaker was moved by Mrs. J. Smith.

Sports Reporter Once-Shy Girl May Become Rich

NEW LISKEARD, Ont., Jan. 24—(CP)— Rose Gibson hopes her 221-acre farm at nearby Dawson's Point may turn into a mine.

Early this year the mining geophysics corporation took an option on the land which lies alongside Lake Temiskaming. Mining men say there are indications of base metals in the area.

However, "nobody will know what's there till they start diamond drilling," says Rose, a north country newspaper woman.

Miss Gibson is tall with brown eyes. Her news-beat includes New Liskeard, Haileybury, Cobalt, for the Kirkland Lake Northern Daily News. She also has worked on newspapers at North Bay, Timmins and Rouyn.

Sportsmen of Northern Ontario call her the best sports writer north of Toronto. She's also an excellent photographer.

Ruth says she got into newspaper work "because I was shy and I thought that was a good way to cure it."

Started In Timmins.

She saw an advertisement for a reporter at the Timmins Press, applied and got the job. Ten months later she went to North Bay where she worked for two years on the Daily Nugget.

Then came four years at the Temiskaming Speaker, New Liskeard.

But Rose says she "sort of came into my own as a sports writer at the Rouyn-Noranda Press, where I was designated sports edtior, with my name on the page.

At the beginning she ran into plenty of opposition.

The manager of the Rouyn Flashes, Quebec Intermediate hockey champions, met her, inquired whether she thought they played hockey with powder puffs. She wasn't permitted on the bus the first time the team had an out-of-town engagement.

However that all changed. She came to be regarded as the team's mascot and travelled everywhere with it.

When the Rouyn-Noranda Press changed hands Rose moved around the corner to run the Northwest Quebec Bureau of the Northern Daily News. That was her last post before taking over a similar bureau here.

CAC President Criticizes Food Grading Systems

Mrs. W. R. Walton, Jr., National President of the Canadian Association of Consumers, paid a left-hand compliment to the members of the Ontario Fruit and Vegetable Growers Association meeting in Toronto, when she discussed the confusing system of grading employed by the industry.

"Only a group of intelligent men could have thought up such a complicated system of grading as far as names or terms are concerned for most agricultural products," said Mrs. Walton.

"For instance, for meat we have Red and Blue, Commercial, and Cutter Grades;

For butter, we have First, Second and Third;

For eggs, we have A, B and C;

For canned fruit and vegetables we have Fancy, Choice, Standard;

And then the fruit and vegetable growers outdo them all."

Mrs. Walton continued, "The meaning of the names given to indicate grades is something definitely not understood by the average consumer. 'Fancy' grade—that is easy. It should be the 'extra special' the very top quality. What, then, is No. 1 and No. 2. Most people don't know whether it applies to size or quality? What does 'Domestic' mean? Has 'combination' anything to do with winter underwear? What is 'Select,' 'fancy and C'? The trade knows. The grower knows. But the most important group—the purchaser—is for the most part completely in the dark. Hasn't the time come when a little research and uniform standardization of names for grading should be undertaken in aid of the confused consumer for a share of whose dollar everyone is competing?"

Mrs. Walton seized the opportunity to take a few pot shots at two other practices which bother and annoy the consumer: colored netting on fruit baskets, and the trend for exclusive selling of prepackaged fruit and vegetables in odd-weight packages.

"We understand the use of red netting on fruit baskets was to be discontinued. But it still appears from time to time. Your customers definitely do not like the colored netting, which prevents one from seeing whether the fruit is ripe or green. While purchasers do like clear cellophane covers which permit them to see the color and condition of the fruit—the top layer anyway—storekeepers tell us that if the cellophane is not sufficiently perforated to allow the air to circulate, spoilage takes place faster because the fruit sweats."

Regarding the growing trend to sell pre-packaged fresh fruits and vegetables almost exclusively, Mrs. Walton pointed out that while this system certainly has advantages, customers did not like the practice of them being put up in odd weights, such as 10-oz. packets of spinach, or 14-oz. of tomatoes. "Why not a pound or half-pound packages?" asked Mrs. Walton. "Your customers distrust this choosing of odd ounces for these packages, particularly when there is no alternative than to buy that particular commodity except by package. When shopping, what housewife has the time, the pencil and paper to compute 14-16ths of 29c to see how much a pound her tomatoes cost her? Give her a half pound or pound so she can do a quick and easy task of dividing and multiplying."

Her final criticism was of the sealed fancy packages, particularly tomatoes. The contents cannot be inspected and too often after the little woman gets home, she finds one of the tomatoes soft, even bad, and she is disgruntled.

IODE Opposed To A Canadian As Governor-Gen.

TORONTO, Jan. 24 (CP)—The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, are opposed to appointment of a Canadian as governor-general, Mrs. John H. Chipman of Toronto, national president, said Wednesday.

"There may be Canadians who are worthy of this honor at this time but we feel that over a period of years it would become a political appointment,' Mrs. Chipman said.

The IODE, with nearly 32,000 members in Canada, "feel that the King is King of Canada and his representatives should be from the United Kingdom and appointed by him," Mrs. Chipman added.

Resolutions were passed at the 1950 and 1951 annual meetings opposing the appointments of a Canadian.

In Ottawa Tuesday night informed sources said a successor to Viscount Alexander as governor-general probably will be announced later this week.

News dispatches have reported that he will be appointed Britain's defence minister and a Canadian will be named governor-general.

Making the most of your hair, whether it is thick or thin, is all a matter of styling. If your problem is thin, fine hair, like the girl pictured in the upper left hand corner, the new poodle cut (lower left) is ideal for you, too. It will give your hair the illusion of thickness, and actually make it easier to handle. The hair with the unruly cowlick (left center) can be neatly kept in place by the means of a back curved part (right center). Hair that is too thick (upper right) usually presents many styling problems because it is so apt to fall in a limp, bulky mass. Such hair responds beautifully to a "shapering" (lower right), which consists of skillfully shaping the hair in layers tapered to lengths that "fit" the head. You will achieve the most attractive hair-do for thick hair if you avoid fluff, and seek sleekness, instead. Variations of any of these styles would depend upon your face and figure. If your hair is naturally curly, you have one less problem to worry about. Straight hair, however, must have a soft permanent as a foundation for styling.

Woman's Hair, Her Crowning Glory, Affects Personality

By ALICIA HART

Don't believe everything you see. Many a thick-looking head of hair only got that way with the help of a "poodle" cut. A smooth back hairline, without a trace of cowlick, may be nothing more than a trick slanting part.

The girl with perfect hair is very rare. Most of us need a touch of camouflage here and a little illusion there.

First and foremost, understand that no matter what type of hair you may have, expert styling can make it look lovelier.

If your hair is thin, your difficulty may be in concealing sparse spots. You probably think it never grows, but actually it does—perhaps at little less than one-half inch a month.

Thin, fine wispy hair is also the victim of a lack of stimulation. Because its light weight provides no pulling stimulation to the muscles of the scalp, they in turn lose some of the tone necessary to the health and vigor of the hair.

Gentle Hair Pulling

To overcome this, and as an aid in helping hair to grow, gentle hair pulling exercises for five minutes a day is recommended.

The popular new "poodle" cut seems to have been made for the thin haired. The mass of fluffy curls gives a wonderful illusion of thickness, and also is very attractive.

Thick, shapeless hair demands just the opposite kind of handling. It needs to be tapered and shaped. Fluff and curls are taboo. You and your hair will be much more attractive, if your new coiffure is sleek in line, and fits smoothly to the head.

One of the commonest and most troublesome hair problems is the unruly cowlick. A cowlick is a mistreated growth pattern of hair.

You Can't Win

Hair that bulges on either side of a part is also the result of a coiffure design that tries to fight nature.

What you must do is develop your style to suit the cowlick. Don't argue with it, because you can't win.

By curving your part to your hair's natural inclinations the cowlick tuft will learn to behave. Curving a part not only proves flattering to most women, but it also enables you to start the part at the point in the hairline where it will prove most interesting.

Naturally, regardless of what style you have in mind, very straight hair must first have a soft permanent. One fallacy is in thinking that a tight permanent will last longer.

After your hair has been styled, it is an extremely wise plan to have a snapshot taken, with special emphasis on your hair. You will be amazed, after studying your picture, to find that just the slightest variation would make a big improvement.

Perhaps a bang is too much to the left, or a wave too deeply set in the crown. What you are doing is seeing yourself as others see you.

Never be satisfied with your hair. Always look for new and better styles. Keep your hair glistening clean and impeccably groomed.

After all, a woman's hair is truly her crowning glory, and you know only too well how its beauty or lack of it can affect your whole personality.

Havelock Bride Given Miscellaneous Shower

HAVELOCK, Jan. 24—(ENS)—Mrs. McLean Donald of Trent River and Mrs. James Scott of Havelock were the hostesses for a miscellaneous shower in honor of Mrs. William Ward (nee Noreen Pollock) on Monday evening. The event was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pollock in Havelock.

The rooms were decorated with pink, white and blue streamers, which were also used along with silver balls to decorate the shower tree (a Christmas tree). The numerous attractively wrapped gifts were placed on the tree and around its base. These were opened by the guest of honor during the program which was in charge of Mrs. Ross Pollock and Mrs. Eric Little of Trent River, the latter being the accompanist for the period of community singing. Miss Louise Anderson of Lakefield, niece of the bride entertained with selections on the piano-accordion. Solos were sung by Mrs. W. Goadsby and Mrs. J. Beatty, and the later also gave a reading. There were three contests with the following winners: Mrs. Bert Haryett, Mrs. S. Southward and Mrs. W. Ward. Short Lunch was served at the close of the program. The bride's mother, Mrs. H. Pollock, poured tea at a Scotch lace covered table which was centred with a bowl of cut flowers flanked on either side with tall pink candles in crystal holders.

Those present were: Mrs. George Aboud of Peterborough; Mrs. Eric Anderson and daughter Louise and Mr. Stanley Goodall of Lakefield; Mesdames S. Ellis, R. Pollock, Donald Carnrite, Francis Rutan, Rhoda Campney, Eric Little, Robert Pollock of Trent River; Mesdames S. Southward, Alex McLaughlin, C. Scott, J. Beatty, A. Rylott, H. T. Mathison, L. Sanderson, W. Goadsby, D. M. Robertson, B. Haryett, J. Wilde, J. Hoffman, Ray Scott, Jesse Anderson, R. Jones of Havelock.

Mrs. Stanley Goodall of Lakefield also entertained in honor of the bride, who on that occasion was presented with a beautiful table lamp. A miscelaneous shower was also held for Mr. and Mrs. Ward at the home of the groom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Vitler in Belleville where they were the recipients of many beautiful gifts.

Telephone Users Protest Raise

PORT HOPE, Jan. 24 — Telephone users—all 21 of them—of the Welcome district are up in arms over an application by the Beatty Telephone System to raise its rates by more than 50 per cent.

If allowed, the increase would be dated back to Jan. 1. The subscribers heard about the application Jan. 16 and have until Jan. 28 to file reason for objection with the municipal board.

The phone users are riled up about the way they were told about it—on an unsigned mimeographed sheet—as well as by the large amount of the proposed increase. The service, they say, is far from satisfactory considering the yearly service charge they pay. All 21 are on the same line. And in damp weather, the ringing is seldom correct or clear.

Most would much rather subscribe to the Bell system but the Beatty system has rights in that area. Bell Telephone lines go past their doors but that doesn't help them a bit.

Pt. Hope May Repaint All Hospital Rooms

PORT HOPE, Jan. 24 — Paint peeling from the walls of the Port Hope hospital has reached such proportions that the board is considering removing all the paint and starting from scratch again.

They are going to experiment with the recently-painted reception room first. The paint will be taken off with a paint remover. The bare walls will then be washed and rewashed before a primer coat is put on. Then the usual fireproof paint will be put on. It is hoped that this time it will stick. If this works, the whole hospital will be done the same way.

Film Council Asks For Grant Of $500

Request of Peterborough film council for a grant of $500 to continue its work in the public service was made by Charles K. Hurst at the meeting of the city council Monday night. It was referred to the committee of the whole for consideration at budget time.

Mr. Hurst said the council had contributed $250 to the work of the film council five years ago, but nothing since then. The Nicholls Oval program are just one of the newer uses of films that are provided for the public. A new civil defence film has been ordered at a cost of $40. Film council is appealing to factories and other for a fund of $2,000 for the purchase of new films.

Adjudicator Pierre LeFevre said his choice of the best play oscillated during the evening between "Pygmalion" and "The Barretts of Wimpole Street". He had chosen "Pygmalion" because it was much closer to a true performance of a play.

Italian Labor To Work British Mines

LONDON—(CP)—In a direct appeal from their union leaders British mineworkers have been urged to abandon their opposition to importation of Italian labor to help solve the nation's current coal shortage.

Sir William Lawther, president of the National Union of Mineworkers, embracing nearly 700,000 miners, said letters would be sent to every branch of the organization emphasizing the necessity of employing Italians in pits where ever possible.

Last year when the miners won a pay boost amounting to more than $26,000,000 annually, they agreed, in view of the mounting coal crisis, to accept foreign workers in under-manned pits.

Plans were made to bring in about 5,000 unemployed Italian miners but the scheme collapsed when resistance sudenly developed in coalfields throughout the country. Union leaders said it was based on fears that an influx of foreign help might jeopardize the jobs of native miners and lower working standards.

Sir William said the rank-and-file was being advised that this viewpoint was unfounded.

"We have had very fine reports showing that the Italians are not only good workmen but solid union men as well," he added. To underline this opinion a fraternal delegate from the Italian miners' union has been invited to attend the National Mineworkers' conference at Scarborough next summer.

Chaplain To POW's Canon Spencer Dies

TORONTO, Jan. 24—(CP)—Maj. the Rev. Canon Clarence Reginald Spencer, 70, active in the Anglican ministry for nearly 50 years, died Wednesday.

During the First World War he went overseas as an Army Captain and later served as a Chaplain. During the Second World War he was Chaplain for the German prisoners at Bowmanville.

Canon Spencer was rector of St. James' Anglican Church in Roseneath from 1947 to 1950 and had served in only four other churches during his 47 years as a minister: at Millbrook, Stanley Bay, Haliburton and Bowmanville.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. J. D. Oliver, Shanty Bay, Ont.; Capt. Charles Spencer, Camp Borden, a son; Mrs. Ross Macklen, Fenella, Ont., a daughter, and a sister, Mrs. A. S. Maxwell of Brantford.

SANTA ANA, Calif., Jan. 24 (AP).—Lana Turner and her millionaire husband, Henry J. Topping, were sued Wednesday for alleged non-payment of $1,600 rent on a beach apartment. Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. Canada Turns Deaf Ear To Plea For Jets In Korea

OTTAWA, Jan. 24—(CP)—Canada was informally sounded out by the United States recently on the possibility of sending an RCAF jet fighter squadron to Korea to join in the United Nations fight against Russian-made MIG fighters showing up in the hundreds on the Communist side. The "feelers" didn't click.

Canada took the stand that the RCAF has a big enough job on its hands in preparing to fill the commitment to field an 11-squadron air division in Europe on behalf of the Atlantic Pact. The air division is Canada's No. 1 commitment under NATO for European defense.

A second fighter squadron is going to England next month, and a third, to round out the first wing of the division, will go in the spring. The aim is believed to be to have two wings or five or six squadrons across the Atlantic by the end of 1952.

No Formal Approach

There was apparently no formal approach from Washington about more Canadian help to add to a national effort which already ranks second only to that of the United States on a per capita basis.

There was instead a quiet, informal "feeler" which didn't ask for anything point blank, but made it quite clear that a Canadian squadron would not be unwelcome if it happened to be available.

Canada's Korean effort now embraces nearly 10,000 men, mostly in the army's 25th Brigade, but also including an RCAF transport squadron and three naval destroyers. More men and equipment are needed at home to keep this effort going. The navy, for instance, ties up five destroyers to keep three off Korea.

2 Children Die In Flaming Log Farm House

CARP, Ont., Jan. 24—(CP)—Overheated stovepipes were blamed for a fire which Wednesday destroyed an 80-year-old log farm house near this village 20 miles west of Ottawa, bringing death to two boys and injuries to five others, including three children.

Dead are Tommy, 5, and Gerald Scott, 3, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Scott.

In hospital are Rita Catharine Scott, one year, youngest sister of the dead boys, John Currie, 17, and his sister Doreen, 12, children of Mrs. Catharine Currie.

Suffering burns and cuts but not in hospital are Mrs. Currie 36, and Mr. Scott, 30.

Spread Quickly

The fire, which started on the second floor, after the Scott children had gone to bed, quickly enveloped the house.

Mrs. Currie has five other children Rita, 15, Michael, 13, Mary, 11, Ellen, 9, and Caroline, 7.

John Currie was upstairs with the Scott children when he noticed the flames. His clothes on fire, the youth raced through the rooms and rescued Catharine and Shirley Ann Scott, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Scott. His arms were badly burned.

Mr. Scott was burned trying to save his two sons. He was cut by flying glass when a smoke blast blew him down the stairs. Mrs. Currie was burned trying to beat out the flames which enveloped her son.

Stewardess' Body Washed Up On Beach

SANDSPIT, BC, Jan. 24—(CP)—The body of stewardess Jane Cheadle of Seattle was found Wednesday on the beach near where a Korean airlift plane plunged into the sea early Saturday.

RCMP said the body of an unidentified victim of the crash also was found on the beach Wednesday but added that the search for the remaining bodies has been delayed by stormy weather.

Twenty six bodies still are missing, RCMP said.

The Western Airlines DC-4 crashed while attempting to make an emergency landing in a snow storm with 43 aboard.

Seven were rescued. The crash occurred off the Queen Charlotte Islands some 480 miles northwest of Vancouver.

Murray Street Church Reports Higher Membership

Encouraging reports were heard from all departments at the annual business meeting of Murray Street Baptist Church Wednesday evening.

The membership numbered 534 at the end of 1951, 25 new members having been received during the year. Total receipts were $21,716.05, of which $5,333.20 was for the missionary work of the Baptist convention of Ontario and Quebec. Congregations were reported at their highest for a number of years, and the church school has greatly increased in membership.

During the year the whole building was insulated and a new boiler and oil burner were installed. The church school hall was decorated, eavestroughing was replaced on the building and the new manse was completely paid for.

Three new organizations were started during 1951. The Baby Band Mothers' Group was begun with Mrs. James Wishart as president. With Mrs. Charles Holmes as director, a junior choir was started and a scout group committee was reorganized under the leadership of E. G. Baker.

Officers elected for 1952 were:

St. Laurent Trying Correct Wrong Use Of Dominion

OTTAWA, Jan. 25. (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent fired new ammunition today in the controversy over the government's attitude towards the terms "Dominion" and "Royal". He told a press conference: 1. Under the British North America Act of 1867, the official name of Canada is Canada, not the Dominion of Canada, and the government has simply been trying to correct on "error." Canada is, however, a Dominion just as Ontario is a province and Ottawa is a city. This was true under the BNA Act whether people liked it or not. But, he added, he would have no objection to Canada being termed a kingdom but no consideration has been given to such a move.

2. It is silly to think anyone could object to the term "Royal." Nothing has been done and nothing will be done to interfere with its proper use in connection with the Canadian mail.

Mr. St. Laurent said Postmaster-General Rinfret was not sufficiently informed in making statements at the recent session of the Commons in the controversy over use or dropping of the term Royal Mail.

Mr. Rinfret, said the Prime Minister had, not looked into all the files. However, he himself was doing so.

He was asked whether the term Royal Mail will remain.

Delving Into Question

Mr. St. Laurent said he is trying to find out the full extent of its proper use. He was not entirely sure the entire postal service should be called the Royal Mail. It was not called that in Britain. It was certainly not an improper term, but he had heard that the term originally applied only to transoceanic mails.

The Prime Minister issued a copy of a letter he recently wrote

Three Bandits Hold Up Bank

TORONTO, Jan. 25 — (CP) — Three men today held up and robbed a branch of the Bank of Toronto in suburban Scarborough township. The amount of money stolen was not known immediately.

The men forced the staff to lie on the floor, scooped money out of tellers' cages and fled in an automobile.

10 Communist Planes Shot Down By UN Jets

SEOUL, Korea, Jan. 25 (AP)—American Sabre jet pilots today shot down 10 Communist jets over North Korea in one of the biggest air tolls taken in the Korean war.

One other MIG probably was destroyed. At least three other Red planes were damaged.

American airmen fought four separate encounters with the Communist MIG-15s over Northwest Korea, the United States Fifth Air Force said.

New snow covered quiet ground fronts while the explosive jet war erupted in MIG alley.

There was no hint of how American planes fared. Under a new policy US air losses are announced only once a week.

Latest In Secretaries

LONDON, Jan. 25. (Reuters) — A robot secretary which does almost everything except perch on the boss's knee is being offered executives here by an office equipment firm. Housed in a metal cabinet three feet tall and two feet wide, it can speak, hear, think and remember. When the boss goes out, he switches on the gadget first. Instead of no answer, people telephoning the office get the robot. "Your message will be recorded. Wait. Please speak now," it purrs in a feminine voice. Later when the boss comes back, the gadget repeats all the calls.

Ford Strike Been Deferred

WINDSOR, Jan. 25 — (CP) — A strike set for 10 pm Sunday at the Ford Motor Company of Canada plant here has been deferred, pending further negotiations.

Meeting a request of Labor Minister Charles Daley, the executive of Local 200 of the United Auto Workrs (CIO-CCL) agreed Thursday night to call off the Sunday strike, which would have affected 9,000 workers at the labor-troubled plant.

The strike would have followed a 12-day wildcat walkout in December, another episode in a seven-months-long wage contract dispute.

Military Lesson Of Korea Useful In Future—Simonds

SEOUL, Jan. 25 (CP)—Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds said today the United Nations has learned at least one military lesson in Korea likely to be useful in any future war.

The chief of the Canadian general staff told a press conference:

"That is a technique evolved to counter the enemy's use of massed strength in attack. Their complete disregard for casualties and human life has given us an opportunity for a lesson which conceivably could have other applications.

"It could be expected of any satellite working under Communist direction."

Gen. Simonds, visiting the United States 3rd Division at the conclusion of the third day of his Korean tour, said cryptically that the technique evolved "seems pretty successful."

The general, who in his three days at the front has visited every unit in the 25th Brigade, said that generally, "the situation here is not comparable to most of the fighting in Europe" during the Second World War.

The nature of the enemy and the terrain "required adaptation of tactics to the situation—but the same principles apply here as they do anywhere."

Watch False Lessons

The United Nations might be tempted to "learn false lessons" from the Korea fighting and in some departments "will have to relearn lessons learned in the last war."

Asked about the use of airpower in close ground support, Gen. Simonds said Canada is setting up a "group to study the question of starting where we left off in providing the air co-operation we need."

The air forces were so taken up with the need to regain air supremacy that some earlier accomplishments had been forgotten. Air superiority that really counted had to be fought for.

"If we don't have it, then we can't operate on the ground or probably on the sea," he said.

Asked to discuss the Korean terrain, Gen. Simonds, who led the 1st Canadian Division into Sicily and Italy before taking command of the 2nd Corps, said it was like Sicily's and southern Italy's.

"But the real value is in teaching us to be prepared to fight the Communists wherever they challenge us—and certainly it is they who will do any choosing of ground."

3 Children Perish In House Fire

Neighbors Helpless As Building Goes Like Tinderbox

WASHAGO, Ont., Jan. 25.—(CP) — Three young children of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Cronk were burned to death today when fire destroyed their frame farm house near this village.

The children were: Violet 5, John 3, and Merwyn 1.

Both parents were out of the house when the blaze started. Their father, an unemployed laborer, was in Washago getting his half-ton truck repaired. His wife had stepped out to get milk from a neighbor.

Five hydro men working nearby tried to rescue the children, but wre forced back by the flames.

One worker, Kenneth MacNeal, suffered burns.

There is no fire brigade in the vicinity. Neighbors watched helplessly as the house "went up like a tinderbox."

Washago is some 70 miles north of Toronto on the northern tip of Lake Couchiching.

$250,000 Fire At High School

FLESHERTON, Jan. 25 (CP)—Fire early today destroyed the Flesherton high school. School officials estimated it would cost $250,000 to replace the eight-room, two-storey brick building.

Only the walls of the 40-year-old school remain. But a four-room partially-finished addition, part of a $175,000 expansion and modernization program, was undamaged.

No one was injured in the blaze which started in a hall at 10.30 o'clock Thursday night. The glow in the sky could be seen nearly 20 miles away, attracting hundreds of district residents.

The school, with a staff of seven teachers, served students from Flesherton and Artemsia, Osprey and Euphrasia townships. Classes in temporary quarters are planned until the school can be rebuilt.

Firemen from three brigades fought the blaze, of unknown origin. Shortly before midnight the roof on the old school, which accommodated 200 students, caved in.

Flesherton firemen were hampered in early stages by the lack of pumping equipment. By the time Dundalk and Durham brigades reached the scene with adequate equipment the fire was out of control.

It was brought under control around 2:30 am.

Mrs. John McKinnon and two other women who live nearby smelled smoke about 10 pm. Firemen were summoned after flames were seen in the furnace room at the rear of the school.

Flesherton is some 30 miles southeast of Owen Sound.

Lamport Vows Expose Of CNE Contracts Charges Improper Dealings With Midway

TORONTO, Jan. 25 (CP).—Mayor Allan Lamport vowed today that as soon as he can get facts from Canadian National Exhibition records he will give Toronto residents "a complete expose of CNE affairs—financial or otherwise."

As Mayor of Toronto and a voting member of the CNE executive board, he said in an interview that he now is in a position to obtain information denied him when in previous years as alderman and controller he voiced charges of improper dealings in midway contracts and grand stand concessions.

He promised "a greater fireworks show than you see at the grand stand," saying he will press for a complete new financial setup of the annual report, tabling of documents covering the midway contracts of recent years and the future letting of concession space by public tender

A meeting of the CNE executive board is scheduled for Saturday.

Said Mayor Lamport: "It is time the czar-like powers of General Manager Elwood Hughes with complete power over the midway and grand stand concessions, was halted."

The Mayor said Mr. Hughes has led the directors "by the nose" too long. "It has been a one-man show for years."

4½% Freight Rate Hike Granted Railways; Find More Goods Exempted

OTTAWA, Jan. 25. (CP)—The railways won a general increase of about 4½ per cent in freight rates today, but the list of goods fully or partially exempted from the increases was widened. Breaking new ground in limiting the impact of rate hoists, the Board of Transport commissioners exempted potatoes, coal and coke and put ceilings on the increases upon sand, gravel, crushed stone and fuelwood. It also left intact existing rates on grain and its products carried in the West—despite a railway attempt to lift some of them—and continued customary exceptions on certain other types of traffic.

However, it turned down various applications by the railways and some shipping groups for miscellaneous exemptions on several commodities.

The rates on coal and coke—partly exempted in previous post-war rate cases—and on potatoes will remain at levels set last July under an interim increase of 12 per cent awarded the railways then.

The maximum increase on sand and gravel used in building will be 10 cents a ton. For crushed stone, it will be 20 cents a ton. For fuelwood, two cents a 100 pounds.

Another Departure

The board undertook another new departure in its decision by limiting the duration of the higher rates to Aug. 31, 1953, unless a change is ordered in the meantime. Previously, rates were set to run indefinitely. The change was made in part to allow for a review of how the new exemptions work out.

In setting the size of the increase at 4½ per cent over current rates, the board gave the railways just about half of a 10 per cent request hanging fire from an application filed originally in December 1950.

The application, amended twice by the railways as late as last November, called for a total of 22 per cent. The railways got 12 per cent of it on a temporary basis last July. Today's judgment, final settlement of the case, lifts that to 17 per cent, and the net result is a 4½ per cent rise over present rates.

10 Days Notice

The increases—applicable to about half the total freight traffic—may go into effect on 10 days' notice by the railways. That means they could be in operation about Feb. 11.

Fresh Troops Reach Tunisia

TUNIS, Tunisia, Jan. 25—(CP) — France today landed fresh troops in strife-riddled Tunisia to fight Nationalist uprisings in which nearly 50 persons have been killed and hundreds have been injured in the past 10 days.

The French cruiser Georges Leygues landed reinforcements at the North African port of Bizerte. French officials announced Thursday that heavy-armored and infantry detachments were being rushed here to help seek out the instigators of violent demonstrations and guerilla attacks on French authorities.

Shots were exchanged today between police and about 300 demonstrators at Bab El Kadra, one of the gates to Tunis, capital of the French protectorate.

Nationalist agitation continued Thursday night and two trains were derailed about 25 miles from here. It was the second time in 10 days that trains have been derailed in Tunisia. One man was killed.

Would Bypass Airfield Issue

MUNSAN, Korea, Jan. 25 (AP) —Allied truce negotiators suggested today that the thorny question of airfield construction be set aside temporarily and staff officers start work immediately on other details of policing a Korean armistice.

Chinese Maj.-Gen. Hsieh Fang promised to study the proposal and reply later.

"Basically, this is another effort of the United Nations command to achieve a realistic armistice as rapidly as possible," said Brig.-Gen. William P. Nuckols, Allied spokesman.

The issue of whether the Communists have the right to build and repair military airfields in North Korea during an armistice has deadlocked truce supervision negotiations since Jan. 9.

Friday Maj.-Gen. Howard M. Turner asked the Reds to choose one of three possible courses of action:

1. Continue sub-committee discussions while staff officers start work on points already agreed upon in principle.

2. Call a temporary recess until the staff officers complete their work.

3. Turn over the airfield issue to the staff officers for discussion after they agree on other points.

Race Horse Owner Attacked By Thugs

TORONTO, Jan. 25 — (CP) — Charles Hemstead, prominent race horse owner and hotel man, early today battled three thugs who left him dazed and beaten in the driveway of his Toronto home.

Police said Hemstead held off the hoodlums, armed with lead pipes, until his 19-year-old son, Bob, heard his shouts and came to his aid.

He was badly bruised and 14 stitches were required to close cuts.

Hemstead, owner of the 1943 King's Plate winner Paolita, said the thugs attempted to tear a $5,000 diamond ring off his finger. He was not carrying much money with him.

He said he was expecting an attack on himself for the last two months and, until recently, had police protection.

Plan Parliament To Open Feb. 28

OTTAWA, Jan. 25 (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent announced today that parliament will open Thursday, Feb. 28.

He said it is not likely that the new governor-general, Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, will be sworn into office before the opening.

The fifth session of the 21st parliament was prorogued Dec. 29 last.

The speech from the throne, outlining proposed government legislation, likely will be read by Chief Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret of the Supreme Court of Canada, who will be administrator when the governor-general, Viscount Alexander, retires next Monday.

Report 1,000 Policemen Surrender

Egypt's Cabinet Holds Emergency Meeting May Break Relations

ISMAILIA, Egypt, Jan. 25.—(CP)—British troops, tanks and armored cars, firing at point blank range, today smashed a suicidal defence by armed Egyptian police reserves in a six-hour battle in which at least 50 Egyptians were killed.

Three British soldiers died in what was described as the bloodiest fighting yet in the Suez canal zone.

In addition there were unofficial reports that 1,000 Egyptian police were captured by British forces.

The British counted 130 Egyptions and 13 British soldiers hurt in the battle, initiated by British troops to disarm Egyptian auxiliary police. The British said police were fighting them instead of keeping order.

(In London, a written statement issued by the Foreign Office said "the decision to undertake this operation, which has His Majesty's government approval, was taken only after every effort had been made by the British authorities in Egypt to persuade the Egyptian authorities concerned to bring the activities of these auxiliary police under control.)

Began At Dawn

Fighting began at dawn. British authorities said it ended shortly after noon with the collapse of police resistance. The police in their headquarters, ringed by 1,500 Britons armed with tanks and other heavy weapons, were outnumbered about two to one.

Interior minister Fouad Serag El Din Pasha had ordered the Egyptian police to "resist to the end, meeting force with force."

An interior ministry spokesman said Serag El Din personally directed the Egyptian side of the operation by telephone.

Between 500 and 600 police filed out of the headquarters building and surrendered shortly after noon. Two hours earlier, Lancashire Fusiliers moved in under a smoke screen and captured between 200 and 300 others who had been sniping from the Egyptian health centre a block away.

Eight Students In Trenton Crash

TRENTON, Jan. 25 (CP). — Eight Trenton high school students, two seriously injured, were trapped in the wreckage of a station wagon Thursday after it was hit by an oil truck. They were freed by a crew from Trenton RCAF station, headed by Flt. Sgt. W. J. Carroll, which ripped the jammed door off the vehicle.

Lorraine Weller, 15, and John Black, 16, were taken to Trenton Memorial Hospital. They were riding in the back seat of the station wagon when the oil truck, driven by E. E. Shepherd of Trenton, struck it from behind. Six other students and the driver escaped unhurt.

Sharpshooting Eskimos Find US Army Targets Too Big

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Jan 25 (AP).—Some of America's most patriotic citizens—Eskimo scouts of the Alaska National Guard—speak no English, have never ridden in an automobile and have never seen a city until now.

They're easy to spot on Anchorage streets. They walk along the sidewalks in single file.

Expert riflemen who can hit the eye of a seal on an ice floe at 100 yards, they complain that army targets are too big. They're disappointed if they fail to make perfect scores.

As members of the 1st and 2nd Provisional Scout Battalions of the all-Eskimo unit of the Alaska National Guard, these natives from north of the Arctic Circle are taking part in their first field encampment at Fort Richardson. Their intensive training runs through Jan. 27.

Eskimos determined to attend the encampment walked or dogsledded long distances to Nome and Bethel, in Western Alaska, to be picked up by Air Force planes flown from Elmendorf field here.

One group walked 70 miles in a blinding blizzard to reach Bethel. Another walked 18 miles and continued 40 more by dogsled before reaching a take-off point.

Their plane ride here was the first for many. The automobile and three-and-four-storey buildings here amazed the natives.

After encampment, the guardsmen will return to their villages to instruct men unable to come to the sessions.

The scouts will be on 24-hour duty at their Bering Sea and Arctic Ocean homes. In event of an enemy attack, they would provide defence units which would save transporting regular troops to the area.

Vincent Massey Appointed Governor-General

LONDON, Jan. 25. (CP)—Vincent Massey will leave for Canada early next month to take up his appointment as governor-general, it was learned authoritatively today. Buckingham Palace said Field Marshal Viscount Alexander, whom Massey succeeds, will take on "other responsibilities." He is expected to be named minister of defence in Prime Minister Churchill's cabinet. The first Canadian appointed as the King's top representative in Canada will travel by sea or air to his home in Port Hope, prior to taking up residence in Ottawa.

Massey, 64, has remained aloof from reporters since he arrived here in December to stay in Kensington with his son, Hart, coxswain of Oxford crew in 1939, and now a practising architect.

When news of Massey's appointment came from Buckingham Palace Thursday, capping weeks of speculation, reporters were told that the one-time Canadian High Commissioner in London was not available for comment.

Date Unknown

The date when Mr. Massey, now visiting in Britain, will take office was not immediately disclosed.

Later, Viscount Alexander announced that he and Viscountess Alexander will leave Ottawa by train Feb. 15 and sail for Britain from Halifax Feb. 17 aboard the liner Franconia.

The Irish-born Field Marshal is regarded as one of the greatest British generals of his generation. As the strategist who developed the African and Italian campaigns in the Second World War, he led the armies of many nationalities, including two Canadian divisions and an armoured brigade, to brilliantly-executed victories.

Since Viscount Alexander and Viscountess Alexander came to Canada to take up the vice-regal post in April, 1946, their easy informality placed them among the most popular of the vice-regal couples to come to this country.

The new Governor-General, known as an ardent Canadian, is a lover of the arts and a man of high academic attainments. He is bilingual and speaks French almost as well as English.

Rich Experience

He now is Chancellor of the University of Toronto—a post he presumably will relinquish—and has had rich experience in the country's cultural, education and industrial life. He twice served the country in key diplomatic posts—in Washington and in London.

His appointment may create

Mayor Takes Lessons

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 25. (Reuters) — Melbourne's dancing mayor, spry 67-year-old Councillor O. J. Nilsen wants to learn "Strip the Willow"—one of Prince Elizabeth's favorites—so that he can dance it with her when she visits Melbourne on the Royal tour. "I've heard of it, and I think my daughter knows it, and she will teach me," he said. Newspapers this week published photographs showing Nilsen practising with his secretary for the Royal ball.

Prime Minister Defends Massey Action

OTTAWA, Jan. 25 (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent, defending his government's recommendation that a Canadian become Governor-General, told reporters today that Canadians have "got some day to grow up."

They should not be "hamstrung" by having tied to them the "apron-strings" of the past, he said.

Obviously anticipating the controversy developing around the government's decision to break with tradition and recommend a Canadian Governor-General, Mr. St. Laurent made a vigorous defence at a 90-minute press conference of his government's act and said it was based on firm constitutional procedure.

If controversy did develop, he believed it would be on the principle of the step taken and not about the qualifications of the man—Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey—chosen for the job.

To Honor Alexander

The Prime Minister also said the government plans to honor Viscount Alexander, retiring Governor-General, by making him a member of the King's Canadian Privy Council, in the same way that Prime Minister Churchill is a member of that council. He will be appointed next Tuesday. His term as Governor-General expires next Monday.

He expressed his regret that Viscount and Viscountess Alexander are leaving and said the government will tender a small dinner party, including members of the cabinet and opposition party leaders, for them Feb. 5. Later that evening, there will be an official reception.

When reporters asked him about his view about the govern-

Veteran Actress Dies At 68

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 25 (AP)—Polly Moran, 68, famed teammate of the late Marie Dressler, died of a heart ailment in hospital today.

Miss Moran, who entered films as a 1919 Mack Sennett bathing girl, was stricken late last autumn at the Laguna Beach home where she had lived since 1944.

The actress retired from screen and stage in 1940 and made a brief comeback in 1949, when she played a part in "Adam's Rib."

She was the wife of Martin T. Malone, a lawyer. They have an adopted son, John Michael Moran.

Born in Chicago in 1883, Miss Moran began her stage career at the age of 14 in a small-time vaudeville act. By 1920, she and Marie Dressler were established comedy favorites in the movies.

Miss Moran's pictures included "The Callahans and the Murphys", "London After Midnight," "Bringing Up Father," "Hot For Paris," "The Bishop Murder Case," "Caught Short," and "Alice in Wonderland."

Russia's 'Package Deal' On Satellites Approved By UN Group

First Time 60 Members Have Adopted Major Soviet Proposal Opposed Vigorously By United States

PARIS, Jan. 25. (CP)—Over vigorous American objections, the United Nations political committee today approved Russia's "package deal" calling on the security council to admit five Soviet Satellites and nine other countries to the UN. It was the first time in UN history the political committee, which includes all 60 UN members, has adopted a major Soviet resolution actively opposed by the United States. The vote on the Soviet demand—21 to 12 with 25 abstentions—was sufficient to send the resolution to the general assembly for consideration but short of the two-thirds majority which will be required for passage by the assembly. Canada abstained on the vote.

The Russian resolution calls on the Security Council to admit in one group 14 countries who have applied for UN membership—Albania, Bulgaria, Hungary, Romania, and outer Mongolia, all backed by the Soviet Union, and the Western-sponsored countries, the Republic of Ireland, Italy, Ceylon, Finland, Nepal, Jordan, Libya and Portugal.

Soviet delegate Jakob Malik told the committee during the debate that if the council brought the applicant countries up in one package, Russia would refrain from using the veto which so far has blocked the admission of the Western candidates.

Individual Judging

The United States, which also has the veto in the council, insisted that each candidate be judged on its individual merits. The US contends that the Soviet satellites do not live up to the "peace-loving" requirements of the UN charter.

American delegate Ernest A. Gross said he did not construe the vote as a defeat for the United States. He said he was confident the resolution would be defeated in the assembly.

The large list of abstentions, in which Canada was joined by Britain, Australia, the Philippines, Uruguay and Ecuador, made it possible for the resolution to be adopted.

Earlier the committee adopted a Peruvian resolution asking the big five on the council—the US, Britain, France, Russia and China—to get together in a try to break the deadlock which held up the admission of new members.

The Peruvian draft, which had strong American backing, also called on the Security Council to reconsider applications of all countries which have applied. This would include the republic of Korea which is specifically excluded from the Soviet list.

Quints Meet Young Quads

SAULT STE. MARIE, Jan. 25—(CP) Two thousand people gathered at the railway station here Thursday to watch the Dionne quintuplets meet the Hargreaves quadruplets but only about 30 of them saw much of the nine pretty girls.

A tight group of civic officials, Junior Chamber of Commerce members, and policemen surrounded the girls so closely that no one else could see much.

Despite this, a cheer went up when the quints climbed off and on their special railway car. They were travelling to St. Paul, Minn., to appear in that city's winter carnival.

Only two policemen were on duty at the station as the train drew in and a rush call was sent for reinforcements.

Angry bystanders tore down a welcome banner above the station platform.

one of the number of people writing him about the government's action in stripping the term "Dominion of Canada" of of Federal laws.

"The government is not, of course, trying to change popular usage," he said. "I personally would be entirely opposed to any attempt to interfere with its use in a historical or popular sense.

"What we have been seeking to do is to correct an error in official usage which has crept into the statutes and administrative documents and which is not warranted by the BNA Act of 1867."

The Act said four provinces "shall form and be one Dominion under the name of Canada....The government does not deny nor have we any desire to deny that Canada is one of the King's Dominions. We are simply using the correct name in official documents."

He added later that one consideration is that "the term Dominion does suggest to many good and loyal Canadians that our country occupies a somewhat inferior status...."

Milder temepratures eased the serious water shortage here, caused by residents running water to prevent taps from freezing.

Ivan Gray Heads Newly-Formed Millbrook C of C

MILLBROOK, Jan. 25 (ENS)—Ivan Gray was elected president of the newly-formed Millbrook Chamber of Commerce Thursday night.

James M. Fraser, manager of the Peterborough Chamber, was guest speaker at the organization meeting held in the village council chambers. He discussed the aims of the chamber and its worth to a community.

Mr. Fraser said: "Wherever there is a difference between what a community is and what it should be, there is room for a chamber of commerce." Each community had its own local problems with which a chamber of commerce would be helpful.

He said that the chamber of commerce was a group of citizens banded together for "the improvement of the civic, cultural, industrial and agricultural life of the community."

New warden of the united counties, Harry Campbell, told the meeting that "good roads are the leading arteries of commerce and trade through which flows the life blood of a nation." He said he would work for equal distribution of money for road improvement throughout the united counties.

Mr. Fraser was introduced by Mr. Gray.

Jury Decides Death Due To Misunderstanding

TORONTO, Jan. 25 — (CP) — A coroner's jury Thursday night returned a verdict of accidental death due to a misunderstanding in the death of Mrs. Williamette Robertson, 69, in the Ontario (mental hospital at Toronto Dec. 20.

Death was found to have resulted from the mistaken intravenous injection of alcohol by Dr. Claire Robinson. He had intended to inject diodrast, a drug used to show blood vessels under X-ray.

In absolving Dr. Robinson from all blame, the jury recommended that in the future, all alcohol used in medicine be colored for safety. They also suggested a registered nurse be present at any intravenous injection.

ment's decision to recommend a Canadian, he said:

"We have got some day to grow up, you know, and have sufficient confidence in ourselves that our system of responsible government is one that Canadians can operate and that it won't be necessary for us to have apron strings tied to ourselves."

Must Act Themselves

The question was whether Canadians were going to be able to "do things for themselves" or whether they were going to be "hamstrung" by having conditions attached to their actions.

He said there is a feeling "in some parts of our population that we have not grown up sufficiently to take care of ourselves without being hamstrung by conditions."

But he noted that public opinion polls—though he was not endorsing them—indicated that a majority of Canadians wanted to see a Canadian appointed governor-general.

At the same time, he stressed that the Canadian system of responsible government means that the government takes responsibility for its actions and could be turned out of office if it did not heed the wishes of the people.

4½% Freight

Along with earlier rate awards since the war, they constitute a cumulative increase of 70 per cent in the tolls on the traffic to which they apply.

The board estimated they will give the Canadian Pacific Railway—the "yardstick" line for setting rates—an additional annual gross of $8,400,000 and about half that after taxes. This means the total freight bill for all Canada will be boosted by about $20,000,000 a year. It now runs to about $900,000,000.

Purpose of higher rates is to meet increased costs of labor and materials and also to help cover the 20-per-cent defence surcharge on corporation income put into effect in the last federal budget.

The 18,000-word judgment of the five-man board is headed by Mr. Justice J. D. Kearney, who took office last fall, and it was his first decision in a major freight-rate case.

Commissioner H. B. Chase, labor-railway representative on the board, concurred but wrote a separate opinion expressing "some doubt" about the need for departing from a straight percentage increase on the exceptions. However, he said the doubt was somewhat allayed by the fact the increase will be only for a limited period.

controversy—not about the man chosen, but about the government's decision to break with tradition and select a native son as the King's personal representative.

There already has been comment—even before the step was officially announced—with some suggesting the move would bring politics into the vice-regal office and others asserting the decision was a proper one.

The appointment leaves Ceylon as the only Commonwealth country whose Governor-General is a Briton.

Mr. Massey is a tall, spare, distinguished-looking man who is known for his diplomacy and his impeccable dress. His brother is Raymond Massey, the Hollywood and Broadway actor.

Canadians perhaps know of him best as the man who two years ago headed the Royal Commission on Arts, Letters and Sciences. The commission studied Canada's cultural progress and made recommendations for its development.

Busy Life

He was born in Toronto Feb. ruary 20, 1887, of an American mother and a Canadian father, and studied at the University of Toronto and at Oxford, specializing in modern history. From 1913 to 1915, he lectured on that subject at the University of Toronto.

In 1918, he served as associate secretary to the War Cabinet and as director of the government's Repatriation Committee, and, a year later, went into business as secretary and director of Massey-Harris Company, the big farm implement firm which his grandfather had founded.

By 1921, at the age of 34, he was president of the company, a job he gave up in 1925 to enter the Mackenzie King Cabinet as minister without portfolio. His Cabinet appointment lasted one month because he was defeated a few weeks later in the general election of that year.

He was appointed first Canadian minister to Washington in 1926 and served there until 1930. He returned to private life, but went back to government service in 1935 as Canadian High Commissioner to London, holding that post until 1946.

He became Chancellor of the University of Toronto in 1947.

Mr. Massey is a widower, his wife having died in 1950. He has two sons, Lionel and Hart.

Truck's Brakes Fail, Car Heavily Damaged

LINDSAY, Jan. 25 (ENS). — Both driverless, a car and truck were damaged to the tune of $500 today when the truck's air brakes failed, it rolled backward and hit a parked car.

Driver of the truck, Clare Wilson, Mariposa township, parked the tractor-trailer in front of a house on Glenelg St. When the brakes failed, the truck crashed into the car, owned by Jack Chambers, St. Paul St.

After hitting the left rear and left side of the car, the truck jackknifed across the street, its trailer on the road, the tractor on the north boulevard.

Damage to the truck was set at $100, to the car at $400.

Alexander Helps Fight Fire Takes Orders From Boy 11

OTTAWA, Jan. 25. (CP)—Viscount Alexander, who has commanded great armies in battle, carried buckets of water at the direction of an 11-year-old country boy as he pitched in to help fight a farm-house fire near here. The unorthodox Governor-General, soon to leave Canada, turned firefighter for 1½ hours Wednesday when he came upon a chimney blaze in an old farmhouse while driving back from one of his last skiing trips to Quebec's Gatineau Hills.

The 60-year-old Viscount, who has added some unconventional twists to the staid vice-regal pattern during his six years here, went right to work alongside Leo and Pat Mulvihill, 11 and 13 years old, as they fought to save their home in bitterly cold weather.

Leo was in an upstairs bedroom working at the fire through a stovepipe hole when Viscount Alexander turned up.

Takes Orders

"The Governor-General," said Leo Thursday, "came up with a pail of water, handed it to me and said: 'What do you want now?'

"I said: 'Go and get some more water.'

"He just went and did it."

Besides lugging water up the twisting staircase to Leo, the Viscount also helped stuff sacks and rags into the chimney to halt the draft that was driving tongues of flame up the flue from the building's wood-burning furnace.

Meanwhile, he sent his automobile to nearby Beamish Lodge to pick up Mrs. Gladwin Mulvihill mother of the boys, who lost her husband in a road accident only a few weeks ago.

The car brought back fire extinguishers, too, and Viscount Alexander manned one. When the fire was out, the Governor-General slipped quietly away.

US Price Changes Not Affecting Canada

OSHAWA, Ont., Jan. 25—(CP)—A spokesman for General Motors of Canada said today the announcement yesterday that the United States government authorized General Motors' US company to raise basic retail prices on its 1952 models will have no effect on the firm's car prices in Canada.

The spokesman said if and when any price changes are made in Canada the structure will be based on Canadian conditions.

The US Office of Price Stabilization has approved boosts in basic reail prices on GM cars by amounts ranging from $50 to $222.

Emergency Meeting

In Cairo, the Egyptian cabinet was summoned into an emergency meeting. A reliable informant said it may consider making a full break in diplomatic relations with Britain because of the Ismailia fight today.

The British ordered the Egyptian police to lay down their arms this morning. They said the Egyptians were guilty of "unprovoked attacks" and the police had "failed to maintain order."

The British said their drive was aimed particularly at 800 to 1,000 auxiliary police who flocked into the city to aid the regular police in mid-October when trouble first broke out in the Suez Canal zone.

The British charged the auxiliaries incited and fought in canal zone skirmishes and joined guerrillas in the Saturday battle in which the nun was killed.

May Return Guns

A British spokesman said regular police would be disarmed also, but their guns would be returned later if Egypt agreed to carry out "normal police duties with regular police only."

A British spokesman said the police would be released after they were disarmed.

He said the action was "in no sense an assumption of military government" and said it was ordered with the "prior knowledge and full approval" of the British government.

About 1,500 troops with tanks surrounded the police station at dawn and laid down a smoke screen. Gunfire came from the police and the British replied with machine guns and "heavy weapons," a military spokesman said.

The British said the Egyptian police commandant, who was not in the headquarters building, was reached by British officers and sent word to the police to hang out a white flag.

Ordered To Fight

In today's fighting, it was reported the police garrison had orders from the National Government to "resist the British to the last man and the last shot."

But they stumbled out of the enclosure to surrender after tanks shattered their headquarters building and troops advanced with fixed bayonets on adjoining barrack buildings.

The heavy armor, along with several companies of British Fusiliers and paratroops, laid siege to the three-storey concrete Bureau de Sanitaire headquarters of the reserves. They reduced it to smoking, blood-stained rubble.

Shells from the 50-ton Centurion tanks, only a few yards away from the bureau ripped huge gaps in the main building where the dead lay as they had fallen.

The battle began with an Egyptian gesture of defiance. As British troops poured into the quarter, their colonel presented to police officials a demand to surrender.

While police studied the order, the tanks came into position. When the police refused to lay down arms, the British spotted men in the barracks running to firing positions. The lead tank fired a blank shell as a warning.

The Egyptians returned the fire and the battle was on.

District Increase In Accidents Second Lowest

The second lowest increase in motor vehicle accidents in Ontario for the first nine months of 1951 over the same period in 1950 was recorded by the Peterborough district. The lowest increase was in the northern Ontario district of Cochrane.

The Peterborough district which includes Durham, Northumberland, Victoria and Haliburton counties had 1,194 car accidents during that nine-month period as compared with 1084 in 1950. This increase amounted to 10.1 per cent.

At the same time Cochrane had only 422 car accidents from January to September, an increase of 3.4 per cent.

In Ontario's 16 districts a total of 37,839 accidents were reported in the cities and counties and Peterborough district had only 3.2 per cent of the total, tied for the fifth postion. The Renfrew district which includes Lanark, Leeds and Grenville, also had 3.2 per cent of Ontario's accidents.

The lowest number of accidents was in the northern districts of Kenora, Patricia and Rainy River, only 377 which accounted for one per cent of the provincial total. Cochrane, Thunder Bay and the Temiskaming districts totalled slightly more than seven per cent of Ontario accidents.

But the percentage increase in accidents was recorded also in the north, Manitoulin, Sudbury and Algoma district. There the accidents increased by 37 per cent over the 1950 nine-month period, in actual figures from 824 in 1950 to 1131 in 1951.

Western Oils Climb Sharply On Exchange

TORONTO, Jan. 25 — (CP) — Western oils climbed sharply today in early afternoon dealings as slowly strengthening support pushed stock market prices steadily higher.

Trading opened briskly but tapered off toward noon. Western oil speculation dominated trading while only a few lower-priced base metals and penny golds attracted interest. Lake Dufault, however, climbed strongly in active trading. Industrial dealings were mostly in leading issues. Volume for the first three hours was 1,178,000 shares.

Western oil gains ranged from pennies to about 25 cents. Anglo-Canadian, Calvan Consolidated, Gridoil, Jupiter, Pacific Petroleum and Security Free strengthened steadily.

Steels and miscellaneous issues led industrials with a scattered list of fractional advances. Utilities and foods drew firm support but constructions, refining oils, retail stores and liquors were weak.

Base metals were mixed. Anacon Lead, Barvue, Consolidated Smelters, International Nickel, Labrador, Mindamar and United Asbestos edged upward but Noranda and United Keno Hill slipped.

Senior golds showed little trend.

Jumped Into River Deserter Recaptured

GALT, Jan. 25. (CP)—Clifford Freure, 21-year-old soldier who Wednesday night jumped 20 feet into the Grand River to escape an army sergeant, was found yesterday.

Provost police discovered Freure in bed at the home of a friend. He was suffering chills.

Police said Freure, for five days absent without leave, must have had assistance in getting dry clothes. He was taken to London under an army provost escort, together with Clarence Lefevre, an artilleryman also absent without leave who was picked up here.

United Counties Roads Cost $353,300

COBOURG, Jan. 25—(ENS)—Counties road appropriation of $353,300, approximately the same as last year, was approved and ratified by the necessary bylaw at Thursday session of Northumberland and Durham Counties Council. This will be covered by a 4½ mill rate. A larger expenditure, which would entail a 5½ mill rate, was turned down by the council.

The road committee, in recommending the road appropriation suggested that the road superintendent try, as much as was possible, to include more construction and paving in his road programs for 1952. Reeve A. Beer, of Manvers township, declared that it was essential that no increase in the road rate be entertained as there had been a deficit last year of $10,000.

Road Superintendent Jack Jordan pointed out that $20,000 had to be switched from bridge expenditure, on which there was a larger government subsidy, to road expenditure. The difference between an estimated and actual expenditure was about 2½, he said, a percentage which could not be smaller in view of variation in construction costs.

Reeve Elmer Scott, of Hope township, declared that there would have to be a line drawn as there would be so many requests for road work that it would take a ten mill rate to handle it.

"Don't ask for more money until you can better the value you are getting," suggested Reeve H. McCann, of Brighton township.

Fox Abattoir

Warden Harry Campbell wondered if they were trying to turn the counties clerk's office into a wolf and fox abbatoir.

"I don't see why all these fox pelts can't be turned in to the township clerk of whatever municipality they were shot in. Of course, the wolf pelts must be brought in to Cobourg but there is no reason why they should turn the clerk's office into a fox abbatoir. They don't bother skinning them because the pelts are only worth 35 to 50 cents and they get $3 bounty. They don't smell very pretty by the time they lay around the office. When the wolf pelts are brought here they should have been skinned and dried," said the warden.

On motion, council decided to send out a circular letter advising the township clerks that they were to pay the fox bounties and that they would be re-imbursed by the counties each month.

Ex-warden George Walton, who is working as a member of the special committee investigating the books of the former treasurer of the counties, was lauded by the present warden for his good services.

A. G. Soper, of Hastings, representing the Rice Lake Tourist Association, asked council to request the Department of Lands and Forests to amend the fishing regulations so that it would be permitted to drift or cast for pickerel with artificial bait from a boat during the present prohibited period of May 15 to July 1.

He declared that tourists were going to places in the province where this restriction was not imposed. Council decided to make the requested recommendation. This would start fish and game clubs in these counties, plus Victoria and Peterborough counties, protesting against any change in the restrictions which might hamper conservation.

Appointments

The following appointments were made at the close of the session yesterday:

Reforestation committee, Gordon Broomfield and L. Hootan; Children's Aid Society, George Broadworth and Harold Skinner; counties board of health, Dr. J. W. Wright; board of management, Allen Beer; Bowmanville Hospital board, M. Dale; Port Hope Hospital, G. Phillips; Cobourg Hospital, Jack Erskine; Campbellford, Oscar Mason; road commission, Reg. McMann; Colborne registry office, Fred Harnden; Cobourg registry office, Jack Erskine; Port Hope registry office, W. Roche; Bowmanville registry office, F. M. Vanstone; commissioner of jail and counties offices, George Galbraith; special county property committee, D. Olan; auditor of criminal justice accounts, Harry Woodley.

Several times during the session this month, counties council has got into procedure difficulties because the new counties clerk has not had time to familiarize himself with council procedure. The question was raised as to where the counties solicitor was and why he was not present at each session. It was pointed out that he was only paid a retainer and that the tariff of fees was $10 an hour for attendance. Members of the council blinked at that fee and promptly dropped the idea of his continual attendance at the sessions. Reeve Roche of Port Hope said that it would be a good idea to afford each councillor the opportunity of learning the rules of procedure by having them printed in the minute books.

Council adjourned until the call of the warden. As it has been decided to hold four, instead of three, sessions a year the next one will be in April.

Viscount Thinks Both Sons May Become Canadians

By DOUGLAS HOW.

OTTAWA, Jan. 25 — (CP) — It wouldn't surprise Viscount Alexander if both his sons eventually become Canadians.

He said so Thursday as he buckled on his skis for one of the last of many outings in the Gatineau Hills north of this capital.

A reporter chatted briefly with the retiring Governor-General in the below zero weather at the foot of steep, fast Beamish Hill where he has come to ski day after day for some winters.

The 60-year-old Field Marshal looked up as he worked with his harness to say it was "sad" that his family is leaving Canada. But "in my new job"— expected to be that of British Defence Minister —he would be coming to Canada fairly often in the years ahead.

And both his sons, Shane, 16, and Brian, 12, have decided they want to go to Montreal's McGill University, he said, when the time comes for college.

May Settle Down Here.

That being so, he suggested it wouldn't be surprising if they settled down in Canada because college graduates often accepted jobs in the country where they graduate. It would be a normal sort of development.

Viscount Alexander's 19-year-old daughter, Rose, already is at McGill and is expected to stay there when the family leaves Canada shortly.

The family's interest in that particular university stems from two things, he explained later after coming down the slope with an ability a much younger man might envy.

One is that he himself is McGill's "offical visitor," an ancient honorary office, and the other is that McGill is close to Ottawa.

Throughout the winter, he has driven the 15-odd miles to the hills day after day except on the week-ends. He chats with the other skiers in both English and French.

Even during the recent Churchill visit, he slipped away one afternoon for his daily outing while the Prime Minister took a nap.

As he finished off one descent and starrted back up for another on Thursday, he said: "I come here every afternoon when there is skiing and when I haven't got an engagement."

"And," he added with a smile, "I try to see that there are not too many engagements to interfere."

Tenders Asked For New Depot

COBOURG, Jan. 25— (ENS)—Tenders for consrtuction of four warehousese for Cobourg's ordnance depot are being asked in newspaper advertisements.

Already, the contract for construction of sewers, fences, and other services has been let to the McFarlane Construction Co. of Picton. Last week, it was announced that construction would start soon on depot buildings.

Another move toward construction of the multi-million dollar depot came with the recent arrival of the project engineer, R. H. Richards. He started survey work on the site, and said an office would soon be built for himself and his staff.

Mr. Massey At Rideau Hall

It is not a surprise that Mr. Vincent Massey has been appointed to the post of Governor General; the announcement has been expected, and the implications of the appointment of a Canadian have been discussed, for several weeks. Now that the matter is official, we will repeat what we have said already: if Canada is to have a Canadian as Governor General, we are happy that Mr. Massey has been chosen. His devotion to this country is beyond question; his service to Canada has occupied the greater part of his life and his best exertions; he is a man of commanding intellectual stature and stainless honour. Our only regret in this matter is that the late Mrs. Massey is not here to be at his side; her services to Canada, and in particular her work on behalf of service men during the war, have won her name a special place of honour in the memory of hundreds of thousands of Canadians.

* * *

We shall be interested to see what Mr. Massey will do when he is installed at Rideau Hall, as the representative of the King in this country. No one who knows him will expect him to play the somewhat cautious role which British Governors General have thought it necessary to assume for at least a year after their appointment. Mr. Massey is one of us, and few people know the Canadian worlds of affairs, politics, arts and sciences, and society, better than he; it would be foolish to think that he will remove himself to some rarer atmosphere above all these things, or that he will not pursue, in his new position, the interests which have engrossed his attention hitherto. He is now in a position of great influence, and he is not handicapped by the necessity to tread softly for fear he may tread on Canadian toes.

* * *

It is no secret that some Canadian Prime Ministers have held some Governors General at arm's length, and have discouraged too keen an interest in Canadian affairs. We do not suppose that Mr. Massey will submit to anything of that kind. As Governor General he enjoys a widespread influence which is not political. This, coupled with the fact that he is the chief architect of the Massey Report, might lead to some extremely interesting developments in this country. We hope that it will. For great results do not always spring from Government handouts; they come quite as often from encouragement and appreciation, good advice and friendly regard. These are benefactions which Mr. Massey has long bestowed upon many important aspects of our national growth, and he is now in the best of all positions to make his influence felt.

Stock Trading

Canada had a remarkable year in 1951 on the stock markets. Prices rose to new peaks in September, reaching and in many cases surpassing the high stock prices of 1929 before the crash. Accompanying this rise was a tremendous volume of trade. Near the peak of the fall boom eight million shares were traded in Toronto in one day. It was a bigger day than the biggest of the big days of 1929. The New York Stock Market has rarely equalled or surpassed this record. The Montreal Stock Exchange and Curb Market together did a trade of about a million shares in one fall day, and their combined value of transactions was about $54½ million during the year.

Another remarkable fact about stock trading in Canada last year was that the market did not always follow or reflect Wall Street. Canadian markets did at times move independently of New York. This shows that Canada has matured financially and that the rest of the world is becoming conscious of it.

A notable aspect of last year's stock exchange business was the amount of foreign buying. A large volume of business was placed in Canada from abroad, particularly from Switzerland. The Swiss account does not mean especially that Swiss nationals are buying stocks in Canada; nationals of many countries bank in Switzerland. It means that Canada is being widely recognized as a sound market for world capital. Many foreigners are making long-term and large investments in this country, probably in the conviction that it is one of the last great countries in which private initiative may pay off.

Two other noteworthy facts about last year's stock exchanging are interesting: first was the acceleration of the trend towards stock subdivisions—splitting high-priced shares three to one, and even five to one (more than twenty companies split their stocks); the second was the influence of threats of peace on prices. The financial editor of the Montreal Gazette says:

In March, the prospect of stiffer taxation and more controls, particularly in the United States, depressed values. So, too, did false reports about peace in Korea. In fact, peace "fears" had a more or less marked influence throughout the year.

The trend was upward again in May but in that same month a further relapse occurred, partly because of military successes in Korea.

A minor recovery move in June was choked off by Russian cease-fire proposals. Eventually realization that armament programs could hardly be cut back or dropped resulted in a steady climb in the next few months with the movement gaining considerable momentum in late August and in September.

Prices began to go down in the last months of the year, and the volume of trade fell off; this was probably due to a year-end lassitude and to fears that taxation, government regulation and increasing operating costs would not allow companies to pay the high dividends this year which they did last.

What U.E. Did Not Broadcast

The United Electrical union, on behalf of its Local 524 (at the C.G.E. plant) hired some C.H.E.X. broadcasting time yesterday evening and we happen to have heard the two speakers, executive members of Local 524. They were obviously reading from a prepared script which, we presume, was written for them by some union director in the Toronto or Peterborough office. It was what was read, not the speakers themselves, which confounded us.

The first speaker talked about unemployment in Canada and said that in this regard he would like to quote from an article in the Globe and Mail. It was a news item which bore the heading "Starving People Block Peace Path, St. Laurent Warns." The U.E. speaker quoted the heading and this sentence from the account: "Prime Minister St. Laurent said tonight he doubts that the world can hope for a secure peace as long as great numbers of its population border on starvation." Then the U.E. speaker immediately went on to say: "This is in part what the Prime Minister of Canada told the Canadian Federation of Agriculture in a recent address to their Association. Our Union has consistently advocated policies that would end great numbers of people being on the unemployment list, and would prevent the shocking situation that now exists and is admitted by the Prime Minister of this country of ours, namely, that great numbers of the population border on starvation."

What is U.E. trying to imply; what kind of twist is it giving the Prime Minister's speech?

What U.E. did not quote in its broadcast was another paragraph in the same newspaper report: "Happily, Canada was able to look after her own needs and provide a great deal of food for export."

What the Prime Minister plainly meant, and U.E. did not bother to make plain, was stated in another paragraph of the same newspaper report. Mr. St. Laurent was quoted in that report as saying: "But those in the world who are not so fortunate as we in this North American continent are becoming more and more aware of their poverty in relation to our plenty."

Mr. Churchill's "Muller Cut-Down"

In Britain, we read, there is some annoyance because irreverent American newspapers have been referring to Mr. Churchill's characteristic square-crowned hard hat as "a sawed-off Derby". Some Englishmen feel that this shows a lack of refinement; the proper name for that hat, they explain, with hauteur, is a Cambridge hat; there is some suggestion that it was named after a Duke of Cambridge. Apparently a number of these hats are manufactured and sold every year, and James Lock and Company, the famous London hatters, do not like to hear it spoken of flippantly.

Frankly, we are amused by this show of British pique, for the history of costume is a hobby of ours, and we know that the British people themselves used to call hats of that description by a far more insulting name than "sawed-off Derby"; they called it "a Muller-cut-down".

The reason was that such a hat formed part of the evidence in the trial, during the '60s, of a murderer called Frank Muller. He killed his victim in a railway carriage, and in escaping therefrom he foolishly took his victim's hat instead of his own. His victim wore a top hat; Muller's was a Cambridge. Therefore he quickly cut a section from the crown of his victim's hat and attempted to pass it off as his own. At his trial this butchered hat was on display, and the Cambridge hat, thereafter, was known to a very large section of society as a "Muller-cut-down. Muller himself was cut down from the gallows in 1864.

Let those Englishmen who sniff at the pleasantries of the Americans on the subject of Mr. Churchill's hat recall the name which they themselves gave it.

Somebody is now asserting that people who take cold baths do not have rheumatism. Lots of people who take hot baths don't have it either. As a rheumatism cure, a potato carried in the hip pocket is just as good as a cold bath, and a lot pleasanter.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

DEAR ALPHA: I was interested to read in your column the question and answer pertaining to the city streets. I presume the city council is responsible for the naming of new streets when they are opened up. But I am curious as to how they arrive at some of the names they have used. Would it be possible that one of the councillor's wives was named "Lillian" and he wanted to honour it? And maybe the Christian name of a friend of another councillor was "Herman" and it was used for the same reason. Or possibly all the councillors submit names and the lucky one is drawn from a hat by the mayor. Could you enlighten me as to the procedure actually followed in the naming of our streets?

In order that the best possible choice be made in the future I should suggest that a standing list of names be compiled from suggestions made by the council, and the service clubs. Also names for this list might be requested from the ratepayers through an advertisement in the Examiner. It appears to me that the above method would result in establishing a list of names from which acceptable names could be chosen when required.

ANSWER: Street names are given in two ways. If property owners or building syndicates subdivide land, for instance a field outside the city boundaries, they usually name the streets themselves, put the names on a chart of the property, and thus register the plan. The less usual way is for the city to open a new street. Then the Council may give it a name.

When suburban areas are annexed they usually have streets already named and built on, and the city takes them in as they stand, unless the name happens to duplicate one already being used, or is otherwise confusing. Thus Lillian and Herman streets came into the city directory when that area south of the Exhibition Ground was annexed in 1945. I do not know whose wife, daughter or grandmother Lillian was or is, nor what Herman is commemorated.

The City Planning Board passes on all street names, but I doubt that it has ever devised one itself. It will change a street name if it is found to be unsuitable for one reason or another.

As I have already noted in this column, all the avenues from Park to Monaghan Road between Charlotte and King streets were named for members of Elias Burnham's family. Elias Burnham owned the whole area and it was the first residential building project in Peterborough. Arndon Avenue in the new housing area built by Mr. Arnold Steele and Mr. Donald Ephgrave was named by putting abbreviations of their Christian names together. An older housing project, on McCannan Avenue was named for the man who built them, Mr. H. J. McCannan, Mason Avenue in the Brookdale housing development was named for Mr. Herbert Mason, in friendly association with the firm of Sands and Bateman who developed the site.

ALPHA: Where are one's vocal chords?

ANSWER: Not lost with the great Amen, but prominently placed, especially in men: they are enclosed in a sort of box known as the 'Adam's Apple'. Why is the protuberance at the front of the throat called 'Adam's Apple'? Perhaps from the notion that a piece of the fate-forming fruit stuck at that particular spot when our first parent swallowed the forbidden apple; (Eve did not have Adam's apple; nor have most of her descendants). Some musicians would say, knowing that the vocal chords are encased in it, that the Adam's Apple is so called because a good deal of sin still originates there.

AMBLONGUS PIE: Seeing the recipes from the old cook book which appear from time to time in Saturday's Examiner, it occurred to a reader of this column to send me this delicious recipe: To make an Amblongus Pie. Here it is: try it on your friends.

Take 4 pounds (say 4½ pounds) of fresh Amblongusses, and put them in a small pipkin.

Cover them with water and boil them for 8 hours incessantly, after which add 2 pints of new milk, and proceed to boil for 4 hours more.

When you have ascertained that the Amblongusses are quite soft, take them out and place them in a wide pan, taking care to shake them well previously.

Grate some nutmeg over the surface, and cover them carefully with powdered gingerbread, curry-powder, and a sufficient quantity of cayenne pepper.

Remove the pan into the next room, and place it on the floor. Bring it back again, and let it simmer for three-quarters of an hour. Shake the pan violently till all the Amblongusses have become a pale purple colour.

Then, having prepared the paste, insert the whole carefully, adding at the same time a small pigeon, 2 slices of beef, 4 cauliflowers, and any number of oysters.

Watch patiently until the crust begins to rise, and add a pinch of salt from time to time.

Serve up in a clean dish, and throw the whole out of the window as fast as possible.

(This recipe is guaranteed to work by Edward Lear.)

FOR THE RECORD: Peterborough and district have had atmospheric rumblings this week to disturb official calm. The people on Rogers Street are objecting to a bread company's proposal to erect a half-million dollar baking centre there; and people in Douro are in a flurry about housing the school population. With such matters to occupy their attention, Peterborough folk are lucky to have hardly any time left to get ulcers about the international situation.

NOW YOU KNOW

It was late when the daughter of the house came down to breakfast. Her mother greeted her with a smile.

"Darling," she said, "you were awfully late coming in last night. I'm afraid I'm dreadfully old-fashioned, but I should like to know where you go."

The daughter smiled. "Certainly I'll tell you, Mummy," she replied. "I dined with—oh, well, you don't know him anyway; and then we went to several places that I don't suppose you've been to; and we finished up at a queer little club—I forget its name, but it's in a cellar in Soho. It's all right, isn't it, Mummy?"

"Of course it is, darling. It's only that I like to know."

Letters To The Editor

FAVOUR SCHOOL INVESTIGATION IN DOURO

Sir: We, the undersigned, were overjoyed at the appearance of your worthy editorial, in the Examiner of January 22nd. It was most gratifying to see in print the corroboration of what we have long felt was necessary in our School Area; namely, a thorough investigation. Whether any action will be taken remains to be seen, but in the meanwhile, we see a faint ray of hope for our children.

We are grateful to you for printing so many of our letters.

Sincerely yours,
JUNE DAVIS, DORA AMOS, DOREEN ANDREW, KATHLEEN LAVICTOIRE, MARGARET A. WELCH, NORMA A. MUIR.

PUBLIC SERVANTS UNDERPAID?

Sir: There is no doubt that the large majority of the public do not know about the living standard of the Public Servant. People working in that capacity hear so many remarks about having a good job. We do not disagree with them, but the salaries are so low, that it keeps the Public Servant at his wits end to keep within a decent margin of respectability. Anyone buying a home today, will know how much he has to pay; add to that his taxes, food for a family of three children husband and wife, fuel, clothing and medical expenses, and it has to be done on a salary of $1,950.00 plus $300.00 cost of living bonus. Compare that salary against a factory worker or an employee of the City, who only works five days a week, while we work six and on call anytime there is an emergency. Most Public Servants receive a cost of living bonus of $35 a month, which gives an added $420 per year, and has been paid since April 1950 but we get an increase of $10 per month in 1952. Other counties pay the full cost of living bonus, why not Peterborough?

Yours sincerely,
A PUBLIC SERVANT

NAMING CANADIAN WINES

Sir: I have read your recent editorial entitled "French Scotch, Canadian Sherry," and feel that you should be apprised of further facts regarding the nomenclature of Canadian wines.

While it is true that the terms "sherry" and "port" originated in Spain and Portugal, respectively, during the past century or so these terms have become generic. Most of the world's wine-making countries have port and sherry types of wine and there has been little criticism of the use of these terms to describe sweet white and sweet red types of appetizer and dessert wines.

In Canada, popular usage decrees that our sherry and port types continue to be described as such. The fact that the word "Canadian" appears on the labels of all Canadian sherries and ports is regarded by the administrators of the Pure Foods Act (as well, apparently, as our customers) as an adequate explanation of the type of wine that is being offered for sale.

Our sherry and port production methods are similar to those of Portugal and Spain with the possible exception that our processing technique is more modern and Canada's wineries have a reputation for maintaining the cleanest surroundings in which wine can possibly be made.

You will be interested to know that in the Canadian table wine field, however, many wineries label their wines simply as "white table wine" or "red table wine" although a number of people still ask for a "sauterne-type" or "claret-type" wine.

Sincerely yours,
NOAH TORNO,
President,
Canadian Wine Institute.

THE "DOMINION" ISSUE

Sir: Your editorial of Jan. 18, in which you mention Mr. Churchill and his use of the word Dominion is very timely and is of great concern to many loyal Canadians. I am convinced that a great many people would appreciate more information on this subject and would like to know the facts as to what did take place in Ottawa when this great and historical word was apparently deleted from the Canadian language.

Thanking you, I remain,
Yours truly,
H. C. ORVIS.

ANYBODY REMEMBER TOM THUMB?

Sir: I am writing a biography of General Tom Thumb, the American midget whose real name was Charles S. Stratton (1838-1883) and who was associated with P. T. Barnum in the show business and toured Canada several times. I should like to have your readers send me information or material on Tom Thumb and his wife, such as personal recollections, anecdotes, books, pamphlets, old newspaper or magazine clippings, songs, playbills, letters, souvenirs, prints, photographs, etc. Both Tom Thumb and Barnum were my distant cousins.

Sincerely yours,

Bible Message

Then Jerubbaal, who is Gideon, and all the people that were with him, rose up early, and pitched beside the well of Harod: so that the host of the Midianites were on the north side of them, by the hill of Moreh, in the valley. And the Lord said unto Gideon, The people that are with thee are too many for me to give the Mdianites into their hands, lest Israel vaunt themselves against me, saying, Mine own hand hath saved me. Now therefore go to, proclaim in the ears of the people, saying, Whosoever is fearful and afraid, let him return and depart early from mount Gilead. And there returned of the people twenty and two thousand; and there remained ten thousand.

And the Lord said unto Gideon, The people are yet too many; bring them down unto the water, and I will try them for thee there: and it shall be, that of whom I say unto thee, This shall go with thee, the same shall go with thee, This shall not go with thee, the same shall not go. So he brought down the people unto the water: and the Lord said unto Gideon, Every one that lappeth of the water with his tongue, as a dog lappeth, him shalt thou set by himself; likewise every one that boweth down upon his knees to drink. And the number of them that lapped, putting their hand to their mouth, were three hundred men: but all the rest of the people bowed down upon their knees to drink water.

And the Lord said unto Gideon, By the three hundred men that lapped will I save you, and deliver the Midianites into thine hand: and let all the other people go every man unto his place....And he divided the three hundred men into three companies, and he put a trumpet in every man's hand, with empty pitchers, and lamps within the pitchers....So Gideon, and the hundred men that were with him, came unto the outside of the camp in the beginning of the middle watch; and they had but newly set the watch: and they blew the trumpets, and brake the pitchers that were in their hands.

And the three companies blew the trumpets, and brake the pitchers, and held the lamps in their left hands, and the trumpets in their right hands to blow withal: and they cried, The sword of the Lord, and of Gideon. And they stood every man in his place round about the camp: and all the host ran, and cried, and fled. (Judg. 7: 1-7, 16, 19-21.)

Unconsidered Trifles

The Minister was asking one of his flock why he had not attended church lately.

"Well, you see sir," said the man, "I'm troubled with a bunion on my foot."

"Strange," said the parson, "that a bunion should impede the pilgrim's progress."

The old deacon was lecturing one of his flock, a middle-aged man who was a model of sobriety during the week, but blacked out completely on Saturday nights. "Brother," he gently admonished him, "you should struggle and fight against that craving. When you feel it coming on, try to wrestle with your conscience."

"'Tain't no use, Deacon," the repentant sinner replied. "Dat ole conscience am too strong. He done throw me every time!"

They had just emerged from a railway tunnel. Said the girl: "Herbert, you shouldn't have kissed me like that with all those people around, even if it was dark."

"I didn't kiss you," said the young man, angrily. "I only wish I knew who it was—I'd teach him."

"Herbert," sighed the girl, "you couldn't teach him anything."

United States' Policeman Is Convicted Of Murder

CHICAGO, Jan. 25 — (AP) — Michael Moretti, a suspended policeman, was convicted today of murder in one of Chicago's most sensational criminal cases.

A criminal court jury sentenced him to life imprisonment. The case has been in the public spotlight for five months.

The state, in its second murder trial of the 33-year-old Moretti, had asked the death penalty.

The first trial ended with a deadlocked jury Dec. 20.

Moretti, father of four children, was tried for the slaying last Aug. 24 of Arthur Gamino, 15.

Edward Salvi, 21, was killed in the same shooting and Leonard Monaco, 21, was wounded. The three were shot as they sat in an automobile in a vacant lot.

Monaco testified that Moretti fired without provocation on him and the other two youths.

Moretti testified he fired at Salvi in self-defence after Salvi had accidentally shot Gamino.

Peace, Prosperity Program To Be Truman Program

By JACK BELL.

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Jan. 25—(AP).—President Truman today sketched a peace, progress and prosperity program designed to win the November election, but said his party will not play politics with national defence.

He said that "If anybody is to play politics with the welfare of this country, it will not be the Democratic party."

His remarks were contained in a message to a 15-State midwest Democratic conference opening today.

"This year of 1952 will be a critical year in our struggle to achieve world peace," he said. "We are in the middle of a great national effort to build our defences and help free nations to strengthen themselves. If we falter now or lose heart and turn aside from the program we have laid out for ourselves, we can fail."

Work For Country

He added:

"My purpose in this election year—and I am sure the purpose of every loyal Democrat — is to make sure that the Democratic party continues to work for the strength of our country and the welfare of our people."

His message was in the form of a letter to conference chairman James C. Quigley of Nebraska.

It came amid speculation that Truman (1) will seek re-election to the presidency, (2) won't run for anything, (3) may bid for the seat he once held as a Missouri Senator.

The President himself revived talk about the Missouri Senate seat. He did so by telling his press conference in Washington Thursday he will announce his plans before the filing deadline for the Senatorial primary in Missouri, which is April 29.

At the risk of possible future dissent, three leaders of the midwestern meeting predicted the conference would go on record unanimously approving a resolution urging the President to seek another term.

Truman Sounds Seaway Warning

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25—(AP)—President Truman said Thursday that if the United States does not join Canada in construction of the St. Lawrence sea project, Canada will build it.

He told a press conference that he had hoped to send Congress a message on the subject today, but that he could not get it ready in time. He said he will send the message shortly.

Senator William Langer (Rep. ND) today urged the Senate to take action on the seaway measure.

He said northwestern states have been trying to get it passed for 30 years and contended shipments through the seaway would save farmers in his area seven cents a bushel in transportation costs.

Scout Killed

SARNIA, Jan. 25 —(CP)— Larry Izzard, 13, on his way to a Boy Scout meeting, was killed Thursday night when his bicycle was struck by an automobile. Police said John Karl Somerveill, of Sarnia, was the driver of the car which struck the boy.

CHARLIE CARLEAR is a gardener who takes an elevator each day to go to work. Unlike most gardens, Mr. Carlear's is 10 storeys up. It is atop the Mount Royal Hotel in Montreal and Mr. Carlear has been in charge of it since it was started 30 years ago. He tends all the shrubs and plants which adorn the public rooms of the hotel, and when they are "tired," he brings them to the glass covered roof garden and "feeds them and gives them a good rest." The hotel spends between $5,000 and $6,000 each year on plants, he said. The variety of the growths in the hotel garden is considerable, and it is an endless source of pleasure to the Belgian that each type blooms at a different time of the year. The proof that Mr. Carlear has the proverbial "green thumb" can be seen in the appearance of the hotel plants. "So long as the plants are happy, I'm happy," he said.

Marines Beat Glens 44-33 To Tie For Top Spot In E. Ontario Cage Circuit

Alternating a stiff zone defence with an equally strong man-to-man defence the Marines, coached by Gord McIntyre, climbed atop the Bay of Quinte section of the Eastern Ontario Basketball League Thursday night. Marines with the two styles of play took the sting out of the Belleville Glen Roys attack in Belleville, handing them a 44-33 defeat. The Glens share the first place position with the Marines, each having only two losses this season.

The victory gives Marines a chance for final top place which is important in the playoffs, the first place team having the first playoff game on its court and only the first two teams, Marines and Glen Roys play off.

Two More

Marines have two games left, on Saturday night at the YMCA a four-point game with Picton, and a week Saturday a two-pointer with the third-place Trenton Flyers.

Veteran Joe Stewart again starred for Marines as he blitzed the Glen Boys in the final four minutes with foul shots and field attempts from in close. His points combined with Hugh Dibben's allowed Marines to build up from a 35-33 score to the final 44-33.

Harold Grafstein and Chum Gillespie stood out on the defensive as Marines checked Glens to a standstill. Usually fairly high scorers, Summers, Muirhead, Batchelor and Ketcheson were held to only three and four-point totals.

But the two-system scheme seemed to baffle Glens and shared the limelight with the players.

After losing a 45-41 game to the Glens last Saturday, Marines devised this form of play. It worked with some success on Tuesday night in Trenton and worked to perfection against the Glens.

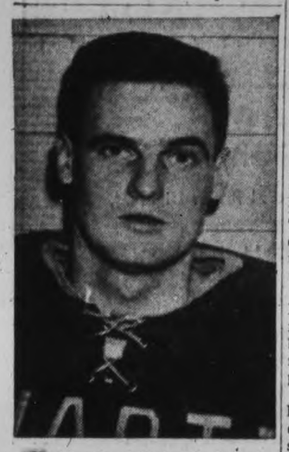
First One Style

Gord Burns, Chum Gillespie, Joe and Ab Stewart, and Warren Smith were sent out first by Coach McIntyre and they began the zone-type play. This made the game slow but profitable, as Marines went up 6-2.

Just when Glens were becoming acquainted with the zone, the Marines man-to-man quintette went out and began to rush the Glens the length of the floor. At the same time they took advantage of Glens' trying to adjust themselves to the change, and added to the score. The Marines finished the first up 18-10.

The zone and man-to-man alternating was still Marines' style in the second half, but Glens, faced with another defeat, rallied. They moved to within two points of Marines in the final four minutes, then Joe Stewart went to work and Marines took the win.

Doug Soules was top scorer for Belleville with a 10-point total, mostly in the second half on breakaways up the court. Teammate Lockyer racked up nine points.



Marines claimed "there was a lot of cheap fouls called," but the closeness of the score and the strongly-matched teams accounted for some aggressive plays.

Belleville suffered most, losing Muirhead, Summers, and Lockyer, three stars, for five personal fouls, while Marines lost one man, guard Gord Burns.

The lineups:

Belleville 33—Lockyer 9, Summers 4, Muirhead 3, Watson, Dudley, Hayman, Batchelor 4, Ketcheson 3, Garrow, Soules 10.

Marines 44—J. Stewart 17, Dibben 6, Burns 1, Gillespie 5, Dadson 6, Thompson, McPherson, A. Stewart 2, Smith 2, Grafstein 5.

Tag Team Bout Plus Hermann

When this week's wrestling card was cancelled on account of the weather, it was decided to try and have the tag team match for next Tuesday All four grapplers were agreeable so it will be Pat Flanagan and Bobo Brazil against Lord Athol Layton and Lou Pitoscia. And what a battle it will be!

Along with this good news comes the announcement that the famous German wrestler Hans Hermann will be in the semi-final, taking on Bill Stack. The German is one of the best wrestlers to appear in America and only last week met Lou Thesz for the world's title.

Fans have been clamoring for a look at Hermann and they will see him in action next Tuesday at the Brock. He is powerfully built and takes very little time in polishing off his opponents.

To open the card another newcomer and very highly rated matman, Sandor Kovacs, will tackle Stan Mayslack. Kovacs rates high in mat circles.

This is one of the best cards ever presented here and a packed house is predicted.

IOOF-Marines Take Wins In PMHA Play

Oddfellows edged Lakefield 1-0 and Marines downed Trojans 9-3 in juvenile games during PMHA evening at the arena last night. Hope's solo in the first period was the only marker in the IOOF win of a tight tilt. Frizzelle sparked Marines with three tallies as Kearns and Hunt counted two each, and Ball and Corbett one apiece. Seabrooke scored a pair for Trojans and Foley one in a game marked with two fights and five major penalties.

Martin-Hewitt midgets kept rolling with a 7-1 win over St. Peter's, Ferren saving them from a whitewash dab. Kane and Gardner got two apiece for the winners, with Godfrey, Brooks and Perry notching the others. Trojan midgets took Snowbirds 6-2 on goals by Rusaw, McFadden, J. Sutherland, Johnston, Pagett and Orr. The losers' snipers were Hannan and Rusaw.

The bantam Otonabee Wolves kept winning by taking a 6-4 verdict against Trojans. Lonsberry was their big gun with four markers, as Batten and Revoy tallied the others. For Trojans, Parnell, Dobbin, Lustic and Hogarth did the scoring. St. Peter's bantams eked out a 3-2 decision over Lions in a fine fray, Johnston, Atkinson and Mahoney scoring for the winners, and O'Connell and Scharfe counting for the other side.

McGregor Clips Savitt's Chances

ADELAIDE, Australia, Jan. 24 (CP).—Ken McGregor, Australia's third-ranking tennis player, snuffed out Dick Savitt's chances of gaining his second straight Australian singles title today when he knocked off the Orange, NJ, slugger, 6-4, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4.

It was a bad day for Savitt, who had hoped to prove Captain Frank Shields made a mistake in lopping him off the United States Davis Cup team that lost to Australia. The Australians hadn't considered McGregor good enough to rate a singles berth on their squad, passing him up in favor of Mervyn Rose.

To make matters worse, Savitt and young Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., blew their attempt at upsetting McGregor and Frank Sedgman in the semi-finals of the doubles competition.

Sedgman and McGregor, rated the top doubles pair in action today, won the deciding set of the match, which was adjourned yesterday because of darkness after each side had won two sets. The final score was 6-3, 3-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Earlier today, Sedgman won the right to oppose McGregor in the singles final by defeating Rose, 9-7, 6-2, 6-1.

Savitt has been a storm-centre in the United States since press reports quoted him as criticizing Shields for passing him over in favor of the veteran Ted Schroeder in the Davis Cup matches.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Baseketballs will bounce off various backboards here tonight and Saturday e'en during a number of games. This p.m. in the YW at 8.10, Black's play CGE girls, and it's followed by Normals vs. Neill's. Up at the Collegiate, Lindsay teams tackle PCVS bantam, junior and senior "B" squads in boys' fixtures. There tomorrow at 7.15, it's SPS and PCVS junior "B" teams, followed by Oshawa and the junior "A" PCI-ers. And Saturday night sees Picton and Marines in the YMCA at eight in a four-pointer to wind up their Eastern Ontario League schedule, with playoffs lined up shortly. Oodles of hoop action these nights.

An item the other day from Cooksville told of a magistrate remanding one George Leach for sentence later on a charge of assaulting a hockey referee at a game. Leach allegedly struck Ref Lou Vipond after getting a boarding penalty, and Lou required six stitches in a cut over the eye and 11 stitches on one elbow. The guy has been barred from all organized hockey and must also pay the doctor's bill, besides paying the penalty in court. Lou Vipond is well-known up this way as a lacrosse referee and in his hockey days few players would take a cut at him when Lou was toting a stick. It's not very brave to cut down an unarmed official with a club.

Those Ice Enemies Again

Eagles and Petes resume their ice warfare at 8.30 tonight in Civic Arena, and another fast, rugged senior "B" struggle is assured. No doubt a big crowd on deck, too. Petes took the Wednesday night affair and the Eagles are smarting over that one, pinning part of the blame on the refs. Tonight, they have a chance to prove that their win over Petes earlier this month wasn't a fluke. When both squads are going right it's pretty much of a tossup, with no love lost at all. They play for keeps when facing each other and any little break can well swing the balance. Yes, this should be a dandy duel to view this evening.

* * * * * *

As for the standing at the moment, all teams have played 18 games. Belleville leads with 24 points, two ahead of the Petes. K's are at home to the Hawks this gloaming, too. The two local clubs don't meet in many more melees after this week, since the schedule winds up the end of February. The Ellis squad edged Eagles 5-4 their first game, with the Vitarelli pack then downing Petes 7-4, but that was protested and laid over to a later date, if necessary. Petes later downed Eagles 8-6 and then Eagles took the Petes 5-4 up till this week when they tangle twice. So, there hasn't been much to choose between 'em so far, unless Petes pull out a win tonight.

He Reaches For A Rhyme

Scribe George Carver of Belleville doesn't appreciate good poetry and also he was quite perturbed over our recent rhyme in which we pictured Petes and Eagles in group finals. Licking his lead pencil rather laboriously he breaks out in this brief rash:

Cheer up, m'lad, as a dream 'twasn't bad,
Not polished, 'tis true—slightly tinnish;
But Mike will agree, not with you but with me,
'Tis the Hawks and the Sacs at the finish.

Yes, we agree, too, in hockey the B's and the K's are always coupled with the word "finish", as long as either local team is in the same grouping. But, one supposes, hope springs eternal—even after decades of defeats.

Lost and found at the PMHA games last night: A pair of size eight skates lost by Marines juveniles; a good hockey glove found. Anyone knowing of either should phone Al Watkins at 6879. He has the glove. Some fine close contests last eve by the minors. Otonabee Wolves won from Trojan bantams, SPS bantams edged Lions, Martin-Hewitt midgets downed St. Peter's, the midget Trojans took Snowbirds, Oddfellows yanked out a 1-0 juvenile win o'er Lakefield, and Marines juves defeated Trojans in a 9-3 game. Schedules wind up next Thursday night, and then the loop playoffs. These haven't been settled yet. Otonabee Wolves, who lead the bantam sections, have an OMHA bantam "C" Bye.

London Paper Tells Hope, Crosby Stay Away From Golf Tourney

LONDON, Jan. 25 (AP). — A London newspaper Thursday told Bob Hope and Bing Crosby to stay away from the 1952 British amateur golf championship.

Crosby played in the 1950 British amateur at St. Andrews, Scotland. Hope played in the 1951 tournament at Portcawl, Wales Both were beaten in the first round.

The London News Chronicle wondered if either man were coming again. It asked them by cable. Yesterday it printed this reply from Hope:

"Certainly I hope I can work out my schedule so I can again be a big threat in British amateur Bing is coming too if he can get enough adrenalin. Best regards."

The News Chronicle played it fairly straight. But its allied evening paper, The Star, bluntly said no thanks.

"However much cinema fans may rejoice, golfers will feel only dismay at the probability of Bing Crosby and Bob Hope both playing in our amateur," said The Star in its gossip column.

The column said:

"Bing came to St. Andrews in 1950 and was welcomed. Bob came to Porthcawl last year and was endured. Let us be spared the two of them together on one golf course."

In Hollywood, Hope blamed his poor British golfing on a weekend in Paris.

"Next time I play in that tournament, I won't go to Paris first," he told a reporter. "I was playing with the small British ball and a big head."

Crosby, who has been at his Pebble Beach place in northern California, was reported travelling to Hollywood yesterday.

Capitals Whip Buffalo 8-4

By The Canadian Press.

Indianapolis Capitals have a tough road ahead of them in their bid for an American Hockey League playoff berth but they may make it if the Wilson brothers keep up their torrid scoring pace.

Larry and Jim Wilson have been blasting away since their return from the parent Detroit Red Wings. Larry, a centre, has collected 39 points in 40 games while Jim, a left winger, has amassed 36 points in as many games including 25 goals.

Jim Wilson led the Caps to an 8-4 victory over Buffalo Bisons Thursday night. The youngster scored three goals to become the first player in the league to turn the "hat trick" three times this season.

Wilson scored the Caps' first three goals. The Caps sewed it up with four goals in the third period. The victory enabled Indianapolis to pull to within four points of third place Cincinnati in the western division race.

3 Canadian Rinks Make Quarter-Finals

UTICA, NY, Jan. 25 (AP). — Three Canadian and one American rink advanced Thursday night to the Mitchell Medal quarter-finals at the fifth annual Utica bonspiel.

Four more quarter-finalists are to be determined.

Canadiens On March Again Subdue Hawks 4-1; Wings, Leafs Score 2-2 Tie

By The Canadian Press

Montreal Canadiens, the hottest club in the National Hockey League, are on the march again. Wednesday night, the third-place Habitants dropped Toronto Maple Leafs 4-2 in Toronto and Thursday night moved into Chicago for a 4-1 victory over the hapless Black Hawks. In two nights they have picked up three points on the second-place Leafs who just managed a 2-2 tie with the league-leading Red Wings at Detroit in Thursday's only other league game.

Still holding down third spot in the league, the Canadiens are only two games behind the Leafs. They have a nine-point lead on fourth-place New York Rangers.

The Habs didn't let a sparse crowd of 4,114 at Chicago spoil their aim. They took a 1-0 first-period lead when Lorne Davis, just up from the American Hockey League Buffalo Bisons, scored. Paul Meger and Dickie Moore banged in second-session tallies and veteran Elmer Lach scored the final.

Bill Mosienko tallied Chicago's lone marker, the 201st goal of his NHL career.

Large Crowd

At Detroit, the largest weeknight hockey crowd ever seen in Detroit—15,102—saw Harry Watson give Toronto a 1-0 first period lead. Ted Lindsay evened the count midway through the middle stanza and Max Bentley made it 2-1 for the Leafs within a minute of the final period. Sid Abel gave the Wings their 2-2 tie midway in the final period.

There was plenty of heavy bodychecking and a few fights thrown in for good measure.

Midway through the second period, a gang fight broke out involving all the players on the ice except the goalies. Marty Pavelich and Ted Kennedy were the main contestants in one brawl while Metro Prystai and Tod Sloan held the spotlight in the other.

Kennedy and Pavelich caught majors while Prystai and Sloan were given minors.

No games are scheduled tonight, but a full weekend slate of six games is on the board.

Saturday night, Boston Bruins visit Montreal Canadiens while New York Rangers move into Toronto and the Red Wings entertain Chicago Black Hawks.

Sunday, the Canadiens journey to New York while Toronto plays in Boston and Detroit in Chicago.

Name Of Vincent Massey Distinguished In Canada

By The Canadian Press.

The name of Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey ranks in the forefront of distinguished Canadians of the 20th century.

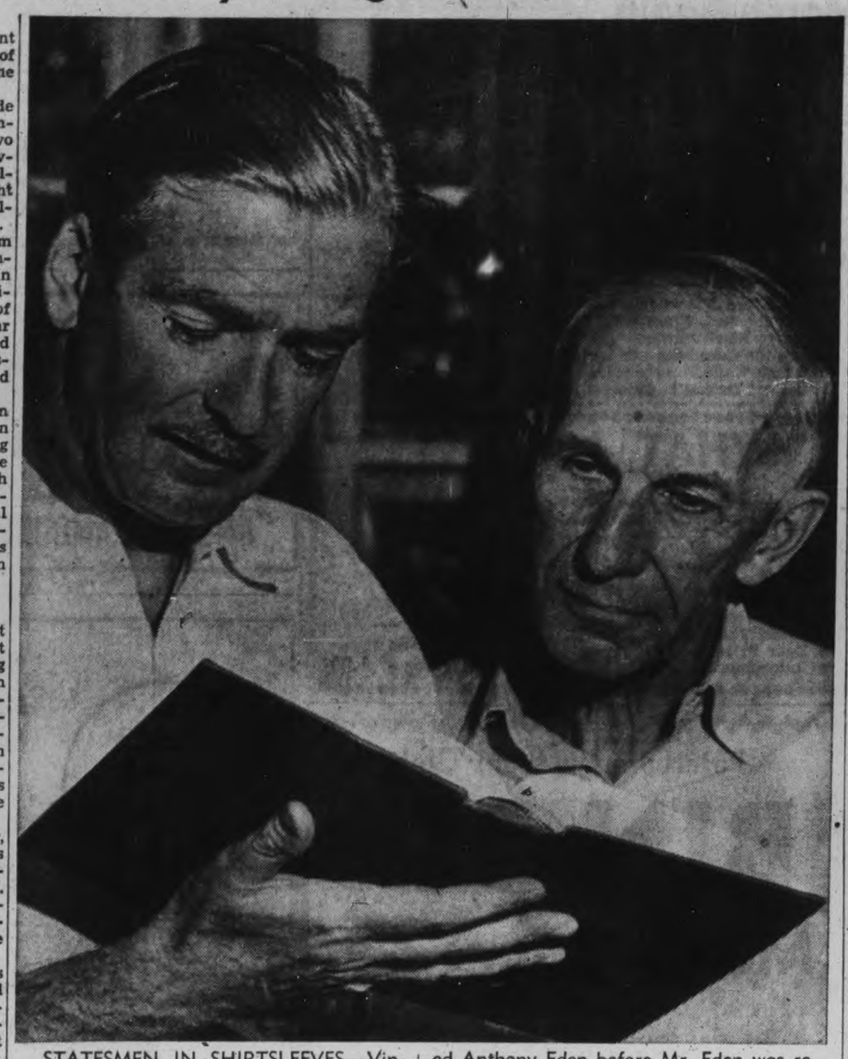
Member of a family that made Canadian industrial history, Vincent Massey has held the two highest diplomatic posts the government maintains and his intellectual attainments have brought him honors in academic and cultural spheres of the nation's life.

Mr. Massey's retirement from the Massey-Harris Company, century-old farm implement firm, in 1925 severed a prominent association with the commercial life of the country. The following year he became Minister to the United States and later High Commissioner for Canada in the United Kingdom.

Acclaimed for his work in Washington, Vincent Massey won even greater distinction during his 10-year term in London where he became the only Canadian High Commissioner to receive the honor of appointment to the Imperial Privy Council. In further recognition of his services he was made a Companion of Honor in 1946.

Difficult Period

He held the post through not only one of the most difficult, but also one of the most interesting periods of Canadian history in relation to the British Commonwealth and particularly the United Kingdom. He assumed an important role in the growth of both closer and more informal relations with Westminster—relations which became vital during the years of the Second World War.



Back in Canada only a year, Mr. Massey was honored in his native city in 1947 by his appointment to succeed Dr. H. J. Cody as Chancellor of the University of Toronto. It was a tribute to his scholarship and love of the arts.

Mr. Massey gave Canada its first measurement for cultural growth. In 1949 he was appointed chairman of the Royal Commission on National Development in the Arts, Letters and Sciences.

Last year the commission brought in a historic report, a massive and unique 150,000-word document. It recommended the creation of a 15-member council, with authority to use public funds to advance a host of projects designed to create a more distinctive Canadian culture.

"Best Seller"

The work of Mr. Massey and the four other Canadians who formed the commission was quickly appreciated by Parliament and the Canadian public. Thousands of copies of the report were sold, turning it into a government - document "best seller."

STATESMEN IN SHIRTSLEEVES—Vincent Massey (right) appointed Canada's first native son to be governor-general, last summer at his home near Port Hope entertained Anthony Eden before Mr. Eden was returned to office as Britain's Foreign Minister. Here the two friends in inforaml attire look over one of the volumes in Mr. Massey's library.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

A series of splendid philanthropies have been associated with the Massey family, one of the latest the gift of a collection of English paintings to the National Art Gallery by Mr. and Mrs. Massey in 1946. Two years later Mr. Massey was named chairman of the National Gallery's board of trustees.

From St. Andrew's College, Toronto, Mr. Massey passed to the Toronto University, where he made history his special study. Graduating in 1910, he went to Oxford, and took second class honors in modern history at Balliol College, and BA and MA, Oxon. He returned to the University of Toronto and lectured on modern history.

During the war, Mr. Massey, who had had military training with the Queen's Own Rifles, was put in charge of musketry training in the Toronto military district, and was promoted temporary lieutenant-colonel of the Officers' Training Corps of the University in 1915. In 1918 he was appointed associate secretary of the War Cabinet at Ottawa. He became director of the government's repatriation committee in 1918.

In 1919 Mr. Massey became secretary of the great industrial firm founded by his grandfather. He believed that the college training ought to be a good thing in business, where the battle of wits calls for clear thinking and ability to deal with a large number of cognate subjects at once. He never discarded his academics, and his contention appeared borne out when, in 1921, he became president of the Massey-Harris Company.

Mr. Massey opened the Canadian Legation at Washington in February, 1927. He believed it to be a necessity for Canada, and deemed the Legation an indication that Canada had assumed her place in the world at large and established her own relations with the rest of civilization. He had previously stressed upon fellow-citizens of Toronto that the innovation would deepen and strengthen Canada's connection with Britain and the rest of the Empire.

Russ Athletes Have Good Olympic Chances

By BEN PHLEGAR.

LONDON, Jan. 24 (AP). — Russia will probably field teams in about half of the events at the summer Olympic games at Helsinki, Finland, in July.

An Associated Press survey today showed the Russians currently are eligible to take part in 10 of the 20 sports and must be considered threats in at least seven of them.

If they choose, the Russians can enter boxing, basketball, weight lifting, soccer, wrestling, gymnastics, men's track and field, women's track and field, men's swimming and women's swimming.

They have announced they are applying for membership in the International Shooting Union and might make further bids before July.

Other sports so far are closed to them because they haven't joined the International Sports Federations.

Must Be Approved

To enter an Olympic sport, a country first has to be an approved member of the individual sport federation. This is the hitch that kept the Russians out of the winter Olympic hockey. Their entry to join the International Ice Hockey Federation arrived too late to be considered in time for the Oslo games next month.

Until now Russia has shunned all Olympic competition. Under the Czars the Russians made one brief Olympic jaunt to Stockholm in 1912 and wound up without scoring a point.

Just how strong their teams will be this year remains to be seen. For prestige reasons it's a pretty safe bet the Russians, who do come to Helsinki, will be absolutely the best the Soviet can find.

This means they should have a good deal to say in deciding titles in boxing, basketball, weight lifting, soccer, men's swimming and in men's and women's track and field.

Above all should come the Russian soccer team. Soccer is a big spectator sport in Russia and since, at least in theory, all Russian athletes are amateurs, the No. 1 national team will qualify for Helsinki.

Russian soccer teams on their limited excursions into Western Europe have displayed brilliant football. If they can come close to duplicating this form in the Olympics they will have to be regarded as the favorites.

POPULAR HOCKEY SCHOOL — About 950 young players, between 10 and 18, get instruction in hockey fundamentals from former experienced players at Quebec city's Hockey School. Coach Jean Paul Poulin is shown telling three youngsters to "keep both hands on your stick and the blade on the ice." Pupils are, left to right: Gilles Gauthier, 13; Marcel Marceau, 12, and Jean Paul Thibault, 13.

Hockey School Operates Eighty Teams

By BERNARD DUFRESNE,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

QUEBEC, Jan. 25 (CP).—"You had three mapor penalties tonight son. You know the rules. Stay home tomorrow, you're suspended for one game."

That was Jean Paul Poulin, coach at Quebec's Hockey School, talking to a scrappy boy on a midget squad after a 7-2 win. The boy walked quietly out of the dressing room.

Poulin, who handles three of the school's 80 teams, explained: "These kids have to learn to be gentlemen as well as hockey players. We don't want them to make up for the lack of ability by bashing their opponents' heads. He'll be careful next time out."

Minutes before, another player, choking back the tears, had been led by Poulin to the dressing room after suffering a cut lip and a black eye from somebody's stick.

"That lad learned something, too," said Poulin as he gave his juvenile team a drill in hockey fundamentals. "He'll keep his head up next time he tries to cut through the defence."

The 35-year-old mentor is one of dozens of former hockey players who put several nights a week in the development of hockey talent here.

Among them are Leo Bourgault, former defenceman with Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League and two former American Hockey League goalies, Lionel Bouvrette and Maurice Courteau.

Bourgault, who also coaches at Laval University, and Phil Watson, coach of Qebec Citadels of the Quebec Junior Amateur Hockey Association, think the hockey school is paying off for them.

Plenty of Talent

Nine players from Bourgault's senior intercollegiate team have graduated from the school. Watson says there is enough talent performing on five open-air rinks here to supply Citadels for the next six years. Six grads of the school now are with his junior "A" team.

Former star pupils include defenceman Butch Houle and goalie Lucien Deschesnes of New Westminster in the Pacific Coast Hockey League and rightwinger Jackie Leclair of Quebec Aces in the Quebec Senior Hockey League.

The school for about 950 youths from 10 to 18 years is supervised by the Quebec district committee of minor hockey leagues, an affiliate of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association. After humble beginnings 10 years ago it is still operating on a shoe-string.

But committee chairman Gerard Bolduc a provincial government employee, figures the system is paying off. Teams from Quebec have won five provincial juvenile championships and one provincial midget title.

Trophies and prizes are donated by sportsmen while the committee or the Oeuvres des Terrains de Jeux (Playgrounds Association) supply sticks, sweaters and some equipment.

Schools and parish sports organizations sponsor most of the clubs from pee-wees to juveniles. In teeming lower town Limiolou district, for instance, there are 40 teams.

The school is good training ground for referees, too. The QAHA assigns aspiring officials to the games to pick up experience. They work without pay.

Here And There In Sports

By The Canadian Press

Sheldon Galbraith, 29-year-old native of Winnipeg who coached Barbara Ann Scott to seven figure skating championships, including the Olympic title, will coach Canada's team at the Oslo games Feb. 14-25, it was announced on Thursday in Toronto.

Galbraith, professional at the Toronto Skating Club, will leave here Feb. 9. Five members of the six-person team will leave Toronto by air for Norway next Tuesday. The sixth, Suzanne Morrow, 21, of Toronto, now is training in Germany.

Galbraith took over the coaching duties of Barbara Ann in 1946 and the pert Ottawa skater won the European championship at Davos, Switzerland, added the world and North American titles —all in 1947—and crowned her career with the triple in 1948 — European at Prague, Czechoslovakia, Olympic at St. Moritz, and the world at Davos.

The New York State Legislature in Albany was asked Thursday to require examination of boxers before fights to determine whether they are suffering from any brain injuries. At present, such examinations (encephalograms) may be required at the discretion of the State Athletic Commission.

The Toronto Parks Committee Thursday authorized a stock car racing club to stage 30 dirt-track meets during the summer at the $4,000,000 Canadian National Exhibition grandstand. Fred Hamilton, president of the club, said Toronto will be assured of a rental revenue of at least $60,000.

Visas will not be necessary for those travelling to Finland for the Olympic games this summer, the Finnish government decided on Thursday in Helsinki. An estimated 150,000 foreigners are expected to visit Helsinki for the Olympic games.

Agnew Preston Burlie, 45, one of Canada's top boxers in the late 1920's died Thursday in Toronto of a heart attack. He represented Canada at the 1924 Olympic games and was once amateur featherweight champion of Canada.

Lloyd Percival, one of Canada's top track and field coaches and director of the well-known Sports College in Toronto, Thursday night was nominated for the post of coach of Canada's 1952 Olympic track and field team. The nomination was made in Toronto by the central Ontario committee of the Canadian Amateur Athletic Union.

Percival, who is coach of more than 50 per cent of the track and field athletes already named to the Olympic squad, said he "would seriously consider accepting the post" if the nomination was passed by the Canadian Olympic Committee.

The International Boxing Club announced Thursday in Chicago that lightweight champion James Carter will meet Luther Rawlings of Chicago in a 10-round non-title bout at Chicago Stadium Feb. 20. Carter will get 30 per cent of the gate and Rawlings 20 per cent, the IBC said, and each will receive $1,500 for radio-TV rights.

W. Indies Trails By 52 Wickets

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 25 (Reuters) — West Indies today were 52 runs behind Australia with only one first-inning wicket standing after 19 wickets had fallen on the first day of the fifth and last test here.

Australia, winning the toss, batted first and were all out for 116, 40 minutes before tea. West Indies had replied with 64 for nine wickets by the close.

Australia already have assured themselves of winning the series, having won three of the four previous tests to the West Indies' one.

Fast bowlers were responsible for all today's wickets, but the collapse of both sides can also be attributed to some bad batting.

Heavy weather conditions—the temperature sometimes reached 108 degrees—gave the speed bowlers a lot of assistance. Gerry Gomez wsa star for the West Indies with seven wickets for 55 runs. He was ably supported by Frank Worrell who took three for 42.

A devastating first over after tea by Ray Lindwall in which he took the wickets of Walcott and Weekes for no runs began the West Indies collapse. Keith Miller and Bill Johnston were quick to follow up the advantage and at the close Miller had taken four for 16. Johnston had three for 23 and Lindwall two for 19.

Canada Refuses To Give Visa For Blind Musician

By J. C. GRAHAM

WELLINGTON, NZ, Jan. 25—The New Zealand musicians union is up in arms because one of the country's top jazz men, blind Julian Lee, has been refused a visa to enter Canada.

Lee, a brilliant performer on six instruments, also is a first-rate music arranger. He and his near-blind wife have abandoned their projected journey.

Canada refused the visa on the ground that Lee would not be permitted to work by the American Federation of Musicians.

The Canadian union has been asked for an explanation. question of possible retaliation will be considered at the union's conference next month.

T. E. Skinner, secretary of the New Zealand union, said "the system savors of totalitarian countries."

Chance In Russia

"Even in Russia," he said, "they don't prevent you working because of a technicality. We feel sure there's another reason for refusal to allow the couple to enter Canada and we mean to trace the cause. Imagine the chaos if the same conditions were applied generally, virtually preventing working travel between countries."

(At Toronto, Walter Murdoch, executive officer for Canada of the American Federation of Musicians (AFL) could not be reached for comment.

(However, an official in the union's Canadian office released recent correspondence between Mr. Murdoch and the Canadian Immigration Department, outlining the union's stand regarding immigrants.

(Last December Mr. Murdoch wrote the department:

("Because of the critical state of employment in our profession, some three years ago it was decided by a conference which represented musicians' associations from Victoria to Halifax not to accept musicians coming from abroad until they had established residence of at least one year in the jurisdiction of the local which they wish to join.")

Kinsmen Club Initiates 9 New Members

Nine new members were intiated at the Kinsmen Club's initiation night dinner meeting at the Kawartha Club Thursday evening.

They were: Hal Webb, Carl Greenside, Joseph Burns, Arthur Morley, Beverly Metcalfe, Dr. Cameron Crate, Jack Gamsby, John Silver and John Robertson, who were each introduced to the club by their sponsors.

Although it was the night for welcoming new members, "Kin" oldtimers took an active part in the program also.

Introduced by 20 year-member Vern Selkirk, Alex L. Elliott, KC, first charter member of the club and its first president 22 years ago spoke on the history and aims of Kinsmen—the only all Canadian service club.

Began In Hamilton

It was in Hamilton just after World War I that Hal Rogers organized the first Kinsmen Club. Since then, Kinsmen clubs have been formed all across Canada. Mr. Rogers conceived the idea after attending luncheons with fellow veterans who met to discuss old times and gradually, the group formed itself into a service club. The idea caught on, and now there are Kinsmen clubs from coast to coast.

Mr. Elliott paid tribute to proposal of Kinsman A. E. Chalmers, city engineer who suggested the eye clinic. This has been a major project of Peterborough Kinsmen for a number of years. Originally formed to provide glasses for children whose parents were unable to pay for them, it has lately assisted adults, particularly pensioners as well.

In the 1950-51 club year, 35 school children and four pensioners were provided with glasses. One case requiring medical eye treatment was also taken care of by the Kinsmen's eye clinic.

Another feature of the evening was the presentation of an attendance pin to Jack Lewis who has a record of perfect attendance at Kinsmen meetings.

Darling Heads Lakefield Fair

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 25 (ENS)—Roland C. Darling was re-elected president of the Lakefield Agricultural Society at the annual meeting Wednesday afternoon in Memorial Hall. Mr. Darling expressed his pleasure at the good attendance and briefly reviewed the year's work. He announced that the 1952 fair will be held on October 3 and 4.

The financial report, presented by secretary-treasurer Howard Beavis showed a balance on hand of $431.14. Reports of the various committees were heard and a general discussion followed regarding the weak points in the fair. A poor midway was cited as being one of the most vulnerable spots and it was suggested that the matter be looked into carefully with a view to remedying the situation for this year. Lack of interest and help by directors was also noted and Mr. Darling made the suggestion that any director not able to be present both days of the fair should supply a suitable substitute.

During the meeting the presentation of a certificate was made to Clarke Garbutt by Mr. Darling. This certificate is awarded to the person who, in the opinion of the Board, has made the most outstanding contribution to agriculture in the Lakefield district.

Female Fagin Sentenced To 12 Years

MONTREAL, Jan. 25 (CP). — Montreal's female Fagin, Mrs. Maria Prioetti, 60-year-old head of a juvenile crime school, was sentenced in criminal court Thursday to 12 years in penitentiary for receiving stolen goods from her young pupils.

The grey-haired woman, who sobbed when Judge Irenee Lagarde passed sentence, was convicted on 16 charges of receiving $3,500 worth of such articles as jewelry, clothing and old coins.

She pleaded guilty before Judge Lagarde to seven charges and was found guilty on five others. Later she pleaded guilty before Judge Oscar Gagnon to four additional charges.

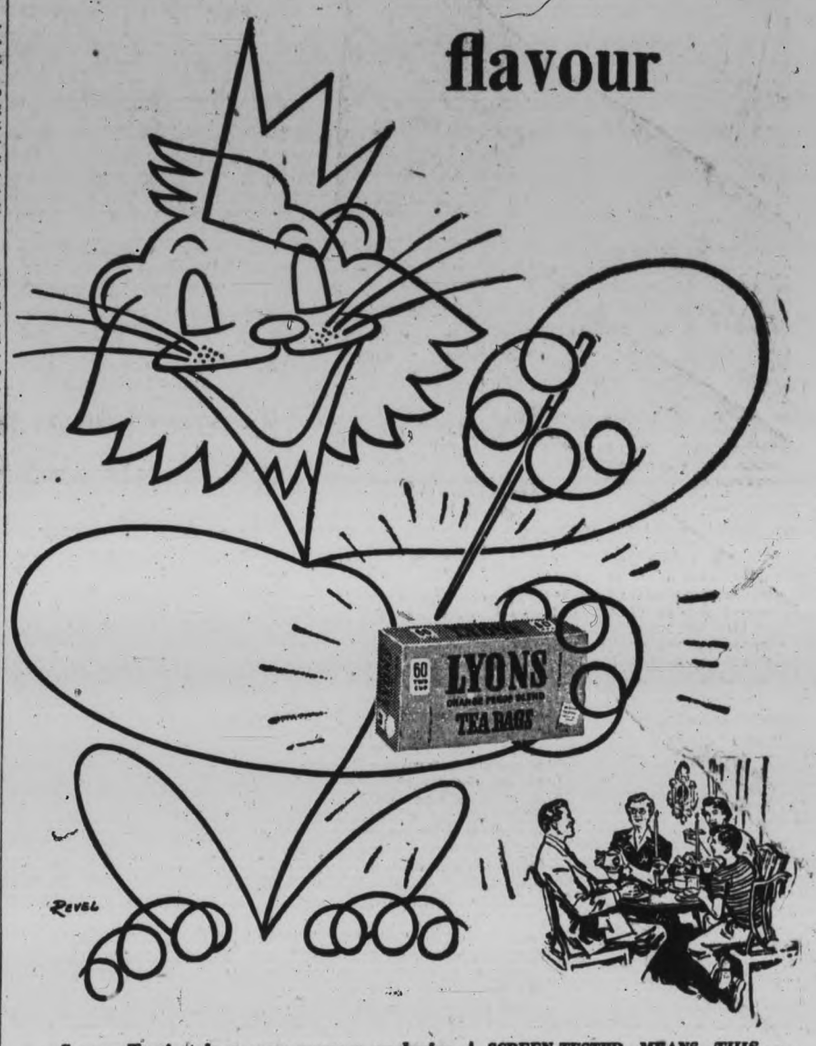
Included in the 12-year sentence were 10 concurrent five-year terms and four concurrent six-month terms.

"Not only are you a person who possesses a record for receiving but you are a rascal of the worst sort," Judge Lagarde told the woman. "You operated a crime school where youths in their tender years were taught and encouraged into ways of committing serious offences.

Hid Escapee

"You have been aware that Guy Joncas one of your 'pupils,' was sentenced by me to two years in reform school a short time ago. You knew also that he escaped from the institution, yet you refrained from handing him over to the police for his own good. Instead, you protected him, hid him from the authorities, so you could use him in your nefarious school."

Young Joncas, aged 14, who admitted in the witness box that he had dyed his blond hair black, was the principal witness for the Crown. He admitted having committed numerous burglaries and of having sold the loot to Mrs. Prioetti, whom he called Madame Maria.



Five young persons, including Mrs. Prioetti's 20-year-old son, Tony, have already appeared in court. Her son and Noel Gravel pleaded guilty on arraignment to housebreaking. They will be sentenced Jan. 29.

COMING TO CANADA — London's Tommy Trinder, sometimes called "Britain's Bob Hope," says he was "talked into" his coming Canadian tour. The explanation: Trinder owns the Fulham football team that went to Canada early in 1951. When the players came back they talked so much about Canada Tommy decided to see it for himself. The comedian is Canada-bound late this month for a coast-to-coast tour. The tour is designed to aid crippled children and victims of poliomyelitis.

Your Imperial Life man presents his Company's Annual Report

Behind the success of the life insurance company is the sales representative who calls on you—your "life insurance man". It is fitting that Imperial Life representatives should present their Company's report because——It will be their privilege to inform the holders of participating policies that The Imperial Life has made provision for an increase in policy dividends.

—Through their efforts, benefit payments amounting to $10,338,622 were made during 1951. This raises to over $211,000,000 the total of the benefits disbursed to policyholders and their dependents since the Company was started.

—Chiefly as a result of their friendly and impartial advice to clients, $79,150,094 of additional protection in the form of insurance and annuities was provided in the year—a new record. It brings the total in force in the Company to $648,564,848.

—The savings which they have encouraged policyholders to make over the years through premium-payments work in three ways: (1) They build for individual and family security now and in the future. (2) Because the savings made are of a long-term nature, they help to fight inflation. (3) Assets, which result from savings and interest earnings and which assure the ability of the Company to meet its future obligations to policyholders, now amount to $177,007,124 and are largely invested in loans to governments, municipalities, corporations and residential property owners. Thus they help to build for better living in the countries in which The Imperial Life operates.

Ask for a copy of the complete Annual Report. Your Imperial Life man or any of the Company's Branch Offices, will be glad to give you one.

AYLMER OPENS CENTRE

The town of Aylmer is formally opening today a community centre that cost $130,000, of which $25,000 still has to be raised. It consists of a rink with seating accommodation for 1,300 persons, standing room for 1,000 others, and auditorium that will seat 600 at dinner or accommodate 300 couples dancing.

K. G. GOHEEN PRINCIPAL

Mr. Kenneth G. Goheen, formerly of Peterborough, is the principal of the Flesherton High School, damaged to the extent of $250,000, in an overnight fire. He is a son of George Goheen and the late Mrs. Goheen of this city. An addition was being built to the Flesherton school. The fire destroyed most of the original building.

FIRE HALL RADIO

Purchase of radio equipment for the fire department, costing about $3,100, was recomended by the fire and light committee Thursday. It consists of two motor units, one walkie-talkie, and an amplifier. One of the advantages is communication between the station and two motor units when they are at fires or on the way. Departments already equipped are St. Catharines, Belleville, Lindsay, Toronto, Hamilton and others. Oshawa and Kingston are providing similar units.

THE ONLY MAN in Peterborough to hold a membership in two service clubs is James Dutton, Sr., a staunch Rotarian who Thursday noon was made an honorary member of the Kiwanis Club. The award was for nearly a quarter of a century of active participation in civic affairs. William Ovens, ex-mayor, is shown (second from the right) handing the certificate of membership to Mr. Dutton (second from the left). President Walter Howell (left), and Mayor Hugh Waddell (right), are looking on. The occasion was the annual luncheon given by the Kiwanis Club for the city council. Partial text of an address by Mayor Waddell on financing the Peterborough Civic Hospital will be found on Page 15.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Policemen Get Agreement On Two Requests

Agreement on two of six points covered in a brief submitted by the City Police Association to the Police Commission was reached at a meeting of the commission and the association's three-man bargaining committee Thursday.

The commission granted the requests for two pairs of boots annually for constables patrol sergeants and detectives and approved the issuing of rubber night sticks to all men on the force.

Only one pair of boots is issued to each man at present and the constables have not carried "night sticks" for a number of years.

Summer Trousers

A request for light-weight summer trousers was received favorably by the commission. Each man now receives two pairs of regulation trousers each year. The bargaining committee suggested that one pair of summer and one pair of heavy trousers would be preferred, with two pair of summer trousers being issued the first year, and then one pair of each annually. No decision was reached, as the commission said it would like to discuss the matter further.

The three other points, introduction of the 40-hour week, three weeks' holidays for officers having ten years of service and the adding of the total cost of living bonus to basic salaries, plus a one per cent. increase for each rise of one point in the cost of living index were discussed but no decision was reached.

It was decided to defer any action on these points until both the commission and the bargaining committee could obtain further information in regard to the practice in other cities about the size of Peterborough.

St. Catharines and Oshawa were cited as good yardsticks with which to compare hours of work, vacations and salary practices.

The bargaining committee (constables Harold Andrew, Eldon McDonald and Douglas Farthing) and police commission chairman, Magistrate W. R. Philp agreed with Mayor Hugh Waddell that as soon as the desired information is available, another meeting be arranged, possibly early next week.

Council May Act This Year On Southend Fire Station

The phrase "for action" was appended to a recommendation of the fire, water and light committee Thursday requesting the Board of Works next Monday to discuss the deferred project of an auxiliary fire station south of Lansdowne St. Ald. Harold Rehill added further emphasis of intent, "and that it be included in the estimates for this year." He seconded the motion by Ald. P. J. Anglesey—"that the recommendation of Chief George Smith be included in our report, and that it be discussed by the Board of Works next Monday night."

One of Chief Smith's remarks was: "I'm told that the city's population south of Lansdowne St. is four times that of Lakefield."

The substation was on the agenda which Ald. Burrows had drafted for this first meeting of his committee this year.

Getting Desperate

"The situation is getting desperate," Chief Smith said, in reference to the increasing volume of motor traffic, and particularly its congestion at rush hours as a delaying barrier between the fire hall and the new southern section of the city.

"The day has come when the big central station in cities of this size and larger is being done away with," said Chief Smith "The plan today is to work from the outer parts toward the centre, instead of from the centre outward."

Delayed By Traffic

"An experience in going to a fire on Cameron St. at 5 o'clock one day was evidence of what might happen. Traffic from the CGE, DeLaval and other factories in that area held us up three times on the day. It took 11 minutes to get to the fire. Fortunately it was only in a chimney, and it had burned itself out by the time we got there. The thought of what could possibly happen is a constant worry."

Ald. Rehill suggested calls from that quarter should be responded to by way of Aylmer St., with respect to rush hour "traffic jams". "It would be a way of bypassing Rubidge and Park Streets. You could do down Aylmer to Lansdowne St."

A point stressed by Chief Smith was the comparative overlooking of the fire department in the general expansion of the city. He skimmed over housing area, new streets, lights, sewers and so on, all investments required by that growth of the city, but the main facility of fire figating was still confined to the one central station.

"The people in the south end pay the same tax rate," the Chief said, "and they can demand the same protection of their property as the people living much nearer the fire hall."

Site Mentioned

Site of the proposed substation at Monaghan Road and Hawley St., owned by the city, was mentioned briefly.

"I'd rather see it where the office of the H. R. Scott Lumber Co. stood on Park St." Chief Smith said. "I once thought we were going places when the the Exhibition Park corner of Lansdowne and Park Streets was talked about, but it was snowed under."

As to staff, he told the committee that 12 men would be required. "That gives you only four men on active duty at any time. There would be four on the day staff, four on the night shift and four off duty. I don't see how it could be less than that."

Chief Smith also suggested that the new residential areas in Ashburnham were setting up across the river a problem in fire fighting similar to that in the south end.

Tablet Proposed To Honor Firemen

A mural bronze tablet commemorating the four men who died in the Zacks building fire on George St. last May will be prominently placed in the city hall, if the council accepts the recommendation Thursday of the fire, water and light committee.

In its proportions and workmanship it is an impressive memorial to George Reynolds, Grover Deck and Orville Rome of the Peterborough Fire Department, and their voluntary helper from the citizens ranks, Earl Spencley.

Ald. A. B. Burrows, chairman, told the committee that the plaque had been completed and was ready for emplacement. Present with him were Aldermen Anglesey, Black, Rehill and Graham, and Mayor Waddell.

Ald. Burrows expressed himself in favor of an early suggestion when the memorial was proposed that it should be given a conspicuous place in the city hall.

Ald. Harold Rehill said that possibly it might be better to set it up at the fire hall not only as a tribute to the public service of the four victims of the fire, but as a permanent remembrance of their sacrifice in the precincts of the department. It would be in the midst of Peterborough firemen for more than 100 years.

Ald. Rehill said it was possible that a man might be in the department all his life and never see the tablet in the city hall. But, if it were at the fire hall, the firemen would always be reminded of the sacrifice of those four men.

"I think the place for it is at the fire hall," said Ald. Norman Graham. "They were four firemen, and if the memorial is at the fire hall, the members of the department will always know what it stands for."

The trend of discussion veered to the city hall, and Mayor Waddell's motion was seconded by Ald. Black. Ald Burrows proposed that a ceremony of unveiling might be held some Saturday or Sunday. That detail was left to Mayor Waddell and Ald Burrows to consider and report back.

James Dutton Honored By Kiwanis Club

James Dutton, Sr., who has been prominent in Peterborough civic life for nearly a quarter of a century, on Thursday was made an honorary member of the Kiwanis Club.

William Ovens, former mayor and a director of the club, summed up Mr. Dutton's contribution to Peterborough in an address to Kiwanians and their special guests, Mayor Hugh Waddell and members of city council. Mr. Ovens then presented Mr. Dutton with a certificate of honorary membership and President Walter Howell pinned a membership button on his lapel.

"I always found Mr. Dutton very conscientious and very sincere," said Mr. Ovens. "During my term as mayor I knew that anytime Mr. Dutton was given a job to do that job would be carried out capably and efficiently."

He went on to describe Mr. Dutton as a valued citizen of Peterborough—a man who has given a great deal of his time and effort to the community.

Born In Lancashire

Mr. Dutton, a Lancashireman originally, entered civic life actively in 1923 when he was elected to the board of education. And for several years he was chairman of the advisory-vocational committee.

Then for three years he was president of the chamber of commerce.

Councillor In 1936

In 1936 he began a 10-year term as city councillor.

He was chairman of the board of works and, observed Mr. Ovens, "the starting of the board of health was entirely due to his untiring efforts."

When he assumed chairmanship of the planning committee he put in long hours developing the master plan for the city, said Mr. Ovens. As yet it has not been put into effect because of legal difficulties.

Mr. Dutton has long been prominent in the activities of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. He is now chairman of the board of administration, Presbyterian Church of Canada.

Mr. Dutton thanked the Kiwanis Club for making him an honorary member.

He said that it was source of satisfaction to him, particularly in later years, to feel that he had earned the goodwill of his fellow citizens.

"It's something you can't buy," he said.

Commenting on his experience of holding public office, he said he felt that it was the duty of every citizen to assume a degree of responsibility for the well-being of his city.

"Sometimes we are deterred from doing things because we are afraid of failure," said Mr. Dutotn. "But I have come to the conclusion that life is not just a measure of our successes, but the sum total of successes and failures.

"We can learn from both," he said.

Man Arrested About Death Later Freed

Toronto Police Question Vagrant In Death of Woman

An unidentified vagrant, picked up by Toronto police Thursday and questioned regarding an alleged attack on Mrs. David Huggins, 54, 82 Ware St., last Thursday was later released.

Mrs. Huggins died Thursday night and after an autopsy, coroner Dr. H. C. Carleton said death was caused by coronary thrombosis.

Bruise On Cheek

A slight bruise on Mrs. Huggins' left cheek was the only visible injury and Dr. Carleton said the autopsy showed that death was due to natural causes. If the after effects of the shock of the incident had brought on the attack, Dr. Carleton said, it would have been discovered by the autopsy.

City police investigated Mrs. Huggins' story before she died. She had told her husband a man had walked into the back kitchen of her home about 9:30 Thursday morning. She was eating breakfast at the time, and when Mrs. Huggins attempted to call her son Arthur, 15, sleeping upstairs, she said the man slapped her, jammed a rag in her mouth and threatened to shove her down the cellar steps.

When she screamed for help, the man fled.

Police were given only a vague description to go on, that the man was about 25 years old and looked like "a criminal."

Begging at Doors

Detective Sergeant Bud Clarke who was in contact with Toronto Thursday, said the man had been picked up for begging from door to door. He was asked if he had been in Peterborough the day of the alleged attack and Detective Clarke said the man denied being here.

The man, whose name was not disclosed, is understood to have come from near Belleville and it is believed he was questioned regarding the incident here merely as a result of Toronto police having read the story carried by Canadian Press.

Mrs. Huggins is the only person who saw the man. Consequently, no one would be able to identify him and unless someone confesses to the alleged attack, it is unlikely the investigation will be reopened.

Collar Bone Broken As Boy, 6, Hit By Car

Struck by a car on Hunter St., Thursday noon six-year-old Nickey Titus, 194 Hunter St. East, received a broken left collar bone.

Robert Pogue, 183 Antrim St., was driving east on Hunter St. when the boy ran from the south curb into the path of his car. He told police he didn't see the boy until he was right alongside the car. The street was slippery with hard-packed snow and Pogue said he applied his brakes but was unable to stop in time.

The injured boy was taken to the Clinic, where he was treated by Dr. Robert Young.

Constable Harold Andrew investigated.

RECORDS FOR POSTERITY, mostly clippings from the Peterborough Examiner, are being assembled by Superintendent of City Schools K. S. Wightman. They are to be inserted in a copper box, under Mr. Wightman's right hand, which will be set into the corner stone of the new Kenner Collegiate at a ceremony on Saturday afternoon.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Community Fund Drive Postponed Week

The Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund campaign has been postponed a week. This announcement was made today by Alex L. Elliott, KC, chairman of the campaign committee.

The new dates are March 7 to 15.

Originally the campaign was scheduled to take place Feb. 29 to March 7. Mr. Elliott explained that the week's postponement had been made to coincide with the National Red Cross campaign which will also take place the week of March 10.

The opening dinner will be held in the CGE cafeteria the evening of March 7, and the closing dinner at the Empress Hotel March 15. The speaker for the opening dinner has yet to be announced.

Both these dinners and the mid-campaign luncheon at the Kawartha Club are all sponsored by local industries.

Won't Be Long Now

Passengers on a Jackson Park bus smiled in amusement when a lady boarded the bus in Thursday's near zero weather carrying a garden rake. Perhaps she believes in the Boy Scout motto: "Be Prepared" and plans on being ready for an early spring if the groundhog fails to see his shadow next Saturday. Or, perhaps she was just taking advantage of January sale bargains.

Man Takes Weak Spell Falls Down Steps

Suffering from a possible fractured skull, Albert Milliken, 70, 219 Charlotte St., is in serious condition in Civic Hospital.

Mr. Milliken is believed to have taken a weak spell as he was leaving the Legion Hall Thursday afternoon and fell, striking his head on a step.

He has not yet regained consciousness, but his condition is described as somewhat improved today.

Child Struck Near Hastings

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 25 — (ENS)—Injured when struck by a car three miles south of Hastings, Thursday afternoon, ten-year-old Mary Keogan was taken to hospital in Peterborough.

She received bruises on both legs and on the head, but her condition is described as satisfactory today.

The accident occurred on a sideroad, just off Highway 45, south of Hastings.

William F. Jones of Hastings, driver of the car which struck the girl, said he saw some children geting into a car parked on the road as he broke over a hill.

He said he slowed down as he passed the car and the girl ran from in front of the car into the path of his car.

Mary is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vester Keogan, RR 1, Hastings.

She attends school near the scene of the accident and was on her way home at the time.

Ability Affected By Alcohol Driver Fined

Charged with driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol, George Carew, 56 Hilliard St., was convicted in police court.

Magistrate W. R. Philp fined Carew $50 and $8.80 costs or one month in jail but said he would make no order regarding impounding the car.

Carew was involved in an accident just after midnight Sunday morning with a car driven by Ronald Smith, RR 8, Peterborough. The accident occurred at George and Romaine Streets.

Carew, travelling south on George said he was making a left hand turn onto Romaine St. Smith was driving north and said Carew pulled over on the east side of the road and he was unable to avoid the accident.

Misjudged Distance

Admitting that he had had two draughts of beer in a hotel and another pint at a friend's home a short time before, Carew said he was not affected by it. He said he looked in his rear view mirror before making the turn but misjudged the distance the oncoming car was away from the intersection.

Constable William A. Scott said that Carew was unsteady on his feet both at the scene and later at the police station and his breath smelled of alcohol. Constable Reg McMillan testified that Carew's questions about how to signal for a left turn were incoherent.

R. O. Standish, defended Carew and asked the Magistrate to consider the evidence of three defence witnesses who claimed Carew appeared to them to be normal, at the time of the accident and before.

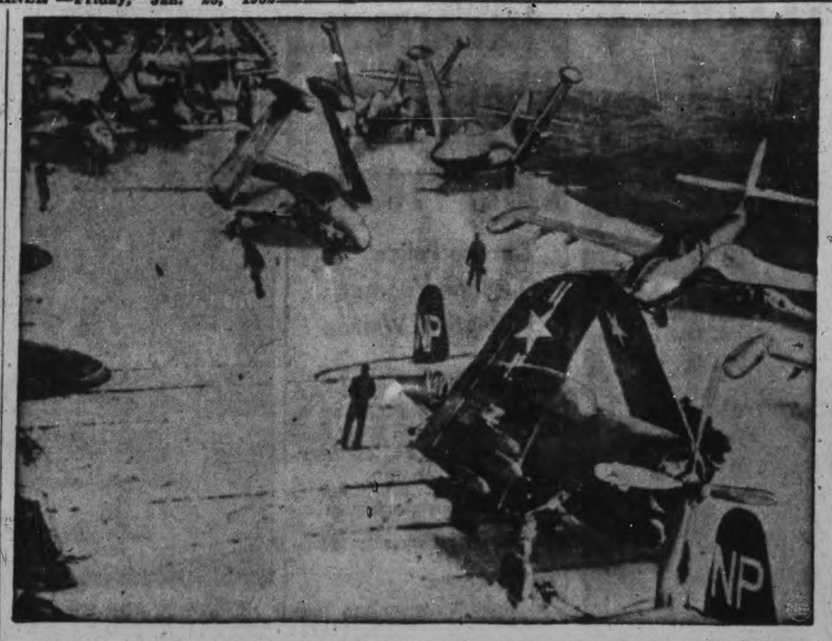
Crown attorney John A. Bradshaw stressed the fact that Carew on his own admission had consumed some beer and had misjudged the speed of the oncoming car. Also the evidence of the officers was proof of impairment, Mr. Bradshaw said.

Magistrate Philp said he was accepting the evidence of the two officers and found Carew guilty of the charge.

Court Dismisses Second Charge

A charge of careless driving against Joseph Hayes, 853 St. Mary's St., was dismissed by Magistrate W. R. Philp in police court Wednesday.

Hayes was involved in the second of two accidents, the one resulting from the other, on Highway 7 east of Peterborough the evening of December 23.



After a two car collision, one of the cars was blocking the north half of the road. Approaching from the east, Hayes said he did not see the car crossways of the road until he was about 25 feet from it.

Unable To Stop

He said he applied his brakes but was unable to stop before hitting it. Hayes said he could not go to the south of the car because there were two people on the south half of the road.

A week ago, Magistrate E. A. Gee, presiding magistrate for the day dismissed a dangerous driving charge against Hayes in connection with the same accident.

W. J. Arthur Fair defended Hayes and refused to let the same evidence apply to the reduced charge of careless driving. Magistrate Gee then adjourned the case until Wednesday and after hearing evidence, Magistrate Philp dismissed the charge.

Can Exercise All King's Powers For First Time In History

OTTAWA, Jan. 25—(CP)—For the first time in history, a native son of Canada will have the right to exercise all of the King's powers in this country.

He will do that, of course, only on the advice and consent of the Canadian cabinet.

The Canadian is Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, whose appointment as Canada's first native Governor-General was announced Thursday. He will inherit that right from his British-born predecessor, Viscount Alexander.

Even Viscount Alexander did not have full right when he came to Canada as Governor-General in 1946. He gained it through a revision in 1947 of Royal documents relating to the vice-regal office. That revision stripped much of the legal moss off the constitutional position of Canada relating to the Royal prerogative.

Though largely constitutional fiction, anachronisms in this position had persisted since the 1931 Statute of Westminster defined Canada's autonomous status in the British Commonwealth. The chief anachronism was the necessity for Canada to get Royal assent from the King on decisions which required such approval.

The revision—known legally as "letters patent"—authorized the Governor-General to exercise, on advice of the Canadian government, all the King's powers in respect of Canada.

Clarified Position

In effect, this transferred the Royal prerogative as it applied to Canada from Buckingham Palace in London to Rideau Hall, the vice-regal residence in Ottawa. This was no revolutionary development, but it did, at long last, clarify Canada's position.

The result was that the governor-general, with his new powers, obtained full Royal authority to sign treaties, ratify treaties and approve the appointments of ambassadors.

Now the governor-general also can assent to a Canadian declaration of war, on the advice of the Canadian cabinet, and no approval is needed from the King in London, as was the case in 1939.

As the symbol of royalty in Canada, the governor-general actually is a governor who does not govern since he cannot act except by and with the advice of the cabinet.

The governor-general now exercises five main parliamentary functions—again, all on cabinet advice. They are:

1. Opening and proroguing sessions of parliament.
2. Dissolving parliament.
2. Appointing senators.
4. Giving Royal assent to legislation.
5. Recommending financial measures to the House of Commons.

Says University Degree Essential For Officers

MONTREAL, Jan. 25—(CP)—If the "next world war" holds off long enough a university degree may be required for enlisted men wishing to become officers, Brig. D. R. Agnew, commandant of the Royal Military College, Kingston, said here Thursday.

Speaking to members of a local service club, Brigadier Agnew said there is a direct relationship between the efficiency of a country's military forces and its standards of general education.

The product of the service colleges is and must be of outstanding calibre, he concluded, "if our civilization is to survive."

3-Day Strike Said Ended

PERTH, Jan. 25 (CP)—Joseph A. Perkins, president of Taggart Service Ltd., said Thursday night that the three-day driver's strike which tied up his company's Ottawa valley transport trucks, has been settled.

In a statement he said reports saying most of the striking truck drivers returned on the "promise" of a five-cent-an-hour wage increase, were not correct. The five-cent boost had been granted after the men had returned to work and resigned from their union.

Earlier the president filed an action in Ontario Supreme Court asking, unstated damages against the General Truck Drivers Union, Local 938, and William Mills and Gordon Cook, union executives, charging that a woollen mill in Almonte, Ont., had stopped using Taggart trucks because of fear of union reprisals.

In Ottawa Thursday night union men were still picketing the company's Ottawa depot. A union spokesman said the strike was still on and would continue.

Drew Wanted Parliament Consulted On Massey

OTTAWA, Jan. 25 —(CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, Thursday night criticized the government for not first consulting parliament before announcing a change in the office of Canada's governor-general.

Mr. Drew's office here said it had advised him at Nassau, Bahamas, where he is holidaying, of the appointment of Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey to succeed Viscount Alexander as governor-general. It said Mr. Drew, in reply, authorized the following statement:

"There will be surprise and regret that the government has made this very important decision without first consulting the elected representatives of the people in parliament."

Times Thinks Massey Will Do Good Job

NEW YORK, Jan. 25—(CP)—The New York Times says today that the appointment of Vincent Massey as Canada's first native-born Governor-General should provide a "happy solution" to a question which has "stirred up some controversy" in Canada.

Noting Massey's varied career and his interest and generous support of education and the arts, The Times says in an editorial:

"In cutting one more tie with the homeland Canadians will not feel that they have lost anything in character and scholarship. Mr. Massey would move on equal terms in the society of such men as Grey and Tweedsmuir."

The Times concludes that as a Canadian, "Vincent Massey can speak for accepted Canadian interests and as one involved in public functions he may profitably share some of the dramatic gifts of a younger brother well known on this side of the line—Raymond Massey."

Money For Taxpayers

OTTAWA, Jan. 25 — (CP) — Government officials said Thursday 66,313 taxpayers have $3,176,000 due them from the wartime compulsory savings. The money is being held by the Treasury for the owners.

It represents a small percentage of the amount already refunded. The officials said the government has not been able to locate those to whom the refunds are due.

British Press Approves Massey Choice

LONDON, Jan. 25 —(CP)—The entire British press today featured the appointment of Vincent Massey as Canada's first native-born governor-general.

The empire-conscious Daily Mail announced the appointment with banner headlines.

The papers warmly praised Massey in their editorial columns.

The generally-independent Times said that the Canadian cabinet considered Massey "simply the best man for the post" of governor-general "once it was known no member of the royal family was free to accept it."

"To the people of this country no diplomatist is better known and respected than the man who represented Canada as high commissioner in London for 10 long and troubled years."

Popular With King

It may be safely said no one could be more acceptable to the King himself as his representative than a man who has long been known as a friend and confidant of the royal family, the Times added.

The independent Conservative Daily Telegraph in an editorial headed "Canada's choice" said Massey was "the man best qualified to fill the post."

In advising the King to appoint Massey to succeed Viscount Alexander, Prime Minister St. Laurent has secured as the King's representative one of the most distinguished and also one of the most popular figures in the whole commonwealth, the Telegraph added.

"Canada may indeed feel proud to find at hand an elder statesman whose services as the King's representative any other dominion might well have been glad to seek."

Disturbance Result Of Long Bender

A disturbance he caused at the Civic Hospital was the finale of a long "bender" followed by a hospital visit to cure the DT's, Albert Lalonde, 38, 644 Orpington Rd., told Magistrate W. R. Philp in police court Thursday.

He said he wanted to go home and the disturbance resulted when hopsital authorities refused to let him.

Lalande gave his explanation after pleading guilty to the charge. He was fined $15 and $2.50 costs or 15 days in jail.

Ottawa Asks Report Delayed

TORONTO, Jan. 25 (CP)—Premier Frost Thursday made public a letter received from Federal Health Minister Martin, requestinng that a medical health survey report conducted with federal funds in Ontario not be made public until the other provinces had theirs ready.

The final three volumes of Ontario's report were delivered to the provincial government by committee chairman George Davis on Jan. 15. It had been the original intention of the government to make the report public next Monday.

In answer to criticism levelled at him during the Nov. 22 provincial election campaign because the report had not been released at that time, Premier Frost said it would have been premature to release part of the report at that time, especially in view of the attitude of the federal government.

His opponents in the campaign claimed the Frost government was afraid to release the report which included a survey of mental hospitals, because of possible repercussions.

Move To Relax UK Libel Laws

LONDON, Jan. 25. (Reuters)—Rigid libel laws, which for 60 years have caused British newspaperman to cast envious looks at American reporters, would be relaxed under a bill to be presented to parliament next week.

Under the bill, sponsored by Labor member Harold Lever, newspapers could avoid costly court action if they published apologies for alleged defamation.

A published correction and apology, would be sufficient compensation provided the libel was not deliberate defamation and the injured party agreed.

If the offer was not accepted, it would be a defence in court to say it was made as soon as possible after the complaint.

Under existing law, an offer to publish an apology is no defence.

The bill would also block the character who thinks he sees himself in a work of fiction and can bring a libel action if he considers the portrayal throws a bad light on himself. It is no protection for the author to say the characters portrayed in this story are fictitious and not intended to "bear resemblance to any person living or dead."

Silent Revolution For Education Waged In India

BOMBAY, Jan. 25 (REUTERS)—In the crowded tenements and busy side streets of Bombay, a silent revolution is under way.

Hundreds of men and women, who in their daily struggle for existence have had no time for learning, are being taught to read, write and count.

The Bombay City Social Education Committee brings learning to their doorsteps. In the last 10 years it has turned 220,000 of the city's estimated 1,000,000 illiterates into "well-informed citizens".

Hampered by shortage of classrooms, books and teachers, this campaign against illiteracy is carried on by volunteers and part-time teachers. Some classes are held in rooms donated by apartment dwellers, clubs and mills, but much of the work is accomplished on an "each-one-teach-one" basis.

Private charity and some government funds finance the drive. Movies and other mediums are used to convince the illiterates that education is worthwhile.

Periodical Tests

Periodical tests ensure that students do not slip after initial enthusiasm. The average number of successful students a class of 25 adults is 14.5 and the attendance average 16.7.

The curriculum for "social education" does not stop with the three R's. It includes health and hygiene, civics and sanitation, history and national culture, geography and current affairs.

The cultural programs comprise lectures, dramas, dances and sports meetings organized to bring together the teachers and students.

It takes four months and costs only 10 rupees ($2) to "educate" an adult. The adults receive education free, but the committee's annual budget exceeds 400,000 rupees.

Other cities are organizing spare-time classes for their poor and illiterate population. Through India today there are about 10,000 classes.

Hospitals Not Too Large For City Says Waddell

Peterborough hospitals are not too big for the size of the population they must serve, Mayor Hugh Waddell told the Kiwanis Club Thursday noon.

He said that within three years there may even be a shortage of beds.

Mayor Waddell and city council were guests at the noon luncheon given annually by the Kiwanians to honor the new council.

The mayor said that each year council members have to endure a number of "headaches" before the tax rate is struck.

One of the chief "headaches", he conceded, was the budget at the Peterborough Civic Hospital, and the deficit which the city has to make up.

Defends Hospital

He defended the hospital from a number of popular criticisms.

One of these criticisms, he said, was that there are too many beds in Peterborough hospitals.

Some facts and figures on this:

The public health standard in the United States is 4.5 beds for active treatment patients for every 1,000 people.

The Canadian standard has risen from 4 beds for every 1,000 people in 1948 to five beds per 1,000 in 1950. And by April, 1953, the ratio of beds should be up to 5.5 per 1,000.

In Peterborough there are 392 beds for adults in the two hospitals (242 adult and 50 bassinets at Civic and 150 beds in St. Joseph's). This serves a rural and urban population of 70,000 people —or 5.6 beds per 1,000.

"It is estimated in some quarters it will not be long before we may be even short of beds," said Mayor Waddell. "Our average occupancy for the last six months at Civic was about 70 per cent. A hospital should not be occupied at more than 70-75 per cent capacity if it is to cope with peak loads caused by epidemics or emergencies.

"Yet right here, this hospital, since Christmas day, has run from 45 per cent (108 patients) to 91 per cent (219 patients); and on Tuesday it was running almost 90 per cent. It is estimated that in three years we will be operating over our rated capacity."

Indigents Get Service

Mayor Waddell said that nowadays a needy or indigent patient sent to hospital receives as good service and medical care as the hospital can provide. He has the complete specialist staff and all the costly equipment at his service. The cost to him is nil as long as he can prove his inability to pay.

Financing of city indigent patients is as follows: The city pays $3.50 a day and the provincial government another $3.25 ($1.64 public ward, plus $1.61 for indigents)—a total of $6.75. The city must make up the difference of about $7 a day, and this accounts for a large part of the hospital deficit.

Only three per cent of the patients in Civic Hospital last year were indigents but they accounted for 15 per cent of the total time spent in hospital by adults.

In all, there are 34 Group "B" hospitals in Ontario, including Civic and St. Joseph's. In 1950 the cost ranged from $6.32 per patient day at Hotel Dieu, Cornwall, to $13.35 at St. Catharines General Hospital.

The cost at Civic was $13.09.

Construction Costs

Within 20 years the cost of constructing a hospital has gone up from $1,800 a bed to $13,000.

And just now Canada is undertaking the biggest hospital construction program in history.

Why build more hospitals?

"It is the old law of supply and demand," explained Mayor Waddell. "There just aren't enough hospitals in the country to supply all who require hospital accommodation, who want medical attention, and who can afford to pay the current rates. Higher incomes generally, and the tremendous growth of hospitalization and insurance sickness plans, are major factors in the expansion.

"It is not that more people are sick today," said the mayor. "It's just that more people can afford the comparative luxury of being sick in a hospital than was the case 10 or 20 years ago—in spite of higher rates."

Mayor Waddell said he doubted that the solution to the financial problem is to raise the ward rates. About 66 per cent of Civic Hospital expenses are covered by net patient revenue, he said.

"(The rates) are at a point now or even beyond what the traffic will bear."

Cut Expenses?

Can expenses be cut?

Mayor Waddell said that as hospitals are "big business running at a loss," is seems only fair to ask: "Are they being run in a businesslike way?"

In general the answer is "yes," he said. But hospital administrators themselves see definite ways to help hospitals out of the red.

"One method, they suggest, is to get the chronically ill out of the general hospitals," said Mayor Waddell. "Many badly-needed beds in general hospitals throughout the countryside are occupied by the chronically ill (i.e., those who have a more or less continuous illness and are seldom cured). Most of these do not need skilled nursing, surgical, or specialized medical supervision; yet there is still no other place for them."

These patients—not acutely ill and not needing the specialized and costly services of a general hospital—are accommodated in hospitals where the construction cost per bed is about $13,000. They could be cared for just as well in institutions where the construction cost per bed is about $5,000.

Mayor Waddell said he had been told that many patients now occupying beds could enter hospital for a day, get a meal which they would pay for, and then go home to sleep. Any diagnostic services, X-rays, etc., would be charged to the patient.

Complications

But hospital insurance policies complicate this pay-as-you-go arrangement.

Most hospital plans, if not all, won't pay a claim unless the patient is admitted and put to bed. Twenty-four hours is often the minimum time before payment is made.

So the patient prefers to occupy the bed—perhaps longer than necessary—and also use the diagnostic services so his expenses will be met by his insurance company.

Hospital boards and administrators are now asking themselves these questions, said the mayor:

How long can the hospitals keep it up on the money they now get?

Is the standard of service to drop in the face of rising costs?

Will it be necessary to find new sources of revenue?

Mayor Waddell, himself a member of the Civic Hospital board of governors, conceded that there are no pat answers to the financial problems posed here.

"Some economies, no doubt can be provided for, but expanding medical services, both curative and preventative, will take up the slack.

"It is this expanding demand, for both accommodation and service, that is building up hospital headaches," he said. The only cure seems more money—the future will decide how we wish to pay for it—as a patient and/or as a taxpayer, through one of the three levels of government.

"I command to you an attitude of close co-operation and intimate association in working for the solution of these problems which give us all a real concern; particularly in these difficult times when costs are rising faster than our revenue."

Mayor Waddell was introduced by the president of the Kiwanis Club, Walter Howell. He was thanked by Ralph Standish. Mr. Howell was chairman.

Cash Farm Income Higher W. P. Watson Predicts In '52 Survey to Convention

"A detailed analysis of the outlook for 1952 leads to the conclusion that the cash farm income will exceed that of 1951," said W. P. Watson, Commissioner of Live Stock with the Ontario Department of Agriculture, at the Ontario Crop Improvement Association convention in Toronto Thursday.

"That forecast is based on the belief that a high percentage of the 1951 crop will be sold this year, and that marketings of cattle and hogs will be higher than a year ago.

Hog prices will be lower unless some favorable export outlet can be found. Even so, the general price level of farm products is not likely to higher than in 1951.

Consumers will receive more money, but their net incomes will be no greater.

Increased Tax Levy

A tremendous defence program must be paid for. Additional taxes will probably be levied for old age pensions, and municipal taxes seem destined to rise, due to increased wages being paid to those who perform services for municipalities.

As more of the consumer's income is syphoned off in the form of taxation, his resistence to higer prices becomes more determined, and consumer reaction to the high cost of living will probably be the deciding factor in holding prices throughout 1952."

Mr. Watson's review and forecast of agricultural conditions has become an annual feature of the Crop Improvement convention.

No Bacon Export

"The hog population on June 1 was almost 15 per cent higher than on the same date of 1950, with the greater part of that increase in western Canada," he said. "Exports to the United Kingdom were nil. Shipments to the United States amounted to a few million pounds, while imports from that country were slightly more than exports.

As a consequence practically all of the hogs produced in Canada or their equivalent were consumed in this country. This meant that per capita consumption increased by more than five pounds . . .

At this time there is every reason for believing Canada will have surplus hogs during the first five months of the year. Marketings are likely to be 10 or 15 per cent over the same period in 1950.

The only two markets available are the American market and the Canadian Meat Board. The Dominion government has authorized that board to buy any or all Wiltshire sides offered for $32.50 per cwt. f.o.b. seaboard. This is equivalent to slightly less than $27 per cwt. for dressed hogs.

Even so it is more than could by obtained by shipping to the US. However, the American price has borne an unfavorable relationship to the price of feed throughout 1951. As a consequence fewer sows were bred, and fewer pigs will be marketed in 1952.

Hogs May Be Surplus

If the American price should be strengthened, it is bound to have a beneficial effect on Canadian markets. There is a possibility that marketings in eastern Canada will be lighter during the fall months.

On the other hand, marketings may be heavier in western Canada. A lot of grain is damp and unsaleable, and enterprising individuals are likely to market it through hogs rather than let it spoil. If this proves correct, we will be in a surplus position throughout the year except for July and August when marketings are invariably quite low.

More Beef Exports

There were 6.8 per cent more beef cattle in Canada on June 1, 1951, than one the same date in 1950. To achieve the increase, it was necessary to hold back more female stock, consequently marketings declined about 10 per cent during the year.

"Exports of beef cattle to US were lower also, the number being 155,217 as compared with 353,698 in 1950.

On the other hand exports of dressed beef increased from 81,171,972 lbs. to 91,033,846 lbs., or in terms of live cattle from 162,349 head to 182,068.

It would appear from these figures that Canadians consumed five pounds less beef in 1950. In recent weeks American beef and cattle have been sold in Canada, indicating that our prices for certain grades are higher than prices prevailing in US.

Steady Cattle Market

This situation will soon be corrected either by an increase in US price or a decline in the Canadian price. In view of the fact that the product is subject to ceiling prices in US, it is altogether likely that the Canadian price will taper off to that level, and that it will follow the American trend throughout 1952.

There is reason for believing that Canada will market more cattle this year than in 1951, hence will need an outlet for the equivalent of 400,000 head. While the American cattle population has been increasing it has not increased to the point where 400,000 additional cattle will constitute any threat to the industry of that country.

It would appear, therefore, that cattle prices will remain relatively high, but that cattle feeders will have a much narrower spread than was the case last year."

Sees Herds Culled

Canada's dairy cow population has declined by 11.4 per cent, or approximately 500,000 head since 1945. Milk production dropped by only 7.3 per cent during the same period. This would indicate that dairy farmers have culled out a lot of their low producers.

However, some of the credit must be given to the excellent pastures of 1951. Milk production was about 16.3 billion pounds. Fluid milk sales and milk required for concentrated products registered showed an increase, leaving less milk available for butter and cheese.

Exports included approximately 24 million pounds of cheese and 36 million pounds of concentrated milk products. On the other hand imports included 15 million pounds of butter and 10 million pounds of cheee.

The basic milk requirements for imports exceeded those of our imports. Canada for the first time in the present century found herself in a deficit position in respect to milk production.

At the moment it would appear that milk production would be still lower in 1952, which will be reflected in lower production of those products which sell at the less attractive price."

PROGRESS REPORT

So far in the preliminaries of the Central Ontario Spring Show to be held here during the last week of March signs of substance have been encouraging.

The interest of the Ontario Department of Agriculture and OAC is most encouraging to the promoting committee. Leroy Brown, of Lindsay, agricultural representative in Victoria, will be here on Tuesday afternoon to resume the work of his program planning committee.

John A. Hunter, chairman of publicity, got his group off to an active start Monday afternoon, and it is expected that there will be an accession of ideas and some features out of the Ontario Crop Improvement Association convention in Toronto this week.

SELLS LIFLOC CALF

Lifloc Voyageur Kim, bull calf son of Nellie Duchess Cruiser, has been sold by Norman McConkey to a Renfrew syndicate. Its members include Ellsworth Francis & Son and Peter B. Briscoe. Snow delayed transport delivery this week.

"Kim" was born last September. His sire was Elmcroft Voyageur M., and of special interest is his fraternal relationship to Spring Farm Fond Hope, named All-Canadian two year old bull in 1951 for third successive year. They are half-brothers.

His dam was awarded the W. J. Murphy trophy for the best uddered cow at the Black and White championships show here last October. In her class for wet cows five year and up, "Nellie" placed second to the Elmcroft Farm senior and grand champion female, Ajax Abbekerk Jewel.

✦ ✦ ✦

HEREFORD SALE JUNE 6

Eastern Ontario Hereford Breeders set the date of their annual show and sale for June 6 at a meeting here Wednesday attended by about 25 members.

Approximately 40 head have already been consigned for this sale, and have been inspected by Charles F. McKenzie, secretary of the Ontario Hereford Breeders' Association.

The show will be an added feature, preceding the sale. William Mood of Asphodel is the new secretary-treasurer of the Eastern Ontario association. A report from Mr. McKenzie described the consigned animals the best that have been offered so far for the Peterborough auction.

Among the consignors are the Mossom Boyd estate of Bobcaygeon who had the grand champion bull at the Ontario Hereford sale at Erin last year. Alan Linton of Cobourg whose entries at Erin included the grand champion cow, reserve grand champion female, first for get of sire, and second herd, is another of the breeders coming.

Homer Hawkey of Indian River presided at the meeting Wednesday.

✦ ✦ ✦

HOLSTEINS AVERAGED $454

Joseph Darlington, salesman for the Ontario County Holstein Club, reported at its annual meeting sale of 141 cattle last year at an average of $454. Comparative figures for the previous two years were the average of $408 in 1950 and $322 in 1949.

He told the meeting there was still a good market in the US for sound cattle with ROP records. Some sales were being made in Northern Ontario, and he also reported active local demand for foundation cows.

The club has plans for a one-day bus trip and another of three days, if arrangements can be made. Their Black and White Day will be held again at Port Perry Fair on Labor Day. Orvan Chambers was appointed delegate to the championship Black and White Show committee.

Long-time production certificates were presented to R. N. Hogg of Uxbridge, Smith Brothers, Port Perry, George McLaughlin, Oshawa, Ontario Hospital, Whitby, and Burnsell Webster of Port Perry.

Speakers included national directors, George W. Henry of Todmorden, James Brown of Newcastle, and George McLaughlin.

It was decided that there will be classes for the breed at Peterborough Exhibition and a Premier Breeders' Award.

✦ ✦ ✦

BRODERICK OR HARKNESS

The following is quoted from the address of John C. Broderick, St. Catharines RR 3, retiring president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, in opening its annual convention in Toronto last week.

"We have reached a position of responsibility and prestige that does not permit of any kind of negative and narrow attitude in public affairs. In years past, we have been guilty sometimes of carrying a chip on our shoulder, or of appearing to. That day is gone. I once heard a fam leader say that every farm movement goes through three stages. First, there is what he called the "hell-raising stage." We're all familiar with that. Then comes the administrative stage, which is where I think we are now. The third stage, he said, was the "dry-rot stage."

"I profoundly hope we are through with the first stage, and that from what I have seen of the many young, agressive and intelligent farm leaders now coming into our movement, the last stage may never come."

Against the first part of that affirmation of the development of the Federation to its present place of prominence in the province and nation, Roy Jewell, in the London Free Press, contrasts part of the speech of Charles Harkness of Iroquois, president of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association.

"Mr. Harkness advised his membership that a Canada-wide strike of thousands of dairy farmers, a policy of withholding milk, was advisable to teach the Canadian public a lesson. He was further quoted as saying his sentiments are shared by all dairy farmers from coast to coast.

Mr. Jewell continues: "We do not doubt that the dairy industry has problems. And they are probably just as serious as Mr. Harkness would state them to be. But do think that position of responsibility and prestige about which Jack Broderick was talking warrants a more realistic, approach than a nation-wide withholding program . . . As a matter of fact, the Ontario cheese producers themselves, through their organization and forward marketing program indicates that they have a better answer than that proferred by their president . . . It will take quite a sizeable portion of the dairy farmers' advertising effort to overcome the ill-will that blast developed whenever a consumer happened to read it.

"It is all right to call a spade a spade, but when men in positions of responsibility let their enthusiasm or something lead them into calling it a blankety-blank spade, then it becomes offensive rather than effective."

✦ ✦ ✦

FORUMS DISCUSS CREDITS

Wilson Gemmell, manager of the local branch of the Royal Bank, was the guest of Coldsprings Forum on January 14, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Rose, Otonabee. The secretary reports that his informal talk was most valuable, and provided insight into the part banks can play in helping the farmer.

Subject that night dealt with farm credit. The group decided affirmatively that there was enough farm credit, "but for various reasons this fact is not taken advantage of fully. Lack of knowledge that it is available is one reason."

Removal of mortgage on stock and chattels which is now required in the Farm Loan Act was suggested. "Banks do not lend where everything is covered by farm loan mortgage. Chattels should be left unencumbered when one is starting up. This should apply to all other loaning agencies besides the government."

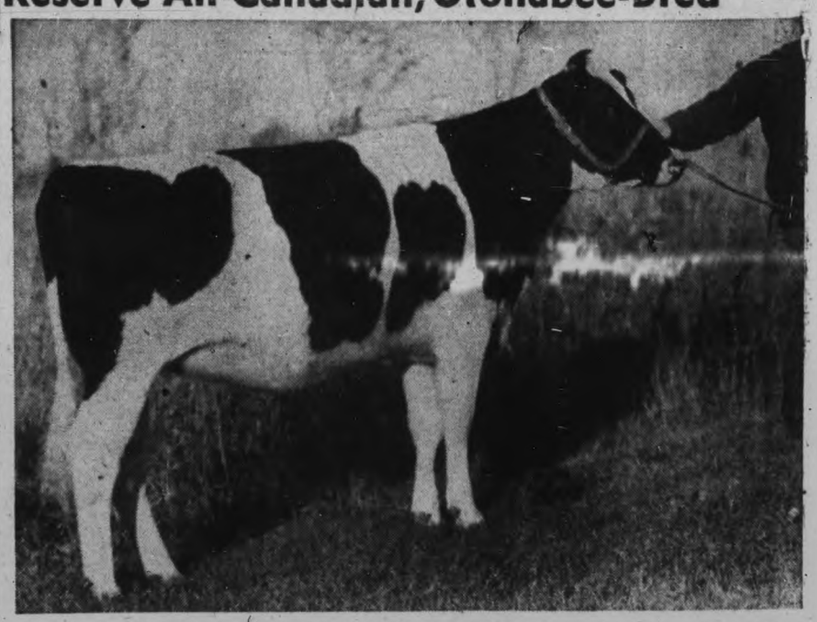
Next meeting will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Deyell.

H. A. Mitchell, banker at Hastings, was the guest speaker at Westwood Forum. Mrs. W. W. Graham, secretary, reports a "very informative and profitable evening."

Their summary of the discussion was: "When all aspects of the situation are assessed, we are of the conclusion that there is now enough farm credit available. It is not utilized to best advantage because of traditional conservatism of farmers about credit buying, ignorance of farmers about credit facilities available, reluctance of farmers in supplying correct information about their financial situation when applying for loans, etc."

William Mood was leader for the evening.

Forum members may find interest in similar reports from Elgin County, just as an example in the agreement of rural reaction to this question.



Argyle Forum drafted this conclusion: "We believe that credit for farmers in certain conditions is quite adequate; that is for the established farmers, but for the young man without capital, it is not." One of their opinions was that "many bank managers have little or no grasp of farm problems."

Four or five Elgin County Forums suggested "long term loans for young farmers, with smaller down payments. Given a chance to start, a large percentage will make good . . . Credit would be improved by co-operative use of machinery and by the use of personal life insurance."

Most of the Elgin people said "no" to the idea that a lending agency should supervise farm planning, although there was some reservation here and there to that opinion. Eagle Forum said an advisory board might be helpful.

A visiting banker at Dutton reminded the Forum that banks are circumscribed by their constitution and the Bank Act. Essentially they are responsible to their depositors whose money they may loan within certain terms and bounds.

Reserve All-Canadian, Otonabee-Bred

Rag Apple Colantha Pabst A., bred by Matchett Brothers of Otonabee, has been selected for the award of Reserve All-Canadian junior yearling heifer in the 1951 national honorary ratings announced by the Canadian Holstein Breeders' Association.

She was bred Jan. 10, 1950, in the dispersed Matchett herd. The sire was Pabst Posch Phillip, and dam R. A. Colantha Snowflake. "Colanha" was sold early last year to Roy Ormiston of Brooklin, Ontario county, and was under sale by him to W. G. MacLeod of Thetford Mines, Que., at the time of the Central Ontario Holstein championships here last October.

"Colantha" placed first of the fourteen entries in the class for junior yearling heifers, and was reserve junior champion female in that district show.

The junior champion was Elmcroft Triune Dewdrop, first in the senior yearling heifer class, bred and owned by George McLaughlin of Elmcroft Farms, north of Oshawa.

All-Canadian junior yearling for 1951 was Shore Pontiac Sovereign, owned by Hardy Shore of Glanworth.

"Triune Dewdrop" was one of three senior yearling heifers chosen for honorable mention in her class in which the All-Canadian award went to Rosafe Shamrock Kay from the new herd of Dr. Hector Astengo, Brampton.

Dr. Astengo was also awarded the Reserve All-Canadian in that class on Rosafe Shamrock Kit.

On his work as judge at various shows and also in his purchase for the herd he has been establishing at Brooklin, it is obvious that Roy Ormiston is "better than a green hand" in picking Holsteins. He knew a good yearling when he chose that heifer from the Matchett herd. She was forwarded to Thetford Mines after the October show in Peterborough.

"Colantha" was third at the Royal Winter Fair, and first at Ontario county Black and White Day at Port Perry.

Grand Champion at the Royal Winter Fair, "Rockwood Rocket Tone", was unanimous choice of the judges for the All-Canadian three-year old bull. He is owned by the Quinte District Cattle Breeding Association at Belleville. "Glenafton Futurity" of the Central Durham Bull Club, Orono, received honorable mention.

J. M. Fraser of Streetsville was the leading owner of All-Canadians with four in that top place, three Reserves and two Honorable Mentions. Dr. Astengo's Rosafe herd was awarded three All-Canadians, two Reserves and two Honorable Mentions.

The senior and grand championship bull at Peterborough championships last year drew the Reserve All-Canadian rank in the awards for two year olds. It was Illehee Sovereign Supreme, owned by H. C. McCloskey of Queensville, York county, a son of Spring Farm Sovereign Supreme. This animal placed behind Spring Farm Fond Hope of the J. M. Fraser herd, Streetsville.

DOROTHY DIX

Midnight Movies Ruled Out For Children 13 Years Old

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I would like to know as to whether or not you think the midnight shows are all right for 13-year-olds to attend. My 13-year-old daughter has friends her age constantly calling and wanting her to go to the midnight show. She thinks we are old-fashioned because we do not approve of girls this age being up at that time of night, especially at a show. Early shows, ice-skating and a party now and then are all right, as we realize children of this age are restless, but the midnight show problem we are against.

Dorothy Dix

MRS. R. M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You have my wholehearted concurrence with your attitude. Thirteen-year-olds are much too young to be permitted such late hours as are involved in attendance at a midnight show. Your fairness in allowing your daughter the privileges she does enjoy should convince her that you aren't just trying to deprive her of pleasure. The trouble, of course, stems from the friends whose parents are so indifferent to their youngsters' welfare that they exercise no control whatever over late dates, or too frequent outings. As a consequence, the parent who does show concern over a child's recreation is branded with the epithet of "old fashioned", than which there seems to be no worse accusation, in modern terms.

Stick to your guns, Mrs. R. M. You're doing a fine job striking a balance between overstrictness and laxity. Try to get more parents on your side.

✧ ✧ ✧

Take It As A Joke!

DEAR MISS DIX: My daughter and her father took a cab downtown to business this morning. My husband gets out first as his place of business in nearer our home. When he came home he said, "I went downtown with Mabel this morning and she paid the fare." To which my daughter replied, "I wouldn't be so proud of that, it makes you a gigolo".

Now, she earns almost as much as her father and could pay a cab fare without any comment. After all, for 22 years before she earned her own salary, her father supported her.

SARAH L.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Have you considered the possibility that your daughter's remark may have been spoken in jest? It doesn't sound seriously intended to me. Of course she should be willing—in fact eager—to spend this small amount of money on her father, and I hope you are misjudging her generosity by assuming that she isn't. Most wage-earning youngsters take considerable pride in being able to do something for mom and dad; I'm sure your daughter is no exception.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: If a woman marries after she's 30, what do you think of her raising a family that late in life?

ROSETTA

ANSWER: Thirty really isn't as late in life as you intimate. Many, many women begin and raise very successful and happy families in their thirties. While it is nice to have an earlier start, largely for psychological reasons, to be past 30 should not be considered an insuperable barrier to family life. A physician can give sound advice on a woman's physical fitness for the undertaking, and she should then surrender all qualms.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: When you love someone dearly yet do not like things about him, do you think that could cause mental confusion?

MISS A.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It could especially if one confuses easily. Ordinarily we don't seek absolute perfection in loved ones, but can accept minor faults and frailties with an indulgent mind. If such faults exist in your beloved, and you find yourself resenting them too deeply, you have cause for concern.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a good singer and love to sing with our church choir. When I mention this to my husband he seems to get angry with me. He says he likes to hear me sing but doesn't approve of my helping out in the choir. It this jealousy or is he plain stubborn?

BLANCHE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Surely there can be no greater show of appreciation for a fine voice than to raise it in the honor and glory of God! Since He gave you this gift, it is only fitting that it should be used occasionally in His house! Your husband is most unreasonable in not accepting this premise.

Perhaps he is jealous of your fellow choisters, particularly if they are men. Perhaps he is a possessive person who doesn't like to share his belongings. Most men would be proud of a wife who could sing, and who shared her talent with others.

Your minister might be able to persuade him to change his mind.

New Year Boosts In UK Wages Post-War Record

LONDON (CP)—Approximately 12,000,000 British workers started the new year with something like £6,500,000 more in their weekly pay envelopes than they received last year to meet the rising cost of living.

The increases, based on new agreements negotiated in 1951, represent an average wage hike of about eight per cent, a post-war record. By comparison weekly pay rates were increased by roughly two per cent in 1950.

But how much last year's boost has added to the purchasing power of the average wage-earner, trade union leaders and economists were not prepared to say. Living costs, as measured by the interim index, they explain, have risen in about the same ratio as wages.

Latest published figures show the current wage index at 125—based on June, 1947, equal to 100—10 points higher than the level at the beginning of 1951. The interim price index for the same period increased approximately eight per cent.

In a year studded with record wage advances, November stood out as the pay-boost record-breaker. In that month alone the weekly wage total increased by £1,419,000, nearly double the earlier peak of £717,000 a week, reached in March. The figure was only £600,000 below the increase for the whole of 1950.

November Awards

The November increase was mainly due to the all-embracing round of wage awards to railwaymen, engineering and shipbuilding workers which came into operation that month.

For more than 2,400,000 workers in the engineering, shipbuilding, electrical goods, vehicles and metal industries, the increases boosted the weekly wage bill for the year by £1,300,000. To the individual it represented an average hike of about 11 shillings a week.

The same increase granted railwaymen in November, not only increased the current wage outlay by more than £160,000, but brought a total weekly increase of £840,000 during the year to 1,270,000 transport and communications workers.

It is estimated that the wage boost given mineworkers in December will cost the national coal board about £26,000,000 a year, adding another £500,000 to the nation's weekly pay-roll.

A government wage concession to 600,000 civil servants is expected early in the new year. It is expected the average increase will be around eight or nine per cent—the largest civil service pay advance since the war.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Make Melton Mowbray Pie English Style

QUESTION: I enjoy your column in our local paper and would like to know if you could send me the complete recipe for real Melton Mowbray pie as sold in Toronto. They are delicious . . .

M. W.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The formula for both the pastry and filling used by the company you mention is known only to them, of course, but the English method is as follows:

Melton Mowbray Pastry

Two level cups plus 2 tablespoons unsifted flour, ½ teaspoon each salt and baking powder, ½ cup (¼ lb.) lard or shortening, ⅜ cup boiling water (measure this in measuring cup—it comes half way between ¼ and ½ cup mark). Put boiling water and lard together and bring to boiling point. Mix flour with salt and baking powder and add at once to hot water and lard. Remove from heat and stir hard until smooth. Cover and let stand from 1 to 3 hours. Line several small pie pans or 1 large pan with rolled out pastry, (20 or 15-oz. tin cans cut off to make them 2 inches high makes ideal pork pie moulds.)

Filling: Cook in 2 cups boiling water 1 pound cuttings or 1 pound shoulder pork which is lean. Add 1 small onion sliced and 1 teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper and ¼ bay leaf. Simmer for 1 hour. Lift out meat and onion and put through coarse knife of grinder. Discard bay leaf. Save 1 cup of meat liquid. Make the remainder up to 1 cup. Make a paste of 1 tablespoon cornstarch or flour and ¼ cup cold water. Stir this into 1 cup meat liquid over heat until thick. Add ground meat to thickened gravy. Taste. Add salt and pepper if desired. Put this filling in the lined pie pans or pan. Cover with top crust which is gashed only once with large gash at centre. Bake 35 or 40 minutes at 425 deg. Fahr.—reducing heat towards end of baking time if pies are browning too much. If to be served cold brush with beaten egg yolk 5 minutes before baking time is up.

To the remaining 1 cup of cold meat liquid add 1½ teaspoons unflavored gelatine, and soak for 5 minutes. Stir this over hot water to dissolve gelatine. If pies are to be served cold funnel this gelatine broth through the gash in top of each pie and chill. It may require a little extra salt. If the pies are large they slice beautifully in the traditional English fashion, when chilled.

Steamed Fig Pudding

One-quarter lb. finely chopped suet, ½ lb. finely chopped or ground figs, 1 large sour apple ground, ¼ lb. brown sugar, ¼ lb. stale fine breadcrumbs, ¼ cup milk, 2 eggs, 3 oz. flour. Cream the suet until smooth, then add figs, apple and sugar. Pour the milk over the breadcrumbs and add yolks and beat well. Combine mixtures, add flour and whites which have been beaten stiff. Pour into buttered and floured mould or moulds and steam 4 hours. Serve with lemon or hard sauce.

5 Women Join Soroptimist Club

Soroptimist Club roster gained five new names with the initiation and pledging at the dinner meeting Thursday evening of Miss Carolyn Beavis, Mrs. Susan Fraser, Miss Mignon Mayneord, Miss Marjorie Nesbitt and Miss Isabel Sutherland.

These women were chosen to fill open classifications because they hold executive or professional positions in the city and also with consideration of the contribution they have made to public affairs. They were introduced by Miss Verna Johnston who outlined for each her major and minor classifications.

Their obligations to the Club were outlined by president Miss Alice Curtis who then gave each a copy of the by-laws and presented a corsage of yellow mums mounted on a blue feather to carry out the club colors.

Each symbol on the Soroptimist crest was explained to the newcomers and they were told that the aims and ideals must ever be a search for the best. The five ideals named in the pledge are tolerance, sincerity, wisdom, friendship and service and for each a member gave her concept of how it can be applied to the club.

The dinner was served in the Empress Hotel Kawartha Room with flowers and table decorations also in the club colors. The draw prize for this meeting was won by Miss Myrtle Sargent and the donor was Miss Gene Clark. A sing song of the special Soroptimist songs was enjoyed.

Political Equality Not Achieved

TORONTO, Jan. 25 (CP). — Margaret Hydnman, Toronto lawyer, says women have not achieved political equality with men because when a woman fails it is regarded as a reflection on all women, but when a man fails there is no reflection on men in general.

She told the Toronto Women's Liberal Association yesterday that a woman to succeed in politics, has to be twice as confident, ambitious and competent as a man.

First step in achieving political equality was to achieve economic equality. This would only be done by a show of political strength.

"One thing that men in politics fear greatly is the disposition of women to espouse a cause, regardless of the fact that it cuts across party lines. And they will give in to their women rather than lose them to another party."

AT 82, Mrs. Bertha McMILLAN, grandmother of 15, "was getting a little bored." So last week she left for Japan to see her soldier son and meet his wife and a new grandson. The son a master sergeant at Sendai, sent her the geisha doll she's holding. The first plane trip of grandma's life will be from Seattle to Tokyo. "I'm healthy enough to go around the world," she says. "I always was a lively one."

Cooking On Hot-Plate Requires Planning Ahead

Here are some handy tips for the thousands who have to prepare meals on hot-plates or small electric grills.

Regardless of whether it is a business girl preparing her own meals or a wife feeding her husband, the home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, say that the minimum equipment for grill cookery should include a medium size double boiler, with a top part that will also fit into a tea kettle; frying pan with a lid; saucepan with a lid; small glass casserole to fit into the saucepan; coffee maker and tea pot. The miscellaneous equipment should include measuring spoons and cup, paring knives, vegetable peeler, grater, sieve, lemon squeezer, egg beater and mixing bowls.

Two most convenient pieces of equipment are a pressure cooker and a triple saucepan. The pressure cooker increases the variety of dishes that may be prepared on a grill. Stews, braised meats, baked beans, and steamed puddings can be cooked comparatively quickly under pressure. With a triple saucepan it is possible to cook three foods at one time, because it has three pans designed to fit together on a single burner.

The meals should be planned for several days at a time and the Canada Food Rules provide an excellent guide for knowing what to include in them. The meal plan should be kept flexible so that leftovers and foods in good supply may be used. Staple foods can be bought once a week if storage space is available, whereas perishables should be bought in small quantities when needed. Be sure to buy by grade and watch for good values for your money.

A collection of quick, easy, inexpensive recipes is a good idea. These are usually based on six servings, so, to reduce the ingredients for one or two servings, be sure to measure accurately. If imagination and initiative are used, practically all dishes that can be prepared with a stove can be made on a grill.

For steaming, use the sieve over a saucepan or kettle of boiling water, place the dish containing the food in it and cover with an inverted bowl or tight fitting lid. Oven poached dishes, such as custards and souffles, may be cooked in the top of the double boiler while vegetables or other foods are being cooked in the bottom part. Soup tins with tops evenly removed and baking powder tins make good containers for cooking puddings or breads, but be sure to cover the top with lid or waxed paper and set the tin directly in boiling water. To make the most of the facilities, use the window ledge to cool jellies, desserts and other things quickly. The radiator can keep foods hot.

As the main course for dinner there are always chops, sausages, liver and bacon steaks, cut-up chicken and fish, with a pot-roast for Sunday. But other quick and easy-to-prepare suggestions are Spanish toast, made like French toast except that tomato juice is used in place of milk; vegetable or cheese rarebit; macaroni and cheese and spaghetti and tomato sauce. Canned soups are very handy for making delicious dishes with leftovers. For example cream of mushroom soup may be mixed with just enough milk to give a cream sauce consistency, then combined with vegetables, hard-cooked eggs or leftover meats and served on toast.

With limited cooking space, it is important to cook foods quickly so that they may all be served hot. Vegetables may be prepared quickly by cutting them into small pieces and cooking them either in boiling water or in a pressure saucepan. Most desserts can be prepared the previous night and if to be eaten hot, can be reheated in the top of the double boiler. Pudding sauces can also be made ahead of time and reheated at the last minute. This relieves the situation of having to cook too much at one time.

Programs Planned Of Interest To Civic-Minded

Study Group on Civic Affairs held the first meeting this year Thursday evening at the City Hall new president Miss Margaret McCulloch in the chair.

The evening was devoted to planning activities for the year and a very interesting program is lined up for the coming months. In February Mr. James S. Craig will speak on town planning and at the March meeting Mrs. D. MacGregor will conduct a discussion on "Should Peterborough Grow?"

This meeting was well attended and increasing enthusiasm was evident. It is hoped membership will be further augmented by those interested in the study of civic affairs.

Reports on meetings of city council and board of education during December and January were read by observers. Following her report on the inaugural meeting of city council Miss C. McCarthy favored with a [illegible] witty, historical account of the inaugural day in Peterborough [illegible] years ago, describing the locality, the people and the times in her own characteristic style from information found in the early records.

Home and School Association News

HASTINGS

HASTINGS, Jan. 25 (ENS). — At the January meeting of the Hastings Home and School Association business consisted of the old standby question of a radio about which the School Board is making inquiries. The president then asked Mrs. J. G. Thompson and Mrs. F. S. Crate, past presidents of Home and School, to come forward. She spoke a few words on how both have been members of the Home and School since it was organized five years ago, and had given of their time. Vice-president Mrs. C. M. Baker presented the pins.

Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Crate spoke a few words, saying they felt it a great honor to be presented with the past president's pin, and that they had enjoyed working for the Home and School.

The program convener then called on Mrs. S. Whitred to introduce the guest of the evening, the Rev. R. D. Duncanson of Norwood, president of the Peterborough County Film Council. Through films, he said, we may see the ways and means of better education. Literature is also provided which helps us to deal with children and see each other's viewpoints in the raising of our children, and information on our own family problems. The Film Council is made up of volunteer workers; films rotate once a month and consist of two for adults and four for children. The service costs $10 for ten months.

Mr. Duncanson said our application would have to be in by February 11.

A vote of thanks was extended by W. J. Johnston on behalf of the Home and School. The winners of the posters made to advertise the Christmas concert were presented with prizes: First, Margaret Baker; second, Betty Dainard; third, Marilyn Hess. Mrs. J. G. Thompson presented the girls with their prizes.

A white elephant and bake sale was held, with Mr. Duncanson as auctioneer, and F. S. Crate acting as clerk.

Prices Of Food Gain Steadily 222% Increase In Britain

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP).—Britons faced with an ever-increasing housekeeping budget to meet the steady rise in the cost of living will look critically at a new poster soon to be displayed in hotels and restaurants throughout the country.

Prepared by the hotel and catering industry, it shows in bold type reasons for price increases in these establishments. More than 100 articles of food and household equipment show a percentage incease sometimes as high as 800 per cent. since 1939.

"Even stationery to fill the endless forms for the food ministry is 685 per cent. dearer than in 1939," said Henry Smith, catering consultant who prepared the index from hundreds of pre-war catalogues.

An estimated over-all price advance of 222 per cent. is shown. This is helped along by such increases as 885 per cent. in blankets, 662 on rugs and 730 on linoleum.

A list of food prices with pre-war costs in brackets makes gloomy reading. Examples are: corned beef, 2s 4d a pound (8d); canned stewing steak, 2s 4d (7½d); cod fillets, 1s 4d a pound (6d); turkey, 6s 3d a pound (1s 5d); roasting chicken, 4s 9d (1s 1d); pepper, 25s 6d a pound (8d); carrots, 24s a hundredweight (3s 6d).

More Coming

Smith says that food increases during the past 12 months should raise costs in 1952 by another 10 to 12 per cent.

Altogether, with the new year scarcely out of swaddling clothes, British housewives face a gloomy horizon. Already laundry prices have increased about 2½ per cent.—the third rise within a year. Laundry costs are now 78 per cent. higher than pre-war.

Another source of anxiety is a proposed change in the "utility" clothing scheme. Utility goods, made to Government specifications, are sold without purchase tax and manufacturers are pressing for abolition of this scheme. They suggest that purchase tax should be levied on all ranges of clothing, thereby bringing costs of utility and non-utility (which includes imported goods) ranges to a competitive level.

Designers Decree White Best Color

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 — The "white look" is the bright look in spring fashion.

New York's top fashion designers have decreed that white is the biggest color of the year—not only for spring, but for summer, fall and next winter.

White was selected, the experts say, because it is a color that compliments a suntan, a well-rouged face, every color in the calendar, and the deep-toned elegance of furs.

The most high-fashion shades to compliment white during the spring will be: First, black; second, navy; and third, other shades of blue. And white will be as good in the morning as it is at night. Dry-cleaners, take aesthetic heart!

MUNICIPAL CHAPTER

Meeting of the Peterborough Municipal chapter IODE was held Wednesday evening in the green room of the YWCA with regent Miss Mary Medd presiding. In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Hudson Hall read the minutes of the last meeting. A detailed financial report was given by the treasurer Mrs. Brian Roberts.

An informative letter, received from Mr. Gordon K. Fraser, MP, answered a letter sent him regarding the emphatic viewpoint of the IODE in the matter of deleting the word "Dominion" from the statutes of this country and the word "Royal" from Royal mail which is in direct disagreement to the creed of the IODE and justly antagonizing to thousands of loyal Canadian women in every province of the Dominion.

An expression of appreciation was offered to Mr. Gordon Miller, manager of the Paramount Theatre for having as his guests the regents of the six primary, one Junior and the Municipal Chapters to see the excellent first feature-length picture of the Royal journey filmed by the National Film Board during the visit of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip to the Dominion of Canada.

It was suggested the IODE Chapters in the city consult the Chamber of Commerce when setting dates for future chapter activities. They have a date book for recording coming events of city organizations and chapters are urged to take advantage of this service to eliminate the possibilities of conflicting dates.

Chapter representatives reported the following chapter coming activities. Major Bennett Chapter, Feb. 15 Leap Year Valentine Dance at Brock ballroom. March 26th, interior decoration demonstration and wallpaper display at Collegiate auditorium. 57th Regiment Chapter, Ye Old Curiosity Shoppe middle of March and 40th anniversary tea in April. Peter Robinson Chapter, African Violet Night to be presented May 14th with Mrs. Joan Copeland of Violet House, Cooksville the speaker.

Jeannette Scott Chapter annual Fashion Revue, with Mary Lee, commentator at Collegiate auditorium, March 12 and 13. Social evening and children's clothing exchange, April 2nd at YWCA. Col. Agnes Neill Chapter annual spring tea, April 19th at YWCA.

Mrs. C. L. Upper, educational secretary reports she still has a few IODE calendars on hand. Mrs. Upper stated the educational department of the provincial chapter of Ontario is continuing the Pictorial Art Competition and is offering award of $150 for the best original Canadian painting in any colour medium. A second scholarship award of $75.00 and a third award of $25.00 will be given. The competition is open to art students, citizens of Canada, domiciled in Ontario between ages of 16 and 25 years. The subject is an original Canadian painting, matted or unmatted, but not framed, approximately 14" x 21", wired or taped ready to hang, limit three entries per person. Chapter members are urged to bring this competition to the attention of any amateur artist in the city of this age group.

Mrs. Upper also reports an eighth IODE university scholarship award is being offered in the Province of Ontario to be awarded September, 1952, to an eligible candidate residing in Ontario, who is British born or child of naturalized Canadians and who has completed the junior matriculation examination. The scholarship will be awarded to a student planning to take a degree in one of the branches of pure or applied science. Value of scholarship is $1,400, ie, $300 for each of the first two years, providing holder passes exams each year. $400 for each third and fourth year.

Mrs. G. Groombridge, post-war convener, reported shipment this month of 127 knitted and sewn articles and 20 food boxes for overseas distribution. Special boxes were sent overseas for Christmas and letters of thanks were read from some of the recipients.

Miss June Fraser, film convener reports some chapters are of the opinion it is more advisable for chapters in the city to purchase jointly one large better-type Graded Tripod screen for permanent use for all chapters. It was generally felt at the municipal meeting that whether any chapters have immediate use of the screen or not, their assistance in the purchasing of this screen is advisable. Miss Fraser asked all regents to report at the next municipal meeting their decision in this purchase.

Subject to the approval of all Chapter members of the city the Municipal Chapter annual dinner meeting will be held in the recreational rooms at the YWCA Thursday, March 27th.

All executive members of all IODE chapters in the city are reminded they are required to submit a copy of their annual report to the Municipal Chapter not later than the February meeting.

Miss June Fraser arranged for the showing of a splendid film "City in Siege" a record of Winnipeg's ordeal by flood in spring of 1950.

At the close of the meeting members of the Otonabee Chapter served refreshments.

Second Musical Held In Bancroft

BANCROFT, Jan. 25 (ENS). — The second of the musicals sponsored by the Department of Education was held in the High School auditorium on Tuesday night.

Introduced by Charles Montreuil of the High School staff, the artists were Henry Bialuski, baritone, Miss Deltra Eamon, soprano and Ray Dudley, pianist.

Although the audience was unusually small in number, they were most appreciative of the excellent program presented by the visitors, who graciously responded with encores.

Lin Christian Returns To Film Work

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 25 (AP)—Linda Christian is working in a movie for the first time since she became Mrs. Tyrone Power. Her return to film carries the blessing of her famous husband.

At rehearsal for her role in "The Happy Time" she was working with Charles Boyer, Louis Jordan, Marsha Hunt and Bobby Driscoll. Between rehearsals, she pooh-poohed reports that she had given up her career to marry Power.

"That is nonsense," she said. "I had no career to give up. I was merely under contract to M-G-M and I did one Tarzan picture.

"It might be true to say I gave up a 'promising' career.

Always Pregnant

"When offers came, I was unable to accept them. I was always pregnant. Ty wanted very much to have a family, so I forgot about acting for a while."

After two miscarriages, she gave birth a few months ago to Romina Francesca Power, named for Rome, where Ty and Linda met and were married.

Linda said her husband was heartily in favor of the resumption of her acting.

"As a matter of fact, we are always acting at home. When Ty is in a picture, I read the other parts while he does his lines. He does the same for me."

She added that Ty is a good teacher and has helped her English. Born in Mexico of Dutch parents, she has lived in South Africa, Italy, France and Palestine, where she went to college.

What's Right?

You have promised a friend to go somewhere with her on a certain day, but when the day arrives you wish you hadn't made the plans.

WRONG: Make up some excuse to keep from going.

RIGHT: Do what you have promised to do—whether you really want to or not.

Little Jackets On Dresses Frosting Added For Spring

The frosting on the print silk dress for this Spring is a little jacket. And this little jacket, sometimes bust-length, may be a Spencer, a bolero or a capelet.

Spreading from the small top is a full skirt, pleated, or with unpressed pleats, or simply with a soft fullness. The print of these new dresses is fine and subtle, offering pretty contrast to a monotone jacket. Usually, the print of the dress makes the jacket lining and the jacket fabric reappears as trim on the dress, either in the belt or neckline.

The princess silhouette, important in full-length coats for Spring, is essential to dresses, too. Add to this silhouette two others that register: the Empire low and the molded torso.

A fourth strong silhouette is the one with a straight front and fullness at the back. It's accompanied by moderately full sleeves.

The newest of the daytime skirts is the one that has fullness spreading from below the hipline. But skirts with all-around fullness get emphasis, too, and are seen in many jacket costumes.

There's a difference in jacket dresses this year in that the dress that goes under the jacket has interest in itself, rather than being just basic. This means that without the jacket, the dress has merit of its own and can hold its place in the wardrobe.

Other fashion points to watch for in Spring dresses are full and girlish sleeves, crinolined skirts, and the waistline rising higher in nearly all daytime designs.

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Translating German Recipe To Own Cooking Habits

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Think cooking is easy? Then try translating a German recipe some time. First of all the German to the English, and then the quantities which are in grams (that's the way housewives measure in German) to cups—Canada's popular kitchen measurement.

And don't forget to add a little more salt than is called for. German butter isn't salted like ours.

This particular Kochbuch — is German for cook-book—contains all kinds of mouth-watering pictures of cakes with frilled icings and fudge fillings in between each of the three or four layers. Not quite proper reading material for the little woman of 150 pounds or so.

The Kochbuch's owner was puzzled when informed that housewives in this country these days just aren't in the habit of using five or six eggs in a cake.

At holiday time, she says, German housewives do a lot of baking. Five or six or seven eggs? well, these may be expensive but so is a movie.

Yes, but the trouble is when a movie is over there isn't any more. With a six-egg cake the weight scales can be depended on to record the "more" inside of a couple of days.

recipes from the Kochbuch, ones which didn't seem to go beyond the pale of the average Canadian housewife's pocketbook.

They have been completely translated—even to quantity. Incidentally both have been tried in a Canadian kitchen and the results weren't left around long enough to begin getting stale.

"Dumplettes" seems the best translation for what the Germans call "Klosse." They're served in consomme as we serve croutons.

Ingredients: Two large tablespoons butter or margarine; one-quarter cup flour; one egg (beaten); nutmeg (Germans use nutmeg frequently in their cooking instead of pepper); tunned consomme.

Cream butter then alternately add beaten eggs and flour mixed with seasoning. Let stand in cool place for one hour. Now drop by coffe-spoonsful into scalding consomme. They will pop up to the top of the consomme one by one. Should be allowed to cook about five minutes.

Persons tasting them for the first time say they "taste like porridge." Should be served in the consomme. This quantity is enough for four persons.

Schuabian cookies (or schwabenbrotchen):

Ingredients: one cup sifted flour; one-half sup sugar; three heaping tablespoons butter or margarine; shelled, ground almonds; one egg; grated lemon, one good tablespoon cinnamon. (According to taste).

Mix butter, sugar, flour, white of eggs and spices. Put in a cool place for an hour and then roll out. Cut in different shapes and return to refrigerator. Leave overnight. Then spread each cookie with yolk of egg (use a brush if one available for this.) Sprinkle with chopped almonds and bake in moderate oven.

Missionary's Day Ended

VANCOUVER, Jan. 25 (CP)—Dr. Stewart Allen of Montreal, United Church of Canada medical missionary just returned from China, says the day of the Christian missionary in Communist China is finished.

"That is not to say that the Church of Christ in China is done," he told the Vancouver Presbytery of the United Church Wednesday night. "There are strong Christians there. Many are paying an awful price for their convictions. Many have been killed and many others are in prison."

Dr. Allen arrived here Sunday from Hong Kong after spending eight months in solitary confinement in a Red Chinese jail on trumped-up espionage charges. He was finally ordered out of China.

He will leave soon for Toronto where he will report to the mission board of the United Church. He will report later to government officials at Ottawa.

OBITUARIES

MRS. CHARLOTTE ANN SHERWOOD

Mrs. Charlotte Ann Sherwood, widow of Alfred Ernest Sherwood, died at her apartment, 310 London St., on Wednesday.

She was born in Peterborough and lived throughout her life in the community, the eldest daughter of the late Edgcumbe Pearse and Ann Shilton Pearse, and a sister of the late Edith Pearse, the late T. E. E. Pearse, C. E., and of Mrs. Lillian Pearse Kerr, wife of F. D. Kerr, KC. She is an aunt of Edgcumbe Pearse and Herbert Pearse of Maryland, USA.

An Anglican, Mrs. Sherwood until recent years was an active member of St. John's Church. She was a teacher in the Sunday school for many years and was at different times treasurer of the Chancel Guild and the women's auxiliary.

She was a charter member of St. John's branch of the King's Daughters and a charter member of the Otonabee Chapter of the IODE and was a tireless worker in all forms of patriotic work during the war years, 1914-18. Mrs. Sherwood was also president for a number of years of the Women's Art Association.

During recent years she was compelled by ill health to live quietly.

The body is resting at the home of F. D. Kerr, 586 Rubidge St., until the service at St. John's Church on Saturday at 3:30 pm.

PATRICK LEO JONES

ROSENEATH, Jan. 25—(ENS)—The death occurred on Thursday morning at East Lincoln Memorial hospital, Grimsby, of Patrick Leo Jones, formerly of Percy township, after a short illness.

He was born on the Jones homestead in Percy township 70 years ago, a son of the late Bernard Jones and his wife Mary Ann Brady, and lived there until moving to Grimsby 10 years ago.

A bachelor, he was the last surviving member of that family. Four brothers, Hugh Jones, Warkworth; John Jones, Hastings; Michael Jones, Buffalo, New York; three sisters, Bridget and Mary Jones, Percy township and Mrs. W. R. Hogan, (Rose) Rochester, N.Y., predeceased their brother.

The body is resting at the Stonehouse funeral home, Grimsby. Following requiem mass to be said there Saturday morning, the body will be brought to the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ambrose Fanning, Fenella, on Saturday and will remain there until Monday morning. Requiem Mass will be said at Our Lady of Mount Carmel church, Hastings, at 10 a.m. by the Rev. Leo A. Jones, Weedsport, New York a nephew of the deceased. Burial will be in Our Lady of Mount Carmel cemetery, Hastings.

Private Compartment

LONDON, Jan. 25 (Reuters)—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh will have private compartments in the 40-seater British Overseas Airways Corporation Canadair North Star taking them to Nairobi, Kenya, Jan. 31. At the rear of the craft will be a compartment with two sleeping berths and a semi-circular lounge—normally the plane's bar.

8,000 Strikers Back At Work

DETROIT, Jan. 25 (CP)—Eight thousand of 14,000 Briggs Manufacturing Company workers, out on an unauthorized strike which began to mushroom Tuesday, returned to work today.

An additional 12,000 Briggs night-shift workers, whom a company official said Thursday night would be sent home, remained on their jobs all night.

Some 5,500 Chrysler Corporation workers and 4,000 Packard Motor Car Company men laid off because of the Briggs walkout—Briggs normally supplies their companies with auto accessories—are idle today.

The walkout began Tuesday when 5,600 Briggs men, members of Local 212, the United Automobile Workers of America (CIO), quit over the firing of six trim line men. The union charged the company with "speedup" tactics.

The original 5,600 were joined by an additional 8,400 as the strike spread through the other Briggs plant.

The international executive of the UAW ordered the men back to work Thursday pending a mass meeting Sunday at which the dispute will be discussed.

Canada UN Delegates Plan Visit To Germany

PARIS, Jan. 25. (CP)—Canada's Finance Minister, Douglas Abbott, and Justice Minister Stuart Garson left Paris by air today to visit Cologne, Bonn and Hannover in Germany.

They were accompanied by Leon Balcer, Conservative member of parliament for Three Rivers (Que.), Percy Wright, CCF member for Melfort (Sask.), and Rev. E. G. Hansell, Social Credit member for MacLeod (Alta.)

All except Abbott are members of Canada's delegation to the United Nations general assembly meeting here. Abbott has been in London attending a Commonwealth finance ministers' conference.

It was understood the Canadian ministers will have informal talks with West German leaders and visit troops of the Canadian 27th brigade stationed near Hannover as part of Atlantic Pact forces.

Waterloo By-Election To Be Held In June

KITCHENER, Jan. 25 (CP) — The Waterloo North by-election probably will be held between June 1 and 15, a member of the Liberal Association executive said today.

A by-election has been made necessary by the resignation of Louis Breithaupt, the constituency's Liberal representative in the House of Commons. Mr. Breithaupt has been appointed Ontario Lieutenant-Governor.

It was reported that Mr. Breithaupt's resignation was in the hands of the Speaker of the House of Commons Tuesday afternoon.

Dies In Electric Chair For Stabbing Girl

CHICAGO, Jan. 25 — (AP) — Sullen, 21-year-old Raymond Jenko who stabbed to death a 16-year-old high school girl in a robbery attempt 20 months ago, died today in the electric chair.

Four shocks of 1,900 volts were necessary to snuff out the life of the youth who waylaid Patrica Swartz in her backyard as she returned home from a church social May 20, 1950.

After the execution, the victim's father, William Swartz, who was among the 80 spectators, remarked to reporters, "it's a pleasure."

He struck Jenko with his fist and tried to choke him at the inquest two days after the slaying.

William McCallum

MARMORA, Jan. 25—(ENS)—The funeral of William McCallum took place Thursday afternoon at Marmora Pentecostal Church. Service was conducted by the Rev. W. C. Stevenson. Burial took place in Marmora Protestant cemetery.

Mr. McCallum was in his 61st year and was an adopted son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McCallum, who farmed for several years in Marmora township before residing west of the village. He was an employee of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company for many years until ill-health forced his retirement some years ago.

He was married to Agnes, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henderson, Belmont township. She survives him.

Identify Body

ELIZABETH, N.J., Jan. 25 — (CP) — Officials at the city morgue announced today that the body of Kenneth R. Wilson, Canadian newspaperman who was one of 29 victims of an air crash here Tuesday night, has been identified. The remains will be cremated today.

Wilson, Ottawa editor of the Financial Post, was a passenger on an American Airlines plane which crashed here while attempting a landing in fog and rain at neighboring airport.

Wilson boarded the Buffalo-Newark plane at Syracuse, NY, on a trip from Ottawa to Washington.

He was 48 and had been with the MacLean-Hunter Publishing Company since 1926.

TRAFFIC JAM—Local motorists aren't alone with their traffic troubles. This was the scene of confusion along Chicago's Outer Drive recently as motorists took to the ice-covered grass to escape the flooded road. Winds whipped 12-foot waves onto the Drive and forced officials to close on eight-block stretch to traffic. The cars in the lead, unable to get up the slippery incline to return to the drive, forced others to halt causing traffic pile-ups like this.

Laughter In Paradise Delights Series Audience

There was laughter in the Capitol theatre Thursday night when Laughter in Paradise, a very English and very funny comedy, was shown to start off a series, presented by the International Cinema Guild of Canada.

This first film in the set was a happy choice. It quickly dispelled possible doubts among any in audience that the series could be excellent entertainment if chosen for a discriminating audience.

Alastair Sim headed the cast which was so well balanced in its talents and contribution to the whole film that Sim could hardly be called the star in spite of a performance that evoked every bit of fun that was in the script.

Alastair Sim was one of four heirs of famous practical joker, Henry Augustus Russell, who died playing a practical joke on his nurse.

Four Heirs

Sim plays the part of a retired army captain who writes scores of cheap pseudo-American gangster novels and is engaged to marry a formidable captain in the British women's army (Joyce Grenfell).

The three other heirs are a sister (Fay Compton), a bitter spinster who bullies her servants brutally; a cousin (George Cole), who is a meek bank clerk with "no push" who is bullied by the branch manager; and another cousin (John Laurie), an ex-army officer who is an amorous chiseler who takes the most delight in the death of his cousin.

Each is left £50,000 on condition... The gangster novelist must have himself legitimately jailed for 28 days. The sister must serve as a maid in a middle calss home for one month. The bank clerk must hold up his manager and convince him for at least two minutes that the holdup is on the level. The playboy cousin must marry the first single girl he speaks to.

Each takes a solemn oath after serenading a portrait of their benefactor with "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" that he will not disclose the terms of the will until after conditions have been fulfilled.

They all set about meeting the conditions so that they can claim their inheritance. How they do it is four separate stories, but so skillfully are they knit together that the switches from character to character are not distracting.

Not All Suceed

Not all of the four Russells succeed in qualifying for their inheritance. But their attempts are highly amusing. The comedy is not slapstick nor is it subtle wit that would be lost on the average audience. It is all completely satisfying.

Some of the funniest scenes come when the fiction write tries shoplifting in a large department store. He finally succeeds in catching the attention of a store detective as he fills his coat pocket with a tray full of necklaces, only to have a pair of pickpockets strip him of his spoils before he is picked up by the store detective.

Also shown with the feature were a short color film of forest night life cut to a recording of Franz Liszt's Liebestraum. Both the photography and music were enjoyable, but the action of the film tended to distract attention from the music.

Another short, "Mountain Rescue", showing mountain climbing in North Wales was a little too staged to be effective and showed an overfondness for dwelling on dark piles of unspectacular rock hills.

But for the audience that was much smaller than the entertainment deserved it was a highly successful evening. An announcement by Chief Librarian William Graff that the Italian film Bicycle Thief and the documentary Kon Tiki were coming the next two Thursdays was welcomed with pleasure. Mr. Graff thanked the International Cinema Guild, Famous Players Theatres and local manager Art Cauley for bringing the series to Peterborough.—R. J. H.

Millbrook, Orono Tie 8-8 On Newcastle Ice

MILLBROOK, Jan. 25 (ENS)—Millbrook junior OHA "D" team tied Orono 8-8 in Newcastle arena Wednesday night. The game was fast throughout with the exception of the first 10 minutes which were slowed up by the new rule put into effect for the first time, which stated the puck carrier had to carry the puck within the opponents' blue line before he shot or else he would be called for icing the puck.

Millbrook juniors were behind 6-4 at the end of the second period, but as they usually do, rallied in the last period and scored four quick goals. They were ahead until the last minute of play when Coffin of Orono scored the tying goal.

SCOTTISH RITE CHOIR (Octette) organizer and leader for the past 26 years, Frederick G. Mann was given a testimonial dinner on Thursday evening by some of the members of the Supreme Council. He will be succeeded by Organist Robert Johnston.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Frederic G. Mann Given By Scottish Rite Masons

Members of the Supreme Council of the Peterborough branch of the Scottish Rite Masons gave a testimonial dinner on Thursday evening to Frederic George Mann in honor of his retirement from leadership of the Scottish Rite Choir (Octette) of Peterborough for the past 26 years.

His successor will be Robert Johnston, who will be officially installed at the annual meeting of the Peterborough Lodge of Perfection on January 28.

Mr. Mann founded the choir in 1926 and has maintained its high standard for the rendition of Masonic ritual music, until the present time. He was presented with a suitably-engraved cane by the dinner's chairman, Douglas Carlisle.

Together with the full compliment of choir members others present of the Scottish Rite were Drs. N. A. Buchanan, C. B. Waite and S. Y. Walsh, R. F. Downey, G. A. Macdonald, C. S. Browne, H. C. Sootheran, Robert Johnston, J. H. Vernor, Dr. S. J. Graham, H. M. Niven, G. H. Cutmore, Vernon Morphet, Edward Humpage and Mr. Carlisle.

The press of new masonic duties made it necessary for Mr. Mann to relinquish his leadership of the choir; he was recently elected deputy grand master of the Sovereign Great Priory of Canada, Knights Templar. Mr. Mann was organist of Corinthian Lodge 101 for five years and First Principal of Corinthian Chapter 36 R.A.M. in 1937.

It was revealed for the first time at Thursday night's dinner that in a revised catalogue of Canadian Composers, compiled by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Mr. Mann was given considerable space in the listed group of 356 composers; 229 of them were Canadian born.

Ten choral, one organ and one vocal titles of his compositions are listed, all but two of which have been published. One of the choral selections, "Call Yo' Clil-the Home," was set to words by the late W. R. Breyfogle of this city. Besides these catalogue listings Mr. Mann has more than 24 other manuscripts at home that have not been published—anthems, descants and organ music.

Born in Norwich, England, he started his musical career as boy chorister and became organist at Beeston, St. Andrew, Norfolk. He came to Canada in 1906 and was organist at St. James' Anglican Church, Carleton Place; Grace Episcopal Church, Ridgeway, Pa.; St. John's Church, Ottawa, and for the past 27 years organist and choirmaster at St. John's Anglican Church, Peterborough.

He is still a very active music teacher — piano, organ, singing and all higher theoretical branches of music. Many of his former students, of which there are hundreds, hold prominent musical positions throughout Canada.

Paper Lauds Canada's Thrift

NEW YORK, Jan. 25—(CP)—The New York Daily News says today the rise to parity of the Canadian dollar is all the more remarkable because during 1951 Canada bought more than $470,000,000 more goods from the United States than it sold.

The News, which has been strongly critical of heavy deficit spending by the Truman administration, said the answers to the strength of Canada's currency are fairly simple, "and none too flattering to us."

In an editorial entitled, "Nice Going Canada," the News says:

"Money's primarily a matter of people's confidence in the government that prints it, and the world of trade has expressed increasing trust in Canada. No merry tax-spend, 'What's debt—we just owe ourselves' policy up there. Canada's aim has been to pay as she goes ending up with a sound budget."

Hope To Measure Up To Job–Breithaupt

KITCHENER, Jan. 25. (CP)—Louis O. Breithaupt, newly-appointed lieutenant-governor of Ontario, says he hopes he'll be able "to measure up to the service required."

Interviewed at his home here Thursday Mr. Breithaupt said: "When the suggestion was made to me by the Prime Minister some months ago I was naturally overwhelmed by all its implications."

"I certainly feel very humble about it all and hope that I shall be able to measure up to the service required in this important office which, by reason of Ontario being the No. 1 province, is very exacting."

Will Name Alexander Privy Council Member

OTTAWA, Jan. 25. (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent announced today that Viscount Alexander will be made a member of His Majesty's Canadian Privy Council when he retires next week as governor-general.

He is the first retiring governor-general in history to be honored this way.

Call Off Bus Strike

LONDON, Jan. 25 (Reuters)—A two-day wildcat strike by 800 London bus drivers was called off Thursday night pending talks with the management on the suspension of two men. The strike hit several routes between central London and suburbs and forced many Londoners to hitch-hike to work. About 120 buses came off the road.

Deny Sabotage Reports

TRENTON, Jan. 25 — RCAF officials at No. 6 Repair Depot here Thursday denied reports that security police are investigating the possible sabotage of two Harvard training planes. They said newspaper reports yesterday that iron filings had been found in the oil of the Harvard engines were without foundation.

Number Of Hockey Teams Down As Population Grows

From a peak of 87 juvenile hockey teams playing the local outdoor circuit to a present 40, more or probably less, is Amar Butcher's measure of the decline of the winter game among the primary school boys of the city.

Peterborough is moving along toward the 38,000 population mark, with more small boys than ever in its community, but their hockey teams have slumped in number more than 100 per cent, according to the Butcher figures.

The period of this setback was not mentioned by him, but he did refer to the interest of service clubs and others in their sponsoring of teams, and generally displaying a big brother interest in neighborhood youngsters.

Cost Too Much

And even down at the present level of a scant 40 of these teams, Mr. Butcher remarked that the outdoor rinks permitting hockey "are costing us too much money". That opinion was perhaps linked to results and conditioned by them.

Mr. Butcher was commenting to the parks committee of the council Thursday afternoon on the fact that there is only one outdoor rink south of Lansdowne St. It is at the little McKellar park. The rinks nearest to that area are two at Turner Park on High St. at Brown and Chamberlain Sts.

There had been a rink on Confederation School grounds, but in winters that were thermally slacker than this, the season had been short and interrupted, "and the teachers hounded us when spring was coming to get the shack out of there".

An enquiry from the Grove School section asked whether a rink could be provided for the young people.

"There was a building down there. I can't say whether it has been taken out."

Mayor Waddell said the city could flood a rink and elders would supervise it for this season.

Mr. Butcher said he would interview several women from that neighborhood who were interested in getting a rink for the boys and girls.

As to expenditure on rinks, Mr. Butcher said: "They cost too much money for all they are worth".

Manchester Guardian Approves Of Massey

MANCHESTER, Jan. 25 (CP)—A Manchester Guardian correspondent said today in a special article that Vincent Massey seems unquestionably the right choice as Canada's first Canadian Governor-General.

The correspondent, not identified by name but described as an Englishman personally acquainted with Massey and with the Canadian political scene, writes that the Governor-General-elect will help guide Canada towards "the full cultural personality without which her nationhood is incomplete."

The article attributes to Massey integrity of character, intellectual capacity, a sense of dignity not of person but of office and above all an immunity to the attractions of party politics. It adds:

"If his fellow-countrymen are naturally more struck than the people of Britain by his reserve, almost aloofness . . . they may rest assured that this habit masks a warm generosity and a lively interest in people as well as in affairs."

Massey is described as "much less of a hail-fellow-well-met" than Field - Marshal Viscount Alexander, his predecessor.

George P. Ferguson On Labor Board

TORONTO, Jan. 25 (CP) — George S. P. Ferguson, Toronto lawyer, has been named as one of the two management nominees on the five-man Ontario Labor Relations Board, it was announced Thursday night. He replaces E. Norris Davis who resigned recently for business reasons.

10,000 Miners Strike

PALERMO, Italy, Jan. 25 (Reuters)—About 10,000 Communist-led Siscilian sulphur miners went on strike Thursday for higher wages and better working conditions. Mine owners had rejected demands for a two-per-cent wage increase, a pension fund and the hiring of more miners.

HALIFAX (CP)—A mild spell here may have got the birds all mixed up. Paul Hebb, who saw three robins while driving from Bridgewater to Halifax, said "They must have thought it was spring."

Tourist Quirks

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver Tourist Association faithfully noted down suggestions and complaints by American visitors for study at its annual meeting. "City far too smoky" headed the list. Other visitors wanted to know "where are the Indians?"

Minor Mystery

VANCOUVER (CP) — Visitors leave a variety of things behind them in the police station but janitor Carl Gudmundson thinks one Saturday night visitor topped them all. He left a revolver lying on the station steps.

Housing Plan For Trenton

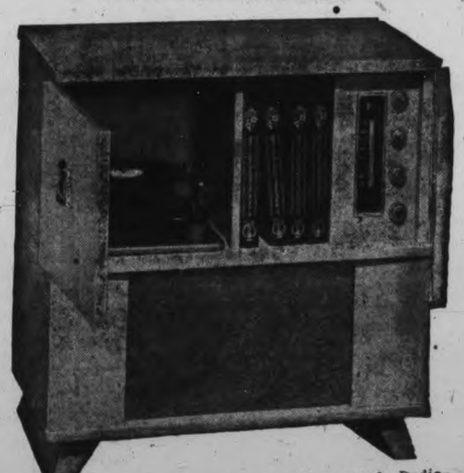
OTTAWA, Jan. 25 — (CP) —An agreement has been entered into between the Federal Government, the Province of Ontario and Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation for the servicing of 44 acres of land at Trenton for residential housing construction, the Resources Department announced today.

The agreement provides for the development of 220 building lots and the setting aside of 25 lots for the construction of 25 single-family housing units for rentals. The remaining 195 lots in the land developed will be sold to builders and individuals for residential construction.

Three-quarters of the estimated total cost of $450,000 will be borne by the Federal Government with the Province and the municipality sharing the remainder.

The municipality will carry out servicing of the area, including the construction and installation of sewers, water lines, roads and street lighting, while the Federal Government and the Province will be responsible for the construction of the housing units.

South Koreans Kill 8,000 Communists



SEOUL, Jan. 25. (AP) — An Eighth Army staff officer today said South Korean troops killed 8,000 Communists and captured 7,000 in the Chiri Mountains behind Allied lines.

The seven-weeks drive against guerrillas cracked their corps of Moscow-trained leaders, the staff officer said. It cleaned out a centuries-old bandit stronghold in rugged terrain where peaks rise to 6,000 feet.

The South Korean task force uncovered scores of arms and food caches in the hills, some several years old. The arms were a motley assortment of Chinese, American, Korean, Japanese and Russian equipment.

No information was given on South Korean losses.

11 Warships Steam For Suez Area

Informed Sources, Claim Break Accomplished Fact

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 26. (AP)—Angry mobs roamed Cairo's streets today, setting fires and shouting for "revenge" against the British, while the Cabinet was reported to have decided to break relations with Britain and 11 British warships steamed for the Suez Canal.

British naval headquarters at Malta disclosed today it sent one aircraft carrier, three cruisers, seven destroyers and a mine-layer steaming swiftly to reinforce the battle-torn canal zone after Friday's battle between British troops and Egyptian police.

The cruiser Liverpool and several destroyers already are there.

A state of emergency was proclaimed in Cairo.

Angry police, brandishing rifles, joined a mob of 2,000 shouting "long live Russia, friend of Egypt."

More mobs pillage and burned.

One raided the Badia night club, where belly-dancers once drew a trade of hundreds of British troops. They ripped out furniture, set it afire and three times fought off firemen who tried to quench the 40-foot flames leaping from the street.

Guns, Tear-Gas

Police fired shotguns and tear-gas bombs trying to clear the street, and the firemen finally doused the flames.

Another mob set fire to the British-owned Rivoli Movie House a mile from the night club.

Two other movie houses, several other nightclubs, the British Turf Club and other buildings also were set ablaze. Police used tear gas and fired shots to disperse crowds which cut the hoses of firemen trying to douse the flames.

As the mobs moved on, they smashed plate glass windows, including those in the popular hermitage restaurant and in the Immobilia building, where the Associated Press has its offices.

The pro-government newspaper Al Misri said an emergency cabinet meeting sitting late into the night decided to break relations with Britain.

There was no confirming announcement from the government, but an official from Premier Mustapha El Nahas Pasha's office told a mob it would hear an "historic decision" today or tomorrow.

This wave of anti-British hatred swelled for a week and broke open after the battle at Ismailia yesterday, when British troops used tanks and big guns to crush a police detachment and disarm it after six hours of bitter fighting.

Four Britons Killed

Four Britons were killed and nine wounded. The Egyptians said they lost 46 dead and 73 wounded. The British, after mopping up, reported today 41 police were killed and 63 wounded.

They said they captured 1,165 rifles and still hold 500 to 1,000 auxiliary policemen whom they charge have joined guerrilla attackers.

Al Misri said effectiveness of the cabinet decision was delayed

Bigamy Charge Faces Husbandless Woman Who Lost Three Spouses In Single Day

INDIANAPOLIS,, Jan. 26 — (AP)—Miss Clara Katherine Kendall was charged with bigamy Friday although she has no husband, having lost three in 24 hours.

Prosecutor Frank H. Fairchild filed the charge against the 25-year-old auburn-haired woman after she shed her third husband. She posted $1,000 bond for appearance Thursday.

In a little more than 24 hours she divorced one husband, dropped a divorce suit against a man to whom she wasn't actually married, and saw her marriage to No. 3 annulled.

She came out without any of the alimony she had asked — $10,000 from No. 2 and $50,000 from No. 3.

The involved story unravelled like this:

Miss Kendall first married Aneglo P. Benequista in New York. She said she thought he had divorced her, and she entered into commonlaw marriage with Earl G. Stamatkin and later married Dr. Euclid T. Caddy of Indianapolis.

She filed divorce actions against all three recently. Thursday she was granted a divorce from Benquista, and dropped her case against Stamatkin on the ground that there was no marriage because of the previous marriage. Yesterday she withdrew her suit against Dr. Caddy and he won an annulment.

Surplus Hits Peak Of $721,600,000 Despite Arms Costs

OTTAWA, Jan. 26. (CP)—Despite the increasing rate of Canada's defence expenditures, the Federal Government's budgetary surplus has risen to $721,600,000 in the first nine months of the current fiscal year—the highest in history. The Finance Department Friday issued its monthly treasury report showing revenues of $2,804,300,000 and expenditures of $2,082,700,000 for the nine months ended Dec. 31, 1951. This corresponded with revenues of $2,049,600,000 and expenditures of $1,628,400,000 in the corresponding period of 1950-51.

Last April Finance Minister Abbott estimated that his 1951-52 surplus would be about $30,000,000. Later he revised this upward to between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000. But even this has been surpassed.

Defence expenditures in the nine-month period were $769,900,000 compared with $372,600,000 in the corresponding period of 1950-51. The Defence Department still has an unspent balance of close to $1,000,000,000 of the total voted by parliament last spring for the nation's mighty defence program.

The first instalment from the United Kingdom on a $2,500,000,000 loan granted in 1946 helped boost revenues this year. Britain made an interest payment of $23,700,000 during the period, along with $14,000,000 on the principle of the loan.

But the biggest revenue increase was in corporation income taxes. These rose to $795,850,000,000, up $270,100,000 from the corresponding nine months of the previous fiscal year. Heavier rates of corporation taxes, imposed in the 1950-51 budget, were responsible for the jump.

Personal income tax collections were up $238,100,000 at $699,700,000. Custom import duties jumped $59,500,000 to $257,300,000 and excess taxes were up $201,700,000 at $658,600,000.

Expenditures other than for defence increased $37,400,000 to $1,293,200,000, resulting partly from higher payments for old-age pensions, family allowances, health grants and other social services.

Some deparments of government recorded decreases in their spending. These included a $4,000,000 drop in spending by the production and marketing services of the Agriculture Department; a drop of $2,500,000 in grants to international organizations by the External Affairs Department and a drop of $3,500,000 in payment of interest on the public debt.

US Candidates Sidestep Vatican Issue

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—The controversial issue of sending an American ambassador to the Vatican was neatly sidestepped today by four avowed presidential candidates.

They also put off direct answers to the question: Do you think it will be a campaign issue?

Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem. Tenn.) who announced this week he will seek the Democratic presidential nomination, and the three announced Republican candidates, Harold E. Stassen, Governor Earl Warren of California and Senator Robert A. Taft (Rep. Ohio), all declined to comment.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge was unavailable for comment on what he thought General Eisenhower's reactions might be. Senator Lodge is handling the General's Republican campaign.

Identical questions were asked all four men by the Associated Press:

"Noting President Truman's assertion he thinks the Senate should go on record on sending an ambassador to the Vatican, do you:

"1. Favor sending an ambassador?

"2. Think it will be a campaign issue?"

Truman's Position

Whether Mr. Truman can be classed as a presidential candidate is vague—he has consistently put off an announcement on this—but his position on the Vatican issue is crystal clear:

He plans to nominate another person to the post despite the Protestant uproar that followed his appointment of Gen. Mark W. Clark last fall.

Clark's name was later withdrawn at the General's request when he became worried over the avalanche of criticism.

Massey May Stay Weekend With The King

LONDON, Jan. 26—(CP)—Vincent Massey, Governor-General-Designate of Canada, had an audience Friday with the King and there was speculation today that he may be spending the weekend at the King's Sandringham estate.

Today's court circular disclosed Friday's audience but made no mention of a visit to Sandringham by Massey. He has long been on terms of personal friendship with the Royal Family.

A source close to the Governor-General-elect, who declined to be quoted by name, said today: "Mr. Massey is at Sandringham now." He declined to elaborate.

The King is expected to return from Sandringham Monday.

Curtain Of Secrecy

A tight curtain of secrecy has been drawn over Massey's movements since his arrival in Britain last month. Yesterday Canadian official sources in London, in reply to questions from reporters as to when Massey would see the King, said they were not authorized to give any information on Massey's whereabouts.

Some British newspapers gave front-page play to reports from Canada suggesting that Massey, 64 and a widower, plans to re-

Neglectful Husband

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 26. (AP)—The fifth wife of a 71-year-old man complained Friday that her husband had neglected to get a divorce from wife No. 4. An expectant mother, Mrs. James R. Monroe, 39, said she had learned after she married Monroe last July 4 that he was still legally married to another woman in Texas. Monroe, appearing on a bigamy charge, was bound over to the grand jury.

Divorce Forces MP To Resign

HITCHIN, Hertford, England, Jan. 26 (Reuters)—Nigel Fisher, Conservative member of parliament, Friday bowed to a centuries-old tradition when he offered to resign his seat because of divorce proceedings.

His action recalled an age when a mere hint of divorce could wreck a politician's career.

Fisher, 38, is parliamentary private secretary to Food Minister Gwilym Lloyd-George. He offered to resign because his wife is petitioning for divorce.

Fire Chief Agrees On City Hall As Plaque Sight

Fire Chief George Smith agrees with the majority opinion of the city's fire, water and light committee: that the bronze plaque commemorating the three regular firemen and the volunteer who were killed in the Zacks building fire last May should be placed in the city hall.

There was an alternate suggestion that the plaque should be placed in the fire hall.

Chief Smith said his reasons were practical:

"Where would we put in the fire hall?" he asked. "The downstairs is occupied by firefighting apparatus. And if it were put on the second floor I doubt that more than 25 citizens—other than those having business to do at the fire hall—would see it in a year."

Those killed were firemen Orville Rome, George Reynolds, Grover Deck, and volunteer fireman Earl Spencley.

More Would See It

Chief Smith went on to point out that the city hall is better located so far as the general public

British Press Makes Heroes Of Egyptians For Stand

LONDON, Jan. 26—(AP)—The British press made heroes today of the Egyptians for their unexpected stubborn stand Friday at Ismailia and cited especially a young, bloodied police captain who emerged from the besieged barracks at the height of the battle to plead for ambulances.

Editorially, the papers agreed the bloody fray was a pity but couldn't be helped. One of the most influential—the Conservative Daily Telegraph—hinted that other countries might find themselves mixed up in the trouble before long.

The story of the Egyptian Captain was told by almost every British correspondent at Ismailia.

'I don't think any of us will forget the Egyptian police officer who walked out of police headquarters, both hands red with blood, demanding ambulances for his wounded," the Daily Mirror's David Walker wrote. "We told him he could have ambulances if the police surrendered.

"In a voice pitched high with a strain, he said, 'we would rather die than surrender. Even in war your enemy allows you ambulances. I have lived in England and know that the English are gentlemen—but where are the gentlemen here today?' "

The British correspondents wrote that he was offered British ambulances, but he insisted on Egyptian vehicles, which the British refused until the group surrendered.

Felt Regret

The London Times correspondent said "There was hardly a British officer in Ismailia this evening who did not look back on the events of the day with feelings of shock and regret, though it is generally agreed that Gen. Erskine was justified, in view of the persistent refusal of the police to co-operate, in using his full strength.

"It was a sobering and disturbing sight to see the enormous firepower of a modern military force turned upon a barracks full of policemen, however malicious their actions in the past and whatever the menace they might offer for the future.

"The mixed motives of the police in resisting so strongly—motives in which patriotism and other honorable feelings have their place—made the operation still less like the exciting field day which some soldiers had expected."

See Four-Point British Budget

LONDON, Jan. 26—(Reuters)—Richard Butler, Chancellor of the Exchequer, will usher in Britain's new austerity to a reassembled parliament Tuesday.

The Conservative minister will present the government's cure for the grave economic ills facing the country. They will include an attempt to balance Britain's overseas payments and restore vigor to the pound sterling.

Well-informed sources predicted Butler will announce this four-point program:

1. The restriction of credit with the government ordering the banks to cut the amount of money in circulation;

2. A ruthless pruning of the civil service to cut government spending;

3. Further cuts in imports;

4. Reorganization of industries with raw materials and labor being transferred from non-essential industries to arms production, coal, railroad and export industries.

Chevrier Says Opposition To Seaway Scheme "Short-Sighted, Misguided"

NEW YORK, Jan. 26. (CP)—Hon. Lionel Chevrier, Canada's Minister of Transport, said today opposition to the St. Lawrence seaway is "short-sighted and misguided." In a blunt speech hammering at United States opposition to the big power-navigation project, Mr. Chevrier hit particularly at what he called the "misguided minority" that has held up Congressional ratification of a joint US-Canada project for many years.

He emphasized that, despite parliament's authorization last month for all-Canadian construction of the $250,000,000 navigation development, Canada still would prefer a joint undertaking. That country will pursue both plans until it becomes clear which will produce results first.

The minister, in an address prepared for delivery to the Women's Canadian Club, set no specific deadline for U.S. action. But he said repeatedly that the need for the seaway is urgent.

The speech of Mr. Chevrier, as the cabinet member most directly concerned with the seaway job, evidently was aimed at stimulating Congress towards action on the joint project early this year. It is expected seaway legislation will be brought before Congress at its new session.

Outweigh Bad Points

Contrary to the claims of opponents, he said, advantages of the seaway would outweigh disadvantages to particular interests.

Lake shipping companies, instead of having to fear competition from ocean shipping, would

Russia Aligned With Red China

MOSCOW, Jan. 26—(AP)—The Communist Party's official organ Pravda says Russia would fight beside Red China if ever it felt she was "being attacked by the Japanese or any forces allied with the Japanese."

Pravda was commenting on Japanese Premier Shigeau Yoshida's recent disclosure that Japan was prepared, when possible, to conclude a treaty with the Chinese Nationalist regime of Chiang Kai-shek, now in refuge on Formosa.

The Chinese Reds have pledged themselves to wipe out Chiang's island centre of resistance. That is why diplomats here regarded the Pravda statements with concern.

The Soviet Union would intervene under terms of a 1950 treaty of alliance and mutual aid with Communist China, Pravda said.

Pravda said the "shameful" attitude of Japan in wishing to make peace with the Chinese Nationalists instead of the Communists was a "frank expression of a hostile attitude toward the Chinese people and a serious threat to peace in the Far East and throughout the world."

Another article in Red Star, organ of the armed forces, accused the Americans, British and French of planning aggression against Red China.

Snow Isolates Small Utah Town

EUREKA, Utah, Jan. 26 (AP)—"We have no money, no reserves, and no equipment to help us. This is the worst blizzard we have ever had," Mayor Maynard Cronin said today after the town council declared a state of emergency in this snow-clogged community.

The council Friday night appealed to Gov. J. Bracken Lee for state aid in clearing up the mountains of snow dumped on this Central Utah community. The state moved some equipment in last night, and more was reported on the way early today.

While there seemed no immediate danger for the town's 1,000 citizens, there may be a fuel and food shortage if highways and the railroad into town are not opened. Schools were closed yesterday, and 400 miners were reported idle because of the snow.

"We have coal trucks stalled in the street, and as soon as we can unload them we will have plenty of coal," the mayor said. "But traffic is completely blocked in the back streets."

Blocked by five feet of snow on the ground, that is, mixed with drifts piled to the rooftops in places by the high winds.

St. Laurent Silent On Massey Marriage

OTTAWA, Jan. 26 (CP)—If Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey is planning to choose a hostess for Rideau Hall when he becomes governor-general, Prime Minister St. Laurent isn't saying anything about it.

A reporter asked the Prime Minister Friday at a press conference who will be hostess at Rideau Hall official functions after Mr. Massey, a widower, assumers office.

"Well really," Mr. St. Laurent replied, "that is something you will have to ask Mr. Massey."

Drunk On Love?

SPARTANBURG, SC, Jan. 26. (AP) — "All the world loves a lover," but that did not keep two lovebirds from being locked in county jail here on Friday. "Can we get married after we get out?" was their last question before rural officer Jack Fowler turned the key on them. They came to the courthouse to get married, and fell down the steps together. The bride-to-be wore an all-blue going-away outfit. Officers said they were too drunk to leave.

Quints Parade With 20 Floats

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 26—(AP)—The Dionne quintuplets today shared the spotlight with 32 queen candidates as St. Paul's annual winter carnival opened today with a colorful parade.

The Quints rode one of the more than two score floats that vied with more than 100 marching and musical units for attention from the throngs that watched.

Cecile, speaking for her four sisters, yesterday told reporters they were asking "too many questions." Her sisters showed their agreement with her statement by nodding. Her remark came during a "press conference" shortly after the Quints arrived.

They posed for cameramen, but responded with "no comment" to many of the queries put to them.

Work On Scouts' Organization Won Him Tiny Silver Award

Alexander Given Scouting's Highest Award

OTTAWA, Jan. 26 — (CP) — Viscount Alexander was made a Silver Wolf today.

The Order of the Silver Wolf—highest scouting award in the Commonwealth—was presented to him at Government House, where Viscount Alexander, as governor-general, has handed out hundreds of decorations and awards to others.

As governor-general, he was Canada's Chief Scout, and though he was a busy man with many chores to attend, he found time to do everything possible to build up the scouting organization in Canada.

Silver Replica

It was for this reason, and the fact that Canada's scouts feel deeply about his departure, that the tiny replica of a silver wolf attached to a green and yellow ribbon was presented to him.

Jackson Dodds of Montreal, deputy chief scout for Canada, made the presentation. With him at Government House were Maj.-Gen. Guy R. Turner of Ottawa, chairman of the scouts' honors and awards commitee; R. D. Mulholland of Ottawa, honorary treasurer and Maj.-Gen. Dan Spry, chief executive commissioner of the Canadian Scouts.

The citation read:

"His Excellency, as Chief Scout for Canada, by his interest gave the Canadian General Council, its committees and scouters a desire to achieve greater things for the boys of Canada.

"His Excellency has given encouragement and inspiration to the Boy Scout movement and has at all times exhibited his interest in its growth and development.

Personal Presentations

"His Excellency dealt with all the routine tasks of signing warrants, wood badge parchments, reviewing applications and other documents. He graciously insisted that he should personally present each year the awards for gallantry and exceptional service at investitures at Government House.

"The Chief Scout of the Commonwealth, Lord Rowallan, has recognized His Excellency's very outstanding services of exceptional character by awarding him a silver wolf."

The Order of the Silver Wolf was created in 1914 and during the last 38 years only about 100 other persons have been presented with it.

Haggis "Unfit", Gaels Aghast

SAINT JOHN, NB, Jan. 26 — (CP) — "Unfit for human consumption."

With a wild highland battle cry, the Scottish community of Saint John stormed the citadels of officialdom from here to Ottawa. The department of agriculture had labelled the sacred delicacy, dear to the heart of every true son, unfit for human consumption. And haggis frae Glasgow, too, wi' Burns' night no a week awa'!

The wires burned with indignation from Saint John to Ottawa, and a properly-cowed department slashed away the red tape at the eleventh hour.

And so, as Scots honored the birthday of Burns Friday night, the celebrations here were climaxed with the piping in of a true haggis, straight from Glasgow, the gift of Sir Victor Warren, Lord Provost of that city.

Gen. Simonds Returns From Tour Of Korea

SEOUL, Korea, Jan. 26. (CP)—Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, chief of the general staff, today completed his tour of Canadian army units in Korea and flew to Kure, Japan, to inspect reinforcement and administrative installations there.

Lt.-Col. Gordon Corbault of New Westminster, BC, who is commanding the 25th Brigade in Brig. John Rockingham's absence, accompanied Gen. Simonds.

Strangled Child's Foster Parents Seen Praying In Snow

Fanaticism Tinges Winnipeg Slaying

WINNIPEG, Jan. 26 (CP)—Police today investigated a slaying that they said was tinged with religious fanaticism.

Called after residents reported Friday that a man and woman in night dress were praying on a vacant lot in the Elmwood district, police entered a home a half-block away. There they found the battered and strangled body of seven-year-old Martha Louise McCullough, lying face up in an upstairs bedroom.

Police Chief Charles MacIver said the child's foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gavin McCullough, will be charged today with murder. Chief MacIver said the girl allegedly was struck with a bottle and strangled as she lay in bed after her foster parents had taken part in an all-night session of prayer.

Hair On Sheet

Tufts of hair dotted a flannel sheet on the bed, an empty cleaning fluid bottle was found nearby. An autopsy placed the time of death between 7:30 and 9:30 am.

First report of the slaying was made when a neighbor, Mrs. H. Dettman, called police and told them the couple, both in their late 40's, were praying in a vacant lot. Despite sub-zero weather, McCullough wore only a night shirt. His wife wore a chenille housecoat and bedroom slippers.

Investigating police officers said they found the pair in a semi-hypnotic state when they entered the McCullough home in the Elmwood residential district. A search was made of the second floor of the red brick house when police received unsatisfactory answers to questions.

Tracts Surround Body

The body of the brown-haired, brown-eyed child lay surrounded by religious tracts. Others were scattered throughout the house.

Police said most of the tracts concerned a recent visit of a "faith-healer" to Winnipeg.

The McCullough's lived with Martha and their 21-year-old son, Lorne, a student at the University of Manitoba. Mrs. Mary Patterson, 75, occupied a two-room suite on the second floor.

McCullough was office manager for the Winnipeg Chamber of Commerce until Wednesday when Ma na telephoned and asked him to come home because "Mommy is sick." A fellow employee who called to inquire next day was told: "Gavin won't ever be coming back to work."

Neighbors told of the couple's religious zeal. Rev. H. G. Tolton, pastor of the King Memorial United Church, said both had been faithful laymen of the church for 15 years, "then got religion and became fanatical."

Truce Talks Founder, Allies Say

POW Question Said Main Reason For Parley Slowdown

MUNSAN, Korea, Jan. 26.—(AP)—An Allied truce negotiator handed translators a tough problem during negotiation sessions today when he told North Korean Maj.-Gen. Lee Sang Chao he was "getting a little too big for your britches."

Allied spokesmen gave no indication how successful the translators had been in making Rear-Admiral R. E. Libby's tough navy language intelligible to his opposite number in the prisoner-exchange sub-committee meeting. It came during a heated session that lasted three hours and 54 minutes.

The session "accomplished absolutely nothing," Libby said.

Lee did hand Libby a list of 48 foreign civilians now held by the Communists and said "Our side will unconditionally release and repatriate in toto all foreign civilians held by our side" after an armistice is signed.

Asked Accounting

Last Dec. 30 the United Nations spokesmen asked the Communists to account for 55 foreign civilians and added two names a few days later. All were believed to have been captured in the summer of 1950.

About 25 names on Saturday's list were those about whom the UN asked. The others were new.

In an adjoining tent, Communist negotiators did not reply to an Allied suggestion that action on the controversial airfield issue be delayed.

Chinese Maj.-Gen. Hsieh Fang said the UN proposal still was under consideration, but he did not say when a reply would be ready.

Costly Divorce

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 26 (AP)—Henry E. Huntingdon II, grandson of the railroad magnate, was tapped Friday for $2,300 a month in alimony, $6,000 in lawyers' fees and $1,500 in court costs. His wife, former model Martha Outlaw, 33, charged Huntingdon left California for Reno, Nev., with $9,000 withdrawn from a bank account, leaving her only $72 to care for herself and two sons. The temporary support was sought pending trial of Mrs. Huntingdon's divorce suit.

UN Troops Lose Hill To Chinese

SEOUL, Korea, Jan. 26 (AP)—Counter-attacking Chinese Reds early today drove Allied troops off a west Korean hill captured the night before.

Two Chinese companies—about 300-men—surged back up the hill with heavy support of artillery, mortars and machineguns.

The hill is west of Yonchon, a town seven miles north of Parallel 38 and about 35 miles north of Seoul.

For 30 minutes, the Allied defenders battled the Reds before pulling off and heading back to base shortly after midnight. In the air, US Sabre jets sped deep into North Korea Saturday but found no Red MIGS during the morning hours willing to resume sky fights which cost the Communists 10 jet planes Friday.

Three Bandits Take $15,000 In Quick Holdup

TORONTO, Jan. 26—(CP)—Three bandits escaped Friday from the Bank of Toronto branch at Kingston Rd. and Warden Ave. after a five-minute holdup which netted the trio an estimated $15,000. The leader of the trio was said to be over six feet tall weighing about 210 pounds.

The robbery took place within the first hour of the morning's business. Seven bank employees and several customers were in the premises at the time. They were ordered to lie down on the floor by a wall. The big leader kept watch over the prostrate men and women while his partners looted the two tellers' cages.

The men used a stolen car for their getaway from the bank but abandoned the 1938 model vehicle on a large parking lot four blocks away. They apparently had another getaway car waiting on the parking lot and switched vehicles in a matter of seconds. Police described the whole holdup as very well planned.

Back To Wall

Bev Machesney, one of the bank tellers, told police he was in his cage serving customers when a good looking man about 30 years of age pushed a gun in his face and said: "OK, get back against the wall." The other employees and customers were quickly rounded up Mr. Machesney said.

The bandits were apparently aware of the danger of several buttons placed in the floor of the bank with which employees could sound an alarm in the nearby Scarboro police station, for the men watched each person as he or she moved to the wall, paying particular attention to the feet of the victims. Ordered to lie down, none of the staff could reach an alarm bell.

As the gunmen walked from the bank to the street Lieut. David Forgie of the Scarboro Fire Department, a bank customer, climbed silently to his feet and followed the men to the door. He was able to obtain the license number of the first getaway car.

Toronto Insp. of Dets. John Nimmo and a squad of Toronto police are working with the township police on the case.

Technical Help Would Aid Peace

NEW YORK, Jan. 26—(AP)—State Secretary Dean Acheson said Friday night that the United States program of technical aid to under-developed areas can be used to direct many of the world's revolutionary forces into constructive and peaceful channels.

Many areas are being swept by "flames of discontent," the Secretary said in an address prepared for a Roosevelt Day dinner sponsored by Americans for democratic action.

The United States point-four program, if it "continues to receive the steadfast interest and support of the American people," can become "an ever more important element in our foreign policy," Acheson predicted. Point four is being applied mainly in Asia, Africa and the Middle East.

President Truman, in a letter read at the dinner, called the point-four program "a fundamental part of our foreign policy."

Hitchhiker's Rank Embarrasses Officer

SOMEWHERE IN KOREA, Jan. 26 (AP).—Gen. James A. Van Fleet, US Eighth Army commander, had to hitchhike back to headquarters Thursday after his plane was forced down on an abandoned frontline airstrip during a blinding snow storm.

Van Fleet and three other officers slogged through heavy drifts to a nearby road where the general flagged down an approaching jeey. The general's cap visor was up, obscuring his insignia of rank.

The driver, a second lieutenant, skidded to a halt, opened the winterized door and demanded: "What the hell do you want?"

Van Fleet turned his cap visor down, showing his four-star rank.

Arriving at headquarters beside the red-faced second lieutenant, Van Fleet was greeted by relieved staff officers who had been frantically telephoning various frontline sectors trying to find out what had happened.

$15,000 Spent In Renovating St. Andrew's

St. Andrew's church, one of the oldest in the Peterborough district, will be re-dedicated Sunday at special morning service upon the completion of a $15,000 renovation project which began in November.

The church minister, the Rev. Henry Cotton, will conduct the re-dedication service during the 11 am service. There will be special music.

On Wednesday night the church, Sunday school and other church buildings will be open to the congregations of Peterborough churches at an open house. Hosts for the one-hour inspection will be the board of managers, the session and the women of St. Andrew's.

The project, rarely done in the winter season, will cost between $12,000 and $15,000, Mr. Cotton said today, and was arranged by Charles Pilon, chairman of the property committee.

The financial arrangements for the payment have been handled by the church trustees: George Gillespie as chairman, William Richardson, J. E. R. Munro, Rolly Wilson and Harley Keefer. Jack Richardson, chairman of the board of managers, has worked with the trustees.

Began In November

The renovation work started in November and will be completed within a week. Painters just finishing up some Sunday school work.

The project has included the complete redecoration of the church with colors matching the dedication windows, the Sunday school auditorium, classrooms, two kitchens and the church parlor.

In addition, the heating system which in the past 100 years has seen hundreds of cords of wood and tons of coal burned, has been changed to oil heating, both in the church and the manse.

The color scheme in the church assembly was devised by a committee including Mrs. James Wharry, Mrs. Charles Pilon, Mrs. Harley Keefer, Mrs. Hugh Waddell and Mrs. Kenneth Kingston. These women along with Mrs. George Green, Mrs. Roy Lewis and Mrs. David Brown arranged the color schemes for the Sunday school.

The church decorating was done by a Toronto firm, the Sunday school by Peterborough decorators and in some cases painting, especially of furniture in the Sunday school, by the church women.

until Sunday to allow time for studying next moves "consequent upon that momentous decision."

All Cairo papers agreed the emergency cabinet session dealt with the drastic measure. The move climaxed mounting political tension.

The independent newspaper Journal D'Egypte indicated a peace-making move may be in progress.

The cabinet postponed the effect of its decision until Sunday, it said, because "the ambassador of a great power has expressed the desire to intervene in the conflict to avoid rupture of diplomatic relations."

The paper did not say whether the envoy is United States Ambassador Jefferson Caffery who negotiated between Britain and Egypt to prevent a diplomatic break in mid-December after the British razed an Arab village near Suez.

Recall UK Ambassador

After Caffery's conferences, the Egyptians kept up relations with Britain but called home Abdel Fattah Pasha, their ambassador in London.

British and Australian planes began dodging Cairo after four British Overland Airways planes, coming in for night landings at Farouk airport were refused directions. The Egyptians refused fuel for them for a time, but finally granted permission to fly on.

Al Misri said it understood the cabinet decision will put Britain "in the position of an aggressor country, and Egypt would be within her rights to take 'reprisals' measures."

The paper said the measures would be immediate ousting of British subjects, jailing those considered dangerous, and freezing of British property.

"More people would see the memorial plaque in a day there than would see it in six months at the fire hall," he said.

The recommendation of the fire, water and light committee is that the plaque should be hung in an appropriate place on the wall at the new city hall. But the recommendation must still be approved by council as a whole.

A couple of Aldermen suggested that the fire hall might be more suitable.

An unveiling ceremony for the plaque — wherever it is to be located — is being arranged by Mayor Hugh Waddell and Alderman A. B. Burrows, chairman of the committee.

Chevrier Says

have a strong advantage in competing for new traffic that would develop and would have to expand their fleets. The railways would get new and more profitable business. So would the North Atlantic ports of the U.S., which oppose the waterway.

For coal-mining districts afraid of the encroachment of electricity Mr. Chevrier said the continued growth of market demand will require new steam generating plants as well as the hydro-electric capacity.

And from the standpoint of national defence, he said, the seaway is "a matter of the greatest urgency."

"It is my own firm conviction," he declared, "that the opposition of short-sighted and misguided, even as a matter of selfish interest. They seem to think there is a watermelon of a fixed size to be cut up and that if one claimant gets a bigger piece, another must get a smaller."

Melon Growing

The fact was that the melon of transportation and energy demand was continuing to grow, and the seaway would make it grow faster.

The opposing interests "want to cut it in such a way as to retard its growth," Mr. Chevrier said.

Discussing the failure of Congress to ratify a 1941 US-Canada treaty for joint construction of the project, Mr. Chevrier said the issue "has been sidetracked repeatedly as a result of pressure from powerful minority interests." Resolution had been "bottled up, to die in committee" and never had come to a vote in either US House.

"Seeing no assurance of an end to this delay," he said, "the Canadian government is developing the all-Canadian seaway as a second-best alternative....

"Looking at both power and navigation together, the seaway project is an urgent must. We in Canada are determined to have it at the earliest possible date. In view of the great benefits that would accrue also to the United States, we hope that the weight of far-sighted opinion will bring prompt and decisive approval of the 1941 agreement.

"Failing that, we must ask how long can the influence of a misguided minority be allowed to hold up our national destinies, and to threaten our very strength for survival?"

Howe Announces Prices Boost Western Wheat

OTTAWA, Jan. 26 (CP). — A 20-cent-a-bushel increase in the initial price of western wheat — applied to all wheat delivered to the Canadian Wheat Board since the beginning of the current crop year—was announced Friday by Trade Minister Howe.

The increase, applicable to all grades, will boost the board's initial price to producers to $1.60 from $1.40 a bushel, basis No. 1 Northern at Fort William, Port Arthur and Vancouver.

The higher price becomes effective on all new deliveries beginning Feb. 1.

Cheques covering deliveries already made at the lower initial price will be issued by the board starting March 1. Mr. Howe estimated this will mean distribution of an extra $50,000000 to western wheat farmers.

The increase, said Mr. Howe, is justified by the volume of sales already made by the board and the large commitments which the board has on its books for delivery during the remainder of the crop year.

He disclosed no figures on sales or commitments.

However, he estimated that between Aug. 1 last—when the curcent crop year began—and Jan. 17 farmers delivered about 242,000,000 bushels of wheat to the board and by the end of January these deliveries are expected to grow to about 250,000,000.

PARADISE IN CANADA—Beautiful Lake Louise in Alberta is as awe-inspiring today as it was to the Indians years ago when it was known as the Lake of the Little Fishes. The loveliness of the lake, its glaciers and mountains, looks almost unreal, and more like a painting on a huge canvas. Shown here at the end of the lake are Victoria Glacier and Mt. Victoria (centre) with Mt. Lefroy and a corner of Lefroy glacies at the left. In the foreground are some of the colorful Iceland poppies.—(Canadian Pacific Railway Photo).
